Police Probe Break-in Reports

Sneak thieves were active in the city over the weekend according to local police who reported a total of five break-ins with entry gained through a break and enter. Altogether about $80 in cash was reported stolen, along with some tool, confectionery and cigarettes.

Smash and grab artists entered the Roblin Dairy through a window and carried away between $40 and $50 which they found in milk drivers' purses and in drawers in the dairy.

Again at the Foley Foundry on Front Street a number of tools were reported to have disappeared, while three places of business on Station Street were either entered or attempts made to enter.

Children were blamed for entering Whalen's Coffee Shop on Station Street, while north on Station, A couple of boards were pried off beneath the window and a small amount of confectionery and cigarettes was reported missing.

The premises of the Canada Packers on Albion Street was entered but nothing was stolen while there was a reported attempt to enter the York Trading Company building.

The home of Rev. H. H. Hillis, 159 Willmott Street, was entered with $35 being taken from a woman's purse which had been left on the hall table. Entry was gained through pushing key out of a side door, the door being locked by the intruder when he left the house.

Six Accidents Of Minor Nature In Police Report

City and provincial police reported a total of six minor motor accidents in Belleville and district over the weekend. In most instances property damage was small and with the exception of one accident there were no injuries.

Mrs. Ivy O. Duprau, Murney Street, received a bump on the nose when the car in which she was riding was struck by another vehicle. Dr. Duprau was driving south on Dufferin Ave., and had stopped for the four-lane highway but on entering the westbound lane was struck by a car driven by W. Jessop, of Smith's Falls.

Three Pound, 14 oz. Speckled Trout Hooked in Creek

The speckles were biting in Rawdon Creek over the weekend and Cecil Cooper, R.R. No. 8 Belleville, has the evidence to prove it.

Cooper hurled his bait, a lively fishworm, into the waters of the stream near the 8th line of the township south of Springbrook and the big fellow struck.

Followed forty-five minutes of fish versus man and the latter emerged triumphant with a speckled beauty that tipped the scales at three pounds, fourteen ounces.

The trout is believed to be the largest caught in district waters thus far this season.

High Winds Cause Firemen Hours of Trouble

High winds which fanned a fire at the city dump gave firemen ten hours of trouble on Saturday afternoon and evening. Firemen were called to the dump shortly before one o'clock in the afternoon and were unable to bring the blaze completely under control until ten o'clock.

Firemen said the high wind blew the fire into the marsh to the east of the city dump, making the flames more difficult to extinguish.

The fire reels were also called to 361 Bleecker Ave., where a fire in the basement caused some damage. They were also called to Cannifton Road outside the city limits on a partition wall where a fireplace resulted in small damage.

In still another call outside the city to West College Street firemen were called to extinguish a chimney fire which got out of control.

Local Chapter Of Barbershop Harmony Formed

Good old fashioned Barbershop harmony singing was revived and its continuance in Belleville assured recently when a local chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America Inc. was formed.

The organization meeting was very ably conducted under the chairmanship of Cy Johnson, area governor and convener of the extension committee of the Ontario Association.

The following officers were elected for the year 1950-51: President G. A. Bradford; vice-president, H. A. Daniel; secretary-treasurer, R. L. Brettingham. Representative on Board of Directors of the District Association, V. J. White.

Fine Harmony

Much credit for the success of the evening goes to the Peterborough Chapter that was represented by its chorus and two quartets. These adult barbershoppers presented much fine harmony during the evening and provided a good example of the type of choral and group singing that will be featured by the local chapter.

The latter part of the evening was devoted to group singing under the direction of Cy Johnson.

Regular meetings are to be held each second and fourth Wednesday of the month at Kiwanis Centre until further notice, and any men from Belleville and vicinity who are interested in barbershop singing are invited to attend.

Optimist Club Donates Ten Dollars for Needy Children in B.G.H.

Last Thursday, the Optimist Club of Belleville held their bi-monthly meeting at the Kiwanis Centre.

The president, Miss Violet Nokes, and Miss Betty Monteith, gave interesting talks on their recent trip to the regional convention in Windsor.

Miss B. Monteith was elected recipient director for the Eastern Division of the Venture Club. Ten dollars was donated to the needy children of Belleville General Hospital.

The next meeting will be held as a study meeting.

BRAVES FLOES TO RESCUE

Halifax, May 8—(CP)—The 600-ton Norwegian ship Hillevaag, with 29 French scientists aboard, was towed into Grondal, Greenland, Saturday by the 140-foot Danish vessel Tikerak. Airforce search and rescue have reported that Capt. Thorger Sorensen had guided his wooden-hulled rescue ship through treacherous ice floes to tow the propellerless Hillevaag to safety.

Rotarians Visit Moira Lake Camp, Start Renovation

Taking advantage of the good weather a contingent of Rotarians made a trip to the Moira Lake Camp to get a start on spring renovation before the season of boys' and girls' camping opens in July under the operation of the Y.M.C.A. The party was organized by Gilbert Scott. Twelve dozen trees provided by the Provincial Department of Lands and Forests were planted under the able supervision of Dr. Alf. Wilkes. A survey of camp projects for this season was made, measurements taken and attention was given to buildings in the camp needing immediate repair.

In the next six weeks several Rotary clubs will be asked to undertake essential improvements and increase the facilities for the welfare of the youth of the community who soon will be flocking to the woods as one of Ontario's finest holiday spots.

Rotarians who made the staff selected from many sections of the country because of their leadership ability and experience are working on plans which should make Moira Lake Camp even the finest in the camp's history.

71,841 Volumes Circulated by Corby Library

About 40,834 works of fiction and 18,565 books of non-fiction constituting a total of 71,841 volumes were circulated by the main library up to the end of April, Miss Olive Corby, librarian at the Corby Public Library, reported today.

Geography, with a circulation of 2,565 is the most popular type of non-fiction. Books on travel with a circulation of 1,810 rank next in popularity. Useful arts circulation, 1,756, and fine arts, circulation 1,763, follow close behind.

Churchill Favorites

Currently, Winston Churchill's "The Grand Alliance" leads all other works in the non-fiction field, although Eleanor Roosevelt's "This I Remember," Immanuel Velikovsky's "Worlds in Collision" and A. D. Gordon's "That Mature Mind" are in constant demand.

Novels most frequently asked for include "Jubilee Trail" by Gwen Bristow, "The King's Cavalier" by Samuel Shellabarger and "The Cardinal" by N. Y. White.

Many Juvenile Readers

Although juvenile readership totalling 17,077 was far below an adult readership of 59,764, certain juvenile readers asked for books of a scientific nature than did adults. Younger readers requested 541 books on science as compared with an adult demand of 441.

Contrary to popular opinion, requests for books on travel do not increase just before the summer vacation season, but remain constant throughout the year, Miss Delaney reported. At the present time the library desk is handling many requests for books of a scientific nature and Esperope, especially France.

More men read works of the detection variety than do women, although there is always a feminine contention on books dealing with home repair, gardening and other phases of home life.

Miss Delaney emphasized the need for public donations to the library at this time. Despite its restricted budget, she said, the library is continually expanding to give ever increasing service to the community.

No Winners In This Battle

The fish were apparently observing "sportlight" Sunday but the "three daring young men" took along their spears anyway, just in case any fish not minding might stick its head out of the water and dare them to join battle.

It was in the murky light of the late evening that one of them saw a dark form flash down into a deep hole.

It was fair game, thought the lads, so they deployed their forces, five men constituting "carrior" poked his weapon into one opening of the culvert.

The remaining pair stood at the opposite end awaiting what might emerge. It did. Down flashed a spear. There was flurry as the animal threshed in its death throes.

Then a sickening aroma arose and enveloped the plucky trio Nearly choking they beat a hasty retreat.

Behind them they left the dead body of a large skunk.

See Reduced Migration

Toronto, May 8 (CP) — Hon. Walter E. Harris, Minister of Citizenship and Immigration, said Saturday that unless monetary difficulties are overcome, Canada must expect reduced immigration from the United Kingdom. He told the Ontario Civitan Club that devaluation and restrictions had resulted in consistent reductions of British immigration during the last 18 months. Delegates elected Jack Cooley of Chatham a lieutenant-governor.

Fire Destroys Home, Contents Of Upper Floor

Frankford (Special) — Fire, starting in an upstairs room, completely destroyed a frame house owned by Victor Wardle shortly after eight o'clock Sunday night. The tenants, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carr were in Madoc visiting friends at the time.

The entire contents of the upper part of the house are a complete loss but part of the furniture in the ground floor was saved. Loss is estimated at $3,000.

A truck drivev named Brilla was driving past the house, when he noticed smoke issuing from the upper storey. He used his horn to attract neighbors attention and within a few minutes the alarm was spread and the Frankford fire brigade was on hand. The upper part of the structure was burning fiercely at this time and the flames swept unchecked through the house. The building was a smouldering pile of embers a half hour after the fire was discovered.

Fire department members and others kept the blaze confined to the house. Other buildings were not damaged.

Church Turrets Damaged by Wind

Gale-like winds which swept through the Belleville district Saturday afternoon and evening damaged the two steeples on Tabernacle United Church with result that Sunday services at the church were cancelled as a safety measure.

The main steeples of the church apparently withstood the onslaught but the small turrets at the base of the large steeple were torn off during the height of the gale, while the base of the smaller turret was also damaged. Several bricks appeared to be loosened and due to the danger of falling material it was considered advisable to cancel Sunday services.

No estimate of the extent of the damage was made, but the church carries insurance against wind damage.

MINISTER'S SON BROWNS

Florence, S.C., May 8 (AP) — Rev. William Matthews, Free Will Baptist Holiness Church preacher, baptized nine adults in the Swamp Lynches River yesterday. After the service a group of boys went swimming in the river. One of them drowned. He was William H. Matthews, 14, son of the minister.

Two Students Win High Honors At Music Festival

Two students of Reverend Sister Mary Bibiana, of St. Michael's Music Studio, took part in the Peterborough Festival of Music this week and both received high marks and awards. Miss Ruby Dickie, twelve-year-old niece of Mrs. Ralph Bowers, 14 Murney Terrace Drive, scored a high mark of 82 in the Senior Class for 12 years and under, in her singing of the test piece "Fairy Lullaby," the adjudicator commended her for nice tone and clear diction, and awarded her a first prize. Miss Dickie is in vocal work.

Gordon Ogilvie, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ogilvie 265 William Street, competed in the Sonata Class of 17 years and under, and attained his usual junior standard. John is an unusually progressive pupil as will be seen in the following listings for one term. In February he obtained 91 marks in Theory I Examination and gained second place in the Sonata Class in Kingston Music Festival. He obtained grade V and Grade VII Piano Examination and Theory II Examination in June, he provides having now competed in the Peterborough Festival of Music.

IN MEMORIAM

JONES — In loving memory of a dear husband, Arthur Jones, who passed away May 8, 1949.

Sweet memories, dear Arthur, fade not,
That pleasant, cheerful way,
A heart that won so many friends
In bygone happy days
Just a token of love and remembrance
To a father who was one of the best
The joys that he gave us live here
Highest
May he rest in God's Garden of Rest.
Ever remembered by Cecil, Ivy and family. MS

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, May 8 (CP) —Prices climbed steadily higher at the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. A handful of low-priced mining stocks traded heavily to account for much of the large turnover. Volume for the first three hours was 7,979,000 shares.

The industrial list was very strong at the opening and held its gains against mid-session profit taking. Advances ranging from fractions to more than a full point pulled the board into new high average price territory for a third successive session.

Canada Steamship Lines gained 1 1-4 a new high at 21 3-4 in a stronger utility list and Hiram Walker's rose a full point at 45 in liquors. Price Bros. dropped $2 at $79 in papers following the news that the mill at Rimouski, Que., had been destroyed in the large fire.

Junior and senior gold producers gained slowly but trading interest was centred on a handful of low-price issues. Dulama Mines added five cents at 31 cents a share in turnover of almost 400,000 shares in three hours. The company has property in the Missanabi area northern Ontario and Bourlamaque township, northwestern Quebec.

Leading western oil and base metal stock moved upwards. Hudson Bay and International Nickel rose fractions in base metals.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Waste Not Want Not

Many thrifty people keep only enough money in the bank to take care of their current expenses because they can get much better interest by investing money in Canada Bonds.

They do not want to waste this extra interest and they know that there is no safer place to keep their money than in Canada Bonds which they can cash quickly any time they wish.

Note Carefully: If you own First Victory Bonds—

The Government has called First Victory Loan Bonds for redemption on June 15th. Interest stops on that date so be sure to arrange to cash your bonds and reinvest in the New Canada Bonds.

WINNIPEG IN DANGER AS RED RIVER STILL RISES

Emergency workers toil feverishly to reinforce sorely-strained dykes at Winnipeg where the Red River, after causing millions of dollars of damage in southernmost parts of Manitoba, is now threatening the city. Rainstorms and 50-mile gales have aggravated the serious situation. Hundreds are building up dykes to protect St. Boniface hospital patients. — Central Press Canadian.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS
Y's MEN'S CLUB OF BELLEVILLE
THE "Y" CLUB OF THE BAY OF QUINTE DISTRICT
FOR THE YEAR ENDED MARCH 31st., 1950

This information is published by the Y's Men's Club of Belleville as publicity promised in a Newspaper Advertisement last November so that the citizens of this district, who have always been very generous with their response to our money-raising projects, will be aware of the manner in which we have spent the proceeds which have been derived.

There are FOUR MAJOR International Committees of Y's-Dom which devote themselves entirely to specific fields of endeavor on behalf of the Y.M.C.A. They are BOYS' WORK, YOUNG MEN'S WORK, "Y"-MEMBER COUNSELLING and WORLD OUTLOOK. Let us deal with these first.

✦ IN THE FIELD OF BOYS' WORK We,—

1.—Provided cars for the use of team captains and our members acted as taggers for the "Y" Boys' Camp tag day held May 14, 1949. This tag day raised the largest amount ever raised by this means for this camp.

2.—Purchased a wood lathe, small tools, paint and supplies, etc., costing in excess of $125.00 for the hobbycraft room for boys at the Y.M.C.A.

3.—Built work benches for the hobbycraft room of the Y.M.C.A., supplying all the material and personally performing the labor.

4.—Persuaded Y's Man Bert Hiles to undertake the leadership of this hobbycraft group. He devoted one evening per week in instructing these boys in woodworking.

5.—Purchased three new canoes for the Y.M.C.A. Boys' Camp at a cost of over $360.00.

6.—Purchased gym equipment for two needy boys and gave it to them as an anonymous Christmas gift.

7.—Had the ceiling of the hobbycraft room repaired at a cost of approximately $15.00.

8.—Sponsored a father and son banquet for the Boys' Department of the Y.M.C.A. which had an attendance of 99 fathers and sons.

9.—Provided complete technical information on the construction and operation of a swimming pool. This work was performed by one of our members in the name of the Y's Men's Club of Belleville for the benefit of the Kinmen Club who are sponsoring the Community Swimming Pool drive for funds.

✦ IN THE FIELD OF YOUNG MEN'S WORK We,—

1.—Assisted to the extent of $26.00 in financing the attendance of two members of the Phalanx Fraternity of Belleville at the Y.M.C.A. Young Adult Camp at Lake Couchiching last Summer.

✦ IN THE FIELD OF "Y" MEMBER COUNSELLING We,—

1.—Sponsored a hot dog and chocolate milk feed for the boys of the Junior Department of the Y.M.C.A. with specific emphasis directed towards members of a class who were delinquent in attendance in an attempt to instill new interest in the classes for these boys.

✦ IN THE FIELD OF WORLD OUTLOOK We,—

1—Contributed $15.00 towards the bringing of an overseas delegate to our International Convention held last August at Minneapolis, Minnesota.

2—Assisted, to the extent of $175.00, in financing the attendance of our own club's delegate to the International Convention in Minneapolis.

3—Contributed $21.00 to the Displaced Y's Men's Committee of International. This committee provides CARE packages for displaced Y' Men overseas, and assists those eligible to emigrate to the United States or Canada in making their way here.

4—Contributed $15.00 to the nation-wide UNICEF appeal.

5—Sent 1,682 cancelled postage stamps, which have a commercial value and which had been saved by members, to the Y's Men's Club of Philadelphia for our International Association. All the clubs in the North American Continent do this and the proceeds are used to finance the attendance of Overseas delegates to our International Convention each year.

6—Endeavored to assist in the establishment of a Displaced Person from Hungary in the ways of Canadian life as we have it by taking him into our club as a member and paying his dues of $5.00 per month for a period of five months from our service funds. This arrangement ceased as soon as the member was financially able to pay his own way.

✦ OTHER BENEFITS TO OUR OWN LOCAL Y.M.C.A. INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING:

1—The completion of the remodelling of the auditorium of the Y.M.C.A. This project was undertaken entirely by the members of the club who did all of the work themselves in their spare time. The job lasted about 6 months on a this basis as members could only work on it during their spare evenings, etc. In addition to doing the work ourselves we provided all of the material which represented an outlay of almost $1500.00.

2—The purchase of a new piano for the auditorium of the Y.M.C.A. at a cost of approximately $560.00.

✦ IN THE GENERAL INTERESTS OF ALL— CITIZENS OF THIS CITY AND DISTRICT, WE PERFORMED THE FOLLOWING SERVICES:

1—We assumed sponsorship of the 1949 Canadian Cancer Society drive for funds in this city and district under the leadership of Y's Man Oscar Wagar.

2.—For the Blind Club of the City of Belleville we have provided them with bowling once a week in the "Y" Alleys at no cost to them; we have given them the use of our own clubroom for their monthly club meeting and we have offered to buy them the special chess, checker and crokinole boards they require just as soon as their club requests it.

3—During the Get-Out-The-Vote Campaign last June sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce we provided some assistance in common with many other local organizations.

4—We distributed the window cards used during the Red Feather campaign last Fall.

5—75% of our members personally canvassed on behalf of the Belleville and District Community Chest drive for funds.

6—Just prior to Christmas most of our members accompanied the members of Hallaway St. United Church choir when it visited the Belleville General Hospital to sing Christmas carols.

7—Sponsored Belleville's Second Annual RADIO AUCTION last November.

8—Brought the Montreal Canadiens Hockey Club to Belleville last February for an inter-squad game which provided many citizens of this district with their first view of an N.H.L. hockey team in action.

9—We also accepted 12 new members into the club during the year.

EMPIRE DAY IN THE SCHOOLS

The Minister of Ontario, the Hon. Dana Porter, has issued for the schools of Ontario an Empire Day program of a wide appeal on May 23rd.

Empire Day serves to bring before the open minds of the thousands of Ontario's young citizens something of their responsibilities and duties. The Minister notes that it is important that facts and rights of privileges of these coming citizens be known and something of the duties which go with citizenship. He says "We must cultivate a sane and sturdy patriotism based on a knowledge of our country and its government." He notes that "opinions formed without full knowledge and consideration of all the facts lead to prejudices and this constitutes bad citizenship. So does the assumption that one may expect to have all the rights and privileges of a citizen and at the same time avoid any of the responsibilities and duties involved. We must cultivate a sane and sturdy patriotism but we must supplement with it a knowledge of our responsibilities as world citizens. These are some of the things we ought to have in mind in our observance of Empire Day."

The purpose of Empire Day observance, the Minister points out, is "to give added emphasis to one phase of education which ought to receive daily attention in our schools and that the development of this citizenship by intelligent recognition of the rights and duties of a citizen involves primarily a knowledge of one's own country and its government. But it also requires an appreciation of our position as members of the larger family of the British Commonwealth and of our place among the civilized nations of the world."

The material for the booklet which has been issued is prepared by staff and pupils of Deer Park School in Toronto at the request of the Department.

Empire Day is a day of great moment in the lives of the pupils and students of our educational institutions.

THE BREAD MOTHER USED TO BAKE

A great home industry has passed, that of baking the homemade bread which in some households reigned as the bread people used to eat. A great many people recollect it of course for it is not so long ago many a housewife could look forward to the bread which was baked in the family kitchen in town and country.

A writer in the Ottawa Journal turns to thinking of this industry of the past, now, no doubt forever as he refers to the comment of the president of the Ontario Bakers' Association who "has been turning a nostalgic thought to 'the kind of bread mother used to bake.' The president said most housewives of today couldn't make bread if their lives depended upon it. The Journal editor slyly comments that "we cannot believe that the head of the Bakers' Association is really unhappy over this condition.

"And we suspect that kindly Time has gilded with sentiment and forgetfulness the sort of bread mother sometimes made. There was an art to breadmaking, and as we recall a good deal of luck. We remember breadmaking in an old Ontario farmhouse. The dough would be prepared in a bread pan and set on the woodbox behind the kitchen stove over night to 'rise.' Not seldom there was too much yeast, or the yeast was too active or something, and the dough would rise and run over the pan and onto the floor. The baking was too filled with uncertainties. Ovens then had no automatic heat controls. If the stove fire was too hot the bread would bake on the outside while the inside was soggy dough; if the fire went down the loaves would "fall" and the product would be heavy and thin. Even the best of bakers largely left the matter to good fortune, and on many a farm there were sighs of relief when the baker's wagon began to make regular deliveries.

"But there were other times, and no doubt they were most times, when the bread turned out soft, fluffy, delicious, the sort we mean when we speak of the bread mother used to make."

TITO WESTWARD

The tendency of Tito to seek western aid may tempt some western voices to demand strings on aid to Yugoslavia, says a writer for Christian Science Monitor. This would have an unfortunate effect, says Christian Science Monitor.

Tito is valuable as an embarrassment to Russia—and that embarrassment has ramifications throughout the Russian satellite region. As an unfriendly ally of the western community he could hardly be more useful. In any event the internal reforms which he would have to undertake in Yugoslavia to gain the status of an ally of the West could bring chaos to his country and an end to Tito, both of which developments would surely suit the Kremlin to a capital T.

HERITAGE

Suppose your father, ere he dies,
Should bid you certain things to prize,
Saying, "Guard these your lifetime through.
Remember they were earned for you.
Year after year I labored on
That you might have them when I've gone."

You'd hold as precious everything:
His watch, his books, his diamond ring,
For like him, when your course was run,
You'd want to leave them to your son.
And troubled, lest they should be lost,
You'd keep them safe at any cost.

Well, boy, this freedom that we know
Was earned for us long years ago.
For it our fathers fought and died,
Thrust every selfish whim aside
And offered all they had, that Might know the joy of liberty.

Freedom's your heritage! A thing
More precious
You could not find
Unless you leave it for your son.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

There is no excuse for a hit and run on the highways and suburban roads. But there is every excuse for a hit. The cowards are in that there are not ten times the number of pedestrians killed and injured by now increasing motor truck and motor car traffic where does not exist. Going nineteenth century one than half way into the twentieth.

The rate of motor pedestrian fatalities are as low as they are largely due to the almost complete surrender of the pedestrian to the motorist. The public still travels highways now appears to be that the roads belong to motor traffic and that pedestrian ventures on them at his own peril. Even the pedestrian except that point of view. And you can drive for miles without seeing a single soul on foot. Wherever you do, he is walking absently and cringing along the margin of the road, with all the airs of a trespasser.

Apart from the big modern highways with separated pavements, the vast majority of our roads are still horse-and wagon and, what is why do the trucks become more numerous, but they are still built for the horse-drawn era of highway slacken speed. The drivers are still confronted with their wheels on the very edge of the pavement. And where does one walk? Nowhere.

There is for him the ditch, or on the road, where he has to stand up to the ditches and along the fence.

The engineering profession doubtless prides itself that it has done wonders in thrusting highways almost anywhere and everywhere all over the continent. But there has been almost none conscience lacking in the profession this past thirty years. Even the pedestrians except to the politicians. They drew plans to please the provincial budget boys. The result is: roads dedicated to wheels where a foot, of man or beast, may with safety be set, in another twenty years, may not even be legally required of us to stop, whenever we clip anyone daring to set foot on a road.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

SIR LAUNCELOT WITH A UNION CARD

Back in the days of Cro-Magnon man I took, he's showing off!) the gent who made a hit with the girls was the one who could lick his weight in wildcats—and then eat them. And in the meandering millenia which followed, it was the lad who could slay a dragon, hijack a ship, evict a king or make faces at Al Capone.

Today, in case you haven't noticed, the ladies are making eyes at a new hero—one who goes into combat with a picket line instead of a pike. I refer, of course, to the "Walter Reuther type of labor leader—that knight in shining injunctions—from whom he feels like flexing his biceps, can hang a padlock on the Holy Grail, or cause the White House floorescents to burn late o' nights.

For instance, there's the story of Jim Terry which is making the rounds of the locals these days. I don't know whether it's history or hearsay, but I'd like to pass it along to prove that every time a new hero-type appears in a play, a new set of dames in new bushes . . .

As I get it, Terry, sort of a tallish version of Jimmy Cagney, is business agent of the employees' welfare union in a large eastern city, and about a year ago, when his beef got into a tassle with the landlords, he pulled his porters, sprinkleers, janitors and elevator operators off their jobs. A week later, however, the owners had thrown in the sponge, and left a few hours of dirty, late and cigar smoke, worked out the perfect contract—the one that gives each side the chance to claim fulsome victory.

Afterwards, to show there were no hard feelings, the bosses and the realty board invited Jim to his annual dinner, and there the labor man met the capitalist's daughter, Alice, who looked like Ann Sothern, sort of. Vassar. And Jim, to hear them tell it, went for Alice as if she were a pension plan.

"I like you fine," the girl told him a few nights later, "but somehow I can't help wishing you were in another line of work."

"A business agent is a pretty important fellow these days" said Jim.

"I know," said Alice, "but I'm not talking about importance in that sense. What a girl really wants is a fellow who can do things for her—something that makes her feel she's the only girl in the world."

"If you're talking about yachts and diamonds," said Jim, "that lets me out. But I'll bet I can do something to prove I love you that none of your rich boy friends can duplicate."

"As for instance!" asked Alice.

"As for instance," said Jim, "how about dinner with me tomorrow out in the country, and after we've had a drink and a dance I'll show you what I mean?"

Well, it turned out to be one of those evenings—the wine was red and honest, the orchestra was mostly fiddles, and as for getting drove back to town Alice didn't seem to mind when Jim went in for a bit of country necking.

It was 1:55 when they reached the end of the line, and the business agent parked his car on a hill overlooking the lights of the downtown district. At exactly 2, a hundred scrubladies and janitors, all members of Jim's union, pulled a hundred switches, and at 2:01 or a little after, capital surrendered to labor without a struggle.

What had Jim done to make his girl feel she was something special and not just a dame? He switched were thrown in the blacked-out skyscrapers. Letting five million high and a city block wide, the lighted windows spelled out,

EXERCISE FOR WEAK HEART

In a recent article I said:

It is my belief that at least premature C-V-D comes about largely in consequence of prolonged moderate deficiencies of vitamins, as many years—of three vitamins, thiamine, riboflavin and D, and three minerals, calcium, phosphorus and iodine.

I offered to send on written request accompanied with stamped self-addressed envelope, the pamphlet Young Folks and Old Folks, which tells how to correct the deficiencies mentioned.

In the booklet C-V-D—cardiovascular degeneration, arteriosclerosis, myocarditis, slow heart, muscle failure, wearing-out of arteries and heart—five copy and twenty-five cents and stamped self-addressed envelope) I say:

Speaking of heart tests, I believe the nearest approach to them is the examination of the retinal daily intake of vitamin B complex and sunshine vitamin D.

I hope readers will remember that I'm not a specialist and my authority about anything except maybe somersaults and buckwheat pancakes.

These remedies I suggest for the C-V-D and other heart and artery trouble of any kind are, not, you will please notice, medicines. They are essential foods or elements of nutrition required by the body for normal functional efficiency. If the vitamins and minerals are added to bring about regeneration of the dead or dying cells by simply restoring the vitamin and mineral intake to your daily diet for a few weeks, can you blame me if it is worth while to supplement your faulty diet with optimal rations of vitamins and minerals in the effort to restore a measure of tone or functional efficiency to your heart muscle, your gastro-intestinal muscle or your arterial walls unless your daily supplementation every day for at least three months.

In dwelling upon the importance of good nutrition for maintaining heart and artery efficiency and prevention of premature cardiovascular degeneration I am not unmindful of the part played by exercise in keeping the circulation up to par or improving it when it is not efficient. In the C-V-D booklet I endeavor to explain how rest for a week or ten days helps to restore compensation and how graduated exercise thereafter improves the tone of heart and artery muscle. Either of these remedies as well as correction of nutritional deficiencies, should be part of the treatment of every cardio-vascular (heart and artery) trouble, whether the patient receives digitalis or other medicines or not.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Hot Water is Hot Water

Husband refuses to drink tea or coffee made from hot water from faucet, but insists it should be made from only cold water boiled at the moment. Also at dinner last evening suggested that I ask what is used. (D.C.J.)

Answer — No matter, so far as hygiene or health may be concerned. Search by gods, I thing I'd pass up coffee made with warm water from the faucet. Coffee and Win Friends is a chapter in the red book titled To Eat and Keep Fit for the red book send twenty-five cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope. By-get the aroma and not the bitter tannic acid found in coffee ground coffee should soak for half an hour to eight hours for over night) in cold water before it is brewed.

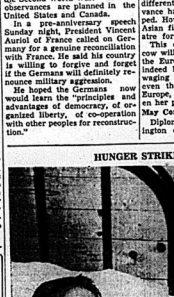
The Rheumatism Obsession

I am 70, work in cold ice box several hours daily. Have excellent health, except that often at night I wake up with severe cramps in legs. Have suffered from my occupation, I suppose. (M.B.)

Answer — "Rheumatis" my eye. More likely adult tetany from long continued calcium and D deficiency. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for booklet Adult Tetany and Growing Pains. Some condition in children I have mentioned in it. Tetany is treated as "growing pains" — as though it could hurt to grow.

Fifth Anniversary Of VE-Day Will be Generally Quiet

(By The Canadian Press)



Celebrations today (Monday) of the fifth anniversary of VE-Day will be generally quiet throughout the western world, preoccupied with fears of a Third World War.

In Germany, the anniversary is a holiday in the Russian-occupied zone, but in the western zones only official forces plan celebrations. The eastern zone's May 8 holiday was proclaimed this year for the first time by Communist authorities to celebrate "liberation from Nazi fascist yoke". The main east-zone celebration will take place at the tomb of the huge statue of the Soviet Unknown Soldier in East Berlin's war memorial park.

In Britain and Western Europe, with memories still fresh of the cenotaphs, and churches will be open for prayers for the dead of the two world wars. Similar observances are planned in the United States and Canada.

In a pre-anniversary speech Sunday night, President Vincent Auriol of France called on Germany for a genuine reconciliation with France. He said the country is willing to forgive and forget if the German will definitely renounce military aggression.

He hoped the Germans now would "join with the principles and advantages of democracy, of organized liberty, of co-operation with other peoples for reconstruction."

MacKenzie's Column: Parley Designed To Consolidate West Defences

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The conference of the Big Three Foreign Ministers (British, French and the United States) in London this week is designed to consolidate the western world's European defences against a communist aggression which has no signs of abandoning the cold war.

This parley is a corollary to the belief among the major democracies that the best way of preventing war is to keep trying to negotiate peace at this juncture.

As this column has been emphasizing, the only thing which will persuade Soviet Russia the world revolution is to come up against a stone wall. So long as there is an opportunity for further gains she will keep on.

If the cold war were confined to Europe, the story might be different. There the Soviet Union has been fairly well stopped. However, much of the vast Asian field is a wide open theatre for community operations.

This does not mean that Russia will slacken her pressure on the European front. That is the keystone of her strategy. She is waging a two-front war, and even though she has halted in Europe, she can't afford to weaken her pressure there.

May Consider Expansion

Diplomatic officials in Washington expect that the London conference will consider expansion of the North Atlantic Pact machinery as a means of strengthening the western coalition. An important phase of the discussion will revolve around the project of fitting Western Germany into this campaign.

Apropos of this it is understood that State Secretary Dean Acheson will urge the British, France and to agree to a program of production, distribution, and eventual termination, of the allied occupation controls over Western Germany. The United States is said to favor the termination of the occupation controls over Germany in about 18 months.

This doesn't mean that allied troops would be withdrawn from Germany, but that they would be defence forces holding a front line against communist aggression.

It is obvious that a rehabilitated Western Germany is vital to the rehabilitation and defence of the rest of Western Europe. On that basis France may see her way to agree to this proposal — so long as controls are kept against German military revival, and a satisfactory allied military force is maintained.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THIS THING CALLED FAITH

I am of the opinion that faith is man's greatest possession. Without it he could not take the important step forward. He is born with it. He could take the step his father's hand and has complete confidence in wherever that hand may lead.

Without brave leadership, or kindly counsel, however, many of us would lose our way, and forget that we have within us these selfsame powers of faith that may be drawn upon for any emergency which may arise. The darkest hour is just before the dawn, and William Cowper: "Blind as life is worth living, and your belief will help create the fact."

God planted within us the thing of faith, but we must nourish it and keep it alive. It is as essential at every period and turn of life. When a man loses his ration loses, or fails to use, its faith, then the life of that man or nation begins to die.

Faith built this western world, and gave to it ever new visions of its democracy and free way of life. The dignity of man arose and asserted itself. And today's success of this western world is the envy of the old, and those nations which have repudiated its ideals and high principles would destroy it, and take the remnants of its freedom.

I have been giving thought to a statement by Monsignor Fulton J. Sheen, in an article he wrote upon how secularism is trying to rule it "is seen to be the fruit of human despair" and that "it rises from the earth rather than from the destitution of the prayer-room." Sheen in his plenitude could fill." He says further that "socialism increases as the number of value men place on human personality and on human freedom, under God."

Destitute of faith in ourselves and faith in God's guidance we are poor indeed. This thing called faith is the very breath of life and for one of happiness and contentment. The conquering fears we must become fortified with faith.

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE ONE NOTE MAN

One of the magazines some time ago ran a cartoon entitled "The One Note Man." Presumably in a certain orchestral number one of the musicians was designated to sound just one note. Probably only the conductor was conscious of the presence and significance of that one note; but he was. That one note was necessary in order to bring musical fulfillment the number which was being played.

Millions of people go through life playing a part much like the one-note man. Their lives are insignificant. They live and die and contemporary history makes no record of their having lived. But somewhere in the midst of life's great orchestration they sound one note. Perhaps it is heard through the years to someone who is sick. Or it may be the patient endurance of a handicap, or the silent but brave bearing of a great sorrow. The world is not conscious of what is going on, but the Great Conductor is. And to Him the fulfillment of life's symphony is impossible unless that one note of gallant conduct is sounded by that one particular individual at a very particular time.

We live in the midst of a vast universe. In a world of millions of people God who cares, . . .

WEDDINGS

COLEMAN—DAVIDSON

Bridge Street United Church ng the scene of a charming ening wedding on Saturday, May at 2 o'clock, when Donna Ber-e, daughter of Mrs. Herbert avidson and the late Mr. David-n, was united in a double ring remony to William George oleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. harles E. Coleman, Rev. D. C. mon, minister of the church, of-ciated.

Wedding music was played by e organist, Mr. Alec Gordon, nd the soloist was Mr. Jack ndrews, who sang "Because".

The bride, who entered the urch on the arm of Mr. Roy B. itchell, a family friend, was ecomingly gowned in ivory ipper satin designed with a wide ertha and insert of lace with long leeves ending in points at the rists. The fitted bodice flared into a full skirt fashioned with short train. Her fingertip veil of ut was crowned with a halo head-iece, and she carried a fan-shaped bouquet of American beauty roses and white stephan-tis.

Miss Donna Lloyd was bride-maid, wearing a gown of apple reen taffeta, short sleeves with ouffs and halo hat in the same hade. She carried a garland onquet of deep mauve sweetpeas arranged with tulle.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Keith Davidson, who was gowned in orchid taffeta, with cap sleeves and matching mitts. Her bouquet was a garland of orchid sweetpeas.

Little Miss Carol Ann Davidson was a winsome flower girl in a buttercup yellow taffeta with embroidered flower designs. She carried a nosegay of mauve and yellow sweetpeas. She too wore tiny matching mitts of yellow taffeta.

Master Bobby Coleman, younger brother of the groom, was ring bearer, carrying the two rings on a white satin cushion.

Mr. Keith Davidson was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Roy Staples, of Port Hope, and Mr. George Ward.

At the reception which was held in the church parlor, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a gown of navy crepe with yoke of brocaded lace, a navy taffeta hat and corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the mother of the groom, who wore navy tissue faille with white pique trim, a white and navy hat with veil, and a corsage of deep red roses.

For a wedding trip to Montreal, the bride chose an English wool gabardine suit of royal blue and white. With this she wore a hat of navy straw, flower trimmed, with a white brim.

Guests were present from Colborne, Picton, Port Hope, Kingston and Solvay, N.Y.

Prior to her marriage the bride-to-be was guest of honor at a shower of personal gifts at the home of Mrs. Keith Davidson, when about 25 guests gathered for an evening of games and to extend good wishes to Miss Davidson. Balloons filled with confetti rained down as the gifts were opened. Miss Davidson thanked her friends for this expression of kindness. Refreshments were served.

On Thursday evening, Mrs. Warner Wood entertained at a miscellaneous shower at her home on the Trent Road, in honor of Miss Donna Davidson. Many guests were present and enjoyed a happy evening.

CRIPPS—LAIN

Allan's Mills— A very pretty wedding took place in this vicinity at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Lain, when their daughter, Jean Isobel, Reg.N., became the bride of Millard Borden Cripps, of Niagara Falls, Ont., son of Mr. Cripps of Fenelon, Ont., and the late Mrs. Cripps, in a double ring ceremony. Rev. H. E. Sears performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose navy blue sheer, with matching accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Christie Steenburg was her sister's bridesmaid, in navy blue silk crepe and corsage of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Christie Steenburg was the best man.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Gerald Thompson. Mrs. Densmere Lain sang "Because", before the ceremony and "With This Ring I Thee Wed", during the signing of the register.

For the reception, the bride's mother received her guests in navy print paint sheer and corsage of red and white carnations. Later, the young couple left for London, Ont., where they will reside.

The bride is a graduate nurse of Belleville General Hospital.

Guests from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kerr, of Orillia; Mr. and Mrs. Cam Cripps, of Barrie; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Davis, of Toronto; Miss Laura Nickle, Reg.N., of Niagara Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gay, of Foxboro.

Traditional White Satin

Women Snatching Initiative In Smouldering War of Sexes

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

New York, May 8. (AP)— The smouldering war between the sexes seems to be bursting out all over in a spring offensive, with the women snatching the initiative.

First, there's the reorganization of the old, bolsterous Lucy Stone League. The league made a lot of noise in the 1920s when women's rights was a dramatic subject. Then it dropped from sight during the war years. Now it's back again, fists doubled for the fray and exhorting women at work to keep their maiden names as a "symbol of identity". The leaguers say first thing you know it will be a man's world again.

The commission on the status of women recently got its parent United Nations to release a report showing that only one woman was represented in the U.N.'s 96 top jobs—and although women hold three-quarters of the lowest-paying jobs, only three had any of the 180 positions paying $8,300 or more.

Then along came the Women's Bureau of the United States Labor department with figures which said the federal government's employment of women dropped 50 per cent within two years after the war, while male employment dipped only 23 per cent. It also found the average male government employee averaged $400 a year more than the average female.

Active Campaign

The end of the Second World War began an active campaign against the female of the species. Mostly the attack was psychological, with women—from grandmothers to little girls—blamed for all world ills and human failures.

"Women were—and still are—taking a wild spanking," said Doris E. Fleischman, a long-time feminist and now vice-president of the new Lucy Stone League.

"Men have had the upper hand through our civilization and have made women a sub-species," she said. "They are afraid of losing the lovely slave race they have created."

She added that men are secretly scared stiff women have found out that their own sex is not inferior at all.

Decrying the male idea of "throwing into the discard all women's abilities except housekeeping," Miss Fleischman thinks women have been attacked so much they have begun to believe the allegations.

Men aren't making enough money to support their families and if women really did quit working, standards of living would shoot down—and men wouldn't like that either, she says.

Kiwanis Ladies Auxiliary Holds Euchre and Bridge

The regular monthly meeting of the Kiwanis Ladies Auxiliary was held at the Kiwanis Centre on Thursday evening with the president, Mrs. E. S. Fairman presiding.

Two new members, Mrs. C. Lusk and Mrs. H. House, were introduced.

Mrs. Fairman thanked those who had helped with the closing party for the hobbycraft classes.

Mrs. C. A. Mafi, convener of the mixed bridge and euchre held recently, stated that it had been a very successful event and thanked all those who had helped. Special thanks was given to the donors of prizes and to the refreshment committee.

Mrs. L. Fogard asked for the whole-hearted support of all Kiwanis Kweens to help with the annual Kiwanis "Tag Day."

The program for the evening was in charge of Mrs. S. Connolly and Mrs. W. Stone. Court Whist was enjoyed by the players, Mrs. R. Clapp was winner of the first prize, Mrs. D. Dies winner of the second prize, and Mrs. S. McKenna of the consolation.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. E. Finkle and her committee.

Club Activities

KEEN AGE CLUB

The May meeting of the "Keen Age Club" of Tabernacle United Church was held, Wednesday evening in the church parlors.

Mrs. Lil Hall introduced the speaker for the evening, Mrs. A. D. Archibald, who selected for her theme, "Knowing our Church", that he wrote the poem mentioned above. At that time he was a young man living in the poorest slums of Japan in order to help his neighbors.

God is doing great things for the world using the hand, heart and mind of this frail, but fearless man of Japan. All are not able to tell about the love of God in the slums of Japan, but each one can ask God to use his or her hands, head, and heart in making His kingdom come.

Refreshments were served and a vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Brenton for opening her home, and to those assisting with the repast.

Camnifton W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the Camnifton W.M.S. was held on Thursday last at the home of Mrs. H. Brenton. The president, Mrs. J. Williams, opened the meeting by extending a hearty welcome to all members and guests.

The various secretaries gave gratifying reports.

The Mission Band members made and sold candy and sent $5 to the Sunshine Home for the Blind. One Mission Band member saved pennies and nickles throughout Lent, and took in $4.87. Some members met at the home of Mrs. W. Brenton, supply secretary, and packed a large bale of clothing for overseas.

The W.M.S. of Holloway Street Church, Belleville, extended an invitation to Camnifton W.M.S. to attend a Missionary Rally to be held in their church in June. The guest speaker will be Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, of Peterborough, president of Quinte Conference branch.

Plans were made for the June meeting to be held in Camnifton United Church on the Women's Missionary Societies of the three United Churches became the W. M.S. of the United Church of Canada.

An appropriate solo "Help Somebody Today," was rendered by Mrs. Furnidge playing the accompaniment on her harp.

Mrs. D. Brenton had charge of the worship service, the theme being, "Using My Hand". She also read the poem, "Discovery", written by Dr. Kagawa, of Japan, who felt the hand was big and strong because it was to be used to carry out God's plan. Dr. Kagawa is one of the most beloved and famed Christians alive today. Not many years after he heard about Jesus at a Mission school in Japan,

IT'S interesting to see the clever things done with separate skirts and jackets. They team up, on request, to form a right smart suit. Their functioning as mates match numbers. Light weight smooth woollen is used for this twain, the coat loose swinging, flared moderately in back, and with three ball buttons below the small, round collar. The modified peg-top skirt is trimmed with buttons at the hem slit fold. The coat and skirt are scarlet, the sweater and accessories navy blue.

The river of gold is growing all the time.

Concentrated orange juice as now being used in such quantities that someone has finally expressed it in terms of a river—just as coffee, milk, beer and other beverages are described in relation to the Mississippi.

The concentrated orange juice river is still rather small—only a mile long, 60 feet wide and 5 feet deep. If this were expressed in terms of regular orange juice, the river would be 4 miles long. Since concentrated juice is 4 times as strong as ordinary citrus juice.

In the wake of this river, you'll soon find concentrated frozen fresh lemon juice. The very latest in the quick frozen story is one concentrated fresh milk, still in the experimental stage.

While processors claim concentrated juice is just as good as fresh, most users are willing to interpret this sitement as meaning nearly as good.

Until now no one has been able to satisfactorily freeze the meat of the orange itself. For salads, fruit cups or desserts such as the one below you'll want fine large juicy oranges, seedless, if possible.

Orange Tapioca, Egg Nog Sauce—Serves 6.

Heat 2 cups of milk until bubbles appear around edge of saucepan. Beat 1 egg yolk slightly. Add 2 tablespoons sugar to egg yolks. Combine milk and egg mixtures. Beat with a whisk.

Add 3 tablespoons minute tapioca and 1-8 teaspoon salt.

Place in a double saucepan over a moderate flame. Stir with a wooden spoon, scraping bottom and corners of pan frequently, until mixture comes to a boil and is thick. Be careful not to scorch mixture.

Beat 1 egg white until foamy. Add 2 tablespoons sugar, gradually, continuing to beat until very stiff. Fold into tapioca mixture over egg white, mixing thoroughly. Place in serving dishes.

Cut 3 large oranges into segments. Place orange segments over tapioca in dishes.

To make sauce: Beat 1 egg thoroughly. Gradually add 1-4 cup sifted confectioners' sugar. Add 3 tablespoons orange juice and 1 tablespoon brandy or sherry. Beat 1-2 cup heavy sweet cream until thick. Add 2 tablespoons sugar. Fold whipped cream into egg mixture. Spoon over tapioca just before serving.

NO DEATHS

Sunday Army officials brought in a convoy of trucks loaded with tents, blankets and medical supplies for 500 persons. More supplies are expected to be rushed in from either Montreal or Quebec today.

The biggest battle against the fire took place opposite Rimouski Cathedral where hundreds of firefighters rallied to check the blaze and prevent it from destroying the church. The building twice broke out in flames, but quick action prevented it from getting out of control and today the church stood alone on a spot where it once was crowded by wooden homes.

Church Saved

The only other building left standing near the church was the Archbishop's home and faithful Roman Catholics in the neighborhood were quick to say that "only a miracle" saved the two structures.

The fire started in the western section of the city after banking fires from an 15,000,000 feet of lumber in the Price brothers lumber yard.

It then worked its way down St. Germain and Ste. Therese Streets at the St. Lawrence River's edge, burning everything in its path.

A 400-foot steel bridge that spans the Rimouski River and the wooden floor burned away cutting off the western highway exit from the city.

Operate Radio Service

During the worst time of the blaze Sunday afternoon, army engineers operated a radio service from Rimouski to Quebec when all communication services were disrupted. Calls for assistance went out to all towns along the Canadian National Railways line and crews from Riviere du Loup, Mont Joli and from Causapascal in Matapedia Valley.

Towards dawn today the wind began to fall and the population breathed a little easier for the first time in more than 30 hectic hours. During the height of the holocaust, Mrs. Edouard Portugals gave birth to a child. She had to be moved three times as the sea of flames spread into buildings where she was lodged, she was reported in good condition following the delivery.

Citizens today gloomily predicted that it would take 25 years to return life to normal. It seemed no exaggeration as the homeless wandered aimlessly through the blackened ruins.

Police Patrol Streets

During the night army troops and city police patrolled the streets on hour shifts to keep a wary eye for more fires and to prevent any looting.

Police reported one beer warehouse was raided by looters and that dozens of youths were seen on the outskirts of the city with their arms loaded with stolen bottles.

Another problem that came up today was the loss of jobs for hundreds of employees of the two knitted Price Brothers Lumber Mills. City officials were scheduled to meet later today to arrange some help for the homeless and jobless.

Ronald Beaulieu, Canadian Pacific Telegraph manager, said that he saw women weeping in the streets as if a nightmare had come to life.

Stories Plentiful

Beaulieu worked 15 straight hours evacuating homeless persons and then worked 10 more hours trying to keep communications operating between here and Quebec City. His home was destroyed.

Similar stories were plentiful. Half a dozen telephone operators kept on the job up to 30 hours before they were able to get any relief.

Eye witnesses described the pitiful scenes with tears in their eyes. They told of a little boy huddled beside his parents gulping down a bottle of milk while flames leaped in the air all around the lonely family. Another told of the orderly evacuation of 100 children from a blazing orphanage and their solemn procession down littered streets. Another recalled seeing an old nun wrangling on the smouldering ruins of the hospital.

Faces Total Flooding

That is two feet more than the initial crest reached at Emerson last Sunday, itself a century record. The town, now three-quarters under water, faced total flooding. Effect of that new surge of the Red on greater Winnipeg could not be forecast. Over its banks for most of the 60 miles from Emerson the Red at one point was a mere 20 miles wide. Some expressed belief that the Lake would absorb much of the fresh onslaught, cutting its effect on Winnipeg.

At dawn, the Winnipeg level had held steady at 27.8 feet—almost 10 feet above the level at which first flooding occurs in the city. No one was prepared to say however that crest or peak point of the current flood is upon the capital.

But the Manitoba capital with its population of 350,000 breezed through the worst trouble.

Issues Evacuation Order

Brig. R. E. A. Morton, the army's prairie commander who became Red River flood controller last Saturday, issued the Norwood-East Kildonan evacuation order at 10:00 p.m. EDT last night.

"The danger is not" he told local residents of the affected areas. "Everything is being done to prevent a crisis only". Don't delay.

Rain and wind storms moving from the United States added to the danger. A three-foot rise due this would loose a wall of water up to 12 feet deep across the riverside suburbs.

Radio stations broadcasting flood news and official messages on a 24-hour-a-day schedule, read Brig. Morton's urgent warning every few minutes.

Hospital Emptied

Within a few minutes the exodus from danger areas had started. It rained momentarily through last night. Families hurried from the Lyndale Drive, St. Boniface Hospital and Enfield Crescent sections of Norwood across the Red from Winnipeg, and the Kildonan Drive and Glenwood Crescent sections of East Kildonan.

Some 1,300 of the evacuees lived in Norwood, the rest in East Kildonan.

The huge St. Boniface hospital, opposite Winnipeg's downtown area, was emptied during the night. Patients were taken to inland hospitals on higher ground in Winnipeg proper.

No Panic in City

There was no panic. The army-commanded flood-control room in the legislative buildings said at 2a.m. EDT that things were going "pretty smoothly."

The southern residential suburbs of Willowdale, Elm Park and Riverview had been evacuated earlier. Thousand homes were deserted; at least 4,000 persons gone.

The municipal hospitals had been evacuated in suburban Riverview and St. Boniface sanitorium in St. Vital, across the river to the east, was partially emptied. Plans were ready for evacuating Children's Hospital and the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children.

Despite the amount of flooded property — at least 985 homes — officials emphasized that only a small fraction of greater Winnipeg's 60-odd square miles is under water. Not even a further 100-foot rise would flood the whole city — and nothing like that is expected.

Up to Eaves in Water

All flooded areas are in a narrow strip along the river's banks —mostly where it makes sharp bends. The points of worst flooding:

1. The Wildwood Housing development in Fort Garry, abandoned early Saturday when its protection crumbled quickly.

2. Elm Park, where homes along Kingston Crescent and Kingston Row are deserted. Water cut through a peninsula-like formation last week. Kingston Row curves northward with the river and borders St. Vital municipality.

3. The Whittier Park area of Northern St. Boniface. Stables at the race track, not used since the war, were up to the eaves in water.

4. The Scotia Street section of West Kildonan in North Winnipeg, where the river spread back to St. Cross Street.

5. North of Glenwood Crescent in East Kildonan, where a narrow strip of water engulfed Kildonan Drive and threatened to spread over a residential section around Woodlawn Drive.

All children had been evacuated from Woodlawn as a precaution.

Victims of the Norwood-East Kildonan exodus found many helping hands. Flood-free municipalities and organizations offered to house and feed individuals or groups. The Red Cross and a civic hostel body had been preparing for such an emergency.

Towns and cities as far away as Portage La Prairie, 45 miles west, offered aid.

Aid Rushed by Air

Power pumps, sandbags and other equipment were rushed by air and train from Edmonton, Vancouver, The Pas, Man., Brandon and other cities. Justice Minister Garson was to report to Ottawa after an aerial survey yesterday of the Southern Manitoba flood zone."

In the rest of the valley at least 10 towns and villages were still isolated by the red and its tributaries. With the new flood menace reported from North Dakota, evacuations increased. Starving cattle were being slaughtered.

From the border north, the situation was:

Emerson (60 miles south): the Red was within two inches of the high of 46.3 feet reached last week. Able-bodied citizens were asked to raise chattels and move livestock above the expected level.

Dominion City (seven miles northeast of Emerson): rises were expected on the Red and Roseau rivers. Four miles from the Red's normal course, water was backing up in the Roseau. Most people had left. The town was 80 per cent flooded. Women and children were crammed into railway cars. More cattle were to be shot today.

Evacuees Four in

Gretna (20 miles east of Dominion City): the Roseau River stopped rising; the first train in a week arrived. Washouts on the track isolated nearby Tolston.

Letellier (56 miles south of Winnipeg): evacuees poured into this dike-walled fortress — the only town in the whole valley to hold off the flood. The Letellier was surrounded by water, its dikes still held. Food and feed were short, but supplies could arrive by tractor from the west.

St. Jean Baptiste (47 miles south of Winnipeg): The Red rose two inches yesterday after a similar drop Saturday. The town was completely flooded.

Morris (21 miles south of Winnipeg): Yesterday's evacuation of 80 persons, by army duck to nearby land and the population to about 50 persons. Normal population is 1,100. The river held steady.

McTavish (seven miles north of Morris): only a handful of men remained after a contingent of 150 evacuated on last night. Nine carloads of cattle were taken out but some were being shot as the river rose.

Silver Plains (eight miles north of Morris): the town was still dry, but another six inches added to yesterday's four-inch rise would put the river over the protecting roadway. Thirty families had evacuated.

Fuel Short

Rosenort (10 miles northwest of Morris): a garageman and two helpers were all that remained of the village's population.

Emerson (60 miles south-east of Winnipeg): fuel was short, but food and supplies were being brought by tractor, Highways and rail lines were out.

Ste. Agathe (27 miles south of Winnipeg): most basements were flooded. Another eight families left as the river continued to rise. St. Adolphe (18 miles south of Winnipeg): some cattle were shot, 50 persons were expected to leave last night.

St. Norbet (eight miles south of Winnipeg): about 150 refugees huddled behind a dike protecting the Oblate Fathers' Home. Crews worked through the night against rising water. A valuable herd of Ayrshires was moved to safety.

Selkirk (25 miles north of Winnipeg): the park and docks were flooded but official said the town faced no immediate danger. The Red rose slowly.

FIRES, FLOODS

Four Storm Deaths

The four storm deaths occurred in Ontario. Angus A. St. John, 70-year-old farmer of Cornwall, in the eastern section of the province was found dead in a field when he attempted to salvage furniture from a neighbor's home, swept by fire and wind. His body was later recovered from the smouldering ashes. Another man Wallace L. Trask, collapsed and died after giving the alarm of fire at his home at Elora.

At Three Rivers, Que., an unidentified man was killed by the high wind off a wharf and was drowned in the St. Lawrence and at Exeter, Ont., 32-year-old Ralph Atkinson was fatally injured when a farm wagon overturned in the gale.

The strong northwest winds were blamed for at least 10 deaths in New York state. The east coast was lashed by heavy seas.

The windstorm was the tail-end of the Friday blow which reached hurricane velocity in Iowa and Minnesota.

Highest recorded velocity in Ontario was 46 miles an hour at nearby Malton airport. Gale warnings were hoisted on Lake Superior and Lake Huron and Georgian Bay, but the warnings were lowered as winds dropped late Sunday.

Temporary Break

The Ontario Hydro Commission reported temporary power breaks Saturday in many centres, including Niagara Falls, Brantford, Woodstock, London and Kingston.

Bush fires broke out at Huntsville and Petawawa, and 200 fire fighters were engaged before a series of fires were brought under control near Huntsville Sunday.

Topsoil was stripped from freshly - seeded farmlands in the Orillia district and sandy tobacco lands ready for planting near St. Thomas were extensively damaged by soil drifting.

RCAF pilots, aircrew and hundreds of citizens joined in fighting two fires in bush and timber in the Grand Bend-Port Franks area 25 miles north of Sarnia.

Steelwork Collapses

Tons of steelwork in a high school under construction at suburban New Toronto collapsed in the gale Saturday morning. At Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, Harvey Moore was injured when the wind dislodged a steel plant's coal bridge which he was operating. Moore jumped 50 feet from the swaying structure.

Many farm homes and buildings fell prey to wind-whipped flames at different spots, including the village of Martintown, 14 miles northeast of Cornwall, where efforts of volunteers from three communities saved the village from destruction.

Gusts of wind lifted the copper roof from a Roman Catholic Church in Hawkesbury, Ont., on the eastern border of the province and upset an army truck, injuring six soldiers at the outskirts of Pembroke, Ont., in the Upper Ottawa Valley.

Aid Promised Two Centres

Although the Red River flood grows dangerous by the hour, only one death has been reported from that area so far. Police in St. Vital, a suburb of Winnipeg, Sunday night recovered the body of Alfred Ogg, 28, first victim of the Red River floods.

The disasters in Winnipeg and Rimouski brought promises of aid from Prime Minister St. Laurent.

"We are all anxious to have done whatever can be done to relieve the distress and suffering of those whose homes have been invaded by the floods," he said.

He sent a message of sympathy to the city of Rimouski. In a telegram to Mayor Lepage, the Prime Minister said:

"I am horrified to learn the extent of the disaster . . . to the population of your city and especially to the families, the institutions and the business firms so deeply saddened. I would ask you to convey the assurance of my sympathy."

Five Missing Scouts Found, Attract Attention of Plane

Orillia, Ont., May 8 (CP)—Five Boy Scouts, missing for 18 hours, were found at sunrise today by a police-directed search party.

The group, headed by Troop Leader Everett Humphries, 17, were found in the bush on the north bank of the Severn River, 12 miles north of here. The other boys: Rod Chapman, Bill Rosser, Ted McIntyre and George Switzer, all aged 15 and 16.

Troop Leader Humphries said the boys killed a porcupine with clubs and roasted in for supper. They built a lean-to of tree branches and slept in shifts around a campfire.

At 6.30 a.m. today they sighted a plane and managed to attract its attention by pilling green boughs on the fire to make a column of smoke.

FIND OF

So confident was Lieut. Commander Reay Parkinson, boss of the treasure-hunting expedition, that he sent a message to the Admiralty. "We have found the Spanish galleon Duque Florencia."

The medallions and a piece of charred wood were brought up on Saturday by an 84-foot suction pipe, the bottom end of which went 20 feet down into the silt.

Commander Parkinson said: "How if it's not our ship, could these medallions, obviously of ancient and probably Spanish origin, have got down 20 feet in the bed of a Scottish harbor?"

Admiralty spokesmen, renowned for caution, were not committing themselves but word got around the Admiralty thinks there is a "lively possibility" that the wreckage of a foreign vessel has been located.

The duke is expected here to-morrow and small boys all over Scotland, thrilled by the adventure, hoped he and his associates Air Vice-Marshal Henry Thornton, would go ahead. A decree of King Charles I gave the wreck to the dukes of Argyll.

The Navy entered the adventure for practice, but there also was another angle, if any gold is found, the duke will have to turn it over to the treasury for modern pounds sterling and a treasy spokesman commented: "Thirty millions gold ducats would make a very useful contribution indeed to the nation's gold reserves."

Time to End Political Deadlock In UN and End Cold War--Lie

Geneva, Switzerland, May 8—(AP)—Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary-general, said today the time has come for all believers in peace "to join in new efforts to bring the cold war to an end."

In an address marking the opening of the third world health organization assembly here, Lie said:

"It must be admitted that immediate prospects (for ending the cold war) do not seem encouraging. Nevertheless, we should not delay the search for a way out of the present impasse."

Lie, who leaves for Moscow Wednesday on "Save-the-U.N." mission, said the United Nations and its special agencies "are all founded upon the principle that lasting world peace can only be achieved and maintained by world organization."

"Specifically," he said, "we believe that it is essential to the future of both the United Nations and the specialized agencies that the present political deadlock in the United Nations be resolved at the earliest possible moment."

"Undoubtedly", he added "it will take time and patience and much exploration to bring about a reduction of tensions and to set the world once more on the United Nations road to peace. . . Governments have it in their power to build over the next 20 years through the United Nations and the specialized agencies a foundation of economic and social security for permanent peace that the world has never had before.

"I submit that this is a wiser and more constructive course for all governments than to continue year after year the cold war with its always-increasing costs and bitterness and its implicit denial of brotherhood of man.

"I think that this is the year of decision. We must work hard to bring about this year a new beginning toward peace through the United Nations."

Premier Appeals For Potato Bags To Send West

Toronto, May 8 — (CP)— Premier Frost today appealed to Ontario residents for spare potato bags.

The bags are wanted for immediate shipment to Manitoba, where they will be filled with sand and used to strengthen the threatened dikes.

Residents having bags were asked to get in touch with Col. F. J. Young, the premier's executive assistant, at the Legislature buildings here.

"Arrangements will be made to fly the bags to Winnipeg, where they are badly in need of bags and hip rubber boots," Mr. Frost said.

The premier also sent a telegram to Premier Duplessis of Quebec offering any assistance in connection with the Rimouski fire.

Mangled Body Found

Flint, Mich., May 8 — (AP) — The young woman whose nude and mangled body was found strewn in pieces along a railroad track Saturday was identified Sunday as Mrs. Maxine Huffman, 23. She had been missing from her home near Davison, three miles from here, since Friday, the day after her husband's suit for divorce came up in court. Parts of the body, apparently struck by trains passing in the night, were strewn along the tracks for eight miles. An investigation is continuing.

U. E. F. CLOSING SHOP

Toronto, May 8 — (CP)—The United Emergency Fund for Britain is closing up shop. A fund spokesman said during the week-end that announcements have been sent to all women's organizations, churches and clubs which used U. E. F. B. facilities. Because of reports of improved conditions in Britain, interest in U. E. F. B. projects has fallen off in recent months, the spokesman said.

Labor Government Survives Precarious 2 Months in Office

London, May 8—(Reuters)—The labor government has survived a precarious two months in office with a razor-edge majority in the House of Commons almost under Britain's unwritten constitution some defeats do not count.

The government may be beaten a number of times before it is overthrown.

That is why Prime Minister Attlee did not resign when Conservatives outvoted Labor 283 votes to 257 in a coal and gasoline debate at the end of March.

Last week the government was saved from defeat in a road transport debate only by the casting vote of the chair. But again there was no question of its resignation and a fresh election if it had actually lost the vote.

Explanation is that neither of these tests of strength between the government and the almost evenly-matched opposition involved a fundamental clash on policy.

Only Technical Defeat

In the March defeat Conservatives outvoted the government merely on an official motion for the adjournment of the House of Commons—not on some specific aspect of coal and gasoline policy. The defeat therefore was dismissed by the government as technical.

Last Monday's division was trickier. Conservatives, dissatisfied with the government's treatment of road carriers, moved that the transport minister's salary be reduced by £1,000 a year.

Had the opposition won the government would probably have had to ask Transport Minister Alfred Barnes to resign.

But the administration itself would not have relinquished office, because it would have held the vote was not a major policy clash challenging public confidence in the government.

Under the elastic British parliamentary system, the politics is governed largely by common sense. The Prime Minister, by precedent, usually has the final say in whether a specific defeat calls for the government's resignation.

Two Kinds of Defeat

Government authorities on parliamentary procedure sum up Labor's position thus:

"There are two kinds of defeats which would compel the government's resignation, and electionship a fresh electionship.

"First of these is any defeat on a vote obviously involving a major clash of policy between government and opposition.

"The other is a defeat on any issue—not necessarily involving major policy—where the opposition decides to move a vote of censure, and the government has accepted this position. That is to say, the government must pick up the gauntlet thrown down by the opposition, and agree to regard the vote to be taken as one of confidence."

It is always within the initiative of the opposition to build up into a confidence issue some vote which might otherwise pass as technical.

But even in this case—or after any defeat—the prime minister before considering resignation, can ask parliament immediately for a fresh vote of confidence. Only if again defeated would he be likely to ask the King to dissolve parliament for a fresh election.

Neither Conservatives nor Labor are anxious for another election so soon after the last. And the opposition would not press for Labor's resignation on some minor defeat, because the public, at the ensuing election, might react unfavorably toward the opposition if it considered its action capricious.

Nonagenarian Has No Recipe for Longevity Save Hard Work

Tweed — Mrs. Meiklejohn, who lives in Tweed at the home of her brother-in-law, George A. Meiklejohn, was 90 years of age last Sunday.

Born in Seymour Township, a daughter of the late Peter Duncan and his wife, formerly Elisabeth Beaumont, the nonagenarian grew up on the family farm, moving to a farm in Rawdon township, where she married the late James Meiklejohn, who died in 1936. About ten years ago she came to Tweed.

A spry, white-haired, good humored lady with a good memory, and a ready wit, Mrs. Meiklejohn can recall the days before the horse and buggy, she can recall riding in a cart behind oxen. She can recall vividly making cloth on a spinning wheel from wool shorn from sheep on the farm on which she lived.

Lived on Farm

Mrs. Meiklejohn says, "I've been on a farm all my days, used to walk wherever I went." She went to church at a schoolhouse where the present Ryerstone Presbyterian now stands and helped to make tallow from which the household candles were made, you see that was before the coal oil lamp, too; 90 years is a mighty long time." Mrs. Meiklejohn and her late husband had no children.

Mrs. Meiklejohn was one of nine children and she had six sisters and two brothers. Of these only William, who is 88, remains, and is living at Warkworth; A sister, Mrs. Robert Miller (Agnes), of Rainy River, died at 93. Another sister, Mrs. Zebulon Cross (Janet), of Havelock, was over 90 when she died.

Mrs. Meiklejohn gives no recipe to those of tenderer years for insuring longevity. She says she never danced but had lots of hard work to do and except for slight deafness, is in good health. She wears glasses, usually, but not for reading or sewing. She still enjoys life and is a happy sort of person.

Perhaps 90 years teaches a person these things.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Emerson's group were in charge of the program, Mr. C. Howes, president of the group, conducted the opening exercises, after which Mr. Harold Emerson took charge of the entertainment. A quartet composed of Dr. and Mrs. M. G. Dales and Mr. and Mrs. S. H. O'Connor sang a group of three numbers "Come to the Fair," "Tom, Tom, the Piper's Son," and "Honey Town," accompanied by Mrs. K. E. Belch at the piano. Mrs. F. C. Barnett gave a fine reading entitled "The Storm."

The feature of the evening was a one act play "Rainbow of Husbands," with Mrs. Wallace Johnston, Mrs. Emerson Hodgins, Mrs. C. E. Way, Arnold Montgomery, and Charlie Porritt taking part. This amusing skit was directed by Mrs. Harold Emerson, and Mrs. James Jeffery.

At the June meeting, supervised by Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Hodgins' group, the members of the junior choir will be guests of the club. Also in June the annual picnic will be held and a committee of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Emerson and Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Cotton were named to make the arrangements.

Q. DID YOU EVER HEAR OF Teflon* De-panner*?

...AND WHAT IS A

A.* THEY HELP TO MAKE CANADA BREAD

THAT IS better than ever!

"Teflon" is new in the baking business . . . that's why we have it. It is a composition used on the rollers of our new "moulder-panner", a machine that rolls and rolls and rolls the dough, and then slips it into waiting pans. With "Teflon" on the rollers the dough slides through as smoothly as folded silk, making bread of superfine texture.

But the "de-panner" is the most fascinating of all our new machines. It lifts, turns and twists the hot pans and gently slips the loaves on to a conveyor.

We have new mixers, proofing rooms, ovens, slicers and wrappers. They all help to make Canada Bread better than ever, but most important of all, is our new formula.

It makes Canada Bread

More Delicious . . . More Nourishing . . . More Satisfying

There's more food value in Canada Bread because there's more milk, more shortening and more sugar in it.

MORE of all those body-building elements so essential for growing children. Start using Canada Bread now . . . give your children the benefit of this EXTRA nourishment.

Get Canada Bread from your grocer or from the Canada Bread salesman.

THE FACTS—From another B of M customer . . .

"My Bank" helped us pay for Tommy!

Tommy won everyone's heart—but he couldn't charm away the hospital bills. I was a student-vet taking pharmacy. My DVA cheque and a part-time job were my only resources, and our family savings had gone into the down-payment on our house.

So I put my problem to the manager of our B of M branch—we had a small savings account there. Asked him for a loan of $200. I wasn't too hopeful, but he agreed to the loan on the spot. Knew I had a steady income and always paid my bills. Repayment was spread out over two years—just $8.34 a month.

And that's only half of it. Later on, "My Bank" advanced me another $100 to meet dental bills, and even merged the loans—I still keeping my monthly payments at $8.34.

I received another much-needed loan before graduating. Then I got a good job in my home-town, sold the house at a profit and paid off what was left of the loans. That's how I began my career with a solid bank balance behind my family.

Thinking it over later, I couldn't help but write my old B of M manager . . . "Once more I wish to thank you for your confidence and financial assistance during those trying years at University. You have proved to me that the Bank of Montreal is truly 'My Bank'."

A personal loan from the Bank of Montreal costs you only six per cent interest—27 cents a month per $100, when repaid over 12 months. Every year, tens of thousands of Canadians borrow from the B of M for all kinds of useful purposes.

Do you need money? . . . If your proposition is sound, there's money for you at the B of M. Provided you are in a position to repay your loan out of regular income, we are in a position to lend you money. Remember—when you ask for a loan at the B of M, you do not ask a favour.

Fifth Anniversary of German Surrender Finds War Room Just as it Was on Fateful Day

By HARVEY HUDSON

Reims, France, May 7 (AP)—War and peace merge in the CHARP war room.

The date is forever May 7, 1945. That's when 13 men sat down around a battered table to bring an official end to the European phase of the mightiest military effort in the history of a world filled with wars.

It's all there today, on the 5th anniversary of the German surrender, exactly as it was that fateful day. The table, the chairs with cardboard name plates, the huge maps covering the walls which show every detail of Allied military operations.

The maps show the front lines and troop dispositions. They show the status of supply, the number of planes available, progress in rebuilding railroads and how the war was going in the Pacific.

Everything is there today in place, but still something is missing. Everything in the little room is in perfect order, but the function is outworn. It appears almost eerily quiet on the page of history it represents.

Only imagination, memory or a rereading of the secret accounts can bring the scene back to life.

A dark little room in the shape of an "L" is the setting. This was the war room of the operational nerve center of Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force. From it the movements of more than 6,000,000 soldiers, airmen and sailors of the Western Allies were directed.

Authorized to Accept

The room is at the corner of a block-square, two-story red brick schoolhouse, officially known as the "College Moderne et Technique."

On May 6, 1945, about 8 p. m., Gen. Gustav Jodl, Chief of the German Army General Staff, arrived in Reims by air. He was authorized to accept terms. They were simple and brutal — unconditional surrender. No negotiations could be permitted. Jodl sent off a radio message to Admiral Karl Doenitz, and about 1 a. m., received a reply.

The surrender witnesses then were assembled. Admiral Hans Georg von Friedeburg was also quickly signed the documents. The time was officially given as 0241 (2:41 a. m.) May 7, 1945. Hostilities were to cease at 2301 (11:01 p. m.) May 8, Central European Time, May 8.

The first ceremony was satisfactory to everyone but the Russians, who insisted on a similar ceremony May 8 in Berlin. This caused the now-famous embargo on release of news of the surrender, which was broken by Edward Kennedy, then an Associated Press war correspondent.

Signing of the documents brought an end to nearly a year and eight months of war in Europe.

UAW Sharpening Strike Threat Against GM

Detroit, May 8 (AP)—The United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) Union is sharpening a strike threat against the last big target in its "fourth round" pension and wage drive.

A costly, 100-day strike against Chrysler Corporation was barely over when the U.A.W. threatened Sunday to cancel its contract with General Motors Corporation, largest of the car industry's big three, unless "progress" is shown in bargaining talks.

Scheduled to expire May 29, the contract will continue until 30-day notice of termination given. It has run for two years.

The 80,000 Chrysler workers, who won pensions and other benefits in their walkout, headed back to their jobs today. The agreement was reached Thursday.

The Ford Motor Company, other member of the big three, granted pensions last September.

The U.A.W. already has filed a notice of intent to strike against G.M., as required by the Taft-Hartley Labor Law. But it still has Jodl 235,000 G.M. workers on a strike, as required by its own constitution and under Michigan law.

Wants Benefits

With membership approval, the Union could call a strike 30 days after serving notice of cancellation of contract.

From General Motors, U.A.W. is demanding benefits totalling 21 cents an hour. It asks $125 a month pensions, including social security, a nine-cent-an-hour wage hoist and a union shop.

Both Ford and Chrysler granted what the Union called 10-cent-an-hour "package" plan provided for $100 a month pensions, including social security, plus health and insurance benefits.

T. A. Johnstone, the Union's G.M. director, said the U.A.W. had authorized negotiating committee to serve cancellation notice on the company at any time.

The committee reported "there had been no substantial progress toward a collective bargaining agreement at the meetings held with representatives of the General Motors Corp." Talks began on March 29.

Johnstone said that the cancellation notice would be served "in the near future unless developments in negotiations indicate a greater possibility of peaceful settlement than at present."

Alert Dog Corners Man Hiding In Shadows

Quenaville, Ont., May 8 (CP) —Arthur Inman, who lives near this village, 30 miles north of Toronto, sees headlights of a guest's automobile flash on Saturday night. He suspected a thief, called his five-year-old police dog, Gyp.

"Find him, girl," he told the dog. "Get him."

Gyp headed for a row of maples, cornered a man hiding in the shadows and held him until Newman arrived. Newman summoned police. They charged the suspect with car theft.

New Non-Resident Angling Licence In Booklet Form

Toronto, May 8 (CP) — A new type non-resident angling licence is introduced by the Department of Lands and Forests, making the licence fee less cumbersome, but more expensive to produce.

The new licence is in booklet form to conform with many requests to provide more information on the licence and to include separate coupons for each species of fish.

In the interests of conservation the export limit under the family licence has been reduced from two days' legal catch to one day's legal catch of each species of fish for one person.

Fees for non-resident angling licences are: Individual $8.50; family $9.00.

Youths Fight Over Girl, One Gets Knife Wound

Toronto, May 8 — (CP) — A fight over a girl landed two Toronto youths in jail Sunday, one with a knife wound in his abdomen.

Charles G. Quondoo, 19, was charged with public mischief; James A. Hanton, 18, with wounding.

Police said Quondoo was taking James Hanton's 18-year-old girl friend to suburban West Hill. Hanton followed the automobile down and the two started to fight. Police said Hanton pulled a knife and stabbed Quondoo.

Quondoo hailed a passing car, had his wounds treated at hospital and reported he'd been robbed and stabbed by thugs. Police said they heard the real story 24 hours later.

Search Party Will Investigate Cries for Help

Tobermory, May 8 — (CP)—A search party of 23 men set out this morning to investigate yelling and cries in the vicinity of Johnston's Harbor, 10 miles south of Tobermory and on the Lake Huron side of the Bruce Peninsula. It is believed the cries may have been made by John Matthews, 40, whose wife who has been missing in the density wooded area of the tip of Bruce Peninsula since Thursday morning.

Bob Jordan of the Department of Lands and Forests, is organizing the search and the hunt is being carried out throughout the northern part of the peninsula. All available searching parties, both for signalling and for protection against bears which roam the area.

Matthews, a neighbor of a fivemen fishing party, has not been seen since Sunday morning when he became separated from his comrades.

Matthews' brother, James, was one of the members of the party but the identity of the other three men could not be learned immediately.

The bush is so dense along Willow Creek that Matthews, if he were injured, or ill, would be surrounded unless searchers passed within a few feet of him.

100-Pound Trout Food for Thought And Doubt

Prince Albert, Sask., May 8—(CP)—For the party leader of the Cristivoner Namaycush's report of record 100-pound trout is only food for thought—and doubt. The Namaycush, the fish was just food. It fed the family for several days. Unfortunately, the eating of the monster has squashed all hope of getting it on a scale.

16 Forest Fires in Trent District Are Reported Under Control

Lindsay, May 8—(CP)—District Forester A. B. Wheatley of the Department of Lands and Forests office here said today that the 16 fires in the Trent district which broke out during the weekend are all under control.

Hydro men working on the line between Lindsay and Norland battled blazes near Miner's Bay and Moore's Falls during Saturday and Sunday. The fires are still being carefully watched by a large gang of workers.

Toronto—(CP)—This spring's unusual weather has officials of the Ontario Lands—Department and the Provincial Air Service worried.

They fear a rash of forest fires may break out before winter-bound planes can be put in the air to combat them.

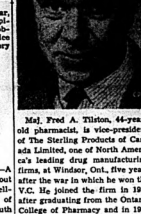
Already nine minor blazes have been reported in Ontario but air service in the main is still at Toronto awaiting the arrival of more of unusual ice conditions. The ice is too thin for skis and to think about operating from water would be punctured.

Working from Toronto's ice-free harbor, one plane has been put into service. Another has reached Parry Sound where a recent high wind freed the harbor.

"It seems the season is two weeks behind the average year but it will be clear before the pilots can leave for their summer posts," said George Ponsford, chief of the Air Service.

What V.C. Winners of Last War Are Doing Today

REMAINS IN SERVICE

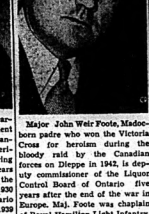


Five years after the end of the war in Europe one of the eight surviving Victoria Cross winners of the Second World War still serves in the Canadian armed forces. He is LL-Col. John Keefer Mahoney, New Westminster, B.C., native who now is director of public relations for the Canadian Army. His Victoria Cross was won on the Melfa River in Italy. — (CP Photo.)

DRUG EXECUTIVE

Maj. Fred A. Tilston, 44-year-old pharmacist, is vice-president of The Sterling Products of Canada Limited, one of North America's leading drug manufacturing firms, at Windsor, Ont., five years after the war in which he won the V.C. He joined the firm in 1930 after graduating from the Ontario College of Pharmacy and in 1939 was its national sales manager. He served as a major with the Essex Scottish and took part in the 1942 raid on Dieppe. He was awarded the Victoria Cross for bravery during the fighting in the German Hochwald during which he lost both legs. He was presented with his V.C. by the King at Buckingham Palace and was invalided back to Canada. In 1946 he carried a Vancouver girl and they have one child. — (CP Photo.)

PAPER COMPANY OFFICIAL



SPIRITS ADMINISTRATOR

Major John Weir Foote, Madoc-born padre who won the Victoria Cross for heroism during the bloody raid by the Canadian forces on Dieppe in 1942, is deputy commissioner of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario five years after the end of the war in Europe. Maj. Foote was chaplain of Royal Hamilton Light Infantry. He remained in the army for sometime after the war resigning to contest the provincial riding of Durham in the 1948 Ontario election. Following his election to the Legislature, he was appointed to his present post on the liquor board. — (CP Photo.)

LUMBER SALESMAN

The fifth anniversary of V-E Day finds Victoria Cross winner Paul Triquet at his desk in Montreal offices of H. R. MacMillan Sales (Quebec) Limited, a lumber firm. He was captain with the Royal 22nd Regiment when he won the V.C. "for determined leadership and examples" in action at Ortona, Italy, in 1943. A native of Cabano, Que., Triquet stayed in the army until the end of 1947 with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. — (CP Photo.)

V.C. AT WORK

Alvia (Smoky) Smith now shoots a camera instead of the deadly Pak gun which won him the Victoria Cross when he broke up a German detachment trying to wipe out a Canadian bridgehead on the Savio River. He is now manager of a flourishing photo studio in New Westminster, B.C. Previously he had been an insurance salesman. He is married and has two children. — (CP Photo.)

FIRST V.C.

Col. Cecil C. Merritt won Canada's first Victoria Cross of the Second World War when he rallied the South Saskatchewan Regiment, which he commanded, to plunge through a line of German pillboxes at Dieppe. Says Fiery Cross Burning Reports Much Exaggerated

Toronto, May 8 (CP)—Deputy Commissioner Arthur Moss of the Ontario Provincial Police said today that investigation has shown that reports of fiery cross burnings in the Newmarket and Aurora districts of Cornwall, were "much exaggerated."

He said two small crosses were burned in April by "mischievous teen-agers going around in sheets." A fire last week, thought by some persons to be part of a fiery cross, proved to be a blaze in a garbage can.

In Cornwall, Crown Attorney R. P. Milligan said he preferred not to comment on the situation until he has received a full police report on the incidents. He indicated that charges of disturbing the peace or disorderly conduct may be laid if the persons responsible are apprehended.

Original of 'Sky Pilot' Dies at 81 Years

Scotland Ont., May 8—(CP)— Rev. Dr. Ralph Connor Dickey, 81, the original of Ralph Connor's novel "Sky Pilot," died at the home of his son-in-law at this hamlet near Hamilton Saturday night. As a missionary during the Klondike Gold Rush he was a close friend of Conner. He served in Hamilton in 1917 and in 1927 was president of the Hamilton United Church conference.

FETED BY FRIENDS

Cornwall, May 8 — (CP) — Miss Lucy Pemberton, 104, was feted by friends Sunday for the fifth time as a centenarian. Native of William Morris and a resident of a home here for 10 years, she said she had had several marriage proposals but liked her name and wanted to keep it.

Twenty Persons Dead, Missing In Lakes, Rivers and Streams Through Sudden Spring Squalls

New York, May 8 — (AP)— Treacherous spring squalls caught thousands of New York and New England boatmen without warning during the sunny weekend and left 20 of them dead or missing in lakes, rivers and salt water.

The high wind, tail end of a midwest storm, reached 65 miles an hour at some points.

In addition to the havoc caused on the water the winds also fanned forest fires in New England and blanketed out most private flying. The flames covered hundreds of acres of New England woodland.

Upper New York State had the worst drowning toll, with 10 persons dead or missing since Friday. New York City and Long Island Sound counted seven lives Sunday, while New England had three drownings.

Small craft warnings had been hoisted for waters in the area. South of Eastport, Me., and the sudden violence was unexpected. Only a gale as much as 30 miles were recorded in New York City.

Police and coast guardsmen used planes, helicopters and launches to rescue the living, while divers in New York areas tried to find the bodies of some of the dead.

Hundred of small boats were flipped over in the high water, and nearly a 40 persons were rescued in the New York area alone.

Search Goes on For Missing Child

Detroit, May 8 (CP)—A police search for two-year-old Brian Marshall, missing for a week from his home in Port Huron, Mich., today was joined by police in River Rouge, a few miles west of Detroit where two persons reported the child had been seen Friday.

Police said a 13-year-old boy told of seeing a dark, complexioned woman with a blond, bluseyed child at a drugstore at River Rouge. The boy's story was supported by a waitress at the store. They said the child seemed to eat food the woman purchased.

Rewards now total $2,500 for information leading to Brian Marshall's safe return. He's foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall have offered a $1,000 reward.

Mr. Marshall, a well-to-do clothing manufacturer, adopted Brian at birth. The child disappeared last Monday from the fenced-in yard of the Marshall home beside the St. Clair River opposite Sarnia.

It was at first believed the boy fell into the river, but search of the shallow water near the Marshall home had revealed no trace. During the week-end hundreds of National Guardsmen, police and volunteer civilians scoured the countryside around the boy's home.

Reports earlier last week indicate that the boy may have been taken to Detroit from Fort Huron. The U.S. has been alerted in border cities, a Detroit resident and the driver of a Detroit city bus all report seeing a woman with a boy whose description tallied with that of Brian.

Sardine School Gets Away With Nets Worth $1,500

Akita, Japan, May 8 — (AP) — Fishermen expected their biggest catch in 30 years when a huge school of sardines appeared last weekend off Northern Honshu.

But the fish got away—with about $1,500 worth of nets and fishing gear.

MANY FORCED TO CLOSE

Hong Kong, May 8 — (AP) — The Hong Kong Standard said today 100 of the colony's small tobacco factories have been forced to close. Illegal Chinese communist control, heavy taxes and victory bond quotas are forcing them out of work by their doors, the newspaper said.

BOY WINS CONTEST

Oakville, May 8 — (CP)—Ten-year-old John Hulen won fine prize in competition with 10 girls in the cike-baking contest at the annual Lions Club hobby show Saturday. He baked a pastry-and-fruit cake. Aged 12 girls lost out to Donald Herridge, 11, in the cookie class.

Blood and Plasma Are Ordered for 30 Fire Victims

Montreal, May 8 — (CP) —Red Cross authorities in Montreal today received a call to deliver at least 30 Saskatchewan Mari Joli "blood and plasma for 30 victims of the Bimouski fire who were evacuated from Bimouski hospital."

Mont Joli is about 30 miles east of Rimouski, struck by a disastrous fire that raged during the weekend.

Red Cross officials here said a plane was ready to take off immediately for the 400-mile flight.

Red Cross headquarters here had no details on the disaster from Mont Joli did not indicate whether any victims had been burned or whether the blood and plasma were needed for ill patients removed from Rimouski hospital, possibly suffering from shock.

The Red Cross announced that consignments of blood type A in Rimouski to look after the homeless and carry out emergency work.

The authorities are looking after registration of citizens, to check on the possibility of any being missing, pending feeding, housing and financing.

The Red Cross service is expected to be feeding hundreds shortly.

Dr. Harvey Doney of Toronto, national director for disaster relief, the Red Cross organization through Montreal today en route to Rimouski.

Red Cross officials already there including Mn). Georges Bellerer, of Quebec City, provincial field director, and Col. Alex Gagnon, chairman of the Quebec City disaster relief committee.

Further Probe Is to be Held Over Drowning

Kirkland Lake, May 8 — (CP) — The drowning of Patrick J. Gallien after doctors had recommended that he be placed under observation in an institution is to be further investigated.

Gallien, 56-year-old jobless bushman, was drowned in the Blanche River at nearby Swastika April 22. Coroner F. J. Edis declared the death accidental.

Twenty-four hours before his death, Gallien had appeared in court at Haileybury on a charge of being mentally ill. He was released after the court was given a report by two doctors that Gallien was "not a clear-cut case" of an insane persons but should be sent to an institution for observation.

Date of the inquiry, has not been set.

Tame Owl Bites Bird-Lover During Lecture

Tenafly, N.J., May 8 — (AP) — Mrs. Herbert B. Carnes, president of the New Jersey Audubon Society was giving a lecture today on bird-banding.

- She was using Hildegarde, a more or less tame owl, for demonstration purposes.

But Hildegarde, not being a bird-lover, apparently didn't like the lecture—she suddenly sank her bill into Mrs. Carnes' forehead, opening a gash that required four stitches.

Mrs. Carnes carried on the lecture, however, with a bandage on the wound and without Hildegarde.

TEN INJURED AS T.T.C. CARS IN COLLISION

Toronto, May 8 — (CP) — Ten persons were taken to hospital today when two streetcars collided at the east-end intersection of Broadview Avenue and Gerrard Street. None was seriously injured, attendants said.

Police said an old-fashioned streetcar and modern one crashed into the rear of a stationary new-style streamliner.

WESTERN PROPOSALS PERPLEX EAST BERLIN

MAYOR ERNEST REUTER

Proposals from West Berlin for free city-wide elections and subsequent re-unification of Berlin have perplexed and weakened communists in East Berlin, it is said. Political initiative taken by Mayor Ernest Reuter's municipal government and the western powers is said to have weakened the Socialist Unity (communist) party's position in Berlin. Maj. Gen. Kotikov, the Russian commander in the city, has been advised to ignore the election proposals so as not to remind the East sector people of a possible election, according to sources in the Soviet sector.—Central Press Canadian.

LIVING COSTS

Canada's cost-of-living index soared to record heights during March reaching an all-time peak of 164.0 on April 1. The previous record was 163.7 which was reached a month earlier. SAY PHOTO PROVES MOLOTOV'S FALL FROM GRACE

This photo of the top hierarchy of the Soviets on the tribune at Lenin's tomb as they reviewed the May Day parade through the Red Square is considered significant. A great deal of importance is attached to the position of V. M. Molotov, who once was regarded as the man who would wear Stalin's toga upon the event of the generalissimo's death. It seems that according to Soviet protocol, the nearer one is to Stalin in a photograph, the nearer he is to Stalin's heart. Left to right here are N. A. Bulganin, Stalin, G. M. Malenkov, L. P. Beria, A. I. Mikoyan and Molotov, who seems to have fallen four steps from grace. — Central Press Canadian.

SAYS HE USED NAME OF DEAD POLICEMAN

Timmins, May 8. (CP) —Police have received word of the arrest in Regina of Jean Dubois, wanted here for forgery. He will be brought here for trial.

Detectives accuse Dubois of registering at a Timmins Hotel last February under the name of a Sudbury police officer killed last summer in a gun battle. They say he cashed three worthless cheques.

They say he is also wanted in Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

TRIAL RUN OF ATOM-SMASHER

Nobel prize-winning scientist, Enrico Fermi, is shown at the University of Chicago's Accelerator building Tuesday, as he manned the controls of the world's second most powerful atom smasher during its trial run. The 100-million volt betatron is exceeded in power only by the similar device recently put into operation by the University of Illinois at its Urbana campus. The building housing this new betatron is directly across the street from Stagg Field, where in December, 1942, the first nuclear chain reaction was achieved by Fermi and his associates. — Central Press Canadian.

Kingsride

By Alice Ross Colver

They were a delightful pair, Donald with his blond debonair light-heartedness, Susan with her dark, incandescent beauty. They stood there for a moment then, dropping his arm, Susan preceded him to the table.

"I imagine I'm the reason for all this gaiety," she said.

"Where have you been, Susan?"

Susan looked across at her father. Donald had taken his place and was reaching for fruit, but she still stood behind her chair, her hands resting lightly on its top.

"I've been down to the Inn having breakfast with Gerry. Any crime in that?" She tilted her chin and awaited his reply with a level undisturbed composure that suddenly infuriated Frank. His face became suffused the colour or dull red brick, his eyes glittered and for a moment he felt as if he were going to choke. For there was defiance of the first order. Here was open insubordination to a superior.

"We told you last night we didn't want you to have anything more to do with this fellow. And we told you why."

"It so happens that you didn't have the whole story about him."

"And you now have. His story. There was an ugly sneer in his voice and Susan's hands folded quietly over the rim of her chair until the knuckles showed white.

"Yes. His story."

Frank was breathing heavily, overwhelmed again by his sense of inadequacy before this chit of a girl. "The fact remains," he said, "that you disobeyed an order."

Susan elevated an eyebrow. "Orders? I'm not accustomed to orders."

Donald broke in, his mouth full of banana. "Relax, Dad. You're out of the army you know. What's the matter with Gerry that you're all so down on him anyway? I thought he was right nice guy. A regular access story. Rags to riches. Typical American. I thought you'd approve."

"Donald, Keep still!" Elizabeth's voice was charged with an invincible authority. "It's all your fault, this whole thing. But I give you credit for believing you acted as you should. However Gerald is not a suitable person to bring into this house—and never has been. And I, personally, don't want to see him cross this threshold again."

"Hanna, don't say that!"

"Susan, I do say it. I realize that rightly or wrongly—and now I am sure it is wrongly—you have been brought up to make your own decisions on personal matters. But this time you will have to accept the decision and opinion of those older and therefore wiser than you are.'

Therefore wiser;" Susan turned her cool look contemptuously on her grandmother. "Really, that's the craziest tommy-rot I ever heard."

"Susan!"

"I mean it, Mother. Why? What makes you all wiser? Living is supposed to I know. But the way you all live, you've learned nothing. Nothing at all. You just go on and on in the same old rut of doing and thinking."

Frank's chair went over backward as he got to his feet. "Keep your mouth! Do you hear me? Shut your mouth!"

Susan whirled toward him. "Don't talk to me like that!"

"I'll talk to you, young lady, as I see fit. You seem to forget I'm your father."

SPRING BEAUTY

"Susan." Audrey was on her feet, too, now, her dark eyes flashing from one to the other of them. "Susan, wait. We can talk this out calmly. We always have. Frank, you should know that's not the way . ."

He turned on her. "This is your fault," he said thickly. "Always all their lives you've let them have your fault."

Steven's voice fell quietly into the electric atmosphere.

"If I may be allowed a word."

One and all turned toward him.

"I think," he said slowly "that we do not need to make the mistake of forming a snap judgment. He paused, "I think," he went on, "seeing what Gerry has done with his life so far," he paused again, "starting from scratch, that we might give him the benefit of the doubt and wait and see what he does with the rest of it."

"Wait and see!" Susan broke in passionately, "His don't call for waiting. His calls for doing right now."

"Just what had you in mind, Susan?" her grandfather asked.

"Well, you're going to help," she nodded toward her father, him. If he wants you to, you're going to help him. I heard you say so. Why don't you help Gerry, too? He could use a job as well as Frank!"

"The two cases aren't exactly ."

Suddenly, to their surprise, Donald also was on his feet, his face dead-white in an anger rarely seen in him, his napkin bunched in his hand.

"You all make me sick. Just plain sick. You wonder why Well, I'll tell you why." His blue eyes as coldly brilliant as Elizabeth's own. He began, went around the group, holding each one in turn. "Because Susan's dead right! Because you've learned nothing from living! Not a darn thing. You people are the one who have sent the world up in flames twice! And now you think you're starting it a third time, Hate. That's all you've generated in this world. Hate and fear. And a lot of disgusting prejudices. Yet you ask us to listen to you—take your word for things. . ." He broke off, and threw his napkin violently into a far corner of the room as he finished. "Come on, Susan. Let's get out here."

In the quiet that followed their rapid departure, Frank spoke again to Audrey.

"Your fault," he repeated, taking a savage delight in being able to accuse her of something definite. "Now you can handle the whole business." And he moved with his curious, light, ponderous grace out of the room.

Elizabeth picked up a grape and popped it into her mouth. In spite of her concern over the situation she could not help but derive a certain amount of pleasure from thinking that Audrey at last was getting her comeuppance. She was having to take from her children exactly what she, Elizabeth, had had to take from her.

"I'm inclined to agree with Frank. They got out of your control years ago. Only I wonder if you can handle them now!" she asked.

Audrey made no reply for a moment. She was suddenly frightened. More frightened than she had ever been in her life. But she would not admit it.

"If everyone will keep their hands off, I think I can," she said finally, and she, too, rose and went away. When she was gone, Elizabeth pressed the buzzer for John and then began to help him carry out the remains of the breakfast to the kitchen. "It's a very late, John," she said in explanation.

As they went through the swinging door into the pantry, Steven gazed thoughtfully after them. What was it he had said to Gerry only last night? "I particularly dislike any disturbance under my own roof-tree."

Yet here they were, all at each other's throats. And all because of Gerry.

He gave a short impatient sigh, then rising he made his deliberate way to his study.

This entire affair would take the most careful management.

While the Kings were battling over their breakfast table, Alicia Brandt, with a knee-length black satin coat over her purple satin pajamas and black mules on her bare feet, was sitting in silence and solitude. Gerry had risen long ago and was now out walking with the dogs. No matter how late he went to bed the night before, he always was up in time to take the dogs for their walk. His whole life was lived that way —with a clock-like precision that nearly drove Alicia wild at times. She should be accustomed to it, of course. She had known, when she gave up the uncertainties of stage life for the certainties of life with Lester Brandt that she would have to put up with it. She had weighed the unexciting tempo of the existence he offered her in Kingsridge with the exciting tempo of the existence for which she would have to struggle on Broadway, and had decided in favor of the unexciting. If she hadn't been so tall, too tall to be a chorus girl, or had had a better voice, or a more strident salesmanship of her personality she possessed, or if her mother hadn't been so ill and she, herself, bothered with a cough she could not shake—However, those were the limitations, clearly recognized, which added to an inertia that probably stemmed from an undernourished childhood, had given Lester the odds. At least with him she would never be hungry. But there had been many moments during those years when impatience and boredom, always seething deep within her bolted up close to the surface. At those times the unspoken rivalry existing between her and Elizabeth King had been a safe and sure means of relief. To shock Elizabeth, to upset her, to belittle her with a game long-standing delight that dated back actually, to the stormy night when Gerry's mother had been fed in Alicia's kitchen.

She was thinking now, as she drank her coffee, of that night, trying to reconcile the handsome young stranger who had appeared at the King's party, with the son of that awful woman, for, like wildfire, the news of who he was had spread, that had known Gerry slightly as a lad before he went off to school, the way the whole town had known him—as some one headed for no good end. Incredible that he could have returned, so changed, so completely made over. Incredible and amazing. Because what would the Kings do about him now? Plainly they had not given him too cordial a welcome. Alicia had witnessed the whole thing with intense interest. And, later, she had silently applauded Gerry's spirited exit, as, snatching up his coat and hat from the chair where Donald had dropped them, he had slammed out into the night.

Putting down her empty cup she rose from the table and strolled to the picture window that looked out to the west. From here she could see across the valley to the slate roof of Kingsridge with its enormous chimneys topping that. She could see the town, too, and her eye was caught, as Elizabeth's had been, by the spot of red against the white snow before the Inn. Animated by the lively curiosity that characterized her, she moved to the bookcase to get the field glasses that always lay there, and with these, she was soon able to assure herself that really was Donald King's car. Had Gerry gone to the Inn last night, then? A moment later she knew. For there was no mistaking Susan's figure as she emerged from the front entrance, got into the car and sped away. She put down the glasses and stood thoughtful for a moment. Gerry Barton at the Inn, and Susan going to see him. That was in defiance of her family, if Alicia knew anything at all.

Children Afflicted With Rheumatic Fever Treated

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

Irvington, N. Y., May 8 — (AP) —All the children busy on the playground here are cripples, or potential cripples.

They don't appear to be. Some play tag, some pump on swings. Some peg baseball. But others dig quietly in sandpiles.

An hour later all of them are resting in their cots inside the big sanatorium. Later they go to classes in an unusual public school, or learn lessons from teachers who come to their bedsides.

All were touched by rheumatic fever, the greatest crippling and killing disease of childhood. It kills thousands of youngsters each year, and has made heart cripples of about 1,000,000 American children.

The 130 children here are learning to live near-normal lives while they are being protected against recoid or third — and more serious — attacks of the disease.

The are guests of Irvington House, a school-sanatorium which has cared for more than 3,300 victims of rheumatic fever since starting as a vacation cottage 30 years ago. It is one of several institutions pioneering to give such children a better break for happy useful lives.

The cause of the disease isn't known for sure. The best medical guess is that it follows an infection by streptococcal germs, the kind that causes sore throat and scarlet fever.

Achild often is bedded for months. Afterward he may not be able to play many games, and may fall behind in school. Bringing the child back to near-normal life is one objective of modern treatment. Physically he is watched and checked carefully, and given plenty of rest. But he is also encouraged to play and work, within limits.

Children may stay for a few months, or a few years. The goal is to send them home to resume almost-normal living.

TEACHER KNOWS THEM APART; SHE'S THEIR MOTHER

McKenney, Va., May 8 — (AP) — The seven-year-old Chamberlain triplets—Bobby, Freddy and Phil — don't present any identity problem at all for their second-grade teacher.

The three towheads look like thethe same boy in triplicate and usually dress alike. They're the same height and all weigh the same—49.

Teacher can tell them apart easily, though. But probably because she's Mama, Mrs. Phillip S. Chamberlain.

Williams' Blazing Bat Boosts Boston Red Sox Near Top in American League Race

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Ted Williams' blazing bat and the friendly confines of Fenway Park have boosted Boston Red Sox up to within a hair's breadth of first place in the American League.

Joe McCarthy's men now are 42 percentage points behind the leading Detroit Tigers. In games won and lost, however, they top the Tigers by half a length.

The Red Sox' double triumph over St. Louis Browns Sunday, 9-8, and 6-2, gave them a 18-7 record as against Detroit's 9-4 mark. The Tigers bowed 6-3 to the Yankees in New York.

Williams won the opener for Boston. He hammered his seventh home run of the season and second before to provide the margin of victory. He drove in a run and scored one in the second game. His fifth-inning single snapped a 2-2 tie.

Collects Seven Hits

Dom DiMaggio shared batting honors with Williams. Dom collected seven hits in the double-header and scored three times.

Tommy Byrne, an old Tiger killer, found the going rough in the early innings but settled down for his ninth triumph over the Tigers in 4 seasons. They have beaten him only twice.

Gil Coan's bases - loaded homer, his second grand slam in five days, enabled Washington Senators to come from behind and defeat Cleveland Indians 10-5. Coan's wallop came off Lou Kretlow in the seventh and highlighted a six-run inning.

Chicago and Philadelphia divided a doubleheader. The White Sox pounded Lou Brissie for 10 hits, half for extra bases, to win the first game, 7-3. Carmen Guerra's three-run homer off Bob Hooper's seven-hit pitching won the second game for Philadelphia, 4-2.

Dodgers Retain Hold

Every club but Brooklyn and Boston enjoyed additional rest in National League following Sunday's results. The Dodgers retained their hold on first place, edging the Pirates in Pittsburgh, 3-2. Jackie Robinson drove in all Brooklyn's runs with a single, double and home run off Murry Dickson.

The Cardinals jumped two notches to Philadelphia's Boston Braves 15-0. The Braves, who scored 85 runs in their previous 6 games, were held to five singles by Howie Pollet.

Philadelphia Phillies moved into second place by dumping the Reds twice in Cincinnati, 6-3 and 6-4. Wen Heintzelman hurled a three-hitter in the first game. Del Ennis' homer in the 8th inning of the second game broke a 6-4 tie.

New York Giants moved out of last place as Cincinnati moved in by sweeping both ends of a doubleheader from the Cubs in Chicago 4-3 and 5-2.

Two White Sox players and one Giant were injured Sunday. Chicago's Gus Zernial suffered a bad bruise below his left kneecap in the second game of the opener. Earlier Zernial had collided with Jim Busby and the latter had to leave with a wrenched knee. Sheldon Jones, Giant pitcher, was struck on the left leg by a line drive and was carried off the field. X-rays showed no bone fracture.

Home-Run Bat Of Monte Irvin Is Big Weapon

(By The Associated Press)

Monte Irvin's smoking home-run bat is the big weapon in Jersey City's surreal drive to the top of the International League.

The six-foot-one outfielder, who is seeking another crack with the parent New York Giants, is far ahead of the field in home runs, with eight. Irvin hit three homers Sunday as Jersey City twice defeated Toronto, 9-3 and 4-1.

In other league action, Baltimore took two games from Buffalo, 11-7 and a 9-0 forfeit; Springfield outlasted Rochester, 11-3 and 9-8, and Syracuse whipped Montreal, 13-7 and 2-2.

Irvin hit two home runs in the first game at Toronto, driving in four runs. He came up with a three-run blast in the nightcap.

Tony West picked up victory No. 3 in the second while Ford Smith registered his third victory in the second game.

Leafs Continue Slump

A crowd of 37,388 Queen City fans turned out to watch the first Sunday baseball game ever held in Toronto history, but they didn't have much to cheer about as the Leafs continued their slump.

At Montreal, the Chiefs shattered the Royals' seven - game winning streak before 20,093 fans.

The Chiefs smacked four Montreal pitchers for 19 hits in the first game, with Bill McCahan and Ed Sharpe getting the loss.

At Buffalo, Umpire John Gallin forfeited the second game to Baltimore under the "pressure of a furious bombardment of cans, paper boxes and papers tossed by the 6,024 fans in the fifth inning. The demonstration resulted when Umpire Gallin ruled that Creet of Buffalo out going into third base and Gallin ruled that Al Stringer, attempting to score on the play, failed to cross the plate before Creet put was recorded.

Stan Hack's Springfield Cubs, rebounding from a slow start, won "their fifth game in seventh games before 8,872. They've won eight. Pitcher Warren Hacker hit a three-run homer to help himself register victory No. 1 in the opener.

Armand Savoie Favored to Wn Over Thompson

Toronto, May 8 — (CP) — Southpaw John (Spider) Thompson, Ontario lightweight from Buffalo, N.Y., tonight risks his record of never having been knocked out when he fights Armand Savoie, rising Montreal star, in the eight-round feature of a boxing card at Maple Leaf Gardens. Savoie is after his 13th straight knockout and his third in two weeks.

The young Montrealer, scarcely known here until two weeks ago when he startled some 7,200 fans with a seventh round knockout over Toronto's favorite Alex McFater, is a favorite over Thompson. McFater holds two decisions over Thompson and McFater has the heavy puncher that Savoie has proved himself.

After his victory over McFater, Savoie knocked out young Junior of Springfield, Mass., at Montreal last week.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, May 8—(AP)—Can you imagine a tennis tournament in Yankee Stadium. . . Well, Vinnie Richards can, but whether it gets beyond the stage of mere imagination remains to be seen. . . Richards, a former tennis champ himself, recently signed with the Professional Lawn Tennis Association as tournament bureau manager. . . He already has set up plans for the national pro championship at Cleveland June 5-11, and promises that Jack Kramer, Pancho Gonzales and Bobby Riggs will be there shooting for a $10,000 prize money. . . "We want to set up a regular circuit of about 20 tournaments; the big ones will be $10,000 events and we're planning smaller tournaments, for say $2,500, which will attract second-rank players and maybe develop some youngster stars," he says. . . Richards is dickering for tournaments in Pittsburgh and Toronto and a September event in Yankee Stadium. . . "That will be tennis for the masses," he says. "Instead of being so formal, we'll encourage the fans to yell and howl as much as they want. Then they'll really enjoy themselves.

Ex-stalle Fan

Clyde La Moitr of the Houston Post says it happened. . . a baseball fan called his office one day to inquire how the Athletics-Red Sox game came out. Clyde reported the game's postponement. . . "One of us must be crazy," replied the fan. "I've been listening to that game on my radio, but a tube blew out. I want to know how it ended. A fellow named Coombs was pitching a great game". . . It was then that Clyde realized the fan had been hearing a radio reconstruction of an old-time game, a favorite device in that territory for filling up time when a game scheduled for broadcasting is rained out.

Judd is Right At Home in Intercounty

(By The Canadian Press)

Oscar Judd is right at home in the Intercounty Baseball League.

The 40-year-old star hurler was as frisky as a colt Saturday to be pitched and batted Guelph Maple Leafs to a 10-8 victory over Galt Terriers in their first game of the Intercounty Senior loop.

Judd battled against strong winds and clouds of dust but ended up hurling seven - hit ball for eight innings and scoring 3 runs with a triple and two singles in four trips at the plate.

In three other Intercounty games, Waterloo Tigers blanked St. Thomas Legion 6-0 and a 3-run rally in the ninth inning gave Kitchener Legionnaires a 7-6 decision over London Majors. Brantford Red Sox finished on the long end of a 17-9 score against Stratford Nationals but the game was called at the end of the fifth because of winds and dust.

At Guelph, Judd appeared to weaken after fifth inning, and was relieved in the ninth by Manny Philp. Judd was credited with the win.

First Time in 20 Years

It was his first appearance in the Intercounty League since he left 20 years ago. He retired from professional ball last season.

Fisher Doc Bowman started for Galt but failed to last more than five innings. He gave up eight runs on as many hits, including Judd's triple and a homer by centre-fielder George McCabe. Dick Long took over on the mound in the sixth inning.

Tiger batsmen Long, Hardy and shortstop Andy Garbas each collected three hits for the losers.

At St. Thomas, righthander Jack Vousrak pitched six-hit ball in his winning role.

Cliff Fisher, Maple Leaf catcher — southpaw Walt Wilson and righthander Harry Thomas hurled for Hendry — faced the Tigers. Waterloo counted one run in the second, another in the third and two in the ninth.

Fisher and Thomas Augie Hercheraratter and Larry Archambault netted Tigers their first run and a single by Manny McIntyre and another double by Archambault accounted for the second score. Bill McCarthy hit twice for St. Thomas, getting a double on one, a triple on another. They were forced to come from behind a 6-0 count at the end of the fifth. They put together two big innings, scoring four runs in the sixth and the others in the ninth.

Fisher Charged

Lefty Lew Fisher, who relieved Ted Alexander in the sixth, was charged with the loss. On the winning end was Roy Tredgett, who pitched shut-out ball in the fifth. Tredgett gave up four hits and drove home in the fifth, but Majors failed to get a hit for the rest of the game.

Catcher-outfielder Tim Burgess paced London with a home run, a triple and a double. It cleared the 325-foot mark in right field.

At Brantford, the game was called and it was decided that the remaining part of the game will be played June 24, when the clubs meet again.

Wind-blown dirt, plus seven Stratford errors told most of the story. Tommy McCratton and Jack Lemmon of Brantford had perfect records with 3 hits in as many trips at bat. Mooradian got a home run when the ball bounced away from outfielder Billy Clark.

No games are scheduled until May 13. Then, it's St. Thomas at Waterloo, Stratford at Brantford and Guelph at Galt in afternoon games, at a night tilt, Kitchener plays London.

Calgary Stamps Easily Defeated By Marlboros

Calgary, Alta., May 8 (CP)—Calgary Stampeders will be behind the eight-ball for sure if they don't stop Toronto Marlboros tonight in the Stamps last home game of the Allan Cup final.

The well-drilled Marlboros Saturday night showed superiority in every department when they waltzed to an easy 4-1 victory over the Stamps. It also gave the Dukes a 2-1 lead in games in the best-of-seven series for the Dominion's senior hockey title.

Fifth game in the series will be played in Edmonton Wednesday and the sixth—if the Calgary club gets cracking—Friday. If a seventh game is needed it will be played in Edmonton the following Monday.

Stampeders who dropped the first game of the series 6-5 and then battled to square the series with a 5-4 win were seldom in the picture Saturday and the hometown crowd of more than 6,000 had little to cheer about.

The clubs battled to a 1-1 stalemate in the first period but after that it was Marlboros all the way. The junior Toronto club went ahead 3-1 in the second period and then added the only goal of the final session.

Hugh Bolton, young rearguard slated for Toronto Maple Leafs next year, was the individual star of the game.

His booming checks and standout defensive play broke up numerous Stampeder attacks. He popped his fine effort by scoring the opening goal while Dukes were playing a man short.

Other Toronto goals were scored by Al Buchanan, Chuck Blair and George Armstrong.

Veteran Doug (Crafty) Cairns flicked the red light for Calgary's lone tally.

Kitchener Wins Opening Game

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 8 (AP) — Kitchener Legionaires Sunday won the opening game of the North American non-professional baseball series from Fort Wayne Kekiongas, 9-8, with the help of three Fort Wayne errors in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Play will continue nightly this week in the best-of-seven series.

In the ninth inning a two-base error by Roy Gilmore in left field put Kitchener's Alex Sichewski in position to score a scratch single by Ross Doherty. Doherty reached third on an error by shortstop Stan Shargey and scored on pitcher Bill Barnett's bad throw of Bob Schnurr's bunt.

Memorial Cup Remains in East For Another Year

Montreal, May 8—(CP)— The Memorial Cup will be proudly displayed in Montreal for the second successive year.

The cup, which designates its winner as the Canadian Junior Amateur Hockey Champion, was won Saturday night by Montreal Canadiens who trounced Regina Pats 6-3 in the fifth game of the best-of-seven series.

Last year Montreal Royals brought the cup to Montreal for the first time by defeating Brandon Wheat Kings in the west. Stockey Billy Goold, who sniped three goals, was the hero of this year's final game, the shifty Canadien forward was aided by linemate Art Rose, who picked up two second period goals which came within six seconds of each other and appeared to take the sting out of the Regina offensive for the remainder of the contest.

Smooth-skating Jacques Nadon accounted for the other Montreal marker.

Big Eddie Litzenberger, Mexr Bragg and Brian McDonald scored for the western champions.

The game was one of the cleanest of the series with only seven penalties being handed out—four to Regina and three to Montreal.

Defenceman Moose MacNeill and forward Paul Masnick were the pick of the Pats in their desperate attempt to keep alive their hopes of taking the title west.

Goold started off in the scoring after three minutes of the first period and Canadiens kept the lead from there on.

The Canadiens led 1-0 at the end of the first frame and 3-1 at the finish of the second. In the final period each team scored twice.

Coach Sammy Pollock of Canadiens said the Regina team was "the best opposition we've ever met."

Regina coach Murray Armstrong said: "We lost to a better team. We've got no beefs."

Middleground Winner of Derby, Goes in Preakness

Louisville, Ky., May 8 — (AP) —Your Host, the hope of movie-maker William Goetz, will get another chance to earn his Oscar.

The suspended sprinter from the Pacific Coast didn't convince his handlers in the Kentucky Derby that he can't carry his speed more than a mile. He will have to show them in the Preakness May 20, but once again he'll be up against Middleground who won the Derby Saturday.

Although an 8-5 favorite, Your Host lagged in a badly beaten ninth In Saturday's Derby.

Trainer Harry Daniels said five horses challenged Your Host's pace in the rose classic.

"It's tough enough beating one horse," he said, "but when they keep coming at you, one at a time, only a super horse can stand up under it."

So Daniels said he would take his horse to Baltimore for proof positive. If he shows he can't go the route, he'll be dropped back to sprints. The Preakness is over 1 3-16 miles, one-sixteenth shorter than theDerby.

Taking It Easy

Meanwhile, the Derby champ, Middleground, was taking it easy.

He's among at least seven Derby horses that will go after the Preakness. They say that the Greentree Ranch campaigner from Texas emphasized his superiority in the running from the worst post position. He broke from the ex-outside stall.

The 76th Derby was one of the richest, with a gross purse of $130,700, and it was the second fastest. Middleground was timed at 2:01 3-5 for the 1 1-4 miles, missing Whirlaway's 1941 mark by a fifth of a second.

Filing Knife, the $ $92,650 cheque and a diamond-studded trophy for Middleground's victory. Apprentice jockey Bill Boland booted him home.

COMPETITION SENDS VENICE GONDALIERS ON STRIKE

Operators of these romantic water taxis, the gondaliers of Venice, Italy, were on strike Wednesday against the motorboats whose competition they have been fighting for two years. They refused all passengers, forcing wayfarers to trudge along canal banks to the nearest bridges. Gondoliers charge waves from motorboats damage gondolas and frighten passengers. — Central Press Canadian.

Sunday Sports Opens With Bang In Toronto

Toronto, May 8 — (CP) — Bright sunshine and cool weather favored the inauguration of Sunday sports in Toronto Sunday and thousands of fans attended baseball and soccer games — but there was a sour note.

Toronto Maple Leafs lost both ends of an International Baseball League doubleheader to the Jersey City Giants, 9-5 and 4-1, as 1,388 filled Maple Leaf Stadium.

Another 9,000 fans turned out to see the senior city soccer league matches at four other parks. The international league baseball and the four soccer games were the only scheduled events on the first Sunday of organized sport in Toronto's history.

The sour note was at the ball park, where both teams attempted to take advantage of the curfew law by stalling tactics. The provincial legislation permitting Sunday sports in municipalities that have approved it by local votes, lays down that games may be played only between 1 p.m. and 6 p.m.

The Leafs had lost the first game and were trailing 6-1 as the fourth inning of the second game came up with about 40 minutes playing time remaining. Under baseball rules at least five full innings must be played, if the home team is trailing, before it's a legal game; 4½ innings or the home team is ahead.

May Order Replay

The locals were taking more time than necessary at bat and in the field in an effort to have the curfew end the affair before it became another loss. Manager Jack Sanford of the Leafs however made a special trip to the pitching mound in Jersey's half of the fourth to tell his players to get the game over.

But the stalling continued and in the bottom half of the fifth with the crowd booing the Leafs' Toronto shortstop Ralph LaPointe had one strike called on him before he consented to take his stance in the batter's box. The game was called at the end of the fifth inning but a replay may be ordered.

Frank Shaughnessy, Montreal, president of the International League who made a special trip for the occasion, is expected to issue an official statement on his return to league headquarters at New York today.

Shaughnessy said "it won't happen again," as he conferred with Joe Ziegler, Leaf general manager; Charlie Stoneham, manager of the Jersey team, and Don Ross, Leaf president.

The soccer fans were well behaved, with a crowd of 3,500 at Earlscourt Park, another 3,000 at Greenwood Park, and more than 1,000 at both Bickford and Withrow Park. The "coffee pots" at all four fields were well filled."

Quinte Tennis Club Opens Season Play

The Quinte Tennis Club courts were opened for play for the first time this season, this weekend. A few of last year's members have been spending some of their leisure in preparing the courts for action once again, and so far two courts are completed. The third court is scheduled to be open for play in the next few days, but the fourth one will be a little while yet as it has not properly dried after the winter skating activities.

The tennis executive have been working on their plans for the coming season since the middle of March and have quite a few activities in mind. The first is a tennis tournament which is slated to be run on May 24th. Some teams have again been entered in the Bay of Quinte Tennis League this year. Towards the end of the month it is hoped to arrange for some instruction for beginners and final details of this instruction will be announced by the club shortly. A weekly social evening is proposed together with other social functions.

Many tennis enthusiasts will, of course, be wondering where membership tickets can be obtained and Jean Greene, the membership chairman, announces that these tickets are available from each member of the tennis executive.

Hogan is Back On Golfing Throne

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., May 8 — (AP) — Ben Hogan, back on the golfing throne today with a record-tying, 72-hole score of 286, still insisted he had done "nothing extra."

The 145-pound links precisionist Sunday finally outdistanced the effects of a near-fatal automobile accident in February 1949 by winning the Greenbrier open by 10 strokes with a sparkling 21-under-par effort.

He finished up by tacking a 66 onto previous rounds of 64, 64, and 65.

18-Year-Old Sets Record For CBA Bowling

(By The Canadian Press)

Gino Villa, 18-year-old trundler from St. Catharines, set a record for the grand aggregate as the Canadian Bowling Association's 24th annual tournament closed at Toronto Saturday night.

Gino rolled a grand total of 2,655 for his nine-game stint, within 3½ hours. His high game was 376 and average 295. He won the men's open singles championship with a three-game total of 952. B. Reilly of Toronto was second in the grand aggregate with 2,510 and Percy West of Woodstock third with 2,455.

Kerry's No. 1 team of Toronto captured the men's open teams title with 3,793; Art Young and Bill Ireland won the doubles title with 1,808, also a record for the tourney.

The United Auto Workers No. 3 team from Oshawa won the industrial team section with 3,568.

The eight senior clubs of the Ontario Lacrosse Association will meet at Hampton tonight to pass on the 25-game schedule. Each club will play twelve games with the other seven. Teams are Mimico, Weston, Peterborough, Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Brampton and Owen Sound.

Eighteen clubs are ready to open an intermediate series and 11 junior entries have been received with requests for organizing of teams from Timmins, North Bay and Sault Ste. Marie.

Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League were both reported Sunday night to be interested in sponsoring a Detroit Junior 'A' team when the new auditorium is completed in Kitchener. Representatives of both clubs will meet later with the Kitchener Sports Association, which plans the Junior 'A' rights for Kitchener.

The Provincial Women's Softball Union at a meeting in Hamilton Sunday voted to withdraw

Women's Amateur Athletic Federation, and to apply for affiliation direct with the parent Canadian body of the federation Affiliation with the American Amateur Softball Association was also voted for.

Driver Louis Smith, 33, of Detroit was badly injured Sunday in an auto race at Detroit Motor City Speedway. He suffered a broken arm and internal injuries. In the third lap of the 20-lap feature race, his car locked wheels with another, racer driven by Clare Lawicki, also of Detroit. The two cars jumped the fence on the last turn and were demolished. Dave Lawicki, however, walked away from the crack-up with only minor cuts and bruises.

This developed into what is known as a triple squeeze, it is good to the last drop.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, May 8 — (AP) — Shelley Winters, answering reports that she is temperamental, declares that her press agents have been working overtime.

The blonde bombshell's latest encounter in print was when she was reported to have stalked off the set of "Frenchie" after a dispute with Director Louis King.

"Let's put it this way," she said, "The publicity department tried to figure out how they could get the picture on the front page. So they took a little incident and blew it up to such proportions that it did hit the front page."

The "incident" concerned her desire to be photographed on the "good" side of her face. "The picture is in color and I want to look my best," she declared. "So we had an argument. I was only absent from the set a half-hour."

Which Face?

Director King confirmed her report, saying the whole thing was a "storm in a teapot."

"The business was played up for more than it was worth," he declared. "Somebody has told her that one side of her face is better than the other. Which is a lot of foolishness. She looks good on either side. I told her I could not shoot pictures if I had to work under restrictions like that."

"After lunch we resumed shooting and we photographed her on both sides. She has done some of her best scenes in the picture since then. This sort of trouble happens on any picture."

Capsule Review

"Father of the Bride" (M. G. M.) will prove funny to nearly anyone — except possibly fathers of brides. Following the best-selling book closely, it tells the financial sorrows of a man who gives his daughter in wedlock. The thin premise manages to sustain the film and it is good fun. Spencer Tracy underplays the comedy to good effect, and Joan Bennett and Elizabeth Taylor are beautiful and efficient.

Police Holding One in Connection With Shooting

Montreal, May 8 (CP)— Police Sunday were holding Emery Touchette, 43, in connection with the fatal shooting of a neighbor, 54-year-old Epiphane Gentil, in an east-end tavern Saturday night.

Police said the shooting ended a longstanding feud between the two men.

Detective Capt. William Fitzpatrick, head of the homicide squad, said Touchette shot Gentil at point-blank range after stealing an automatic revolver from a drug store near the tavern.

Touchette will appear as a material witness at a coroner's inquest.

Police said Touchette fired one shot from the .32 calibre automatic and the bullet struck Gentil in the stomach. The latter died on arrival at a Montreal hospital.

Witnesses of the shooting said there had been no argument between the two men prior to the shooting.

Theo St. Pierre, a waiter in the tavern, grabbed Touchette and held him while a by-stander disarmed him.

Webb plays the father of twelve children. Jeanne Crain, his eldest daughter, and Myrna Loy his wife. The film is continuing until Wednesday.

Voice Heard Believed That Of Ship's Skipper

London May 8—(Reuters)— A voice believed to be that of skipper Alexander Smith of the Welsh trawler Milford Viscount—missing in the Atlantic for three weeks —came over the loudspeaker at a Scottish lighthouse Sunday while his brother William sat transfixed by the radio.

William Smith was convinced it was his brother, who, with his crew of 13, had been given up as lost.

The voice —weak, but distinct, for the Milford Viscount and —was heard to say:

"This might be last call—batteries going flat—position 73 degrees 40 minutes north 17 west".

This would place the vessel north of Iceland and east of Greenland.

William Smith and a lighthouse keeper heard the message at 4.30 Sunday morning at Tarbat Ness lighthouse near Inverness. They could not reply as the lighthouse radio can only receive.

It was no coincidence that William Smith was there Sunday. A vigilant keeper had notified authorities several times during the week that he heard message, possibly from the Milford Viscount, over his receiving set.

Smith went there Saturday to find out if it was his brother. An urgent call has been sent to all trawlers and other vessels to look for the Milford Viscount and listen for any further signals.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to himself in his chir and I was doing my work, and I ran out in the hall to see if I had remembered to bring my hockey stick back in the house, and when I came back pop said, Benny, I want to make an experiment, come over here.

Which I did, and he said I want to test your co-ordination. I'm going to give you a muscular eye test, so to speak, he said, and I said, Do you mean like the tests they give to eroplane pilots to see if they're good enough to fly or not?

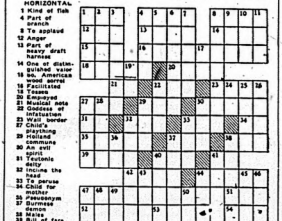
That's the idea, pop said, and I said, Oh boy, I bet I'll be perfect.

We'll see, pop said. Raise your left leg and sink down on your right knee, he said.

Which I did, and pop said, So far so good. Now shut your eyes and advance and touch my hand with your finger, he said.

And he held out his hand and I stabbed it perfect with my eyes closed, and pop said, No ww'll test your vision. Can you see the corner of the rug near the door? he said.

Sure, I can even see a white spot on it, I said. It looks like cigar ashes, I said, and pop said, We'll skip that. You've passed your test with flying colors, so you have no legitimate excuse for having tripped over that corner of the rug the last times you left the room. Can it be that you said, Then I strongly urge you to do just to annoy me? he said.



I guess it's just because I run out without thinking, I said, and he said, Then I strongly urge you to start thinking.

No sir, G roosalem pop, I said. Which I will if I remember.

Old Home of Rebel Chieftain, William Lyon MacKenzie To be Used as Civic Museum

By ROBERT MARJORIBANKS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, May 8 (CP)— A civic museum is taking shape in downtown Toronto in the house once lived in by William Lyon Mackenzie, the city's first mayor and leader of Upper Canada's pitchfork rebellion of 1837.

It will be formally opened May 9 by Premier Frost of Ontario but it meantime it is being looked after by E. C. Kyte, former librarian of Queen's University, Kingston.

"I am the curator," Mr. Kyte says, "That is a Latin word meaning caretaker."

The two-storey, six-room brick building is intended really as a memorial to Mackenzie, the fire breathing antagonist of Ontario's early unrepresentative "family compact" government. Rather it is a record of mid-19 century Ontario life and the origins of the city of Toronto.

RON

Shows About House

Scholarly, white-haired Mr. Kyte is already showing visitors about the house, which is rapidly becoming filled with typical furnishings of Mackenzie's day.

In the hall stands a tall sideboard, the only piece of furniture saved from Montgomery's tavern, which was located on north Yonge Street before it was destroyed by fire. That was where Mackenzie marshalled his forces, armed with scythes and pitchforks, for the unsuccessful march on Toronto to seize the government of Upper Canada.

The house was given to Mackenzie in 1859 by his friends after he returned to Canada from exile in the United States. He lived there with his wife and two daughters for only two years before he died a poor man.

Many of the historic items donated by collectors and assembled by Mr. Kyte still are lying about the floors. There are several massive locks from Toronto's first jail which probably confined some of Mackenzie's followers. Muskets and revolvers are stacked in corners. These items together with bullet moulds, candle snuffers, kitchen utensils and other curios will be arranged in glass cases in one room when the house is formally opened.

Kettle in Fireplace

The basement kitchen is laid out as Mrs. Mackenzie would have left it. There is a black kettle in the fireplace and a perforated metal lantern on the mantlepiece.

There are two bedrooms, one shared by the girls and the other by Mackenzie and his wife. The girls' room is furnished as it would have been for a young girl about 1840.

On the wall is the actual mirror used by the exile. It is primitive and gives a distorted reflection like those in carnival sideshows.

"Not very good," said Mr. Kyte. But Mrs. Mackenzie probably thought it was good enough for the girls' room."

It may have been before this mirror that Mackenzie's daughter Isabella had her hair curled before her marriage to one John King. Mr. Kyte said that Isabella distressed by the more or less painful prices, is reported to have remarked "oh, dear, whatever shall I do if John King can't curl hair!"

The master bedroom holds the desk at which Mackenzie sat at a member of Upper Canada's Legislative Assembly.

Although there are few of Mackenzie's belonging in the house, Mr. Kyte said the museum expects to acquire many articles now in the possession of former Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Mackenzie's grandson.

The idea of the Mackenzie Museum was conceived in 1935 by T. Wilfrid Reid, member of a Toronto printing firm, and, with the help of public spirited citizens who have odnated articles and money, the house is almost ready to be opened.

10,000 People Hear Red Dean In Toronto

Toronto, May 8 — (CP)—More than 10,000 people whistled and cheered the Very Rev. Hewlett Johnson, Dean of Canterbury, at a mass meeting in Maple Leaf Gardens Sunday night sponsored by the Canadian Peace Congress. The Dean declared that American leaders want war while Russian leaders want peace.

In a mingling of Scripture and politics, Dr. Johnson said that "in Christ's final judgment" Russia and the eastern world would fare better than the United States and the western world.

"I am told that the communists organized this meeting," said the so-called "Red Dean." He added: "That is not true, but insofar as it is true the church leaders should have done it, and not waited for others."

On the platform with him were Rev. Dr. J. G. Endicott, chairman of the Peace Congress, and Rev. I. G. Perkins of Donlands Avenue United Church.

The rally at Maple Gardens was the wind-up of a two-day meeting of the Congress. At Saturday's session in the Bathurst St. United Church, Dr. Endicott read a statement on policy prepared by External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson and then attacked the statement as "the usual things that the big business press has been saying for the last few years."

Pearson Not Present

Mr. Pearson had been invited to attend the Congress but he left Ottawa for London Saturday, after preparing the statement which said that the maintenance of peace and the establishment of security is the greatest single problem today.

"But in our passion for peace in an uneasy world we cannot blind ourselves to the necessity for taking adequate precautions against aggression from whatever source it may come."

Mr. Pearson's statement continued: "Unfortunately, co - operation, economic and social, with the U. S. S. R. and its satellite states is not now possible. Many overtures have been made by the western democracies for the purpose of encouraging easy and normal contacts between our people and the people of the Soviet Union. These approaches have been systematically rebuffed."

Dr. Endicott at Saturday's meeting followed the statement with the declaration: "Mr. Pearson deliberately planned to evade the main issue and take refuge in name-calling, partisan politics, ideological debate and red-baiting."

Printing Trades Unions in Session

Toronto, May 8. (CP)—A conference of the Ontario Federation of Printing Trades Unions Sunday passed a resolution recommending use of conciliation proceedings "only because required to do so by law," suggesting that appearances before conciliation boards should be mere formalities "because these boards are nothing more nor less than a fiasco."

The resolution suggested that negotiating unions should refrain from presenting briefs to such boards, from hiring legal counsel or paying for expensive research projects. "We recognize the fact that our only effective means of accomplishing our objective is by use of our economic strength," said the resolution.

Frank Barrett, International representative of the Bookbinders Union, said that the conciliation boards against the intention of the legislation, were becoming "stop-gaps until the time of drastic action."

Another delegate, Harry Finch of the International Typographical Union, (Ind.), described conciliation proceedings in Ontario as "nothing but an empty gesture."

Another resolution asked the Ontario government to reconsider its ban on liquor advertising so that the printing trades in this province would be on an equal footing with those in other provinces. The Ontario government will also be asked to include the Union label on all its printing. The conference was told the Labor Department is the only government department using the Union label.

Belleville Navy Defeats United In Soccer Tilt

Belleville's "embryonic" Navy came out into the world Saturday to show the Belleville United boys that they were very much alive and kicking. Skipper Jack Allin started the season off with a kick and wished both teams a successful season. The game turned out in full regalia with all flags flying and jolly Jack Tar Al Hall leading the parade with "Humphrey the goat."

Belleville United won the toss and kicked with the wind in the first half, right from the kick-off Cathcart took a corner kick and half kept the Navy defence working hard. The high Southwest wind made it very inadvisable to take the offensive upwind and there was nothing in the corner. Within a few minutes of half time Belleville's efforts were rewarded by a goal. It was a fluke and so combined, it was a father that Cathcart took a corner kick and Jim Cathcart scored.

The second half the Navy really put on the pressure and soon evened the score with Don Culley scoring a beauty. Culley's first goal of the season off a "picture ball" pass by George Evans from the left wing. The Belleville United goalie, who played the second half with a bad leg injury, was outstanding, saving some almost impossible shots. The second goal was scored by Jack Jones from a penalty kick, it was a perfect placed low left shot and it is doubted if any goalie could have saved.

Scorers: Belleville, Jim Cathcart, Navy, Don Culley, Jack Jones. Referee — Tom Sneddon.

Bowling League Closes Activities

Frankford—Frankford Bowling League wound up activities for the current season, as the Greenhorns emerged champions of the league, winning four games to one from the Happy Gang. The Happy Gang had one of their few very bad nights and could do nothing against the Greenhorns who had been flying high all through the playoffs. A meeting of all members of other teams were on hand to see the finals, and all joined with the Happy Gang in congratulating the winners.

Any person who thought they saw a flying saucer proceeding south on Highway 33 about five minutes to seven Thursday evening, it was merely Elmer Rogers on his way to Toronto. Elmer had driven all the way from 30 Island Lake to help carry the Greenhorns to the championship.

On Friday morning following the Greenhorns' championship series, nine Bowling League team members found large, black drapery on the front door with a note: R.I.P. Happy Gang.

STRIP IN COURT

These three Doukhobor women on trial for nudism, took Nelson, B. B., Magistrate William Irvine and his court by surprise April 28 when they stripped off their clothes. One is shown partly unclothed. All stripped before police could stop them, using draw strings as strip-tease dancers do. — (CP Photo.)

White Queen of Black Bamangwato Studiously Ignored by Traders, Families and is Not Invited Out

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

Serowe, Bechuanaland, May 8 —(AP)—Ruth Khama, the white queen of the black Bamangwato, is tensely aware that her marriage has brought to the fore the touchy question of Briton's relations with the non-white races of the colonial possessions.

But the pretty former London stenographer has even more to fear than the trial of being tumbled suddenly from obscurity into the glare of world attention.

In an interview she admitted frankly that the five servants who help her run her modest bungalow "palace" do not dispel the isolation surrounding her home in the deep African bush.

That isolation is heightened by the fact that the leaders of the white colony of Serowe — mainly government officials, traders and their families — will have nothing to do with her.

The whites look down on mixed marriages. At the town's few social occasions they deliberately ignore her. She gets no invitations from them. She has no white callers.

Her husband, Seretse, chief of the Bamangwato, was able to come home last month for a brief stay. They had not seen each other since he went to London five months ago to be told he could not return to Serowe for five years because of the fuss over their marriage. Later the government relented and permitted him to make the visit. He expects to be able to return again for a time when their baby is born—in about two months.

Those whites who might try to take the edge off Ruth's loneliness fear loss of their jobs if they do so.

Employee Transferred

A young white couple did try to make things easier for Ruth by visiting her occasionally. After a few weeks the man was transferred out of the territory by his company.

Despite all this, Ruth remains defiant of what she sees as a deliberate campaign "to send me scampering home."

"I'm sticking," she says tersely.

Some of the Bamangwato resent her, but they remain loyal to Seretse, their chieftain.

Ruth lives in a simply-furnished brick-and-mortar home on the outskirts of this sprawling mud-hut capital.

She drives a green 1940 Chevrolet to shops or the post office.

She takes her morning bath in water carted from the town. Her house is not yet piped nor does it have a sewage system. There's no electricity, although the building is wired for electric lights. Ruth's battery-fed radio is almost her only link with the world outside.

GIRL BICYCLIST DIES AFTER RIDE HOME

Barrie, May 8 (CP) — Diana Churchill of nearby Santy Bay, who collapsed Friday night after a bicycle ride home from a country store, died of a brain hemorrhage, doctors said today. The 14-year-old girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Churchill.

Thomson Chain To be Organized Declares Union

Toronto, May 8. (CP)—A conference of the Ontario Federation of Printing Trades Unions Sunday criticized working conditions in newspapers owned by Roy M. Thomson, president of the Thomson Publishing Co.

The conference passed a resolution charging that "conditions are being established in some units of the chain which would tend to break down established trade union practices." It pledged its support to "a co-operative effort on the part of all the Unions involved toward organization of those units of the Thomson chain where . . . sub-standard conditions are developing."

Harry Flack, International representative of the International Typographical Union, reported on a survey of conditions in newspapers owned by Mr. Thomson. He accused the publisher of "close cohesion" with the publisher of at least one other paper in the conduct of a (training) "school to by-pass Union regulations."

WILL ASK AID FOR INDO-CHINA

French foreign minister Robert Schuman, above, will ask the U.S. for prompt and substantial aid in defending Indo-China against communist aggression, when the ministers of France, Britain and the U.S. meet in London next week, Schuman will tell the U.S. that unless extensive aid is given, France may have to end her efforts to hold the strategic line in Indo-China, it was learned in Paris on Wednesday. — Central Press Canadian.

Tears Bridge Will Collapse in Wind, Jumps 50 Feet

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., May 8 (CP) — Harvey James Moore, 38, was reported today to be progressing favorably in hospital after suffering serious injury when he jumped 50 feet from the Algoma Steel Corporation coal bridge at the height of Friday night's gale-velocity rainstorm.

Moore was reported to have received serious injuries to his back and legs.

Watching the wind twist the huge coal-loading bridge out of alignment and fearing that it might collapse, Moore jumped.

Company officials said that the bridge will be out of operation for three weeks during repairs.

Smelt, Alewives Will Not be Put In Inland Lakes

Toronto, May 8 (CP)— Smelt or alewives, both silvery minnow-like fishes, will not be introduced into Ontario's inland lakes as possible food for game fish. The Department of Lands and Forests reports that the smelt or alewives increase so fast it is feared they would quickly harm rather than benefit the game fish.

Special fishery regulations, issued for Ontario by the Dominion government, provide "no person shall use live carp minnows or smelt as bait except in the waters from which they were originally taken." Nor may live minnows or other small fish be released in any waters other than those from which they came.

Farmers Blamed For Present Butter Surplus

Toronto, May 8. (CP)— The president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada said Sunday night that farmers themselves have "considerable responsibility for the present butter surplus in Canada".

Gilbert McMillan said in a statement: "Surveys indicate that butter consumption in rural areas is below normal in a season when the supply is ample."

Government-held butter stocks are estimated at some 19,000,000 pounds.

Farmers could quickly undermine government confidence and support if they did not see the dangers of using "cheap substitutes for their own products". He said "all would eventually pay a severe penalty."

FLOOD SITUATION GETS WORSE IN WINNIPEG

30 Buildings Burn In Lumbering Town Of Cabano, Que.

Blaze Starts in Sawdust, Spreads Through Community

Rivière Du Loup, Que., May 9 —(CP)— Mayor Emilien Morin of the town of Cabano, 50 miles south of fire-ravaged Rimouski, today ordered evacuation of the entire town while fire raged unchecked through Cabano.

Edmunston, N. B., May 9 (CP) — A total fire loss reported out of control today in the milling town of Cabano, Que., about 65 miles south of the fire-wrecked town of Rimouski.

Thirty buildings were reported destroyed and the fire's progress still unchecked.

The town, in Quebec's Temiscouata county, has a population of about 2,000.

The fire was believed to have started in a mill-yard sawdust pile and to have spread rapidly through the sawdust covering in the hills on the St. Lawrence river south above.

At least one mill and two hotels as well as many homes were reported in flames.

Communication with the town was difficult, few reports reaching here said the lumber yards and a mill belonging to Fraser Brothers and Consolidated Limited were in danger of destruction.

V. H. Emery, mill manager of the Fraser Company's big plant here, said he had no official word of the situation at Cabano due to loss of communications with the town.

He said "hazardous information" was that 15 houses and a hotel had burned and that it was "quite bad" there.

Mr. Emery had no information on this company's Cabano sawmill. He expected company men from Cabano would probably come to Edmundston later in the day with definite word about the situation.

Missing Angler Found in Bush

Tobermory, May 9 (CP)— John Matthews, missing for more than two days in the wild bush country of the Bruce Peninsula, was found today.

Condition of the 45-year-old Guelph man was not learned immediately.

He was found by one of several search parties which combed this remote district. Clouds and generally cold, wet weather conditions had hampered the search.

It was launched soon after his disappearance Sunday when he became separated from four other Guelph men with whom he was fishing.

Council Holds Back $15,000 From Hospital

Owen Sound, May 9 — (CP)— City council Monday night decided to withhold $15,000 of the $43,000 payment due from the city to the Owen Sound General and Marine Hospital.

Mayor E. C. Sargent said the amount would be withheld until it be is "privileged" to examine a contract in force between the hospital and Dr. Gordon Fraser, hospital radiologist. Earlier this year the mayor voiced strong dissatisfaction with the terms of the radiologist's contract with the Hospital Board.

He told council he had asked to see the contract which deals with the hospital's x-ray department, and had been informed that he could inspect it at the lawyer's office where it is filed, but could not take it away from that office.

GOVT. PREPARED TO EXTEND AID SAYS ST. LAURENT

Ottawa, May 8. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today in the Commons the Federal government is prepared to extend financial assistance to the flood-ravaged Red River Valley area of Manitoba and indicated similar assistance may be given the fire-scarred town of Rimouski, Que.

He tabled correspondence exchanged with Premier Campbell of Manitoba and read into the record telegrams of sympathy sent to the civil and religious authorities in Rimouski, where an estimated 2,500 persons were left homeless by a disastrous week-end fire.

Leaders of other parties joined with Mr. St. Laurent in extending sympathy, and expressed hope the federal government will not only provide financial assistance but will take steps to prevent similar disasters in the future.

Mr. St. Laurent said that as far as the federal government is concerned it stands ready to "open up the question of federal assistance" as soon as provincial authorities are ready.

Until the extent of the flood disaster is known, he said, "we can be no specific but I can say in general terms that in arrival at the amount of our assistance to you, we shall apply the same principles as those upon which our assistance to the British Columbia government in connection with the Fraser Valley floods was determined."

PIPELINES ISSUE HOTLY DEBATED IN PARLIAMENT

Opposition Offering Stiff Resistance

Ottawa, May 9—(CP)— The Commons heard more Monday about the contentious pipe-lines issue.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, joined other opposition members in urging that the government force companies planning to construct oil and natural gas pipe lines out of Alberta to follow all-Canadian routes and serve Canada first before crossing into United States.

The debate added another five hours to what might be a record in Canada for a filibuster against any type of legislation. The discussion centred on a private bill incorporating the Alberta Natural Gas Company.

That company and Prairie Transmission Lines Limited are seeking incorporation preliminary to applying for the right to build natural gas pipe lines from Alberta fields to the Pacific Coast.

The bills failed to make any headway at the last session. At this session, they have been given second reading — approval in principle—and passed by a committee of the Commons. They now are back in the Commons for a clause-by-clause study by a com-

Racial Group Bill Passes Committee Stage in SA House

Capetown, South Africa, May 9 — (Reuters) — After a 22-hour non-stop session, Parliament today passed through the committee stage the population registration bill which provides for identification of all South Africans into three racial groups.

The House, which opened discussion of the bill Monday afternoon, sat all night. At times there were as many as five or six divisions on a single clause of the bill, as amendments were proposed.

The government obtained majorities ranging from 55 to 60 votes on the many divisions called.

The bill, part of the Malan government's apartheid (racial segregation) policy, defines the following racial groups:

1. European: A person who is obviously European from his appearance, unless he is subsequently accepted as European;

2. Native: A person who is a member of a race indigenous to South Africa or who is generally accepted as such;

3. Colored: One who is neither European nor native.

Free Press is More Than Freedom to Publish, Includes Worthwhile Ideas

By E. S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, May 9 (CP)— Col. J. Astor, chairman of The Times, who heads the Canadian Overseas delegation to the Imperial Press conference at Ottawa next month today set the record straight on the Empire Press Union at its 40th annual meeting.

Lord Iliffe was re-elected honorary treasurer.

Referring to the forthcoming Imperial conference, the E.P.U. chairman said that it is a disquieting thought that an assembly of leaders of the Free Commonwealth Press no longer is completely free of government interference.

"Just as newspapers can be, and in some parts of the world are already, controlled by newsprint rationing, the Imperial Press conference cannot now meet without the sanction of currency controls.

"That it is able to meet this year is due mainly to the generous terms of the invitation extended by the Canadian section of the union."

Sir Keith Murdoch, chairman of the Australian section, said it is proper that freedom of the press take precedence on the conference agenda.

"We should always remember that a free press has contributed a great deal more than freedom to publishing," he added. "It is freedom for all worthwhile ideas to be published which should be extended to all parts of the world."

Sir Harry Brittain, founder of the union, said the original members of the union had never thought of putting down such a subject 40 years ago. Then freedom of the press had been accepted as a principle on which publishing was based.

"Unfortunately we have got into a different position today," he said.

Truman Will Push Development Of Western U.S.

Aboard Truman Train, May 2. (AP)—President Truman said today his administration will push the development of the Western United States over the opposition of "reactionary forces" of "privilege and greed" with their philosophy of "Teapot Dome".

The President carried his day-and-night cross-country political tour into Wyoming after telling an agricultural crowd at Lincoln, Neb., enactment of the controversial Brannan farm plan would help assure "better prices and security for ourselves and the world."

In a speech prepared for an audience today as Casper, Wyo., Truman described the New Kortes Dam, 50 miles away, as a source of "wealth and strength for the people of the world."

He scoffed at those who say "Socialism," "regimentation", or "Doondoggle" at government water and land resource development.

As the day proceeded he continued to fall for the good spirited but enthusiastic greetings which jammed the train's platforms at each stop in the chatty, neighborly fashion that was his "vote appeal" in 1948 presidential campaign.

The solemn note he sounded in his prepared speech at Lincoln, Iowa, where he warned the midwest that a return to "isolationism" could bring on "a third World War", crept into his Casper talk.

"We are engaged in a world-wide struggle to bring lasting peace to the world," he said, "a struggle we are being opposed by a cynical imperialism which asserts that freedom and democracy are soft and incapable of strong action."

Owen Sound Will Licence Tourist Homes

Owen Sound, May 9 — (CP)— The city will license and regulate all tourist homes here, resolution to that effect council decided Monday night.

The by-law will extend new provincial regulations governing the operation of tourist homes having more than five rooms, to make the regulations apply to all such accommodation here, including those with less than five rooms.

Under certain circumstances operators of tourist homes will be given until March 31, 1951 to meet provincial regulations with regard to closets, toilets, washbasins and cubic-air-space in sleeping rooms.

150 ARMY TROOPS MAINTAIN ORDER IN RIMOUSKI

Tons of Supplies Pouring into City

Rimouski, Que., May 9—(CP)— A force of 150 army troops from the Black Watch and Valcartier today helped police maintain order and keep marauders and looters at bay in this fire-ravaged city. The troops guarded ruins and flood centres with fixed bayonets.

Life in the city was grim following the disastrous $20,000,000 fire, but residents took cheer at the tremendous job of reorganizing the shattered life of the stricken community.

Religious orders announced relief measures. The Grand Seminary, the hospital, the orphanage and the old people's home soon.

Tons of supplies were still pouring in today. From the United States, Quebec and Ontario, came cheques, promises of assistance, and announcements of mass collections of food, supplies and money for the estimated 2,500 who have been rendered homeless in the disastrous weekend fire.

Insurance underwriters announced they were setting up an emergency office on Cathedral Street, just where the fire was finally stopped after a 30-hour battle. They said they will start adjusting claims for the people who have lost everything they owned in one frantic night.

A Quebec department store owner announced his big warehouse and a Montreal drug firm announced that it would give free of charge all toilet articles.

Want More Supplies

Meanwhile Red Cross here, appealed for more supplies and assistance, announced that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and all the French networks of Canadian Broadcasting Corporation would flash appeals free of charge at fixed intervals.

Vast Soviet Spy Ring in Iran, West Powers and Iran Informed By Fugitive Russian Official

By STAN SWINTON

Tehran, Iran, May 9—(AP)—A refugee Russian official has handed over to the Iranian government and western power representatives, a detailed expose of a vast Soviet spy ring honeycombing this country.

The source of this information cannot be disclosed. But on good authority it can be said the Red Soviet refugee named Chalik Ossanovsky, secretary of the Russian Embassy in Tehran and chief courier for the Soviet Communist Church, is head of a spy ring which is penetrating all aspects of Iranian life.

The informant said Iran has virtually been penetrated with a great deal more than freedom to publish. He added that "it is freedom for all worthwhile ideas to be published which should be extended to all parts of the world."

Sir Harry Brittain, founder of the union, said the original members of the union had never thought of putting down such a subject 40 years ago. Then freedom of the press had been accepted as a principle on which publishing was based.

"Unfortunately we have got into a different position today," he said.

Iran, including spying, tax evasion and even actual felonies.

If Iran ever wanted to go to the United Nations to show her hand she could give the U.S.S.R. the worst beating she ever received politically," said one person, who saw all the documents.

Daniel Simonovich Kossorin, 42, first secretary in charge of the press at the Soviet Embassy, flew to Moscow when the Russians learned of the leak.

Iran, which considers him the real key man in the Embassy although he carries no orders, has told Moscow his return is not desired. The Russian refused, in defiance of normal protocol, that he be recalled to Moscow. Kossorin back unless Iran could prove something against him.

Kossorin's every failure of the Iranian government to order the ousting of Soviet spy ring leaders or to round up Iranian agents is causing serious concern in Iran as Russia's political and diplomatic circles.

It is reported that the government fears Iranian neutrality in the cold war would be prejudiced if action were taken.

Iran has been under heavy pressure from the western diplomats ever since the war's end. Premier Mossadeq, in oil, has become one of the nervous focal points of the cold war.

River-Crossing Bridges May Be Put Out of Action, Would Cripple Flood-Control Work

450 Residents Evacuated From Low-Lying Suburb

Winnipeg, May 9 — (CP) — The flood-swollen Red River and its tributaries criss-crossing greater Winnipeg threatened today to cut the Prairies' largest city into a half-dozen un-connected sections, thus crippling flood-control operations.

The army said all Manitoba flood relief said the risk that river-crossing bridges would be put out of action was "alarming."

Not only the Red but the tributary Assiniboine, Seine and La Salle Rivers were rising steadily.

Top-Priority Order

Keeping bridges open is a top-priority assignment for military forces in the flood-fighting army.

The Red Cross was instructed to evacuate an estimated 450 persons from southeastern St. Vital, a low-lying Winnipeg suburb along the Seine which threatened to spread over residential districts toward the Red several miles to the west.

The ravenous Red river, 220 miles long, poured northward in Manitoba already in its grasp, overnight had forced out at least 1,000 more Winnipeggers, neighbors of the another residential suburb and threatened still a third.

Brig. R. E. A. Morton, called in by the Manitoba government to take the fight against the flood all through the Red river valley, told newspapermen at his daily morning press conference that the Red river dikes in greater Winnipeg were "in good form."

Fairly Good Night

Despite evacuations, he said, it had been a fairly good night.

But the situation in St. Vital, a southern suburb on the east bank of the river, was growing serious.

Water from a huge lake formed by the flooding Red in the Morris area, 41 miles south of Winnipeg, was draining to Winnipeg through the Seine River, a Red tributary which passes through St. Vital.

The Seine's behavior was causing "great concern".

Brig. Morton said two reserve army units had been called out for duty on the dikes—the Fort Garry Horse, a tank unit; and the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, for infantry. Reserve army men now are helping civilians and troops with sandbagging. More would be called up.

Shelter Problems

Mayors of all greater Winnipeg municipalities were summoned to an urgent meeting to deal with shelter problems as a flood of refugees overcrowded the city.

Monday night police sirens shrieked and loudspeakers blared through southern city streets warning flood-control headquarters orderly evacuation of two low-lying danger areas.

The refugees — mostly women and children whose men were on the shaky dikes—joined Manitoba's once-huge flood-relief evacuees from flooded areas who now are mainly billeted here. By truck and bus they left what they moved in worried orderly procession to safer ground.

In old Fort Garry municipality named for an historic settlement, the Red took over.

It spread over most of a 1-1-2 square-mile area between the Pembina highway (now closed) and the river. It poured around the University of Manitoba buildings and swallowed pretty

1,000 Rural Evacuees, 50 Carloads Livestock Picked up by CNR Trains

Winnipeg, May 9. (CP)—More than 1,000 rural evacuees and 50 cars of livestock have been picked up by emergency trains operated by the Canadian National Railways since Sunday, a C.N.R. official said today.

This official said the emergency up by emergency trains operated in Silverton, 200 miles south of Winnipeg. The trains make stops at any spot along the line to pick up passengers.

"We're sending out two to three trains a day," said the official. "Each train has co-operated by broadcasts advising that a train is on the way out. We ask the people to get to the nearest dry place near the tracks. There are no regular stops—the train stops wherever there are people."

One such train took 13 hours to complete its journey to Silver Plains and back. It picked up 510 Winnipeggers and 15 cars of livestock.

RUSSIANS TIE COMMUNIST STRINGS TO OFFER

Berlin, May 9—(AP)— Russia says she will agree to a city-wide election in Berlin if allied troops withdraw from the city, but not to west Germany. There appears little chance the Soviet conditions will be accepted.

Along with four other demands published by the five east German communists the upper hand in the election, a Russian note Monday night proposed withdrawal of 4 occupation troops from the city. Russian troops would also have to move only to Berlin's outskirts. American, British and French soldiers would have to go to the Soviet zone border on Elbe River more than 100 miles to the west.

Guarded but cool first reactions to the Russian proposals were registered by two of the three western commandants as three weeks ago proposed in city-wide ballot.

Folks Way to Say No

Maj.-Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, the American occupation Chief here, said he found "little evidence of enthusiasm" in the Russian note. The British commandant, Major-General Sir Kenneth Bourne, gave the reply "a very roundabout way of saying 'no'".

The Russians demanded, in addition to the troop withdrawals:

1. Unification of the occupation law now in force in west Berlin under if the western powers give up their occupation zones self-government except in matters affecting the Soviet occupation.

2. Permission for all communist-occupation zones self-government except in matters affecting the Soviet occupation.

3. Abolition of sector boundaries.

4. Restoration by the western allies of voting privileges to formerr Nazis except those who lost the franchise because of conviction as war criminals.

Will Discuss Offer

In Paris State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States said before leaving for a plane flight that the Russian offer probably would be discussed at the Big Three Ministers conference in Whitehall.

The Russian demands, Acheson said, were a repetition of demands made a year ago by Soviet Minister Andrei Vishinsky of Russia "with some added trimming."

Bourne said the Soviet proposal said a high British official, would simply be an invitation for the communists to walk in and take over."

YOUTHS PLEAD GUILTY

Peterborough, May 9 (CP)— Two Peterborough youths, Clinton Stockdale, 19, and Roy Holt, 20, today pleaded guilty to charges of robbery with violence but were remanded for sentence when a companion Tod Boddy, 18, asked to be remanded for one week without going on the same charge.

Provincial Constable Arch Lowes, 16, reported to police Mar. 6 that he had been "taken for a ride" by the trio and robbed of $65, his wallet and a hunting knife.

The postponement is due, it is stated, to a 36-hour delay in ship arrival.

Boy Scouts Start Delivery Of 1,600 War Service Scrolls To Veterans in City, District

Commencing this evening 12 members of a local Boy Scout troop will start to deliver some 1,600 war service scrolls to veterans of the last war now living in the city and immediate district according to Alderman Everett Liddle.

Some weeks ago Alderman Liddle was authorized by city council to supervise the addressing and delivery of the scrolls to be awarded to each veteran from the city in recognition of his services with the armed forces. Approximately 100 of the scrolls have already been delivered and Scouts will deliver the remainder.

Originally it was intended to send the scrolls through the mail but in order to protect the scrolls it was found that cardboard stiffeners would be required for the envelopes. Rather than go to this trouble and expense it was decided to have the scrolls delivered by carrier.

Long weeks of checking for addresses were found necessary before the scrolls were ready for delivery and, it is still considered quite possible that a great many of the veterans who will be receiving the scrolls have changed their addresses since the original compilation.

In such cases Alderman Liddle appeals to householders now living at addresses formerly occupied by veterans wherever possible to acquaint the Boy Scout with the correct present address of the veterans.

Proposed High School Area Will be Discussed

Details regarding the formation of a proposed high school area in the Quinte district will be discussed this evening at a special meeting to be held in the library at the Belleville Collegiate. The meeting will get underway at eight o'clock and will be attended by members of the Belleville Board of Education and the South Hastings High School Board, as well as by municipal officials from Belleville and district.

Guest speaker for the meeting which is jointly sponsored by the Belleville Board of Education and the South Hastings H.S. Board will be Gordon L. Duffin, representative of the Ontario Department of Education. The two above education boards are in accordance with the formation of the Quinte District High School Area.

Invited to attend the meeting are members of Belleville city council, members of Hastings county council and township councils of Sidney, Thurlow, Tyendinaga and Ameliasburg. There will possibly also be representatives from the village of Frankford.

Rotarians Hear Address on Forest Conservation

The danger caused by carelessness by smokers and campers in the woods and resultant damage was the topic of an address and motion picture film presented to the Rotary Club of Belleville at its weekly luncheon at the Hotel Quinte yesterday by Mr. A. Dill, of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

Pointing out the serious losses caused by fire through campers and others leaving unextinguished cigarettes, cigars and camp fires, Mr. Dill said it was the duty of all to educate people as to the duty in observing fire-prevention rules.

The film was a highly educational one, showing the forest in all its beauty and also the damage caused by careless people. Damage alone is not confined to destruction of trees by fire but resulting soil erosion. Where majestic trees once stood nothing remains in some parts but earthly dunes. The government is doing its best to repair the damage through rehabilitation of the denuded earth and replanting of trees.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Gilbert Scott and club appreciation expressed by Rotarian Al. Davis.

Eight or nine Rotarians turned planters on Saturday, it was revealed and assisted in the planting of trees at the Moira Lake Boys' Camp under the supervision of Chairman Gilbert Scott.

The meeting next week will be held at the Belleville General Hospital where luncheon will be served. A special speaker will give the post-luncheon address.

Farmer With a Load of Logs Happy After Day of Barterng

Perhaps it's a sign of the times.

Perhaps the olden days when farmers took cattle and other produce to sources of revenue and returned with goods of another kind are being revived.

Perhaps it's a revival of the times when agricultural "David Harums" and "Lem" took it as a matter of fact, bartered their produce for those of a different nature. Maybe in these days when cash sometimes is not immediately available, the old-fashioned "swap and barter" method of transacting business is finding favor.

Here's the modern version of it.

Yesterday, Harry Brown residing at Carmel, took a load of logs to the sawmill.

The mill owner looked at the logs, said he could use them, but he had no available cash to pay for them.

The farmer contacted another mill owner. "I'll take the logs," he said, "but I'll pay for them in oats equivalent of cash".

The bargain was closed.

The farmer drove with his oats to a grist mill, got them ground for sale.

"I'll take the oats", said the miller, "but I'll have to give you the equivalent in cattle feed."

Now the farmer is happy. His cattle have extra feed, and saw mill has the logs, a miller has the oats, and apparently everybody is satisfied.

P. S.: The only person who was not reported in the various transactions was the banker.

Taxpayers Benefit By Extra Grants To School Areas

Examination of requisitions for school money which public school boards are submitting to local municipal councils would indicate that taxpayers in public school areas are benefiting by the extra grants, South Hastings Public School Inspector R. H. Macklem pointed out.

Mr. Macklem said that both the Sidney and Tyendinaga school areas will have a lower school rate this year. North Thurlow area will pay 5 mills more rate (4.6 mills) and the South Thurlow area will be increased slightly.

Further benefit to taxpayers benefit, Mr. Macklem pointed out, is offered by S. S. No. 7 Thurlow, which when part of the South Thurlow area had a mill rate of 6.8 but as a separate section will for this year, pay about 8.6 mills.

To meet the increased cost of education, the following sections have increased financial requisitions for 1950, S.S. No. 6 Thurlow (Cannifton); S.S. No. 8 Thurlow (Carmel); S.S. No. 11 Thurlow (Foxboro); S.S. No. 22 Thurlow (Point Anne); S.S. No. 6 (Marysville), and S.S. No. 15 Tyendinaga.

"In short," Mr. Macklem said, "of the 16 school sections or areas which have reported to date, nine are increasing their school tax rate this year, three are reducing it, and two are keeping it the same as last year."

It should be pointed out, he went on that if Sidney loses its area, it will also lose about $1,000 in grants probably necessitating an increase in tax rate next year.

No reports have been received to date from S.S. 12 Sidney; S.S. 5 and 23, Thurlow and S.S. 17 and 19, Tyendinaga.

Squires Hold Successful Dance

On Friday evening last the Columbian Squires St. Michael's Circle 418, held a successful dance in the auditorium of St. Michael's Academy.

Music was supplied by the top bands of the country through the medium of recordings.

Refreshments were served during the evening.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of the volleyball trophy, donated by Mr. E. Logan to the captain of the winning team, Harry Giddings. Presentation was made by Chief Counsel, Bob Young, who explained the idea of the trophy, known as the Angus McFee Trophy.

He also congratulated the captain and his team on the fine sportsmanship and team spirit that it took to win such a lovely trophy.

The captain of the team, Harry Giddings, expressed his thanks on behalf of himself and the team.

The trophy will remain in the home of the captain until next season when it will again be contested for through the volleyball schedule of the Squires.

After the presentation, dancing continued until twelve o'clock which heralded to a close another successful dance for the Columbian Squires.

Murray Davis Elected President Of Kinsmen Club

Members of the local club for the past three years and resident of the city since 1946, Mr. Murray Davis, local superintendent for Brewer's Warehousing Company Ltd., was named president of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville at their annual meeting and election held last evening.

Mr. Davis succeeds President Ernie Colebourne who has headed the club for the past year. Installation of new officers will take place until September.

Born in Northern Ontario mining town of Cobalt, son of Mrs. K. E. Davis and the late A. B. Davis, Murray was educated for entry into the mining business. However in 1940 he became associated with his present firm at Haileybury and two years later was moved to head office in Toronto as travelling auditor and supervisor. In 1946 he came to Belleville as supervisor of No. 6 district including the area from Gananoque to Oshawa.

Active Worker in Club

Since joining the Kinsmen Club early in 1947 he has proven an active worker for the club and has served on many committees. Currently he is chairman of the club's community swimming pool project.

The new club president is a member of the Masonic Order, having joined this lodge while at Haileybury. He is a member of the Moira Chapter No. 7 R. A. M. at Belleville, and of the Hugh Baldwin Preceptory No. 6 at Belleville. He is also a member of the Ramses Shrine, Toronto.

Mr. Davis is single and lives with his mother who is now residing in this city.

Executive members for the Kinsmen Club for the next year will be Murray Davis, Ross Bailey, Ted Pollwell, Walter Harden, Allan McDougall, James Walker, John Lennox and Ben Yannery. From the executive the club treasurer and secretary will be chosen.

Board Grants Wage Increase To H.S. Staff
Gananoque, May 9. (CP)—Board of Education Monday night decided to grant a $200 annual increase to members of the high school staff and ask for the withdrawal of resignations submitted by nine of the 11 members of the staff.
The teachers earlier had turned down an offer by the Board of an increase of $200 in salaries ranging up to $2,700 and a $100 increase up to $3,800. When the Board refused the teachers' request for a straight $200 increase they were advised by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation to resign.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, May 9 (CP) — Base Metals held firm in an otherwise declining market on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Activity boomed at the opening on signs of continuation of Monday's strong advance but slowed to a crawl as the session progressed and easier trends appeared.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,690,000 shares.

Industrials showed a handful of losses ranging from fractions to a full point. Profit-taking appeared soon after a strongerr opening and market leaders slipped quietly.

Low-priced gold stocks gain accounted for much of the turnover Lulama Mines continued the centre of attraction, turning over more than 400,000 shares in three hours for a moderate gain. A handful of leading junior producers showed gains ranging up to 15 cents while seniors held steady.

Consolidated Smeljers and Noranda added fractions to lead base metals against the trend. Sherritt Gordon and Golden Manitou showed gains.

Home oil slipped 1-4 at 15 1-4 and Imperial Petroleum lost 10 cents at $3.75 in a weakening western oil group.

Burrs.—Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Jac Bruining (nee Hemka Kuipel), who were married Sunday morning at the Christian Reformed Church, Bloomfield, Rev. G. Andre of Picton, officiated.

Monday evening a post nuptial reception was held for the happy couple at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Hageman, of Jericho St., with forty guests present.

The bride and groom were seated at a prettily decorated table where they received the gifts and congratulations of their friends.

Mr. N. Postma, of Huff's, was in charge. He addressed the bridal couple and welcomed the guests. The 150 Psalm was sung with Mrs. Andrej organ accompanist.

Interesting Program

An interesting and varied program of songs, readings, dialogues and games of a humorous nature, proved highly entertaining.

Mr. William Ross, at the organ, led in community singing and contributed a solo, Mrs. Hoeksema, in verse, sang the story of the groom's life, from his childhood in Holland, till now; Rev. and Mrs. Andre sang a hymn, Mrs. Postma and Mrs. Hoeksema, a duet; Mr. John Van Owern, a hymn, and Mr. and Mrs. Postma, a duet; readings were given by Mr. Fred Hageman, Mr. John Van Egmond, Master Jac Bruining and Mrs. A. Bruining.

Several young men presented dialogues and games.

A toast was drunk to the bride

Chinese Reds 'Release' Fliers Say They Made Confession

Tokyo, May 9. (AP)— The Chinese communists today broadcast they are releasing two American airmen from whom they extorted "spy confessions" after 18 months in prison.

The official Peiping radio said the two airmen, E. C. Bender and W. C. Smith, will be deported, It gave no details.

Marine Master Sgt. Elmer C. Bender, Cincinnati, and Navy Chief Electrician William C. Smith, Long Beach, Calif., were forced down Oct. 19, 1948, on a flight from Tsingtao, then a United States naval base.

They have been held incommunicado. The Reds stiffly rejected all efforts to obtain their release.

The communist radio broadcast this statement by Gen. Hsu Shih-yuh, commander of the Shantung military district:

"It was not until lately that Bender and Smith, influenced by our magnanimous policy toward prisoners, began to confess. . . "

The history of communism is full of similar "confessions", obtained after long imprisonment.

The broadcast gave this account:

Smith and Bender said the "objective of the flight was to reconnoiter the railways" in Red-held Shantung Peninsula and construction projects at Lai-Yang. Important Red base 72 miles north of Tsingtao.

On the way back, their plane "landed" shortly after midnight on Kiaochow (Kiaotung) Peninsula across the bay from Tsingtao. The plane carried "charts and various military maps. . . of the U.S. espionage organization".

"The facts and confession prove that the aim of the U.S. imperialist airplane flight was to invade our territorial air and with the purpose of carrying out planned military reconnaissance to help the anti-colonial war of the Kuomintang (Nationalist) brigands".

and groom in a choral number. A verse for each month of the year. Mrs. Hageman was assisted in serving by her daughter, Miss Agine Hageman and Miss Gilrtji Wiersema, of Trenton.

AWARDED $500 AND COSTS

London, Ont., May 9 — (CP)— Three Stratford citizens have been awarded $500 and costs in an out-of-court settlement of a supreme court lawsuit against Mr. and Mrs. Walter Marsh, of R. R. 1 Arva.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Gual and their daughter, Thelma, claimed $3,804.40 from the Arva couple over an accident between their car and the one driven by Mrs. Marsh on No. 4 highway Dec. 8, 1948.

Civic Employees Get 5c Wage Boost

Windsor, Ont., May 9 — (CP)— A five-cent-an-hour pay increase was granted to all city employees at a meeting of the board of control Monday night. The increase, which is subject to approval of city council, goes into effect Oct. 1. The board also tied the present cost-of-living bonus to the basic wages of city workers. The bonus has been paid into pension funds.

Total cost to the city for the balance of the year was estimated at $34,000. The cost of the increase next year was estimated at $116,000.

Energetic Club Visits Mexico By Colored Films

The regular meeting of the Energetic Club of Bellaway Street United Church was held last Friday.

The worship was conducted by the president and the theme was "Mother".

Several plans were discussed, one for a ball team and the other for the annual picnic. The meeting was then turned over to the group leaders, George and Viola Greatrix.

A piano solo and encore by Mr. Simpson were much enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Blackburn gave an interesting travelogue on Mexico. Their films showed "Mexico a land of extreme contrasts", with modern buildings alongside adobe huts; the oldest and largest cathedral, was also visited by picture trip and a bull fight, the floating gardens, which were built by the Indians. Many The meeting closed with wonderful things about Mexico freshments and the reading g were learned. —Tatler—

AFTER FIVE YEARS

Everyone in the United Nations world was happy at this time five years ago. It was this week in 1945 when Hitler's armed might folded up and it was then seen as just a matter of a few months before Japan would collapse and the greatest war in history would end. On May 8 the news of the end of German resistance was proclaimed in the Allied capitals, hostilities coming to an end at midnight.

If ever peoples in history were rejoiced and deeply grateful that the end of Germany's resistance and ability to defy the world had come, it was the Allied Powers which had come to see that the fight they had put up for so long at such sacrifice of wealth and human life and effort had won the victory.

In the five years since then the western world has had many new trials and experiences. It had visions of the ends of strife and of the differences of peoples appearing close at hand. What has happened since then in the world is seen in the cold war of today with its anxiety and the upset conditions of the world of trade which have come as a consequence.

However the western world of democracy has gone far. It has accomplished much for the nations of Europe which were sufferers as a result of the aggression of the Nazis. Today Western Germany furnishes hope that the years since 1945 have brought results which it is thought will assure the ultimate of understanding and co-operation.

The five years have been rich in experience. The Allied Powers have achieved much in the restoration of those parts of Europe which suffered so much as a result of the upheaval for which Hitlerism was to blame. The Marshall plan has accomplished a great deal and the western nations have a clearer view of their course in the years of peace with all the anxieties which have come out of the greatest war in history have given the democratic peoples courage and hope of success of the kind that will guarantee security for all. Trials have been great but the manner in which they have been met in courage and resolution gives hope for the future.

SCIENCE EXPLORES MEDITERRANEAN

What about the surface of the sea apart from the waves, is it flat? That question was asked on a BBC broadcast. Dr. Roger Revelle of Canada stated that that is not so. Because of the gravitational pull of large land masses the surface of the sea rises and falls in gentle undulations over great areas, and, owing to the pull of the Continents of Europe and America, the middle of the Atlantic is some hundred feet lower than other parts. This however would not be noticed if ships' navigators did not use the water surfaces as a horizon from which to take star sights when fixing position.

There will shortly leave Britain an expedition for Malta, the British submarine "Talent" being used to survey the floor of the Mediterranean. Measurements have to be exact to the smallest degree, which is why a submarine is used as it is impossible to measure with delicate instruments in a ship that is pitching and tossing. A submarine can escape the undulating movement of the waves by sinking several hundred feet below the surface of the sea. Special pendulums will take the measurements in one hundred and twenty places in the Mediterranean.

Near Cyprus the surface of the sea slopes enough to make the navigator's calculations wrong by more than half a mile. However when the expeditions has made all the gravity measurements scientists will know the exact distance of this slope and will be able to draw a completely accurate chart.

Geological interest in the expedition will be keen. It is proven by earthquakes that strong forces are still at work on the earth's crust in the Mediterranean region. Millions of years ago these forces may, it is thought, have been powerful enough to throw up mountains.

The world will now soon know the secret of what happened. It lies buried many fathoms below the clear blue sea but the use of pendulums it is expected will reveal the secret within a few months.

What once did happen has affected the whole course of history and civilization not only in the Mediterranean area but in the whole world as a consequence. The Mediterranean Sea has been one of the great waterways moulding the history of the world.

There is no man suddenly either excellently good or extremely wicked, but grows so, either as he holds himself up in virtue or lets himself slide in viciousness. — Sir Philip Sidney.

DESK AND THE STARS

My horoscope advises me:
"Today sidestep belligerency."
And that, from planets in the skies
Is counsel exxcellent and wise.
But what politely can I say
To her who cleared my desk today?

I'd like to heed the star's advice,
To smile and say "My desk looks nice,"
But what you thought a rubbish heap
Were papers that I wished to keep.
I think it kind of you to Such patient care for business

"It pleases me to know you must
Indulge my room to sweep and dust,
And I am very glad to see
My desk the way it ought to be,
But what you thought no more I'd need
Were writings I had kept to read."

Oh, wise astrologers who live
Good counsel on the way to give,
If you should find your desk top cleaned
Of all the useful charts you'd gleaned,
Could you, the planets to Sidestep belligerency today?

Last evening on the Pine Street school grounds the Queen Alexandra School team defeated the St. Michael's Academy team, the score being 15 to 7. Mullins, the pitcher for St. Michael's, did fine work and "Chuck" Jeffery, the pitcher for Queen Alexandra team, was in excellent form and struck out seven batters.

After a great deal of effort the Chamber of Commerce has succeeded in securing thirty-five bags of guaranteed seed potatoes, for farmers of the city who are planning to make home gardens this summer. All sections of the city and district seem to be drained of all reserve stock of seed potatoes and it was fortunate that the Chamber of Commerce here was able to get any potatoes at all. The price is $7.50 per bag and only one bag to a person.

Messrs. E. B. Morton, A. H. Morton, A. E. Osborne and D. Raymond of Tweed spent yesterday in the city.

On the Queen's Birthday there will be a parade in the morning, sports in the afternoon and fireworks in the evening. It will be a regular old time celebration.

Mr. George W. Pymer of Ameliasburg township, Prince Edward County, called at the office today an egg laid by a Barred Plymouth Rock hen, which measured eight inches by six and a quarter inches by and weighed three and seven eighths ounces.

Mr. J. E. Harrison of Bridgewater is a visitor in town.

Mr. James English of Madoc, ex-Warden of the County, was in town today.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

It is so little while ago that the wealth of Britain and each of individual Britons was part of the world's normal scenery.

We sometimes have to realize the staggering change that has overtaken us to appreciate the mind now and then: as a matter of weeks ago, when the news was first printed about the big-time British industrialists who were voted into exile by shunning their fellow directors. Both got lump sums of well into the hundreds of thousands of pounds. Sir Stafford Cripps, on learning of it, introduced a tax bill—and got through the Commons imposing a retroactive tax on the gentlemen, taking 95 per cent of their bonus, etc.

All over the earth, it is becoming harder and harder to amass wealth. Yet, from history, we find that the days of Julius Caesar and Pharaoh right up until the time of George V and President Hoover, the amassing of wealth by individuals has been the spur of all great adventure stories, and stories of riches acquired, have been, incidentally, the inspiration of generation upon generation across the whole of human history. But now, the United States and Canada and the South American republics appear to be about the last refuges where young couples can continue to dream of love plus a million dollars, in the old tradition. And even in this American land, the chill is falling on the dream of great wealth.

Soon there will be only love left for the young to dream of.

And for those of us past such foolishness, there will be only internal riches, of mind, and spirit. Already, the most cheerful among us appear to be those possessed of that sort of inherent wealth which even the state can't take off us.

Old Country Letter:

Coroners Have Rights Denied To Any Judge or Magistrate

By Don Gilbert
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, May 9—(CP)—One of the most controversial groups in British public life are the 230 coroners holding office in England and Wales.

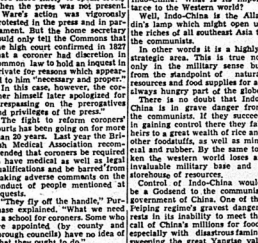
They are independent judicial officers, not answerable to any governmental department—and they seldom hesitate to assert their independence.

In the House of Commons last week, Home Secretary James Chuter Ede said their power "might advantageously be considered" by a committee now studying the parliamentary calendar crowded, he saw little chance of action "on this difficult and controversial question in the near future."

The office of coroner dates from the 12th century. While their powers have been steadily whittled down through the centuries, they still have rights denied to any judge or magistrate.

Hearsay Evidence

They can exclude the press or public from their courts, admit hearsay evidence of and allow questions based on suggestions of guilt which would be inadmissible in a judicial court. They can—and often do—send dispatching remarks about people not present in court.



The most recent flare-up was last month when Col. James Ware, a Yorkshire coroner, excluded the press from an inquest on a society woman found dead in her home. He explained that reporters were barred because relatives were more likely to speak freely when the press was not present. Ware's action was vigorously protested in the press and in parliament. But the home secretary could only tell the Commons that the high court confirmed in 1877 that a coroner had discretion in common law to hold an inquest in private for reasons which appeared to him "necessary and proper."

In this case, however, the coroner himself later apologized for overstepping on the prerogatives and privileges of the press.

The fight to reform coroners' courts has been going on for more than 20 years. Last year the British Medical Association recommended that coroners be required to have medical as well as legal qualifications and be barred from making adverse comments on the conduct of people mentioned at inquests.

"They fly off the handle," Purchase explained. "What we need is a school for coroners. Some who are appointed (by county and borough councils) have no idea of what they ought to do."

Mackenzie's Column:

Strategic Value Of Indo-China Realized by West

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

One of the most important (and delicate) problems for solution in the United States-British-French conferences in Paris Monday with Secretary Dean Acheson and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France has involved France's request for aid in fighting communism in French Indo-China. Mr. Acheson already has provided at least a partial answer.

The United States secretary announced at the end of his conference with Schuman that American military and economic aid will be sent to French Indo-China immediately. The bulk of $75,000,000 already appropriated by Congress to Indo-China will go to the far east will go to Indo-China.

Diplomatic sources in Paris say that in return for this aid the U. S. wanted, and received, a guarantee a greater independence for Indo-China. Schuman promised that "commonwealth relations" would be established.

An Alladin's Lamp

But why all this bother about Indo-China? What is its importance to the Western world?

Well, Indo-China is the Alladin's lamp which might open up the riches of all southeast Asia to the communists.

In other words it is a highly-strategic area. The issue does not only in the military sense but from the standpoint of natural resources and food supplies for an always hungry part of the globe.

Militarily the importance of Indo-China is in grave danger from the communists. If they succeed in gaining control there they fall heirs to a great wealth of rice and other foodstuffs as well as minerals and rubber. By the same token the western world loses an invaluable military base and a storehouse of resources.

Moreover, Indo-China would be a Godsend to the communist movement of China. One of Red Peiping regime's gravest dangers rests in its inability to feed its people. Millions for food, especially with disastrous famine sweeping over the country as we say threatening the lives of some 30,000,000 people, many of them are reported to be subsisting on grass roots and bark.

But that's not the whole story. With Indo-China in their hands, the communists would be in a much better position to take over other southeastern countries which in turn possess vast natural wealth and produce great quantities of foodstuffs.

FormerGasMaster Of Nazi Camp Will be Executed

Berlin, May 9 — (Reuters) — A West Berlin court Monday sentenced to death Erich Bauer, former "gas master" of the Nazi concentration camp at Sobibor, Poland, who on one occasion gassed 300 Jewish girls in a special "performance" for Gestapo chief Heinrich Himmler. Bauer, 50, found guilty of crimes against humanity, was said to have participated in the killing of at least 200,000 Jews.

SANER VIEW OF ALCOHOLISM

Speaking for myself writes a member of Alcoholics Anonymous, I doubt very much that I would have been willing to admit that I was an alcoholic had I been told I was a moral weakling rather than a very sick person who could arrest my illness by simply staying away from the first drink.

When a man or woman through fear, escape, frustration or various other factors, continues the correspondent, goes over the borderline of heavy drinking to compulsive excessive drinking which is called alcoholism, getting well by himself or herself is in most cases an impossibility. When this condition is reached the man or woman is truly in the throes of an illness, which in our opinion can be both physical and mental.

In telling a person who comes to us for help, continues the member of A.A., that he or she is first, suffering from an illness, and second that something must be done about it if he or she so desires, we put the person in a frame of mind which makes him or her ready to accept the program of Alcoholics Anonymous which is laid out in the 12 steps. (For the 12 steps any reader can write Alcoholics Anonymous, P.O. Box 459, Grand Central Annex, New York 17, N.Y.)

You are so right, Dr. Brady, in saying that the cure of alcoholics behavior is immature, infantile and neurotic. But in the process of growth which is made possible through the A.A. program, one's set of values is bound to change. I personally have seen in hundreds of cases, a growth in maturity, integrity and emotional maturity in the newly integrated personality which has been developed by men living along the lines suggested so far in the program of recovery. (Anonymous by request.)

And you are so right when you say that, my friend, I have seen that, same development of a newly integrated personality in members who kindly, patient care of members of Alcoholics Anonymous and Mrs. Acheson already has provided at least a partial answer.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

CHRISTIANITY MAKES A DIFFERENCE

A middle-aged man who in his youth had spent considerable time in China told a story recently which illustrates the difference which Christianity makes on the moral standards and sentiments of a nation.

It seems that this man in his youth went by ship from one Chinese port to another. As the boat entered the port which was to be his destination, a number of people who wanted to get on the boat and make sure they got good seats as the voyage continued, came alongside the steamer in little sand boats. The swell from the propeller of the steamer caused one of these boats to lurch, and five Chinese were thrown into the water. No one paid the least attention to these poor folk or heeded their cries for help. They drowned, all of them, before the eyes of hundreds who were watching.

Think of what would happen if anyone were overboard in an American, Canadian, or European harbor. Everything possible would be done to effect rescue. Why? Because the people who live in the Occident have for 2000 years been under Christian influence. And even among those who have repudiated Christian beliefs, the vestigial remains of mercy and human sympathy are still in their hearts and lives.

Two thousand years of Christianity has really made a difference.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON SEEING THINGS BEAUTIFULLY

George Bellows, a great painter, said of Robert Henri that he was "a man without small talk." So it is that in the book that was published after his death, those things that came to him while teaching pupils in his art classes, left their thoughts alive. Here is one: "When you saw the thing and it looked beautiful to you, you saw it beautifully. Make it as it looked then."

Very often we see many things—many things that are beautiful in themselves. But how often, I am sure, we see them without thinking of the beauty of them at that very time. For at different times beauty is different. We are impressed more at one time than another. Sometimes we are moved to bring in beauty more at one time than another. There is not the same thing of beauty always attracts us.

Look upon this budding Springtime of ours, but not all people look upon it as something miraculously beautiful. They look upon it as just something usual and expected. By seeing it as something beautiful, our entire nature is stimulated, and we are impressed more with the skill of the Creator of it all. We think of the purpose behind this wonderful world of nature. We give silent praise.

We stand of admiration and love for beautiful things, our hearts

East Belleville School Issue Again Discussed by Council

An accusation of inconsistency on the part of Mayor Jack Allin with respect to reported action in connection with the proposed new school for East Belleville was heard at city council Monday evening.

Alderman Dr. R. T. Potter brought the matter up when he charged that Mayor Allin at committee meeting last Thursday evening had intimated that he was to attend a meeting with the Board of Education and also that the mayor had suggested that differences between council and the board with respect to the school would soon be cleared up.

"I understood you to say that you had been asked to attend a meeting of the Board of Education and that you expected the entire matter would soon be under control," the Alderman told the Mayor.

"Since that time I have contacted several members of the board and find that no such meeting is planned."

Offered to Meet Board

"You must have misunderstood me," returned Mayor Allin, "what I said was that I had offered to meet with the board to see if our difficulties could be ironed out. The Board has not contacted me with respect to attending any meeting and I cannot barge in."

Alderman Potter again rose to say that the differences between council and the Board of Education with respect to the new school were now no nearer settlement than they were six weeks ago. Mayor Allin, however, said he "believed" a motion would be going in at the next meeting of the Board to clarify the entire matter.

High School Area Discussed

The proposed Quinte District High School area was brought up with Alderman Harold Armstrong asking how the local collegiate would be affected if the area were not set up and the county built a high school at once. He suggested that in this case some of the rooms at the local collegiate may be vacant.

Mayor Allin replied there would be a meeting held tonight to discuss the setting up of a high school area and that all councillors should make it a point to attend. He suggested there be no discussion on the matter until after Tuesday's meeting, but noted that it would be council which would decide whether or not the city entered into the high school area.

Council agreed to pay half the cost of new lockers to be installed at the police station now undergoing renovations. The other half of the locker cost will be paid from the police commission budget.

Kaiffy Recommendation

Council ratified Thursday evening's committee recommendation allowing city employees who are members of the Reserve Army to attend summer camp for a period not exceeding 14 days. In the case of employees going to camp the city will consider time spent at camp as part or regular holidays insofar as holiday pay is concerned.

Alderman Duffy in drafting the recommendation pointed out that it was the duty of the city to lead the way in encouraging men to belong to the Reserve Army.

Salary of welfare administrator George A. Whitman was increased to $3,000 the increase to be retroactive to January 1st.

Petition Received

A petition of Lingham Street residents protesting against the condition of garages forming the back part of lots on Chatham St. facing Lotz street, was read in council. It was claimed these garages were gradually becoming shabbier and were deteriorating the property values on Lingham Street. The matter was turned over to Alderman Potter.

Council approval was given to the running of a summer water line to the city dump, the line to be used as fire protection.

Alderman Duffy reported that firemen were being called upon to spend an increasing amount of time fighting fire at the city dump. He claimed these fires were being deliberately set by certain persons for their own particular reason. They created little fire hazard but the smoke nuisance was objectionable. It was suggested that the maintenance man at the city dump be made responsible for extinguishing fires.

Park in Churchill Heights

On question by Alderman Duffy assurance was given that a playground park was being established in the Churchill Heights district. Alderman Potter stated that the playground committee consisting of representatives from council, the parks board and the Board of Education had decided on three senior and seven junior playgrounds. One of the junior playgrounds would be in Churchill Heights. The committee were not attempting to raise money to provide for supervision of the parks, he said.

Replying to an enquiry by Mayor Allin with respect to complaints of dusty streets, Alderman Thomas said that street oiling would get underway today (Tuesday).

Two Notices of Motions

Two notices of motion were introduced, one by Ald. Argue, asking that council concur in the recommendation of the police that local poolrooms be closed on statutory holidays. The other notice of motion was by Alderman Hyde asking that council accede to the request of the Board of Education for issuing of debentures up to $295,000 for financing the proposed new school in East Belleville.

LIKE A BIRD

Leo Valentin, known as the "bird man," is shown in flight after jumping from a plane at an altitude of 12,000-feet at Meaux, France. When he had glided down to 1,500 feet, he folded his wings and completed his trip by parachute. — Central Press Canadian.

PICTON

Council Accepts Resignations With Regret

Picton— Resignation of Town Clerk F. L. Ward, K.C., came as a surprise at the special meeting of town council called to discuss business remaining from the regular session. A letter from Mr. Ward gave formal notice of his resignation, effective immediately. He gave as reasons the pressure of a busy law practice, and from the standpoint of health and personal matters.

The resignation of his secretary, Miss Vera Miller, as deputy clerk was also received. Both were accepted with regret.

Clerk Since 1934

Mr. Ward has been town solicitor for 30 years and town clerk since 1936.

C. G. Rutter was named clerk pro tem, the office to be advertised.

F. E. Nourse was appointed solicitor.

C. G. Rutter is treasurer and his salary was increased by $300 to $1500 per year.

Council moved to change parking regulations on Main Street, subject to approval of the Department of Highways. These call for 30 degree angle parking on the north side, between Paul Street and Downs Ave., and parallel parking on the south side.

Install Meters

Council authorized execution of a contract to install parking meters in the same area on Main Street, on a one-year trial basis. The installation will not proceed until the new parking by-law is approved by the department.

Council decided to improve nineteen of the main travelled streets in the town. Crushed gravel as necessary plus the application of a penetration coat of oil primer, and a sand seal coat on top, will be applied. Balance of the streets will be conditioned, including application of calcium chloride. Paving will begin next year after all laterals, arising from the installation of the new sewerage system, have been installed.

The Department of National Defence is to be notified that the lot adjacent to the armouries is again desired as a public playground and parking area.

The system of sewers is to be extended to several areas at a cost of $896.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS LOWER

Toronto, May 8. (CP)—Death toll from Ontario traffic accidents was lower last month than in any April since the end of the war. Reports showed 35 traffic fatalities for April as against 69 in the same month last year.

English-Speaking Jews in Israel To Blaze New Trail

Tel Aviv, Israel, May 9 —(AP) —Like hardy pioneers, young English-speaking Jews from four continents are coming to Israel to blaze a trail to a new and better life.

Twelve hundred already have flocked into this little Jewish state from the United Kingdom. Nearly 500 have arrived from the United States and Canada. About 400 have come from South Africa and Australia.

More are on the way. Those are Jews who think they'll be able to carve out a happier life in Israel. They burn with an intense desire to lend their hand in making strong the homeland reborn after 2,000 years.

7 Most of them have not been disappointed, but a few have, mostly older Jews who have found it difficult to hold onto a regular job.

Most of the English-speaking immigrants are members of the Zionist Youth Movement. There are a number of volunteers from Anglo-Saxon countries who came here to fight for Israel during the war with the Arabs — and decided to stay after it was all over.

The English-speaking Jews are concentrated in the northern part of Israel.

There it's not hard to find a "Little America," or a "Little England." There's still much English spoken, although the Jewish pioneers have quickly caught on to Hebrew.

In hilly and stony regions, the North American trail blazers are trying to cultivate the land the way it would be done on farms back home.

Immigration officials admit there are isolated cases where some people have returned to the countries they left, claiming they could not find regular employment here.

The English-speaking immigrants usually are optimistic about Israel's austerity and say things will be better. A typical comment is: "Anyway, it's nice to be in your own homeland, and this is it."

Brake Testing Device Will Be Used by Police

Ontario Intelligencer April 30th, 1930

Traffic officers stationed at the Belleville headquarters of the Ontario Provincial Police will shortly commence a campaign to check motor vehicles for bad brakes, faulty steering gear, defective lights, and other equipment as necessary for the safe operation of cars, local police headquarters have equipped with a brake testing device which can be attached to any car in a matter of seconds for testing the brakes efficiency of braking and the percentage of braking efficiency. The officers will be able to tell at a glance by the dial on the car the condition of brakes on the car under test.

WEDDINGS

RUTTER—COUSENS

Picton,—St. George's Anglican Church in Georgetown was the scene of a lovely wedding at 3 p.m., Saturday afternoon, May 6, when Pamela Helen Margaret Cousens, Reg.N., daughter of Lt.-Col. and Mrs. Gordon Cousens, of Georgetown, became the bride of Edward Sinclair (Ted), son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rutter, of Bloomfield.

White snapdragons decorated the altar. Archdeacon Thompson was the officiating clergyman.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride made a lovely picture in her wedding gown of white satin made with a long train, the skirt being caught at intervals with sprays of lily-of-the-valley. Chantilly lace edged the neck and wrists. Her long veil fell from a coronet headdress, and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Pretty Flower Girl

Miss Gaile Ellis, of Wellington, niece of the groom, made a pretty flower girl. Her gown of white satin was caught with sprays of lily-of-the-valley. She wore a poke bonnet of white satin and carried a basket of yellow roses.

Miss Gladys Kirkpatrick was maid of honor and Miss Joyce Dessureault and Mrs. Stanley Mountain, bridesmaids. Their matching gowns were of white satin made with full skirts, sweetheart necklines and cap sleeves. Their headdresses were of matching ice-blue satin and they carried semi-cascades of pink carnations.

Clifford Rutter was his brother's groomsman.

Mrs. Bradley played the wedding music and Mrs. P. B. Howell was soloist.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Cousens chose a smart navy and white suit with navy and white accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

The groom's mother wore a powder blue suit with navy and white accessories and corsage of Talisman roses. The toast table was centred with the wedding cake, with pink and white tapers, and a white bell from which pink and white streamers were suspended.

For travelling, the bride donned a grey blue tailored suit with navy and grey accessories and corsage of pink carnations. They will reside in Picton.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rutter, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rutter, Mrs. W. Watson, Leon Rutter, Picton; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ellis and Galle, of Wellington; Leo Rutter, of Kingston.

Women's Catholic League Holds Membership Tea

A charming membership tea was held on Sunday in the auditorium of St. Michael's Academy by the Catholic Women's League.

The president, Mrs. Bourke and Mrs. L. Callaghan welcomed the many guests at the door.

The damask-covered tea table was a symphony of green and yellow with its beautiful angel cake, whose mounds of pale green frosting gleamed with silver points. Flanking this were silver candlesticks with tall yellow candles, and silver services, and round about the room in various places were lovely bouquets of yellow daffodils.

Miss Woodcock presented to each arriving guest a tiny ticket bearing a number, the lucky number would give the bearer the piece of perfection, the gleaming angel cake which had been donated by Mrs. M. Fitzpatrick.

The tea hostesses were Mrs. E. Finkle, Mrs. M. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. G. Donaghue, Mrs. V. McIntyre, Mrs. M. Hudon. Those who poured tea, Mrs. J. Callagher, Mrs. O'Connor, Mrs. W. Graham, Mrs. A. Whalen, Mrs. McHugh and Mrs. Vinkle.

Those who assisted in serving were: Mrs. Anton, Mrs. P. Maund, Mrs. M. J. Kennedy, Mrs. A. Black, Mrs. E. Cowan, Mrs. W. Rupert, Mrs. Collier, Mrs. Quinn, Mrs. Haley, Mrs. Westfall, Mrs. Feeney, Mrs. Carr-Brant, Mrs. M. Black, Mrs. W. Harris, Mrs. T. Morrell and Mrs. Connell.

During the afternoon prizes for the marathon bridge and euchre parties which had continued from Christmas to Easter were presented.

Mrs. W. Grant favored at intervals with some fine musical selections.

The winner of the angel cake was Mrs. F. Maund, Mrs. M. Boyd and Mrs. B. Burley received the dues.

Parent-Teacher Association Of St. Michael's Academy Sponsors Successful Fair

Last night the erstwhile quiet halls of St. Michael's Academy rang with the happy laughter of thronging children, the subdued murmur of those who bought and sold, while over all, wafted the faint aroma of newly brewed tea and the spicy fragrance of home cooking. This was the First Spring Fair held under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association, which proved a highly successful event.

Along the spacious hall or corridor the various booths were arranged, each prettily decorated with soft tints of spring, and displaying their tempting merchandise. At the far end, by the auditor, a commodious section had been segregated by means of a simulated arbor, over whose facade ran a riot of pink and white apple blossoms, and on either side of the arched opening were tall standards of graceful ferns, and baskets of pastel tinted tulips intermingled with sprays of soft green and snow-white. Lovely Tea Table

The lovely flower-laden arch-way could be seen the lovely tea table with lace cloth, hand crocheted, centred with a silver rose bowl of charmingly arranged daffodils, rose-coloured lustre and misty gypsophelia. On either side of this were tri-branched silver candelabra with tall pale yellow tapers, and the gleaming silver services prettified every front by 5 by N.'s. Leo Callaghan and Mrs. Bruyere; from 8 to 9 by Mrs. T. J. Fluery, and Mrs. H. C. Bowen-Davies and from 9 to 10 by Mrs. F. R. Meadows, and Mrs. J. Callaghan, just inside the open arch sat the treasurer, Mrs. W. J. Grant. The convener of the tea table was Mrs. J. Howe. Those who served were Mrs. Ross Bonisteel, Mrs. Johnson with their assistants, and in the kitchen, Mrs. O'Connor Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. H. Lovelace, Mrs. Richards and their assistants. During the hours, music music was provided by the Hammond electric organ with Sister Bibiana, Mr. Ralph Beasley, and Mr. Raphael Rashotte, as organists.

The first mart of trade to be encountered on entering tee south door was that of the candy booth, where one might purchase dainty guest towels, pretty crocheted doilies, tea and utility aprons of many hues, designs and materials; crocheted baby and kiddies' caps pink; little white bootees; hot mats; ornamental pot holders; cozee dogs, tan or black, as the fancy dictated; knit wash cloths, and a number of household necessities.

Cup and Saucer Booth

Adjacent to this table was one displaying pretty cups and saucers of many shapes, decorations and in plain yellow, gold edged, while others were of floral patterns. These two tables were under the supervision of Mrs. M. Ryan with her co-workers, Mrs. J. McGuire, Mrs. St. Langton, and Mrs. J. Hughes. Just beyond was a tiny table on whose top was the loveliest little yellow dress with dainty smocking in blending threads. This would go to the holder of the lucky ticket and was under the watchful eyes of Mrs. Helen Paterson, and Mrs. Bud Haines.

The draw table was one which drew many hopeful gazers; for here was on view the several splendid articles which would go to those holding lucky tickets. Displayed were the "musts" of any modern home in miniature, a pop-up toaster; a silver service of flatware, in the pattern of the "Evening Star"; an electric kettle; a maroon alligator piece of luggage, just the thing for the summer two-weeks vacation; a bedroom radio in ivory color; and a host of fine, heavy aluminum ware. Convening this were Mrs. J. Gallagher, and Mrs. W. Graham. Over this booth, along the wall, ran green ribbon with bow doxes of lovely tinted tulips so real one had to look closely to discern the difference. These were the work of the younger children.

Lovely Candy Table

Across the corridor was the candy table, lovely in its red valance with white rope-like garlands looped gracefully across the entire length. At every ladent of the loop was hung a basket of tassel of white. Here were the dainty 'sweetles', creams, some plain, some rich with nutmeats chocolate fudge; cocoanut drips; tiny molasses suckers; bones and tiny bags of cellophane filled to bursting. All tempting, and soon disappearing. Mrs. T. Morrell, Mrs. W. J. Rupert; Mrs. T. Mascaro; Mrs. J. McCreary; Mrs. W. MacDonald and Mrs. Allan Meagher, the latter having recently saw small leisure from the continual wrapping and making change process.

The home cooking was presided over by Mrs. E. Lally; and her assistants Mrs. J. Trudeau, Mrs. Angus McFee, and Mrs. Leo Quinn. This was contained in a room allotted to the dainty confections, whose delicate fragrance lured one on, but to get a glimpse because of the throng, was something yet again. However through tiny spaces when one customer passed away with her purchase, could be seen cookies, pies, fruit cakes, angel cakes, maple leaf and chocolate cakes, white cakes, looking like snowbanks with their icing of cocoanut, and many other varieties.

Down stairs, was a fine display of handcraft made by the boys; under the supervision of Mr. J. J. Doran; this comprised leather work, including slippers, and purses, sheet metal work such as waste paper baskets, and dust pans; and the wood work which included cabinets, bedside tables, laminated table lamps, having attractively moulded pedestals; step ladders; what-not brackets, broom holders, model aeroplane, and lawnmower stands. All were exceptionally well done, and worthy of high praise.

Model Kitchen Shown

The home economics department was a most outstanding exhibit, showing a model kitchen, complete in every detail, where the girls are taught the art of home making, with all its many ramifications, cooking, sewing, ironing, fancy work, which included delightful samples of cross-stitch, and open and closed embroidery; sewing, and knitting, shell work, mending of rugs, both braided and luffed. The atmosphere in the home economics department is made to resemble the ordinary home, as closely as possible. The girls are taught to entertain graciously as well as to prepare appetizing meals, and the keeping of the home in all its various aspects.

Shell work, there were not overlooked: upstairs, in the auditorium a colored film, entitled "The Old Family at Home" was being shown to a full house of eager faces. The lovely colors in "The Swanee River", "My Old Kentucky Home" were enjoyed by old as well as the young. In charge of the film was Sister Mary Verdi and Mr. C. Callaghan. Following the third showing of the film, it was then turned on, and the older children enjoyed dancing.

Cream Provided

That never-grow-old fish pond had also been provided, but like all well-known streams where the finny tribe disport themselves, it was the exception of its piscatorial prizes. Ice cream had been provided, free of charge, and so too, soon become but a sweet memory.

A delightfully arranged 'Spring Party' Music was in charge of the convener, Mrs. F. Cushing and to all who so shly and as painstakingly assisted in bringing it to such a successful conclusion.

The winners of the "draw table" of household gadgets were: Mrs. Fred Silver, Mrs. C. Mayle; Mixmaster, Mrs. Peter Melchior; tea service, Mrs. William Doran; radio, Mr. Arthur Whalen; toaster, Mr. J. De Genova; electric kettle, Mr. Joe Bolyea; set of dishes and aluminumware, Miss E. Bawden; little yellow dress, Mrs. J. Hogan; luggage, Mr. H. Brooks; door prizes, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. John Morgan.

GETS GOOD ADVICE

After I was married, my grandmother said, "Everyone's giving you lots of advice, but you may not have told you how to keep a man's shirt sparkling white. All that is needed is a swish of Reckitt's Blue in the rinse—and that goes for all white clothes. Reckitt's Blue prevents clothes turning yellow—gives a snowy white wash every time without using anything that may damage fabric." Trust Granny to give me advice worth remembering.

Unveil Portrait Of W.I. Founder

Ottawa, May 9. (CP)— Members of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, the world-wide organization which got its start in Canada, paid tribute to the association's founder at a ceremony here Monday.

The occasion was the unveiling of a portrait of the late Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless, founder of the F.W.I. at Stoney Creek, Ont., in 1897. The picture will hang in the Dominion Archives.

Some 600 Ontario W.I. members attended the ceremony together with representatives of the Associated Country Women of the World, which grew out of the affiliated Institute movement and now has a membership of 6,000,000 in 25 countries around the world.

Special speaker at the meeting was Mrs. Raymond Sayre of Ackworth, Iowa, World President of the A.C.W.W. who said the greatest potential power of institutes and sister organizations in other nations is in helping raise the standard of living of country women throughout the world.

"For the first time in the history of the world, the country woman's voice is being heard in international organizations," said Mrs. Sayre. "The A.C.W.W. (and the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada as a member of A.C.W.W.) has a voice in several United Nations organizations."

Prime Minister St. Laurent also spoke at the meeting, pointing to Mrs. Hoodless as "a distinguished Canadian whom we are all proud to honor."

Pointing out that Canadian women are taking a greater interest in affairs of country, the Prime Minister said "their views not only are worthy of consideration but often have considerable weight."

I am sure that if the women of all nations could impress their views on their governments as the women of Canada impress their views on the Canadian government, it would be a happier world."

Senator Wilson Chosen Mother Of the Year

Ottawa, May 9 (CP)— Prolonged desk-thumping broke out in the Senate Monday night as a compliment to Senator Cairine Reay Wilson, chosen Canada's Mother of the Year.

Senator Wilson's Robertson, government leader in the Chamber, started the desk-thumping rolling when he rose to call the Senators' attention to the award.

Mother of eight children and seven grandchildren, Senator Wilson, an Ontario Liberal from Ottawa, blushed profusely and said she only hoped that she can be worthy of the award.

She was chosen for the honor by the National Council of Women and will receive a gold pin from the American Mothers' Committee of New York which this year plans to make awards to mothers from each of the 53 United Nations.

A Product of General Foods

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature
about Food . . . What's Cooking?
By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

Do you eat sauces with your fingers crossed?

There are good reasons why one can regard sauces with suspicion. If you eat in restaurants you are probably aware of how often sauces are used to disguise or cover up weak flavors or stale food, how often they are used to stretch miserly portions, how often they are lumpy, floury or greasy.

If fine restaurants, the opposite is true. Good sauces are light without being watery, gloosy not dull in appearance, always smooth and always used to enhance the food with which they are served.

Sauces are good servants. Here's a raisin sauce with ham should improve, not mask, the flavor of the ham; a tomato sauce with veal should bring out the mild, delicate meat flavor.

With the use of bouillon cubes or powder, meat extracts or canned unfiltered consommé, it is possible to make a smooth brown sauce in 10 or 15 minutes. Brown sauces are particularly useful in serving leftover meats. If you happen to have left over pan gravy, this can be combined with any additional brown sauce you have made.

The colored sliced tongue will make hot open tongue sandwiches with raisin sauce. Omit the raisins, if you wish, and serve this same brown sauce with any open sandwich made of any other sliced cooked meat.

Hot Open Tongue Sandwiches, Raisin Sauce—Serves 4.

In a small saucepan heat 1 can undiluted consomme, 1-4 cup tomato juice and 1-4 cup water. Liquid should be hot but not boiling.

In another saucepan melt 2 tablespoons butter, margarine or vegetable fat. Add 2 tablespoons onion chopped fine and 2 tablespoons celery chopped fine. Simmer slowly until onions turn light brown.

Remove sauce pan with vegetables from fire. Add 2 tablespoons flour, mixing well. Gradually add the hot liquid stirring constantly.

Return saucepan to flame. Bring to a boil then simmer slowly 10 minutes. Add 1-4 teaspoon brown gravy color, or more if a deeper color is wanted. Add 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Strain sauce. Add 1-4 cup raisins. If raisins are very dry, soak in hot water 10 minutes, then drain, and add to sauce.

Place 1-2 pound sliced smoked beef tongue in sauce and heat a few minutes. Place 2 slices of bread on each serving plate. Arrange hot tongue on bread. Pour raisin sauce over tongue.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beekman

There should be at least one usher

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

1. At our church wedding we are having as attendants only a maid of honor and the best man. No bridesmaids. No ushers. Since there will not be any ushers, should it be proper to have white satin ribbon tied on the pews where the guests are to sit? If so, then they would know they are supposed to go into those seats?

2. The reception will be at a hotel. There will be places for six at the head table; then there will be two tables down each side of this table. At the reception, besides bride and groom and the two attendants, will be: the bride's mother, groom's mother; members of the bride's family (some married), members of the groom's family (some married), and several private friends of the bride and groom.

3. I would like to have place cards, so that I could have the guests intermingled, and in order to avoid confusion when they are being seated at the table. Would this be proper?

4. When the ceremony is over and the wedding party are at the photographer's, do the bride's mother and the groom's mother go immediately to the hotel to receive the guests or are the guests received after the bride and groom arrive back at the hotel?

Bea

1. Why not have at least one or two ushers to seat the guests, as is the proper and practical procedure? If for any reason you do not wish to have them take part in the processional, that will be all right, but it is awkward for wedding guests not to be directed and escorted to their seats. However, if you insist on not having at least one usher, inform the guests beforehand where they are supposed to sit in the church.

2. At the head table, the bride's table; you and the groom sit side by side, you at the right of the groom; at your right, the best man; at the groom's left, the maid of honor. If you have two ushers, they would sit at this table; otherwise, there should be only four places. Your mother, the hostess, might sit in the middle place of one of the side-tables, at her right the man who is the groom's nearest male relative. At the middle place of the table opposite would be the bride's nearest male relative, at his right the groom's mother, who is the woman guest of honor. The other guests would be seated according to personality, as at any dinner party, no husband and wife seated side by side.

3. Yes . . . proper, practical, unobtrusive. Why not have the above-mentioned wedding place cards, very tasteful.

4. For greater convenience and to save time, you should have the photographer arrive with his equipment to the hotel to take the photographs. Then everyone goes immediately to the hotel, the photographs are taken with proper speed, and the receiving-line is immediately formed.

Only friends should give bridal showers

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

Is it proper for either the bride's sister-in-law or the groom's sister-in-law to give a bridal shower? A friend and I are having quite a disagreement about this, because she wishes to give a shower for her sister-in-law . . . the finance's sister-in-law has already given a shower.

R. G.

It isn't considered good taste for a member of the family of the prospective bride or groom to give a bridal shower. Obviously it isn't good taste to give a party that "asks for" gifts for a relative . . . even an in-law of such close relationship. Really only friends should give bridal showers.

MILLION DOLLAR FIRE

New York, May 9 — (AP) — A spring gale drove a $1,000,000 fire down Jamaica Bay's four-mile wooden rail trestle Sunday night and early today and burned out a 2,500-foot gap in the mid-section.

The long, low span is the Long Island Railroad's main link between the New York City mainland in Queens and the Rockaway sections along the Atlantic Ocean.

SUMMER HATS, as filmy and diaphanous as Summer frocks, add to the charm of the season. Madame Aranka does this type of hat beautifully, as witness this pretty design. Natural lace straw is used for the graceful picture breton, with snowy velvet ribbon for the piping and the draped crown band. It is accented with white feather tangs on a white velvet pompom.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Get busy, girls, and plan your own fun

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We are two 16-year-old girls who have known a group of boys ever since we were very young.

Now we would like to go on dates with them, but they consider us just "members of the gang". Every Friday we all go to the movies, they never ask us to go with them but say that they will meet us inside. Saturday nights we all sit in the corner drug store just wasting time. Then everyone goes home after a dull evening.

The boys have money to spend but never use it. Do you think we should ignore them? This would be hard because no other boys interest us. Please suggest something.

Two Worried Girls

Dear Girls:

Haven't you got the initiative and imagination to think up something better to do on a Saturday evening than sit in a drug store? What's the matter with meeting at one of your homes for an evening of good games, ending up with dancing to the radio? Surely that would be more fun than what you do now.

My first suggestion would be that you plan ahead a series of Saturday evening get-togethers of this kind, interesting enough of your friends so that you would have a different place to hold the party each time.

My second suggestion is that you see if you can't start some kind of a hobby club to which you could all belong. Perhaps you know some older person who is a good amateur photographer, or somebody else who is good at some kind of handicraft. Then ask if one or the other of these people won't take on a group of you once every two weeks, or even once a month, so that you could all enjoy the same hobby together.

You live in a big city where there should be plenty of opportunities for young people to do things. If you can't think of good ideas yourself, go to the YWCA, or to some teacher in your school, and ask for suggestions. If even three or four of you make a start along these lines, you will find your friends will want to have a part in it, too. It wouldn't be at all surprising if the boys suddenly developed a lot more respect for you and even wanted to make social dates with you if you were to show this kind of initiative.

Childish behavior never gets girl anywhere

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A fellow with whom I had been going for seven months admitted he had been seeing another girl and, though I loved him very much, I didn't mind.

Then one night I saw him with the girl and couldn't stand it. I was very foolish and wrote the girl a nasty letter.

Next night he came over to see me and told me what he thought of the letter. He said he never wanted to see me again. He also said I should apologize to both of them. I did write to him and apologize. Was I right in doing so? He never answered, and we have never heard from him since. But I still go on loving and thinking about him, although I go out with other fellows.

H. B.

Dear H. B.:

I think you certainly owed the girl an apology for writing her a mean letter, and I don't see why you didn't write to her instead of to him. I suppose the reason you wrote to him was because you thought you might in that way get him back.

Since you apparently failed in this, however, there is obviously nothing you can do but accept the situation as it is and learn from the experience that childish behavior never gets anybody anywhere, particularly in love.

BODY OF EX-RULER BROUGHT BACK

Tehran, Iran, May 9 — (AP) — The body of Reza Shah Pahlavi, Iran's ruler who was forced to abdicate in 1941 because he was pro-German, was brought back from exile Sunday and buried with Moslem pageantry. The reigning shah Mohammed Reza, son of the exiled ruler, wept on his father's coffin as 200,000 mourners gathered for the Moslem services. Reza died in 1943 in South Africa.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Good grooming tells the story.

Sloppy Sally might not as well throw her beauty kit out of the window; she will never make the pulchritude grade, as a lady of fashion she is a complete washout. There are certain details of dress and appearance that must have attention. Without this attention, all is lost and the lovely complexion, the ambrosial tresses, the svelte shape won't count for a nickel.

A woman can spend money recklessly for expensive drygoods, but if she is not dainty and fastidious, fussy about grooming, her sartorial glories will have no meaning. She will trail her elegant feather's in the dust. She will be out of the picture.

Smart appearance requires not only attractive attire, but a clean-cut look, fresh make-up, coiffure according to the mode, not a single hair out of place. Add to that grace of movement, pleasing manner, a nice voice and you're all set.

Hair requires more than the professional shampoo and wave set. One must learn to pet, manage and train the silky thatch. Some women look grand when they emerge from the beauty shop but, with no gift for tress arrangements, have lack-lustre hair the rest of the time. A waste of money. By observing the ways of the hairdresser you can learn a lot.

Sloppy Sally should take herself in hand. She should learn to be a make-up slicker. Complexion batik is going natural in a big way and she should endeavor to use artifice so cleverly that it passes for the natural bloom. It can be done, except perhaps for the coloring that is entitled to reveal itself in different tones. But it must be applied with alertness and restraint. The application must not have the clear edges, should be blotted to produce an even surface.

While eyebrow tweezing and teasing aren't what they used to be when the poor little brows were practically annihilated, it is still necessary to pluck hairs that have strayed from the fold and to brush the brows carefully after powdering. A little mineral oil on brows and eyelashes will impart charm and lustre.

Nail polish that has gone a bit patchy is a beauty sin. If our friend Sloppy won't take the time to renew polish, she should dispense with it entirely, use coral nail powder and a buffer.

Neckwear, handkerchiefs and gloves should be spotless. Shoes should have attention, be put on trees when not in use. Hats and coats must be brushed before they are worn. Most important of all is to wash the body briefly; they not only look terrible but are a menace to foot health. Then there are crooked seams and runs. See that they are nice and straight. If they aren't, your boy friends will notice and won't like you.

Pretty French Accent

By PRUNELLA WOOD

WE MIGHT have called this dress "French Without Duty", or "Parisian in America", for despite its French pedigree it is a very reasonably priced American copy of a Gres import, a linen dress good for any summer place and a dandy find for city dwellers who must combat the heat with a minimum of country club effect in their fashions.

The dropped round shoulders with short puff sleeve below it is very Paris of today; so is the handling of the skirt fullness. The dress is made in cocoa, green or navy blue linen, with beige linen accent.

Spring Suit Complements

Blouse, bag and shoes

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

ACCESSORIES to complement the Spring suit picture include beautiful new blouses, and handsome bag and shoe ensembles. Sheer crepe is used for a tailored blouse with horizontal folds worked into geometric detail. It has short set-in sleeves, and a high round neckline. The shoe and bag are fashioned of a new pin-striped leather, this version using fine lines embossed on navy suede. The envelope handbag has a rigid case and weighted covered bar across the flap. The handle slips through brass loops at the sides. The open pump uses the stripes strategically to bring out the best in its lines.

ROMANCE CAUSED CZECH-U.S. RIFT

Katherine Kosmak, U. S. embassy employee in Prague, whose romance with a Czech caused a diplomatic incident, arranges flowers in her New York City home after returning to the United States, Thursday. On April 21, the U.S. demanded an apology from Czechoslovakia, declaring Czech secret police violated "the most fundamental human rights of Miss Kosmak." She said the police tried to exploit her romance with Ivan Ahl, former embassy employee, to force her to misrepresent the aims of the U.S. Infoition Service, for which he was a librarian. — Central Press Canadian.

Rimouski Devastation More Complete Than War-Bombed Cities

The 30-hour fire at Rimouski, Que., left no hospital, no jail, few stores, no lumber mill at which the majority of the population was employed. Army men patrol the streets to prevent looting and to assist the homeless. Red Cross tents shelter many of the 2,500 left homeless. This air view shows part of the area devastated by the wind-fanned blaze. — Central Press Canadian.

As the fire raged, bulldozers were called into action to level blazing houses that threatened to set others on fire. The smoking shells of the larger buildings are being dynamited as a menace to safety. — Cental Press Canadian.

RIMOUSKI IN RUBBLE

This bird's eye view of central Rimouski shows the extent of damage in the disaster that struck that little industrial city of 15,000 during the weekend. This photo shows the city's main thoroughfare after the quick-spreading flames gutted some 312 homes and caused an estimated $20,000,000 damage. Surrounded by burning buildings is the Rimouski Cathedral which was left untouched. — (CP Photo.)

Question of Saving Towards Superannuation to be Probed By Specialist in Tax Matters

By DON GILBERT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, May 9 — (CP)—The job of finding out what can be done to lighten the tax burden on savings for old age has been handed to James Millard Tucker, former Vancouver man known in London as the "taxpayer's K.C."

Recognized as the British bar's leading specialist in tax matters, Tucker will head a committee which will look into the whole question of saving towards superannuation. His appointment was announced by Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in his budget speech.

Tucker is well equipped for the job, being a chartered accountant as well as a barrister.

The Glasgow Herald said Tucker's appointment to study tax relief for old-age savings may turn out to be the "best item" in Sir Stafford's budget. Already the business world is waiting impatiently for another Tucker report — his probe of the effect of taxation on capital creation by industry.

Nothing For Future

A particular target of the Tucker superannuation inquiry will be the alleged injustices in tax treatment of professional men, people in business on their own and many others who find that after heavy income tax and living costs have been taken care of, they have nothing left with which to provide for the future.

"At present people employed by others often have a pension scheme, through which they can get income-tax relief," Tucker explained in disclosing his committee will look into the possibilities of extensive tax relief on pension, and endowment schemes for classes not already taken care of.

Tucker, who is 57, says he considers himself one of the vast number of professional people unable to put enough aside to provide an income on retirement. He has a large legal practice as well as company directorates, and London newspapers mention £20,000 ($62,000) a year as his probable income.

Out of an income of £20,000, the treasury takes around £14,000.

Tucker personally has somewhat radical views on taxation. He advocates total abolition of income tax — in favor of a tax on spending. But he assured questioners the committee will not touch upon that idea.

"We have more realistic things to consider," he said.

In Rimouski's business section a few half-crumbled walls mark the spot where merchants and manufacturers had attempted to make their buildings permanent by building them of brick and stone. In all, over 300 buildings were destroyed. — Central Press Canadian.

held firm. It might give out at any time to let the river into several blocks of houses.

The usually-meandering Red was straightening out.'

Water to Window-Tops

At a half-dozen places the river overflowed to its greatest depth since 1826—was running free across the points of land that normally make it bend. Wherever that occupied suburban homes were flooded, the water on some reaching the window-tops.

In river-bordering parts of several residential areas, greater Winnipeg experienced the fate of every town but one (Letellier) between it and the international border, 60 miles to the south. There the Red flows in from its sources in Minnesota and North Dakota.

The flood, said Vice-Admiral H. T. W. Grant, chief of Naval staff, was the "most catastrophic ever seen in Canada."

But in the heart of Winnipeg, on the Red's west bank, and St. Boniface, a French-speaking twin city on the east bank, the dikes held early today.

Flood Controller R. E. A. Morlan's mixed army of troops and civilians piled thousands more sandbags on the river barricades through a windy, rainy, chilly night.

It was a community defense against the river. Greater Winnipeg in 24 hours put perhaps a twentieth of its population into the flood battle.

And the community defence was spreading. Beleaguered greater Winnipeg got help right across Canada.

Soldiers came from Calgary, Chilliwack, B.C., and Flin Flon, Man. The navy offered pumps and men to man them—even "frogmen" in rubber, air-filled suits to handle underwater problems. The R.C.A.F. flew troops and supplies from many places.

Toronto sent its top sanitary engineer to help prevent flood-borne epidemic. Halifax and Montreal sent sandbags; Edmonton promised more. An 18-car army train left Regina overnight with tons of flood-fighting equipment and disaster aids. Ontario, British Columbia and other provinces offered aid.

Ottawa promised to treat the crisis as a national emergency—the same as it did the Fraser river floods in British Columbia two years ago. B.C. received $5,000,000 plus help in flood relief and rehabilitation.

Normal Life Disrupted

But the main fight was by the men and women, even the older children, of greater Winnipeg.

Their city put its whole effort in the last-ditch fight against the river. Thousands finished their day's routine work, then reported to the sodden dikes. Buses, trucks and private cars converged at trouble spots on both banks of the river.

Normal life was seriously disrupted. Across-the-river transportation was almost halted. Most bridges between Winnipeg and St. Boniface were impassable, the river blocking their approaches or flowing on their roadways. Traffic on others was restricted to essential travel.

Low-chassis army trucks had to be wrenched onto Norwood Bridge, one Winnipeg-St. Boniface artery, because the water was too deep for motors at the Main Street (Winnipeg) end.

Flin Flon, Provencher and Louise Bridges all were closed to traffic today. The last open span, the Redwood Bridge in Northern Winnipeg, would be useless if the Glenwood Crescent dike collapsed.

Downtown streets were free of water, except near the grain exchange where Canadian National railways tracks were covered. The grain exchange, its basement flooded, was closed today in part because of backed-up drainage sewers, considered closing so many others could devote full attention to the flood emergency.

Threat to Installations

Risk in the business district was considered remote. It existed only to be remote, despite reports of a new flood crest outstripping the Red tributaries in the United States.

But there was a threat to power installations, throwing part of the city into darkness. Communications companies, their wires jammed with flood - control and personnel messages, reported dislocation of circuits.

Manitoba telephone system ruled only flood-emergency long-distance calls could be accepted. Hospitals overcrowded by the flood-forced emptying of at least four institutions, decided to take only emergency cases. Water pumping was temporarily cut to almost half to lessen the load on rain-filled sewers.

Half of Schools Closed

Half the city schools were closed—Emergency shelters were set up in buildings on high ground to house those refugees who had no friends or relatives to go to.

Probably 3,000 homes were surrounded by water, counting Monday night's inundation, though some were still occupied.

Worst-hit areas today were:

West Bank, Winnipeg side—the industrial area; Wildwood Park and Wildwood housing development in another part of Fort Garry; A semi-circular section of Riverview where the evacuated King George and King Edward hospitals stand in rows on rows of flooded houses; and a long strip about a block deep in the Scotia Street section of West Kildonan municipality.

East bank, St. Boniface side—the long neck of land known as Elm Park, in St. Vital municipality on the south; and an industrial-residential area around unused Whittier Park race track opposite Winnipeg's business district.

Ste. Agathe (27 miles south of Winnipeg) — 15 carloads of cattle left Monday.

St. Adolphe (18 miles south of Winnipeg—the last 125 persons were evacuated Monday night. At neighboring St. German the foxfarm industry had to destroy foxes. Mink were to be moved out.

St. Norbert (eight miles south of Winnipeg)—with the Red already swelling upstream from Winnipeg, an evacuation train left Monday night with 50 persons.

All-ready the Mount Clemens pitch, chapter of the Red Cross has telegraphed Quebec chapter that it is ready to send supplies and give assistance.

Premier Duplessis has launched a campaign started with an anonymous $50,000 donation.

The Knights of Columbus of Quebec City are planning to collect today from everyone in the old capital either money or supplies. All municipal trucks have been mobilized for this collection as well as a number of army trucks.

City manager Leopold Garon reported that Price Brothers plan to rebuild their big plant as soon as possible. There is even talk that some temporary establishment will be set up and thus provide work for some men.

Build Broad Boulevard

The city council has discussed plans to rebuild devastated St. Germain Street into a broad boulevard.

Some city councillors have talked of starting a housing cooperative but other residents say they will start to rebuild as soon as the rubble is cleared.

The city council is talking of proposed improvements of all sorts for the destroyed western section of the city.

During the fire, which broke out early Saturday evening and raged on without break until early Monday morning, looters assaulted the beer depot of Marcel Thebeau and made away with most of the 35,000 beer bottles stored there.

Grocery Store Looted

One grocery store was looted of food "right under the noses" of its owners, according to city manager Garon.

Other grocers, fearing disorder smashed their beer bottles right on the street.

However there has been little looting among troops, from the Royal 22nd Regiment, stationed the city Monday morning and supplemented with exhausted local police.

Soldiers took control of traffic, stood guard over ruins and over the Rimouski arena where tons of food, stacks of army blankets and 10,000 barrels of bread loaves are stacked.

The city manager said there had been some "snatching" of supply food by "hungry people" who served themselves sooner than they should have. He said that also a number of army blankets had disappeared but gave no figures.

No Looters Arrested

None of the looters have been arrested, Mr. Garon said, but one man who tried to force an office safe was put under arrest. He said it was the only arrest made.

He admitted he struck one young would-be looter across the face.

"Five or six youths" at one point exchanged some rough words with the soldiers but there was no disorder, Mr. Garon said. Another Rimouski resident said there was "a little pushing around."

Organization is being made to cut off Rimouski from unnecessary visitors, the curious and to prevent entrance of looters in the city.

The only way to reach Rimouski is by railway bridge over the Rimouski River. The Roads Department bridge was burned out.

Special Train Service

The Canadian National Railways, represented here by its vice-president W. E. Robinson, and C. A. Berube of Moncton, N.B., has organized a special train service over the bridge to move out hundreds of stranded persons and auto drivers. The service will provide almost continuous transportation in and out of the city. It will be free of charge.

In Mont Joli Sanatorium, where most of the patients of the destroyed St. Joseph Hospital were taken, the need for plasma was expressed in an urgent message to the Red Cross.

The first train of refugees moved out of the city Monday. Most aboard were nuns and convent girls. There were some elderly pensioners from the Old People's Home.

GOVT. PREPARED

(In the Fraser Valley floods of 1948, the Dominion extended an outright grant of $5,000,000 to the British Columbia government for relief and rehabilitation and paid 50 per cent of the cost of remedial works in the valley.)

Emphasize Necessity

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said both the Manitoba floods and the Rimouski fire brought attention to the fact there was no community in the country, large or small, that might not be visited by an event far beyond municipal ability to deal with it effectively.

The two disasters were similar and they emphasized the necessity for some volunteer organization to deal with such disasters.

In extending sympathies and offers of financial assistance, he urged the Commons to consider formation of forces that could help in times such as these.

Need Fire Protection

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said Rimouski should make members think of the needs for fire protection all across the country.

He hoped federal financial assistance would be extended to Rimouski on the same basis as it was being extended to the Red River Valley.

The disasters also were referred to in the Senate.

Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader in the Upper House, urged Canada to undertake a $20,000,000 blasting job in the rampaging Red River as a means of preventing further floods.

He said the disaster in Winnipeg could probably have been prevented if it had not been for a natural barrier of four miles of rock covering the river bed about 12 miles north of Winnipeg.

If this rock could be blasted out and the waters given greater freedom to flow on to Lake Winnipeg, the possibilities of another serious flood might be prevented.

He and several other Senators extended sympathy to the victims of the disaster and some of them called for federal financial assistance for the devasted areas.

PIPELINES ISSUE

mittee of the whole house, and for adoption.

But opponents of the measure have given no indication that they plan to call a halt to the protracted debate.

All-Canadian Line Urged

Mr. Drew said it was the responsibility of the government to insure the policy of a routing for proposed western oil and gas pipe lines.

"I think," he declared, "that policy should be an all-Canadian policy to ensure that the Interior of Canada would be served first."

The Electricity and Fluid Export Act gave the government "full responsibility" to determine when a pipe line should be laid, where it should be laid and under what conditions it should be laid.

E. T. Applewhaite (L — Skeena) said Parliament, with the support of the Progressive Conservatives, had given the Board of Transport Commissioners authority to decide what routes the pipe lines should follow.

Pipe lines also were dealt in Senate discussions. Second reading—approval in principle—was given to a bill that will allow continuation of pipe lines through national parks.

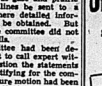
In the Commons debate, Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary East) said that a few weeks ago government supporters had urged that the bills incorporating Alberta natural gas and prairie transmission lines be sent to a committee where detailed information could be obtained. But one thing the committee did not get was details.

The committee had been derailed the night to call expert witnesses to give the benefit of their of experts testifying for the companies. A closure motion had been used to cut off discussion.

Charged With Delay

A. C. Stewart (L—Yorkton) lashed out at both Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. members and charged them with unnecessarily delaying the pipe line legislation.

Mr. Stewart said "All this talk about Canada first" should be directed to the Province of Alberta, then to the governments of the other Prairie Provinces and then to the Board of Transport Commissioners. They were the bodies which held the safeguards to ensure that the oil resources of the west were properly handled.



C. W. Hodgson (PC-Victoria, Ont.) said a pipeline through British Columbia would help B.C. communities. The cheap power would be an asset.

He thought the pipeline could be built by Canadian National Railways. If there was a surplus money to be made in the pipelines as the private companies seemed to think, the government should investigate the possibility of the C.N.R. building the line.

THE SOURCE OF top management

Here is a typical bank manager—43, married, with a growing family. He is active in community affairs. When he joined the bank as a junior, he was 17, just out of high school. He soon moved up. By his late twenties he was accountant in his branch.

He worked hard. All the time he was learning about banking, about Canada, too, in various branches, different areas . . . learning to know people—their hopes, fears, problems—the importance of the human factor.

At 36 he was branch manager. Now he has another, larger branch. And his way to advancement is still open. His general manager started as a junior, too . . . and carried with him to the top the business experience and human understanding gained along the way.

Upwards of a score of infants will be dedicated at the morning service including two from the city of Toronto.

Dedicate Baptismal Font

A mother-memorial baptismal font will be dedicated and used for the first time at the Carmel Town Line Church on Sunday afternoon. This font is a gift of Edward Reynolds in loving memory of his mother who died in Dover, England, during the war.

Special music will be provided by St. Paul's choir at both services. Canaries and early spring flowers and blossoms will welcome the babies and their proud parents in the chancel of the church.

PERSECUTIONS APACE IN YUGOSLAVIA

Rome, May 9. (AP)—The Jesuit organ Civilta Cattolica charged yesterday that religious persecution in Yugoslavia is "marching apace with that of the Communist countries." The fatility quarrel between Moscow and Belgrade," the publication said, "has in no way changed the common program of destroying the church."

APPLY TO BOARD

Oshawa, May 9. (CP)—City Council Monday night applied to the Board of Transport Commissioners for a hearing to request the removal of railway tracks running through the centre of Oshawa. Council members have discussed the problem several times.

CAR SALESMAN, CUSTOMER SLAIN IN HOLDUP

Philadelphia, May 9. (AP)—An automobile salesman and his customer were shot to death by a holdup man Monday night on a West Philadelphia used car lot. Alex Martin, 48, the salesman, and Daniel Neary, 50, died in hospital. Both had been shot in the abdomen. The robber escaped.

REFUGEES STILL POUR INTO HONG KONG

The tiny British colony of Hong Kong, already packed to suffocation by evacuees from communist China, and no longer able to guarantee food and water for the refugees still pouring in, has for the first time in peacetime history decided to control all Chinese arriving. Formerly they were allowed to come and go without passport or visa. This scene shows scores of peasants carrying their personal belongings across the International Bridge into British territory. According to the reports the Chinese communists try to hold back able-bodied men but permit the aged and infirm to leave. — Central Press Canadian.

Canadian Oak Table to Grace U.K. Commons

Waterloo, May 9—(CP)—In a corner of a bustling furniture factory in the heart of Waterloo, craftsmen who have been at their trades since boyhood are putting final touches to a long, ornate table which soon will forge another link between Canada and Great Britain.

The 14-foot-long, panelled oak table which took a year to complete, will take its place in front of the Speaker of Britain's rebuilt House of Commons as a gift from Canada.

Visitors to the British House who will inspect the table and the carved inscription, "Gift of Canada" 'probably will not suspect that it is serving a double purpose—the House's modern air conditioning system will be hidden under its broad top.

"We had to put a hinged door at one end so technicians could crawl under the table and service the air conditioning system," said Michael Paleczny, an official of the furniture company.

Carved Panels

Seven intricately carved panels line each side of the table, three matching panels at the front. Wide desks are linked to the front for Commons clerks sitting directly in front of the Speaker. Ornamental bronze escutcheons as well as a leather top and engraved desk for the firm will be added to the table in England.

Artists and men have worked on the table since it was first ordered from the Waterloo firm, but two of the oldest employees, Fred Daubergen and Charlie Kreutzberger, have done most of the intricate carving.

The table was designed by Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, noted English architect, who is chief architect for the new Houses. A. K. Mills, chief architect of the Department of Public Works at Ottawa, has watched the progress of the table since construction got under way.

Greater Part of Rimouski Destroyed

Most of Rimouski's dwellings were frame construction, few had basements. This street shows how completely the fire destroyed the residential area, leaving little trace of the small homes. Very little was salvaged by the populace for their personal needs. — Central Press Canadian.

Acheson Arrives From Paris To Continue Cold War Talks With Foreign Minister Bevin

London, May 9 (CP) — State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States flew here today from Paris and plunged straight into talks with Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain on how the two countries are to share their responsibilities in the cold war.

The two cabinet ministers, each accompanied by a group of experts began their discussions in Bevin's private room at the Foreign office.

Agents of Scotland Yard and the United States Federal Bureau of Investigation stood by unobtrusively at London airport as Acheson arrived for his first visit to Britain in 12 years. With him were Mrs. Acheson; W. Averell Harriman, U. S. ambassador-at-large; David Bruce, U.S. Ambassador to France; Philip Jessup, U. S. Ambassador-at-large, and state department officials.

Position of Britain

Observers said the major problem they seek to solve is how Britain's special commitments in the sterling area countries can be balanced against the desire of the United States to see the United Kingdom move closer economically to Europe.

Acheson spent two days in Paris, conferring with Premier Georges Bidault and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman. Schuman is due here Thursday for talks among the Big Three foreign ministers.

In Paris Monday Acheson talked with Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France and agreed that the U.S. would give military and economic aid to a west-warring Indo-China out of the communist schism.

Acheson and Schuman also were reported in agreement on giving more political and economic freedom to western Germany in the process of framing a law under which the big three control their German ex-enemies.

One of the problems Acheson and Bevin were to examine was similar to that of Indo-China—the communist uprising against Britain in Malaya source of much of the world's rubber and tin.

Many Subjects on Agenda

Diplomatic sources reported Acheson and Bevin also would:

1. Review post-war restrictions in Germany. For security reasons and to build up western economy Acheson wants to tie the Germans more tightly to the rest of western Europe. Britain fears German economic competition and fears German rearmament.

2. Discuss how to speed up the increased utility of Europe. How far can Britain go in joining with the rest of Europe while still heading a commonwealth and sterling bloc? How far can the United States go in supporting a unified western Europe?

3. How they can work out agreed policies in the future, to the split now recognizing communist China. Britain recognized the Chinese reds more than four months ago. France and the United States have refused to follow the British lead.

Await Arrival

While Bevin and Acheson will discuss these problems together, most major decisions probably will await the arrival of Schuman for the three-day Big Three meeting.

The trio's forthcoming talks are described as the most important since the war. They are marked by a great change in western diplomatic attitudes.

Previous conferences have been held either with the Russians present or with the west still hoping that Kremlin concessions might ensure peace.

The belief is widespread now that the cold war is a lasting condition and that there is no short cut to a settlement with Russia. The result is expected to be new strong policies aimed at winning the cold conflict for the democracies.

Highlights of Flood Relief

Ottawa, May 9—(CP)— Six, North Star aircraft will head west from Ottawa and Montreal today carrying naval ratings, a big naval pump and sandbags to help end the battling the Red River floods in Manitoba.

R.C.A.F. headquarters said an aircraft from the experimental and proving establishment at nearby Rockcliffe air station will take off for Winnipeg before noon today with an 8,000-pound naval pump to be used in combatting flood waters. The pump was supplied by the Naval Establishment at London, Ont.

A second plane from 426 Squadron based at Dorval, near Montreal, will ferry 50 naval ratings to Winnipeg. The naval ratings are being flown to Montreal from Summerside, P.E.I.

No. 426 Squadron also is supplying four North Stars to fly 100,000 sandbags to Winnipeg.

Naval headquarters said that two additional big naval pumps already have been sent to Winnipeg from Esquimalt, B.C., and that a considerable quantity of other equipment, including life jackets, has been flown to Winnipeg to the flood area extending from the international boundary to Lake Winnipeg.

Toronto, May 9—(CP)—A sandbag airlift to Winnipeg from Toronto and Montreal was in full swing today.

The airlift, arranged by the Ontario government co-operating with Trans-Canada Air Lines is expected to fly 500,000 sandbags to flood-stricken Manitoba by Wednesday. Some of the rampaging Red River will probably reach its crest.

Five flights, two from Montreal and three from Toronto, have already taken off for the west carry the sandbags and some 3,000 pairs of hip-length rubber boots.

Col. E. J. Young, executive assistant to Premier Frost, said that by the end of the day 275,000 sandbags will have gone west.

"We're concentrating on sandbags," said Col. Young. "They expect the crest Saturday and need all they can get."

He said the flights are also taking pumps supplied by the Lands and Forest Department.

Winnipeg, May 9 (CP)— Viscount Alexander has expressed hope that the "splendid efforts" of Manitoba's flood-fighters will result in the prevention of further destruction."

The Governor-General sent a message to Lieutenant-Governor R. F. McWilliams of Manitoba:

"I am sure that you and my self please extend to all citizens of Manitoba and especially to those who have suffered in the wake of the calamitous floods our heartfelt sympathy. We hope and pray that the splendid efforts which you are all making will result in the prevention of further destruction."

Winnipeg, May 9 — (CP) — Prairie Command Headquarters today announced that two reserve army units — Fort Garry Horse and Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders— had been called up for flood duty.

Radio appeals were made for the Highlanders to gather at the Minto Armories.

The Fort Garrys will be assigned the Nairn Avenue and Louis Bridge sectors in Elmwood. The bridge, its approaches under water, has been the centre of an intensified diking campaign.

RCAF MO Flies To Baffin Island For TB Survey

Goose Bay, Labrador, May 9 — (CP)— An R.C.A.F. medical officer has flown to Frobisher Bay to Baffin Island to conduct a tuberculosis survey.

A portable X-ray machine was aboard the aircraft. The officer will examine Eskimos in Hoy Frobisher Bay village.

A number of tuberculosis-stricken natives were flown by the RCAF and United States Air Force to hospitals in Halifax — a distance of some 1,000 miles — during the last few years.

Two are Hanged At Headingly Jail, Winnipeg

Winnipeg, May 9 (CP)— William Lasakow and Melville Allarie were hanged for murder early today at Headingly Jail.

The men were dropped through the trap at 3:10 a.m. EDT. Lasakow was pronounced dead at 3:25 Allarie at 3:28.

Lusenko, 21, was convicted of the murder, last September of Mrs. Dora Sadova, 65-year-old north-end Winnipeg woman.

Allarie, 29-year-old farm hand from Poplar Point, Man., 40 miles west of here, was convicted of the September murder of his employer's wife, Mrs. Edith Delbridge. He was also charged with murdering her husband William but was not tried on this count.

Albrecht Claims To be Escaped German P.O.W.

Calgary, May 9 — (CP)—The man who called himself Hans Otto Albrecht was a free man today for the time being.

R. C. M. P. officers listened to the story of the man who claimed to be an escaped German prisoner of war, then told him to go about remain at his ranch-farm near Okotoks, Alta.

The man who claimed to be Albrecht, a 29-year-old merchant seaman who escaped from a tobacco factory near London, Ont. 4½ years ago, said he had been living in the Calgary area since last October under the name of Mike Cipriano.

He told police he had been captured in 1942 and had escaped to avoid repatriation to Germany. He gave himself up Saturday and spent the weekend in custody.

Police released him after he signed a statement that he would remain at his present address until his story was checked.

WILL GO ON TRIAL

Windsor, Ont., May 9 — (CP) — Four men will go on trial here tomorrow before a supreme Court judge and jury on charges of receiving and retaining $4,000 worth of allegedly stolen tools and machinery. True bills were returned by a grand jury Monday against Anna Yuzwiak, 22-year-old displaced person.

Woltucky, 25, was arrested after the girl's body was found at Glenavon, Sask., 50 miles east of here. She had arrived from Saskatoon Friday night to work at a nearby farm.

Saturday her body, a bullet through her head, was found in the snow behind William Bruce's home. Her purse was missing.

Full Significance Of Crippling Fire Not Yet Realized

Rimouski, Que., May 9 (CP)— To say that a third of this city has been destroyed does not give the full significance of the crippling damage caused by a 24-hour grass-blaze fire here last weekend.

The damage is estimated at $20,000,000 but it goes deeper than immediate material losses.

It is the heart of the city itself that has been reduced to ashes. The economic life of the town is at a standstill and it will take months before anything like normal life will return.

Two of the largest and most important aspects of the economic life here, the Price Brothers mills, a huge emplacement that gave work to as many as 100 workers during the summer months, and the many educational and religious institutions that brought in students from all over the lower St. Lawrence region.

An idea of the size of the Price Brothers establishment here can be had when it is recalled that it comprised eight separate buildings including two large mills.

Crippled for Months

It only these establishments had been destroyed the city would have been severely crippled for months. But, in addition, there were two hotels destroyed, one theatre, two garages, a Venetian blind manufacturing plant, several grocery stores, drug stores, an illuminated — sign manufacturing plant, garages and an auto-parts store.

Loss of these means loss of practically all the small industry here.

When former Mayor Elezar Cote said it would take 25 years before Rimouski is brought back to what it was before the fire "there was, not much exaggeration.

The Seminary, for instance, was a place where many contributions were made to charity, bringing delegates from all parts of the province who spent money lavishly during the few days of their stay. This meant business for the hotels and many eating establishments. That annual income will be counted as lost for some time.

Perhaps one of the most serious losses as well as the most impressive, of several homeless residents that they were left with other parts of Quebec to earn their living.

The widespread assistance promised by nunacrous organizations and cities may change this situation.

United Jewish People's Order Attacks Quebec 'Padlock' Law

Ottawa, May 9 (CP)— The United Jewish Peoples Order today attacked Quebec's padlock law as "an infringement of the basic rights of freedom of speech, press and assembly." It urged passage of a federal bill of rights to guard against such legislation.

In a 3,000-word brief presented to the Senate committee on human rights and fundamental freedoms, the order denied suggestions that it is a communist organization.

It protested against police raids carried out under the padlock law in which the Jewish cultural centre and Winchevsky Jewish School in Montreal were closed.

Presentation of Brief

The order said it was presenting the brief to the committee to show the "true facts" since the padlock act "does not require that the Attorney General of Quebec (Premier Duplessis) shall prove to the satisfaction of any court of law his suspicions that the above named premises were actually used for the dissemination of communist propaganda or doctrines."

Discussing the law under which the two places were closed, the order said:

"No act in any country pretending to observe the principles of democracy has ever vested in one man such wide and unaccountable powers as the padlock law gives to the minister and attorney-general of the Province of Quebec.

"With a mere stroke of the pen he can and does destroy a legal organization and confiscate its assets, and the quantum of evidence which would have it otherwise, his conduct is beyond challenge in any court of law."

None of the organizations affected by it had the "remotest idea of the details of the charges against them." The law failed even to define the terms "communistic" and "bolshevistic" which formed its very basis.

"It is obvious, therefore, that the Attorney-General of Quebec has the power to suspend most matter of what type of social, religious, political or any other organized activity or individual thinking shall take place in the province.

"This bill of rights is not in general to the Canadian constitution, but is necessary to any democratic grouping, no individual is safe from autocratic and despotic whims of those in power, parties whose interests and prejudices are served by these means."

British Executive Worried Canada May Switch to U.S. Supplies Once Dollar Balanced

Leeds, England, May 9 — (CP) —A British business executive just back from a Canadian tour told reporters here that his firm is worried about the long-term aspects of the Canadian market.

Norman Smith, assistant managing director of a company manufacturing mining and excavating machinery, said there is a danger Canadian buyers may switch back to American supplies once the dollar balance is righted.

"If the Canadians are prepared to buy British for the next 10 or 20 years we know where we stand," Smith said.

"There is a difference of opinion, however, in Canada about how long it will take for the dollar shortage to be overcome.

"We have customers waiting for our products in all parts of the world, and we should not want to deprive them to satisfy a market which might resume purchases in America in two or three years' time.

"Unless we can feel that there is a long-term market in Canada it would be uneconomic to sell there."

Smith visited Ottawa, Toronto, Vancouver, Calgary, Winnipeg and Montreal in the course of a three-week tour to determine whether his company should enter the Canadian market on a large scale. A final decision will be made by the board of directors of the firm of Smith and Sons (Rodley) Ltd.

"Business in Canadian industry is round Toronto and "we shall probably find our largest market in Ontario," Smith said.

Full-Throated Roar of Muffler Is Back Again

Baltimore, May 9 — (AP) — Another tradesman of the 1920s, along with the Charleston and the uke, is doing a Rip Van Winkle. The full-throated roar of a tampered muffler is back again.

But this time the urge for the motorboat throb is being propelled commercially.

The general name for these fugitives from the Model T laboratory are Hollywood mufflers. That's because the sound is created around the west coast colony.

The craze gradually moved east, picking up momentum as it went.

Somewhere along the line the business world caught the scent and latched it into a major item in the automobile accessories line.

The Hollywood muffler makes the average automobile sound like a suspended racer. According to one manufacturer, "It's here, it's different. It's dynamite."

You can agree with the first without the slightest hesitation.

Car Plant Opens

Windsor, Ont., May 9—(CP)— Production will resume at the Chrysler Canada plant here tomorrow for the first time since the arending lines were made in Feb. 28.

A company announcement today said 800 production men will start back to work tomorrow. They are the first of 3,500 production workers to return after a layoff caused by a shortage of parts from strikebound Chrysler plants in Detroit.

Maintenance men and preparation crews have been working since the weekend to get the factories in running order.

Greasy Pig Gets Loose in Movie, Lassoed by Cops

Princeton, N.J., May 9 (AP) — A greased pig got loose in a movie house during the show Monday night.

The movie ground on, and squeals and shouts. Ushers tried to catch the pig. Finally a cop gave up and called policemen, who caught it with a noose.

Police, preparing a pork barbecue, said they suspect Princeton University students of perpetrating the prank.

Lancelot de Mole Invented Tank In Year 1912

Sydney, Australia, May 9 — (AP)—Lancelot de Mole, 70, who invented a military tank in 1912 but had his plans pigeonholed by the British War Office, died May 6 after a four-year illness. De Mole received no monetary reward for his invention, and the War Office recognized him as the inventor of the tank only after he was made a Commander of the Order of the British Empire in recognition of his invention.

BRITISH ACTOR DIES

Worthing, Sussex, England, May 9 (Reuters)—Franklin Dyall, British stage and screen character actor, died here Monday, age 60.

Will Ask O.P.P. Officer's Assistance

Windsor, May 9 (CP)— Police of suburban Sandwich East township will request the aid of a Provincial Police officer in the near future to ensure the control of crime. The decision was made at the meeting of the township council Monday night.

Reeve Barry E. Atkinson said the township might expect an influx of bootleggers and other criminals from Windsor. The city's police commission acted last week to request a Provincial police inspector to reorganize the city police force following an inquiry into the operations of the force.

The council said there was no dissatisfaction with the township police.

MY, WHAT NICE TEETH YOU HAV

Board Rejects Liquor Licence For Hamilton Club

Hamilton, May 9 — (CP)— application for a liquor licence for a club here was rejected at a hearing of the Liquor Licence Board of Ontario today on the grounds that the applicant had paid money to executives of having his licence granted.

G. W. Watts, owner of Club 22 on Main Street West told Chairman Judge W. T. Robb he had paid a man by the name of Horrigan $300.

"Did you make it out to the Young Conservative Men's Movement of Canada?" asked Judge Robb.

Watts said that he had not had the money back and when Judge Robb asked him why he had done it, he replied that he had decided to believe by Mr. Horrigan that he could put political influence to bear to help him get liquor licence.

Sump Pumps, Rubbers Shipped To Winnipeg Area

Kitchener, May 8—(CP)— The Winnipeg flood situation has created a tremendous rush in Kitchener plants particularly in the demand for rubber boots and sump pumps.

The B. F. Goodcrich Rubber Co. have sent more than 6,000 pairs high rubber boots via express.

The Kaufman Rubber Co. a reports shipments made to branches in the west.

The Construction Machinery Co. has shipped between 30 to 40 sump pumps to the stricken area. Work on additional pumps is being speeded. Most of the pumps have a capacity of 30,000 to 40,000 gallons per hour.

Ezzard Charles Put on Spot By Bd. Chairman

(By The Canadian Press)

Britain's top boxing official said Monday at New York the winner of the Lee Savold - Bruce Woodcock fight should be 'forced' to meet Ezzard Charles—if the National Boxing Association champion is fit" — to determine a "universal" heavyweight champion.

"We are recognizing the winner of the Savold – Woodcock fight as world champion," said J. Onslow Fane, chairman of the British Board of Boxing Control and president of the European Boxing Union. The American will fight Woodcock in London June 6.

"When that bout was first made, the championship was very much up in the air," Fane told New York boxing writers at a luncheon. "Savold had been agreed by many in American and England to be a logical contender. Woodcock, the British champion, had been beaten only twice. If you can find another good heavyweight who has lost only twice, I would like to know."

Canada is casting an eye at the Walker Cup matches.

E. Hamish Banks, secretary of the Royal Canadian Golf Association and the Ontario Association, said Monday night at Toronto that Canada will probably challenge for the title "in the near future, possibly in 1953."

Last fall a group of Canadian amateurs held the British Walker Cup team on even terms in a series of informal matches. The matches are held every two years and Britain and the United States have been the only competitors so far.

Infielder Ralph Lapointe of Toronto Maple Leafs thought he had all the bad luck coming to him for the year.

He lost his wallet, personal papers and $40 cash at a theatre in Springfield, Mass., two weeks ago. Then Sunday morning he found someone had broken into his car on a parking lot in Toronto and had stolen $500 in $600 worth of clothing and jewelry. Sunday afternoon he was ordered from the ball park for arguing with an umpire.

But fate still had another brick up its sleeve for Lapointe.

Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, announced in New York Monday night that Lapointe is among a number of players fined for "farcical play" in the Sunday game with Jersey City at Toronto in which stalling tactics were used.

It will cost Ralph $50.

At Philadelphia, George (Sugar) Costner scored a stunning upset Monday night with a 10 - round split decision over Cuba's Kid Gavilan. Each weighed 149½ lbs.

Costner, flashy Camden, N. J., Negro, matched right for right and left for left in the furious battle that kept the 4,507 arena fans cheering wildly from start to finish.

Both judges gave the nod to Costner, with the referee calling it a draw.

W. S. HART'S WILL UPHELD

Los Angeles, May 9 — (AP)— A jury Monday night upheld the will of the late William S. Hart, Western film player, leaving the bulk of his $1,170,000 estate to Los Angeles county for park purposes. It found ungrounded the contentions of the actor's son, William S. Hart, Jr., that his father was of unsound mind when he made his will in 1944, two years before his death at the age of 83.

Hal Newhouser Ready to Pitch For the Tigers

New York May 9 (AP)— Hal Newhouser, highest paid pitcher in baseball who has been plagued with a mysterious shoulder ache, is ready to play again, he said today.

Detroit Tigers, without him, are on top in the American League, and if Newhouser can still come up with another 20-game winning season it could be a decisive factor in the pennant race.

No one knows what has held back the great lefthander, whose lifetime winning total of 170 major league games is second only to Bob Feller's 194 among active pitchers. Newhouser's present $45,000 salary is said to top Feller's.

"It was right in the shoulder joint," said Hal. "The pain just about killed me every time I threw a ball."

He pitched only five innings in exhibition games and has yet to work in a regular season game, but actually I don't think I've been missed," said Newhouser in solemn understatement. "This is the best Tiger ball club I have ever been on."

X-rays failed to show any organic trouble with the shoulder. Newhouser has been taking heat treatments every day. He keeps his shoulder in a black, electrical contraption for 40 minutes every day.

Newhouser blames his difficulties on the fact that he was four days late reporting for spring training and tried to make up the difference too fast.

Personal Survey Made by Senator On Oleo Tax

Ottawa, May 9 (CP)— An Ontario Senator who publishes a newspaper in Kingston, said Monday night he has found little public demand for elimination of the eight-per-cent sales tax on margarine.

Senator W. Rupert Davies, a Liberal who publishes the Kingston Whig-standard, entered the Senate debate on the margarine tax to tell of a personal survey he had made in his hometown.

Interviewing about 15 people on one of the city's main streets, he asked (1) if the people knew what the sales tax was on margarine and (2) if they think it should be removed.

Senator Davies that 13 of the 15 people did not know what the sales tax was, and the other two gave the wrong figures. However, although few cared whether it was removed, many were of the opinion that the coloring of margarine should be allowed.

Even if the tax was removed, said Senator Davies, he was not so sure that the consumer would get the benefit. However, the question of coloring was important since it made the product more attractive on the dinner table.

Senator Davies spoke on a motion by Senator W. E. Euler (L-Ontario) that the Senate go on record favoring the removal of the tax.

The motion was criticized and supported by two other Senators entering the debate.

Senator G. H. Barbour (L-Prince Edward Island) said that if the tax was removed only the big margarine producers would benefit. He would be content to leave the matter of the eight-per-cent sales tax on the hands of Finance Minister Abbott.

As for the coloring of margarine, dairy producers would not oppose the move if margarine manufacturers colored the butter substitute green and not yellow. Why did margarine have to be colored yellow?

Senator Barbour said he would object to anything that would hinder the dairy industry and the public, who was the backbone of Canadian industry.

Search Party Finds no Trace Of Missing Angler

Tobermory, Ont., May 9. (CP) —A search party which returned Monday afternoon reported no trace of John Matthews, 45, of Guelph, missing in densely-wooded Willow Creek district since Sunday morning.

The searchers had investigated reports that shouts were heard in the vicinity of Johnson's Harbor, about 10 miles from here.

The searchers worked their way from Johnston's Harbor, on the Lake Huron side of the Bruce Peninsula, back up the three miles of Willow Creek to Highway No. 6. Another search party is out to scour the area east of the highway.

Matthews, member of a five-man fishing party, was last seen fishing in Willow Creek about 50 feet from the highway.

Labor Minister Answers Question About CP Guild

Ottawa, May 9. (CP)—Labor Minister Mitchell, answering a question Monday in the House of Commons, said he hoped negotiations between The Canadian Press and the recently certified CP unit of the American Newspaper Guild (CIO) would soon be completed to the satisfaction of both parties.

He was replying to D. A. Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) who asked the Minister if he was aware of difficulties between the management and the Guild and what action he was taking to see that dismissed employees were reinstated.

Mr. Mitchell said Guild representatives had called on him Saturday and complained that there had been staff lay-offs.

A previous application from the Guild for right to sue the CP for alleged breaches of laws governing management-labor relations had been placed in the hands of a special commissioner, J. H. Stitt, Ottawa lawyer, in the hope of reconciling difficulties.

The minister said the new representations heard Saturday also had been referred to Mr. Stitt, who had already brought the parties together for talks.

1949-50 HART TROPHY WINNER

A goalkeeper won the Hart Trophy for 1949-50 for the second time in the history of the 27-year-old trophy. The goalkeeper is Claude Earl (Chuck) Rayner of the New York Rangers. Winning the Hart Trophy, which is awarded annually to "the player adjudged to be most valuable to his team," is a fitting and just reward for the 29-year-old Rayner. For it was the superb goaltending of the busby-haired backstop that enabled the Rangers to get into the playoffs for the second time in the last eight years.

The slick-stopping Westerner polled a total of 36 points out of a possible 54 and was 13 points ahead of his closest rival, Ted Kennedy of Toronto. The Leafs' ace centre and captain tabulated a total of 22 points, which was five more than Maurice Richard of Canadiens who finished in third place in the voting for hockey's highest individual award.

As a reward for winning the Hart Trophy as the most valuable player to his club, Rayner will receive a cheque for $1,000 from the National Hockey League. This has been a great year for Rayner as he has also annexed to the goalkeeper's post an the Second All-Star Team.

The only other goalkeeper to ever win the Hart Trophy was Roy Worters of the New York Americans who captured it in 1936-39. Rayner is the second New York Ranger player to win the Hart Trophy. The first was Buddy O'Connor who annexed it in 1947-48.

BOWLERS WITH AN APPETITE

The Major "E" Bowling League wound up in a blaze of knife and fork instead of glory the other night when they climaxed a highly successful season on the Recreation Alleys. The boys did themselves right nobly on the alleys prior to partaking of a sumptuous meal at the Sea Cow mess, served up by the ladies of the Moose Lodge. It was a meal fit for a king, and the lads and lassies did justice to it. Dave Batchelor was re-elected president of the loop with the hard-working secretarial Joe, Bert Hardwick, back as keeper of the purse strings. We have attended a lot of these bowling knife-and-fork league banquets and the secretarial blokes seem to be one of the hardest working cogs in the loop machines, what with averages, prize money and a dozen and one other things to note. Should be a law or something to make 'em get a decent honorarium.

THOSE PESKY INROYS

The Ontario Intelligencer Inxpois who walked off with the trophy and the juiciest slice of the prize money melon, won the title by a splash of ink. Shoe shoved 'em to the wire and very nearly won out. However, all was forgiven in the party atmosphere and all was forgiven. "Cooky" gave us the speech from the throne and did a fine job, between jokes. The ladies were in good form too, especially on the alleys. It was a fine party and from later reports, a good time was had by all.

THE OLE BRUSH-OFF

The boys of the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans Darts team are not very happy these days. In fact the young-old vets are literally burned up over the treatment they received "in Hamilton a little while ago when they drove to the Ambitious City expecting to take part in the All-Ontario Darts Tournament, sponsored by the so-called Ontario Darts Association. There was a trophy emblematic of the provincial title. There were to be prizes for individual high scores and all that stuff. There were to be teams from Toronto, Hamilton, London, Oshawa, Windsor and other centres. It was to be a grand kick-off for the first annual tournament of the ODA.

THEY HAD IT

What happened? This. The ANA Effers travelled some 300 miles thither and back, and never wet a feather in a dart. They arrived somewhere in the vicinity of 8:45 and were forced to sit back and twiddle their thumbs until after 10 o'clock when lights out sounded and the silly limitation of a provincial tournament was over. Windsor, Oshawa, and Hamilton teams did likewise and were informed. The Toronto delegation, some 400 strong, played an Saturday over from Hamilton and that was that as far as any tournament was concerned. The trophies that were mentioned in the letter of invitation by one Gordon Bennett, president of the ODA, were conspicuous by their absence. Visiting teams outside of Toronto never "received a handout." All they did was foot the bills of the trip (some $100 personal funds in the Belleville case) and return home. And the people who won the Belleville team, anxious at least to get in a practice lick or two, get in a few minutes play when along came a goat with a hammer and started to remove the boards. "After all," he said, "we own the boards and we're taking 'em back to Toronto with us".

SO YOU TRIPPED ME, BUB!

Ray Villmer was so dag-nabbed mad last Friday night after Strangler Bob Wagner had stuck out a foot and tripped him when he was chasing Wild William Longson outside the ring, that he didn't cool off until yesterday and then only that his demand to wrestle Wagner here Friday night was granted. The mighty slam of rassledom, will, get, his chance come fish day and it should be a bout that will single the faithful. Villmer figured he had the bout in the bag when the Wagner trip came, and he was righteously indignant. He clamored for a bout with the foot-sney one and got it. It should be one for the book. Appended on the same card are Earl "Moose" McCready and the towering Hi Lee, and Bob McClarity and Al Korman.

CARSON HEADS BASEBALL LEAGUE

Jack Carson has been named president of the Belleville District Baseball League with Bill Lockyer, vice president, and Ross Case, secretary treasurer, it was announced yesterday. The directorate will be composed of representatives of participating teams, to be named by the squads, and others who composed last year's brain trust. Looks like Picton (Bloomfield), Napanee, Stirarden, Belleville, and Cannilton are definite starters with Point Anne still undecided. It is hoped the schedule will be finished by July 30 with the Picton champions decided by August 15th.

The schedule will start likely May 24th . . . the deadline for membership and entry fees ($10) is May 17th . . . Cannilton players will get a double dose of baseball . . . The team is also entered in the South Hastings Baseball League which will operate Wednesdays and Fridays . . . First and third, second and fourth teams will play off with semi-finals set at best two-of-three and finals best three-of-five . . .

Casey Stengel of N.Y. Yanks Calls Detroit Tigers Best Team He's Faced This Year

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Rival big league managers are beginning to talk about Red Rolfe's hustling Detroit Tigers with a great deal of respect in their tone.

Baseball men who previously had regarded the Tigers as "just another first division club," are openly giving them a good chance to win the American League flag.

Casey Stengel, wily skipper of New York Yankees, is the latest to climb aboard the Detroit band wagon—not that he thinks his Yankees won't repeat. But he rates the Tigers even with Boston's powerful Red Sox as the team's he expects to give him his toughest fight.

"Detroit is the best looking club we've faced thus far," he said Monday following the Tigers' 7-1 triumph over his world champions. "Except for one inning (Sunday's eighth), Rolfe's guys looked like a real top-notch outfit.

"They're going to be tough," he added. "You can bet on that. Especially when Newhouser (Hal) comes around, I don't like to talk about players on other clubs, but that Houteman (Art) looked like the best pitcher in the league out there today."

Houtteman, 22-year-old right-hander blanked the Yankees for eight innings, but let up in the ninth after his mates had given him a 7-0 lead. It was his fourth triumph against only one loss.

Leading League

Even without Newhouser, out at present with a sore arm, the Tigers today are leading the league. Although tied with Boston in games won and lost, the Tigers lead the Red Sox by 64 percentage points.

The two clubs meet in the first of an important three game series at Fenway Park today.

Detroit's three "middle-meg"—George Kell, Vic Wertz and Hoot Evers—continued big guns in Monday's triumph over the Yankees. Kell hit a single, double and triple and scored three times. Wertz slammed a double and triple and drove in two runs. Evers belted a single and home run and knocked in three runs.

Washington's surprising Senators handed Bobby Feller his second straight defeat as Sid Hudson pitched them to a 4-2 triumph over Cleveland under the Washington lights.

Brooks Remain on Top

Brooklyn retained its National League leadership, defeating the Pirates in Pittsburgh, 7-3. The Pirates staged a belated ninth-inning rally, routing starter Clem Podbielan with a two-run attack. A two run homer by Jimmy Russell, ex-Pirate; and another four bagger by Bruce Edwards were the big blows responsible for Cliff Chambers' second loss. Ralph Branca walloped his fifth four-bagger for the Pirates.

Philadelphia's Phillies remained a half game behind the Brooks edging out the Reds in an attempted pick-off play in seventh inning allowed the Phils to score the tie-breaking run.

Little Tommy Glaviano was the big man in the Cardinals' 10-3 victory over Boston Braves at St. Louis. The hustling infielder had a perfect night at the plate with four hits and a walk. His base knocks included a double and home run.

Jersey Giants Register 8-5 Win Over Toronto

If they could solve Montreal's Royals, the Jersey City Giants would be riding high today in the International League.

Joe Becker's Little Giants have lost four games—all to Montreal—while winning eight.

That alone has kept Jersey City from the league lead. The little Giants trail Montreal by one game, the Royals having won nine and lost three.

Jersey City registered victory No. 8 Monday night, defeating the Toronto Maple Leafs, 8-5, before 1,700. Monte Irvin, the Giants' hard-hitting outfielder, smacked a home run and three run triple. It was Irvin's fourth homer in three games and ninth of the season. He leads the league in that department.

Reliefer Norman Fox was the winning pitcher, while Ken Trinkle, who took over in the seventh from Paul Stuffel, was the loser.

The Springfield-Rochester tilt was postponed because of cold weather. Baltimore, Buffalo, Syracuse and Montreal were not scheduled.

Zeigler Thinks President Not Strict Enough

Toronto, May 9 — (CP) — Joe Zeigler, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International baseball league, thinks that league president Frank Shaughnessy was not severe enough in the action announced at New York Monday in regard to the fiasco in Toronto's first Sunday baseball.

Shaughnessy fined three Jersey players and one Toronto player and ordered the second game replayed from the fourth inning, following complaints that Jersey players were getting themselves out fast while Toronto players were deliberately stalling with the 6 p.m. curfew in mind.

Jersey City won the first game and were leading 4-1 in the second when the game started. Shaughnessy charged that the Giants deliberately attempted to be retired in order to make certain that five innings, a legal game, would be played. In turn Toronto players delayed proceedings as long as possible.

Zeigler said he thought the game should have been thrown out completely and replayed from the start. "I don't think it is giving the fans the proper protection to which they are entitled," he said. "It is optional with the fans whether they come to the hell park or not—more of them come when the team is winning—but when they do come they are entitled to the best effort of every man on the field from both clubs and we are going to see that they get it one way or another."

Actually five innings were completed before the curfew called a halt. Under provincial legislation allowing Sunday sports in cities which have approved it in local votes, games must be played between 1 and 6 p.m.

General Manager Charles Stoneham of Jersey City claimed his main complaint to the curfew itself. "I don't condone the action of the teams," he said, "but a curfew is bad. Games have been taking so long this season that it looks as if they'll complete few second games in Toronto on a Sunday. Every game stopped by a curfew before it has gone far enough to make a legal game will have to be replayed."

There shouldn't be any trouble on the next two Sundays, at least. Next Sunday the Leafs have a single game here against Springfield Cubs. They have another single game against Montreal Royals the following Sunday.

29 Horses Listed As Eligible For King's Plate

Toronto, May 9 — (CP) — Twenty-nine horses were listed today as eligible for the King's Plate July 27 and the list of survivors includes E. P. Taylor's colt Bon Vivant, about whose chances there is considerable doubt.

Bon Vivant all through the winter shared favoritism spot with Vince Sheridan's McGill. Reported a week ago that Bon Vivant was threatened with a breakdown in training in Kentucky caused the colt to be shipped back here early and Taylor still hasn't announced officially whether Bon Vivant will start in, the big race.

The reports were enough to drive Bon Vivant off the top rung of the favorite's ladder and the post-time installed McGill and Carr Heith's Unionville as top choices. Those two remained favorites today although only 11 days lies before the plate trial on May 20 definitely sorts out the contenders.

As last year, the plate trial will probably be split into two divisions to accommodate all hopefuls for the plate itself a week later.

Hatch's Unionville, now in training at Hamilton, bounded to the front of pre-race speculation Monday by turning in the best work of any of the plate candidates, a mile in 1.42 1-5.

The plate is run at a mile and an eighth for the King's 50 Guineas and $15,000 added by the Ontario Jockey Club. The added purse was boosted by $5,000 this spring. Altogether, with entry fees, the race should be worth $30,000.

Armand Savoie Wins Decision Over Thompson

Toronto, May 9. (CP)—Armand Savoie of Montreal, scored an unanimous eight-round decision over John (Spider) Thompson of Buffalo, N.Y., in the feature bout of a professional boxing card here last-night. Savoie weighed 138, Thompson, 123 3-4.

It was the first time in Savoie's last 14 fights that he failed to send his opponent to the canvas for a knockout. He felled the American southpaw only once—in the sixth round with a stinging right. However, Thompson always almost immediately bounced back almost immediately.

Gus Rubicini, 160, Toronto, outlasted Billy Lawton, 161 3-4, Detroit, in a tiring semi-final match that brought boos from the crowd of some 5,000. Both were dead tired in the late stages of the eight-rounder.

In the Thompson-Savoie go, the American pestered Savoie with a few jabs of his right which did no damage. His best blows were with his left hand—but ringsiders saw only four solid drives landed throughout the fight. They obviously slowed Savoie.

Savoie's heavy-slugging gave him the edge.

Danny Lewicki Star Performer In Marlies' Win

Calgary, Alta, May 9—(CP)—Toronto Marlboros paced themselves like a champion Saturday night to win fourth game of the Allan Cup final 3-1 from Calgary Stampeders. The cowboys did all the sprinting at the start but were burned out when it came to a neck-and-neck drive down the stretch.

Under their victory—which gives them a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven senior hockey championship series—the Dukes left by train for Edmonton where the playoff will be finished, the fifth game will—be played tomorrow night.

Danny Lewicki, one of the most publicized players in amateur hockey today, showed 6,000 stunned fans why rave notices come his way.

The 18-year-old leftwinger from Fort William in eight minutes of the last period scored all of Toronto's three goals.

The speedy youth slated to perform for Toronto Maple Leafs next season, got one counter by tipping in a long shot from defenceman Hugh Bolton. He got his second by pulling his famous shift, outmanoeuvring Roy Hexmer blocking his way, and then blazed an angle shot past goalie Russ Dettell.

His last goal — scored after Calgary's Dune Grant made the count 3-1 at 15.18 with a backhander from Archie Scott's relay — was the most sensational.

He took a pass from Bolton—the big, young defenceman who also has been chosen by Conn Smythe to make the jump to big time next year—and then raced in on Dertell with the Calgarians clipping at his heels. He beat the veteran Calgary goalie with a low, straight-on shot.

Pat Boehmer, 24-year-old Toronto netminder, played his best game of the series. He was severely tested in the first two periods. In the last period the cowboys, who had dominated play in the first two sessions, apparently ran out of gas.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, May 9 (CP)—It's a tight squeeze these springlike May days to get hockey news in the papers, but Canada's national winter pastime still is "horsing in" on the baseball beat. Colonel Conn Smythe, builder of the hockey's Hall of Fame to the National League and down through the Allan Cup final.

Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick cleverly reminds those charged with selections for the ice game's Hall of Fame not to overlook Alf Smith, a member of Ottawa's famed Silver Seven who, Westwick says, "helped write some stirring early chapters in Stanley Cup history."

"Few who ever saw him play will not agree that in his prime there weren't many greater rightwingers than Smith," Westwick says. "If Smith wasn't any giant physically, goal-tenders will maintain that he was among hockey players in an era when conditions forced any individual star to be a real standout."

Westwick says Vaughan showed hockey men still will hesitate before naming a much better rightwinger than Smith at his best."

Dour Picks 'Em

Doug (Windsor Daily Star)

Vaughan figures a guy can't be sued for speculating and he goes out on a limb to pick coaches for the three NHL vacancies —at Chicago, New York and Boston. Terry Reardon, coach of the Providence Reds in the American Hockey League the last two years, to succeed George (Buck) Boucher as Boston Bruins coach. Lynn Goodfellow, coach of St. Louis Flyers of the AHL and former Detroit-Red Wing star, or Frank (King) Clancy, freshman coach of Cincinnati in the AHL and former NHL great, to replace Charlie Conacher in Chicago.

Neil Colville, former New York Ranger and now coach of New Haven of the AHL, to replace Lynn Patrick in New York.

Art is Miffed

Art (Cornwall Standard-Freeholder) Cameron has been reading the stories out of Calgary about the rowdy-rowdy attitude of the managers of Toronto Marlboros and Calgary Stampeders, Allan Cup finalists. He doesn't like what he terms that "maudlin back-slapping."

". . . the managers of both teams couldn't seem to exude enough good fellowship. They complimented each other on sterling performances, uttered pretty phrases about outstanding sportsmanship and generally behaved like a bunch of dowagers at Lord Bustlebottom's annual garden party," Cameron complained.

"This maudlin back-slapping may be calculated by the strategists of both clubs to soften up the opposition. But please fellows, let's not crawl around with our hands joined like a bunch of youngsters playing ring-around-the-rosie at a Sunday school outing. What are you trying to do—take the color out of the nation's favorite sport?"

Chuck Rayner Of N.Y. Rangers Wins Hart Trophy

Montreal, May 9. (CP)—Claude (Chuck) Rayner, goalkeeper for New York, Rangers, is the 1949-50 winner of the Hart Trophy as most valuable player to his team, the National Hockey League announced Monday night.

He becomes the second goalkeeper ever to win the award. Roy Worters of the New York Americans was the winner in 1928-29.

Ted Kennedy, centre with Toronto Maple Leafs, was second choice behind Rayner, and defenceman Lee Richard, Montreal Canadiens' right winger, third.

Rayner, who is 29 years old and makes his home in Kenora, Ont., received 34 of a possible total of 54 points. Kennedy has 23 and Richard 18.

Selections are made by a panel of 18 sports writers and broadcasters from the six cities in the N.H.L. Voting was on a basis of 5-3-2-1 for first, second and third choices.

Gerry Cheevers, Detroit Red Wings, won the Hart Trophy last season.

There was a big season for goalies in pulling down top honors. The Vezina Trophy went to Bill Durnan of Montreal Canadiens, is an automatic award, going to the outstanding goalie, and on top of that Jack Gelineau, of Boston Bruins, received the Calder Memorial Trophy, as rookies of the year.

The only other major award is the Lady Byng Trophy, for outstanding play and gentlemanly conduct, which went to Edgar Laprade of Rangers.

The Rangers, who staged a surprise skating romp, wrested the Stanley Cup playoffs only to lose out finally to Detroit, emerged with two of the four individual trophies.

Gordon, Vernon To Ride Bench Says Boudreau

Washington, May 9 (CP) — Manager Lou Boudreau today yanked what was left of the brilliant infield that took his Cleveland Indians to a world championship in 1948.

Following three straight losses —two of them humiliating lickings from the Washington Senators, the veteran pilot benched aging Joe Gordon and Mickey Vernon.

With his team in fifth place, Boudreau said "I'm bringing Luke Easter from right field to first base, putting Johnny Berardino on second and installing Allie Clark in right field."

The pronouncement wrote finish to the infield hailed "excellent" two years ago. Eddie Robinson, the first baseman, was traded to Washington last year for Vernon; Ken Keltner, now with Boston, was given an outright release earlier this season: Boudreau has benched himself, and Gordon, the last of the hot-potch combination, now has joined the utilities squad.

Gordon, called "Flash" when he spearheaded New York Yankees to American League pennants, faintly resembles his former self. The 30-year-old second sacker has slowed down perceptibly, his infield play has been shoddy and his hitting an anemic .246.

CONNECTS AMERASIA AND A-SPIES

Senator Joseph R. McCarthy, above, said on Thursday that a witness will testify that "reports were discovered in the magazine Amerasia office" which showed that six months before the atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima the people who operated Amerasia, with the assistance of State Department personnel, were collecting and transmitting to Soviet Russia the secrets of the atomic bomb." President Truman's sudden decision to release loyalty files on government personnel accused of communist activities coincides with the intense inquiry of the 1945 Amerasia case. — Central Press Canadian.

The Red Dean of Canterbury, England, Rev. Hewlett Johnson, above, is barred from entering or passing through American territory, according to the State Department. The Department says "new information" received by it makes him ineligible for a visa, under a law which forbids entrance to any person advocating the ute of force to overthrow the government. — Central Press Canadian.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, May 9—(AP)—How can you make a picture about bull fighting without showing the bull being killed?

That is the problem facing Robert Rossen, who won the latest academy award with his film, "All The King's Men". The writer-director-producer is making the Tom Lea novel, "The Brave Bulls", into a movie. Censorship codes decree that he cannot show the matador's sword dispatching the bull.

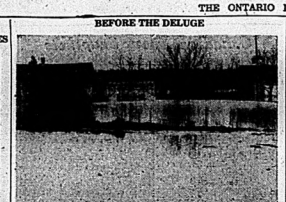
That's the problem facing all bull fight pictures. It wasn't solved in the Ester Williams film of a few seasons back, "Fiesta". That fantasy showed all the flourish of the bull arena, but skirted the actual fighting. To anyone unfamiliar with bullfighting it resembled a ballet with animals.

"We aren't able to show the matador applying the blade or the bull dying," admitted Rossen. "But we will show everything else. The actual moment of the kill will be depicted by reaction, rather than action. We'll see the effect on the faces of the crowd and Mel Ferrer, the matador."

I asked if he is ready for the protests of animal lovers who dislike the bull fights.

"Well," he grinned, "I haven't made a picture that someone didn't protest."

Does he think bull fighting is cruel?



"It doesn't seem so to me. . . all cattle have to die, and a bull being readied for the fight lives like a king for four years. He is given the best food and quarters. He fights only once and dies, and after 15 minutes, he dies in his peak."

For a balancing viewpoint, I asked Alexander Tilley of the local society for the prevention of cruelty to animals. Said he: "Killing of cattle in stockyards is instantaneous; the animal doesn't realize the approach of death. But in the bull fight, the animal is fighting for his life. He is stuck by little darts and dies an agonizing death. That is certainly not humane."

SURVEY FLIGHTS START

Crosby Denies Rift Between Him and Wife

Paris, May 9. (AP)— Bing Crosby flatly denied Monday night that there is any rift between him and his wife, Dixie Lee.

Earlier Monday in Hollywood, John O'Melveney, counsel for the movie and radio crooner, said "there are some strained relations" between Crosby and his wife.

Crosby, who has been in Europe for some weeks, said:

"These reports crop up every four or five months. Some columnist must have started it."

Crosby said he had received a letter from his wife three or four days ago and that "everything was all right there."

The singer said he just could not explain why one of his lawyers "and I have two or three of them"—had given out a report of strained relations in his family.

WILL INSTALL FLOOR

Niagara Falls, May 9—(CP)— City Council voted Monday night to install a $9,210 floor in the new memorial arena, after receiving a report from city manager W. S. Orr that profits on the first two months operation amounted to $3,800.

AT THE CAPITOL — Ginger Rogers co-stars with Dennis Morgan in Warner Bros'. "Perfect Strangers," today and Wednesday, at the Capitol Theatre, for its first city showing. The story concerns two jurors who meet and fall in love while serving in a murder trial. On the same program a new comedy, "Trouble Preferred," with Peggy Knudsen, Lynne Roberts and Charles Russell.

Assembly

Mr. Youdale's form put on the assembly last Wednesday. The pupils put their all into it to make it the success it was. They had some unusual skits. We think the one of the Model "A" Ford was especially "cute" and definitely new. Mr. Youdale replaced the band at the organ for the opening and closing. For once the boys of the band had a chance to sit back in regular seats and watch the performance.

Glee Club

The Glee Club presented $150 to the Students' Council to be added to the purchase of the Athletic field; just another one of the many services the Glee Club renders to the school.

The Girls' Athletic Society is having its election of officers to fill the positions which will be vacated next year. It is proving to be a stiff battle, for all those running are worthy candidates.

Highlight of the past week was the visit of the Honorable Leslie B Pearson, who spoke to the student body. He gave a much enjoyed speech to the assembly. One feels assured that Canada is in good hands.

A new club, the Keyette club, is being formed in the school to counter-balance the Boys' Key Club. Their first meeting was held last Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. May it be a success.

Weather forecast for next week:
Monday: windy.
Tuesday: below zero.
Wednesday: cloudy.
Thursday: rain.
Friday: cadets, drenched by rain, turned blue by the cold, hats knocked off by the wind and made generally unhappy by the clouds. ? !! ("ain't it de truth!")

Sports

"For it's one, two, three and you're out - - -" That's the phrase that could be heard Wednesday at noon and at four o'clock when the G 12 B "Rambling Rats" played the G 12 B "Cruel Cats." For a neat switch, this time the "Rats" caught the "Cats." Score—26-12.

George Ewald did it again! He broke his own record that he set last year in the five-miler. Last year's time was 32 minutes to this year's 31 minutes and 55 seconds. A close second was Bill Coughlin followed by Ed (Murdy) McLay. Congratulations boys! Some others are also to receive congratulations in regard to the race. The system of reporting the race at different intervals along the route, made the contest more exciting to the spectators on the campus.

A few devotees of the sport, badminton, have formed a club and are now playing a series of games with the O.S.D.

Seeding Stalled By Poor Weather In Ontario

Toronto, May 9 (CP)— Farmers throughout Ontario report seeding operations stalled by poor weather.

Cold, rainy weather — and in some cases snow—has held things up recently, the Ontario Agriculture Department said today in its weekly crop report. In sections where seeding had been started, the weather has brought things to a standstill.

Fall wheat crops look good in some counties but heaving has done damage to other crops.

Bowlers Conclude Season With Banquet

The Bakelite Employees Bowling League concluded a successful season with a banquet held at the Golden Arce Inn.

Canada's Fire Losses Down

Quebec, May 9 (CP)— Canada's fire losses in 1949 totalled $65,918,776 compared with a total of $67,584,049 the previous year, E. Scholfield, executive officer of the Dominion Fire Prevention Association, told the 32nd annual meeting here Monday.

Scholfield told the convention held in connection with the annual conference of the Association of Canadian Fire Marshals, that fires due to smokers' carelessness totalled 17,904 last year compared with 16,862 in 1948 and caused damage estimated at $3,528,564 compared with $3,141,390 in 1948.

Little Benny's Note Book

I ast me to give me her half a dollar change from the market, and I felt it in my pants pocket while I was talkin to Mary Watkins in front of her house, and I took it out and started to throw it up in the air and catch it, and Mary Watkins said, My, where did you get all that?

Oh, it's only a half a dollar, I could spend that as easy as pie, I said.

Not actually saying it belonged to me, and I stuck it back in my pocket as careless as if it was only a cent, and just then the Happy Days man started to drive down the street playing his tune on his music box, and Mary Watkins said, Oh dear, I haven't had a Happy Days chocolit frosty-bar since I dont know when.

Sounding like a hint, and I thawt, Heck, now she thinks I'm rich. And I said, I haven't either, she'll be sorry. It's so near supper time, or I'd buy a couple, I said, and she said, Oh, dont worry about me, I dont expect to get anything to spoil my appetite for supper than a chocolit frostybar, do you? I said.

Well no, not exactly, I guess, I said. But anyways, your mother would probably find out what spoilt your appetite, and I'd get the blame for it, I said, and she said, Dont you think I can keep a secret?

Oh, I'm sure, but there's always some bizzybody around spying on innocent people, I said, and Mary Watkins said, It's certainly wonderful how you worry about people. You better be careful or you'll turn a angel while you are still alive. I'm going in, she said.

Which she did, and I went home feeling like a narrow escape, and I quick gave ma her half a dollar, feeling the most relieved I felt about giving change back.

Radio Station Staff Men With Wireless on Scene

Riviere Du Loup, Que., May 9 (CP) — Two staff men from radio station CJFP equipped with wireless reported today from Cabano that 40 houses and three hotels have burned in that milling town.

Cabano is only some 50 miles south of the fire ravaged city of Rimouski. It is also near the New Brunswick border and has a population of about 2,000.

Luc Simard and Rene Viel, the CJFP men on the scene, reported to the station here that the fire started about 10 a. m. EDT in the yard of a sawmill belonging to Ernest Pelletier and was out of control.

They said the flames, driven westward by a strong wind, had attacked the lumber yards of the Fraser Company and threatened the Fraser sawmill.

BADLY BURNED

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 9 — (CP) — Charles Lennox, 20, and George Myers, 19, two employees of a soft drink plant, were badly burned here today when a quantity of caustic soda boiled over on them. Both were taken to hospital.

Residents Protest Against Putting On Storm Windows

Kitchener, May 9 (CP)— This is the time of the year when most people are removing their storm windows. But not the folks in the Lancaster housing subdivision.

Storm windows were finally installed there a few days ago after a two-year wait. Residents have argued against the decision to put the windows on now that spring is here, but representatives of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation say the windows must remain until a corporation inspector arrives to check them.

Occupants are hoping the inspector doesn't take as long to get here as the windows.

Committee Will Consult Dept. On Flood Control

Hespeler, Ont., May 9—(CP)—A meeting Monday night between town council and representatives of industry decided to send a committee to Toronto to consult the Department of Planning and Development on flood control measures on Speed River here.

In a recent flood, nine industries, the Canadian National Railways and the town suffered damage totalling $165,326. It is planned to consult the Highways Department regarding the Guelph Avenue bridge. Its opening is not deep enough to pass the extra run of water at the crest of the flood.

10,000 Sand Bags Flown to Winnipeg

Edmonton, May 9 (CP)—First shipment of 10,000 sand bags donated by Edmonton citizens to help fight the Winnipeg floods left here today aboard an RCAF transport.

The bags were among thousands taken by RCMP and city police headquarters following an appeal Monday by Premier N. C. Manning. A second shipment is expected to leave later today.

In making the appeal, Premier Manning urged householders to scour basements and store rooms for anything that would hold sand and deliver the bags to the nearest detachment of the RCMP.

CRITICAL DAY NEAR

These Siamese twins, Brenda and Beverley Townsend, now nearly six months old, are in Royal Alexandra Hospital in Edmonton where an operation to separate them will be attempted May 14. Doctors will seek to cut through the bone, skin and tissue to separate them and divide their common liver. Here, Miss Anne Dickson of Edmonton, one of the few persons permitted in the babies' isolated ward, gives orange juice to one while the other anxiously awaits her bottle. — (CP Photo.)

MARMORA

Marmora — Sherman Polmateer of Timmins is visiting his sister, Mrs. Cyril Tandy, and renewing acquaintances locally.

Rev. D. C. McLelland, Field Secretary of the Ontario Temperance Federation addressed a well-attended meeting in Marmora Free Methodist Church on Friday evening, and showed a sound film "The Payoff".

The executive of Marmora Home and School Association met for a short business session in the Public School on Thursday evening. Plans were made for the open meeting of this month at which the new slate of officers will be presented. A committee was appointed to procure shrubs for planting on the school grounds.

Mr. Frank Leal returned home from Belleville General Hospital, on Wednesday.

BURR'S

Burrs — Mrs. F. Osterhout, Mrs. C. Fulford, Mrs. R. Burr and Mrs. Ronald Burr attended Crofton W.A. at the home of Mrs. W. Soble on Thursday afternoon.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Omar Diggins on the birth of a daughter, Sunday morning, at the Picton hospital.

Arbor Day was observed by Miss Tait and pupils. The school grounds were nicely cleaned and a hike to the woods was much enjoyed.

The second Mission Band meeting was held at the school Wednesday afternoon.

It was decided members would subscribe for Mission Story Magazine. Third meeting will be held May 17th after which an outing in the woods is planned.

Mrs. Fred Purtelle has sold her farm on Hillier 5th to Mr. Clarence Vincent. Mr. Vincent has sold his farm to Mrt Floyd Huffman. Mr. P. Koger and family moved to this farm Monday, where they will be employed by Mr. Huffman.

THREE YEARS FOR ESCAPE

Sudbury, May 9 (CP)— John Broadbent of Gravenhurst Monday was sentenced to three years in penitentiary from nearby Burwash Industrial Farm and for breaking, entering and theft during his 24 hours of freedom.

Broadbent escaped a 12-month term for shopbreaking and theft April 24 and joined a three-man gang at Burwash May 1. He was recaptured the next day. He was in Sudbury for the first time in a year for a similar escape attempt.

DEPARTMENT GIVEN $200

Pembroke, May 9 — (CP) — Pembroke Fire Department Monday received a donation of $200 from Fire Chief Ernest Hagarty from Pembroke Shook Mills Limited.

The sum was handed to Fire Chief R. P. Dey in recognition of the "excellent work" by Pembroke firemen in fighting a blaze in one of the company's lumber yards April 17.

A letter of thanks from L. M. Crandall, president and general manager, accompanied the cheque.

Kingsridge

By Alice Ross Colver

...little smile touched the corners of her wide mouth and...danced suddenly in her...-gray eyes. Turning, she...t with her clean-limbed, ...grace which she had never ...into the library where a ...home stood on the desk, and, ...cent later she was talking ...ry.

"But don't know me," she ...in her easy, drawling way, ...you may remember my name ...Brandt, Alicia Brandt."

...mault? Oh! Oh, yes. You ...the last one to see my mo...alive. I remember very well. ...were the one who was so ...to her that night."

...forgot it," Alicia Brandt said ...friendly brusqueness, "I ...didn't call you for that. I called to extend the welcome to you that I didn't get a chance to offer last night. To say how glad we are to see you again and to ask if you will have dinner with Lester and me some night soon? Because you are going to stay in Kingsridge, aren't you?"

She waited hearing his surprise in his brief silence, his caution, and then his rising pleasure in his following words.

"Well my plans are uncertain at the moment. But I'll be here for a few days, anyway. And it's awfully nice of you! I think dinner would be delightful."

"Good. Now let me think a minute. Not tomorrow. Nor Tuesday. Wednesday? That's New Year's eve and the night of the Assembly Dance at the Country Club. But we aren't going. What about you?"

Gerry gave his short, hard laugh. "I was hardly planning to go, either."

"Wednesday, then?"

"Yes. Yes, thanks a lot. What time did you say?"

Alicia's chuckle sounded over the wire. "I didn't say. But I will now. Seven-thirty. And we'll be informal, of course."

"I'll certainly be there. And, again, thanks most awfully."

Alicia hung up feeling a tingling lift of excitement. Out of a purely friendly gesture—well, not quite pure, but still! Out of a friendliness that was based on her feeling that no one deserved a freeze-out without even a chance, something new and different was going to happen. Something that promised to be rather interesting. With herself and Gerry and Susan and Donald on one side and the Kings and Parks on the other it would be very interesting indeed.

She wasn't sure on which side Lester would be but "I don't care," she said aloud to herself. "I really don't care." And she trailed her way up to her room to dress for the day.

It was New Year's eve, the night of the Assembly Dance to which Susan had gone with Timothy. They were on the floor now circling slowly to the music and Timothy was holding her as if she were a piece of fragile, precious porcelain. He couldn't help it. It was the way he felt about her. Always, ever since she had been an elfin child of two toddling across his mother's garden next door to the Park house, and he a stalwart six, he had felt that way. He had appointed himself then as her watchful guardian and so he had remained throughout the years. No matter what he was doing, or with whom, he had had an eye out for Susan. He picked her up when she fell. He comforted her when she wept. He defended her from teasing and calmed her when she went into one of her tiny rages. The disparity of six years between their ages an enormous gap in their childhood, was ignored. And now that she was grown up to him it was forgotten. To the world of their town Susan was Timothy's girl. Everybody accepted it as a fact except Susan and Timothy. To her he was just Timothy. And he knew it. Perhaps, if he showed her what he felt—but he had never dared. His instinct told him the time was not yet ripe.

At the moment his clean cut, well-bred face above her dark head was tight with anxiety. The whole evening she had talked about nothing but Gerry Barton, with grave yet ardent sympathy she had told of his boyhood struggle. With pride she had told of his army career. With impish delight she had told of the impasse she had presented to her family. She was still speaking of it.

"He's going to stay here, Right at the Inn. And there isn't a thing they can do," she was saying. "What's more, they know it. They can't stop me from seeing him either I'm of age. Why, I could even marry Gerry if I wanted to tomorrow.

The words hit him as if they had been a physical blow. This was what he had always been afraid of—that before she ever really took a good look at him, she would see someone else. It was sickening. But he only said, "Let's go somewhere and talk."

They found a retreat under the stairs where there were two easy chairs on either side of a lamplit table Here, with the music coming faintly to their ears, Susan saw Timothy's face set in a strange expression.

"What's the matter?"

He looked at her. It was incredible to him that she did not know all he was feeling. But it was his own fault. He had been so careful to demand nothing from her in the way of attention or consideration. It was enough he had thought, to fit into the background of her life, to be there always so she was wanted or needed him. Now he saw that he had too well succeeded. He was merely a prop in her stage. A prop out of place for the moment and therefore faintly troubling to her. But only faintly.

Susan repeated her question and Timothy pulled himself together.

"Oh, Well, that was such a crazy thing for you to say."

"What was?"

"That you could marry Gerry tomorrow."

He saw her eyes, wide and candid, yet in them he saw, too, the flickering uncertain light of passion stirring and was warned by it to be careful.

"Well, of course," he agreed slowly. "Literally speaking, you could. But do you want to?"

"I don't know, Tim."

Her answer was frank enough, yet he persisted in a suspenseful dread, for something more definite, more reassuring.

"Whatever made you even think of it?"

She debated her reply, her color rising. "When he kissed me," she answered at last, in a soft breathlessness.

He knew and had never more than now had she needed his vigilant watchfulness, his guarding protection, and never more than now had he felt less able to offer it. In a kind of desperation he saw the tides and currents of life sweeping her inexorably away from him and himself powerless to stop them or to stay by her side. With a muscle in his cheek jumping, he said in the most nonchalant tone he could muster, "But Sue, even with that you don't know him."

"I do know him."

He managed a laugh. "Why you can't possibly. You've seen him only a few times."

She put out her hand and laid it on his arm. "Tim. Don't you be against him, too. I couldn't bear it. He needs a friend. When I go back to school next week and Don to college you must be nice to him, Promise?"

"That's off the subject."

She shook her head and dropped her hand. "Not as much as you think. You'll understand it when you've talked with him once or twice, how quickly you can know him. He, well, he does not pretend. The way a lot of us do, I mean. He's right out in the open."

Timothy was silent, his eyes screwed up into sharp bright pin points of light as she went on.

"Besides, you don't have to know a person a million years. Some people you just feel. In your blood and bones, I . ." She raised her glance to his, "I felt him the minute he came in our front door. You know I did, Tim."

What could he say? He did know it. Something had happened between them when they first saw each other. Yet it was something that shouldn't go on happening. He knew that, too. He felt that in his bones. There was a wildness, a hardness in Gerry that would not make Susan happy. He had watched them together that night and he had seen it. He took out his cigarettes now and lit one, forgetting to pass them to her until she reached out a hand.

"Sorry." He held his lighter for her. Through the swirling smoke his face was still troubled. But he was smiling.

"Now that Alicia Brandt had befriended him," she was saying, "I don't feel quite so badly about leaving him. He's having dinner at her house tonight." She laughed suddenly, throwing her head way back so that he saw the lovely line of her white throat. "And does that burn Nanna up!"

"You don't care how much you hurt your family, do you?" he said, not knowing what else to say.

"I'm not hurting them. They're hurting themselves. I'm not in the least responsible for the attitude they take. They had it before I was born." She shook the ashes from her cigarette onto the floor at her feet. "Tim don't you honestly believe everyone should have a fair chance?"

He did, of course. But it was not a fair question. It tangled up his love for Susan with his intense sense of decency. Besides, he didn't believe it was true that all Gerry wanted was an opportunity to live here in Kingsridge, to make friends like anybody else, to live a living on the level to which he had struggled and where he felt he belonged. Timothy just didn't believe it. Something in him told him that that wasn't really what Gerry wanted.

Susan saw his hesitancy and pushed on.

"You're going to be here. Don and I have to go away. But you're going to be here. You have a job. You're settled. Surely you can afford to help Gerry just a little Tim."

He parried for more time. "How do you mean—help?"

"Be nice to him. That's it, chiefly. And if you hear of any opening— because he'd got to work, you know. He can't go on living there and earning nothing for long. Will you, Tim?"

He said slowly, "if you'll promise me something."

"What?"

"Don't do anything sudden. With Gerry. I mean. Tell me first, Sue."

He waited for her answer, frantic within but holding himself to a steady quiet waiting.

"All right," he said finally, "I promise." She lifted her hand and touched the small cowlick in his crisp hair with one finger. "You are such a dear, Tim. Really, you are. I don't know what I'd do without you. I . ." She paused. "I can count on you. It's a good feeling. Very nice."

WOMEN, CHILDREN URGED TO LEAVE WINNIPEG

Half of Cabano Completely Ruined By $6,000,000 Fire

122 Buildings Burn, 1,500 Citizens Rendered Homeless

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Cabano, Que., May 10 — (CP)— A swift, $6,000,000 blaze that destroyed half of this Temiscouata county town of 3,200 inhabitants was brought under control early today.

An early-morning rain put the finishing touches to smouldering embers but added to the discomfort of refugees.

This was the second fire disaster in four days to strike the lower St. Lawrence River area and troops who had been on duty in Rimouski where a $20,000,000 fire brought devastation Saturday and Sunday came here to help bring order out of chaos.

There was no known loss of life.

As was the case in Rimouski, high winds Tuesday whipped the blaze through the predominantly-wooden structures with lightning-like rapidity.

The army and the Red Cross were fast to move in to provide relief in a town where there is no electric power except in a few homes with its own dieticl. The water system is broken down too.

For Cabano, this has been disaster, eased only by the fact that nobody lost life.

COAL, STEEL POOL SEEN AS POSSIBLE SOLUTION IN WEST

By SYDNEY MIKKIN

London, May 10—(AP)— A French proposal to pool Europe's coal and steel was seen here today as a possible solution to a major cold war problem facing the west—how to integrate Germany's economy into the western front.

Western diplomats see for the Big Three talks beginning tomorrow evil any German co-operation the most important step necessary to bolster the west against Russia.

Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France proposed that the pooling start with France's own rich Lorraine and Saar areas and Germany's industrial Ruhr Valley.

'Generous' Says Adenauer

West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer quickly termed the proposal a "generous step by France towards Germany."

At the same time Adenauer announced his government already was planning a step toward parliafdiation in European unity. Adenauer said his cabinet had accepted an invitation for West Germany to enter the council of Europe as an associate member. He would have an advisory status in the council's consultative assembly but would not be represented on the controlling committee of foreign ministers.

Schuman proposed that a "common high authority" would control the France-German coal and steel output, and that other European countries "can or went" would be invited to join the pool.

France already controls the coal mines of the near-autonomous Saar region, which was attached to Germany before the second World War. West Germany's Ruhr mines now are under international control of the allied occupation authorities.

The French proposal was expected to be discussed when the Big Three foreign ministers of Britain, the United States and France begin their talks here tomorrow.

British Attitude

There were indications that Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain will be reluctant to endorse the plan. Britain is reported to feel the western allies should go slowly in dealing with Germany. She wants the Germans to prove they can be trusted to stay with the west after they join it.

Britain also may fear that a combination of French and German resources would deprive her of her dominant position in Europe's steel industry.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS:

Toronto, May 10 (CP)—Synopsis: The storm over Northern Ontario is now centred over James Bay and continues moving northeastward. A ridge of pressure lies over Ontario, but in southern and central regions the rain has moved off eastward and skies are clearing in Southwestern Ontario.

Cold air is again flowing southward across Northwestern Ontario and will bring snow to northern regions and colder weather to southern and central regions.

Moist air from the Gulf of Mexico pushing slowly northward over southern states is causing a band of rain and thunderstorms extending northward to near Lake Erie. This precipitation is expected to move eastward just south of the lower lakes.

Blind 14 Years, Woman Screams As She Sees Tree

Uniontown, Pa., May 10 (AP) — Mrs. Mary Frenz looked out of a window in her home, then went to the door and screamed. Not probably for long, though, if you could see for the first time in 14 years.

Mrs. Frenz, 44-year-old mother of three sons, became blind following an accident. She lost the sight of her right eye first, then the left weakened and failed completely.

In those 14 years of darkness, her sons grew up. Her husband died 16 months ago.

Then came May. Mrs. Frenz became conscious of brilliant flashes of light. That's when she went to the window and this is what she saw:

It looked like a lot of strings flying around outside. As I focused my eyes, I realized it was branches of a nearby tree. I could see!

"At 10 in a dream I made my way to the door and screamed. I was frightened."

Doctors say a cataract "must have dislocated," causing Mrs. Frenz to regain her sight.

HOUSE DECIDES AGAINST ACTION TO OUTLAW REDS

PC Motion Defeated By 147 to 22 Vote

Ottawa, May 10 (CP)— The Commons decided Tuesday that Canada should not attempt to deal with threats from subversive forces in the form of communism and similar activities.

Winding up a debate in which all parties expressed their opposition to the Red doctrine, members voted 147 to 22 against a Progressive Conservative motion to outlaw communism, and other movements regarded as a threat to security.

The majority supported the government's view that existing anti-subversive laws are adequate to deal with the activities of fascists, communists and any other groups which might advocate forceful overthrow of the government.

In the division, the Progressive Conservatives were supported by Wilfrid Lacroix (L-Quebec Montmorency), Dr. R. Pouliog (Lit-Beauce) and P. E. Gagnon (Ind.-Chicoutimi). In two previous sessions, Mr. Lacroix was unsuccessfully to have communism outlawed.

When the discussion turned from communism to other matters, Justice Minister Garson and acting Postmaster General Lapointe defended the government's recent action in denying the use of the mails to 82 postal addresses in the Toronto area.

Amend Post Office Act

Mr. Garson disclosed that the government plans to amend the post office act to allow appeals to the courts by persons denied the use of the mails.

Expects High Coffee Prices for 5 Years

Napanee, May 10 (CP)— Coffee will be expensive and minimum prices for at least another five years, J. S. MacDonald, Canadian Ambassador to Brazil, said today. In a speech at the Rotary Club, he said increased demands for coffee from the United States coupled with poor crops in Brazil will keep coffee prices at a high level.

VANCOUVER TEAM WINS

Toronto, May 10 — (CP) —A Vancouver team has won the Lewis M. Wood Trophy awarded to the best lawn bowlers' Canadian championship team, it was announced Tuesday night. Vancouver rolled 2,918 last week.

Runner-up was second with 2,794 and Toronto came third with 2,718. Each consisted of five players and rules require that at least one member must be totally blind.

Port Huron Citizens Bow in Prayer On Streets, at Work for Child's Safety

(Port Huron, Mich., May 10 — (AP)— Citizens bowed their heads in prayer here yesterday for the safe return of blonde, blue-eyed two-year-old Brian Marshall, who vanished from his yard without a trace May 1.

Acting Mayor Thomas Woods asked Port Huron's citizens to pray for a miracle at noon, Marshall's work gang to stop and on the streets joined him.

Most activity in the widespread search was concentrated in Wyandotte , a Detroit suburb, where a bakery shop operator told police he saw a woman with a boy answering Brian's description Thursday.

Two high school girls verified Van Atkinson's story, down through his asking the boy where he was from, the women's quick action in notifying Port Huron."

Previously persons reported seeing a similar woman and a boy in River Rouge, near Wyandotte, last Tuesday.

Dragging of the St. Clair River, which skirts the fenced-in yard from which the child vanished, was resumed today, and Sheriff Fernis Lucas said it still is "most likely" the boy was drowned.

Brian was the adopted son of Marshall Mr. and Mrs. John Ed Marshall, who before the child's abducted but say they have received no ransom demands.

Meantime, rewards in connection with the boy's disappearance jumped to $1,500 today.

The Port Huron Times Herald offered $250 to anyone who finds the boy's body in the river. Previously the Times Herald offered $500 and the boy parents and his grandmother, Mrs. Edith Erd offered $1,000 for information leading to his safe return.

The Detroit News also offered $1,000 in the case.

Trapped Man in Well Shaft Almost Unconscious, Workers Toil Feverishly to Rescue Him

New York, May 10. (AP)— Dominick Atteo was almost unconscious from pain and exhaustion as rescue workers toiled today to rescue him from the bottom of a 20-foot well shaft.

A physician, Dr. Harold Berson, was lowered into the shaft at mid-morning and administered more stimulant to Atteo, who had been buried up to his waist for nearly 24 hours. One leg was pinioned by a boulder.

The physician said the 49-year-old well-digger was in "precarious" state. Atteo's pulse was weak and his breathing shallow, the doctor said.

A few minutes before Atteo had cried, "I can't stand any more! Where's my belt? Where's my belt?"

A Roman Catholic priest today sprinkled holy water into the well which Atteo had been digging in a Brooklyn garage.

Rescue workers had dug a secondary shaft down to his level and knocked out the dirt wall between the two shafts to about eight feet above his head.

Wife Collapses

Atteo's comely wife, Maria, 32, collapsed with an all-night vigil at the mouth of the shaft. But later she was back at the shaft with her tear-stained face shut, her lips moving soundlessly.

Nearby was the first wife, John, 26, sat with his face cradled

Atteo, father of six children, suffered burns of the hands and face when a lighted cigaret passed down to him exploded from the effects of oxygen piped into the fetid well bottom.

A physician had gone down three times to aid him called the trapped man's endurance "amazing", but feared the worst if rescue work was delayed long.

Workers Use Everything

The rescue task began almost immediately after the accident.

While sweating emergency crews used everything from a power crane to hand trowels to speed the work. Atteo's young and tearful wife knelt by the gaping hole and called down:

"Dominick, you'll be all right.

The trapped man called back, "I'm tired . . . I'm awful tired".

Atteo, a contractor, started to dig the well a week in an effort to tap water for washing cars in the garage. City water cannot be used for that purpose during New York City's water shortage.

Dr. Berson, a 25-year-old interne, made the descents into the shaft to tend the suffering man. he gave Atteo two quarts of blood plasma, made him drink six quarts of milk, and administered two injections of morphine to ease his pain.

Labor Reaches Dead-End, Fails to Thaw Govt. Wage Plan

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, May 10 — (CP) —Organized labor seems to be at a dead-end in its efforts to find a way round Britain's 2 1-2-year-old wage-restraint policy.

After more than four days of three hours, trade union leaders admitted they had found no feasible way of "thawing" the labor government's official wages policy, described by some union spokesmen as a "deep freeze" which will be unfrozen gradually to an ultimate ice age.

They were back for three main problems of a special economic committee, appointed by the trades union congress to decide labor's next step in its wage negotiations with the government:

1. What to do about lower-paid workers. In a House of Commons speech this week, a labor member calculated that there are 2,000,000 fully employed workers in Britain earning less than £5 ($15.50) a week. (Britain's national wage average is about £7 or $21).

Everyone agrees that low-salary groups must be granted an increase. The problem is how far the government can go without creating a wage-price spiral which would oppose any narrowing of the differential between skilled and non-skilled rates.

2. How to get "together" with Sir Stafford Cripps. In his April budget the Chancellor of the Exchequer ignored union proposals for a reduction of the purchase tax, increased family allowance and other concessions.

3. How to handle unions which want to ignore government policy. So far, more than 5,000,000 of the T.U.C.'s 8,000,000 members are pressing wages claims in defiance both of the government and of the official trade-union endorsement of government policy.

Tragedy is Written on Faces Of People in Devastated Cabano

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Cabano, Que., May 10 —(CP) — A lad approached an army medical corps man and asked:

"Will you have a place for sleeping—there are 12 of us and our father is burned."

That was one of hundreds of similar scenes in this fire-devastated little town, largest centre of Temiscouata County. Few are the army or Red Cross officials or anyone looking like an outsider who was not asked where food can be had, where shelter can be provided.

The askers represented the cosmic cross-section of this peaceful, hardworking residents of this town. Flames Tuesday left them homeless and without

EMPIRE PREFERENCE

London, May 10—(Reuters)—A call to the British government to stand firm on empire preference at the September international tariff talks was made Tuesday by the British Empire Producers Organization. It addressed an open letter to the board of trade, "urging that no further reductions or eliminations or preferences be accepted at the tariff talks which are to start at Torquay Sept. 28.

TO EXTEND SERVICES

Ottawa, May 10 — (CP)

Ottawa Board of Control has given the go-ahead signal for a $1,-?20,000 expansion of the city's waterworks services. Heading the list is a 42-inch water main extending from Scott Street and the Bayview Road in Ottawa west to the New Carlington reservoir. Cost has been placed at $1,500,000.

18,000 FIREMEN ON FOUR BIG U.S. RAILWAYS STRIKE

Many Others Will be Made Idle by Walkout

Chicago, May 10 — (AP) — Railroad firemen went on strike today on four big United States railroad systems as Federal mediators kept trying to halt the walkout.

It was the first major U. S. railroad strike since May, 1946.

The strike of some 18,000 firemen, threatening to cut sharply into the country's rail transportation, became effective at 6 a.m. Standard Time. About an hour later, Federal mediators still were trying to get negotiators and union officials to reach an agreement.

They had been trying for nearly 24 consecutive hours. But there was no peace when the strike deadline in the eastern and central time zones passed.

The strike area, as defined by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, includes the Pennsylvania lines west of Harrisburg, Pa.; the New York Central system west of Buffalo, N. Y., and all of the Santa Fe system and the Southern Pacific way.

Union spokesmen said that some 90 per cent of the affected lines are in the eastern and central time zones.

They added that some 50,000 to 100,000 other railroad workers would be made idle by the walkout.

Wants Second Fireman

The long dispute is over the union's demand for a second fireman on all multiple United diesel locomotives. Two presidential fact-finding boards rejected the union's demand.

The union originally had scheduled a strike for April 26. But the walkout was postponed for two weeks.

Cult Members Put Torch to Five Buildings

Nelson, B.C., May 10 (CP)— As a cell door clanged shut behind her Tuesday, a woman of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect shouted: "I will burn until we are all proved guilty."

Fred Maloff was one of 31 Sons—15 women and 14 men—herded into jail here following a fire-raid at nearby Krestova late Monday.

Stripping as they intoned their fire-is-like hymns, members of the cult put the torch to five dwellings in their "capital."

Two of those arrested by Provincial Police were charged with arson. Police said the others will be charged with nudism.

The Sons had said after previous fire-raids they were practising the "coming Third World War."

Thousands Visit Zoo Daily to Watch Polar Bear Cub Cavort With Mother

London, May 10 — (CP) — London is just a zoo town in its last debutante, and that goes for kids, grown-ups and newspaper men.

She's called Brumas, but she isn't quite four months old, weighs a little more than 60 lbs. and in her still - spotless white fur coat is a cuddly, cannibal, ballerina and clown rolled into one. She's also quite a swimmer.

The cause of all this Brumas is the only polar bear to have been bred and reared in captivity.

The London Zoo, in Regent's Park, was the birthplace and is large - scale photos of a polar bear and her cub—even if they were the first ever! One morning newspaper carries a picture of Brumas on its front page.

Purpose of Appeal Relieve Overtaxed City Facilities

New Thousands are Driven To Refuge by Flooded River

Winnipeg, May 10 — (CP) — Flood control headquarters today recommended that as many women and children as possible leave Winnipeg at once, before the Red River flood situation get worse — as it must.

Purpose of the appeal is to relieve, as far as possible, the overtaxed city facilities.

Brig. R. E. A. Morton, flood relief controller, emphasized this was an appeal — not an order.

He said:

"Not only is the flood interfering with our daily lives; it may cause some dislocation of utilities such as telephone and transportation.

Unsatisfactory For Health

"The congestion caused by evacuees doubling the population in some Winnipeg districts is unsatisfactory from a health and public-services viewpoint.

"For example, sanitation and hygiene will become more difficult; the supply of milk for infants may be temporarily interrupted; in all districts central heating has been discontinued.

"In view of all this possible discomfort, families resident in Winnipeg are urged to send their wives and children outside the flood area.

"The Red Cross have facilities for procuring accommodation outside the flood area for those who have no cottages, friends or relatives beyond Winnipeg."

Brig. Morton said wholesale grocers have given assurance that adequate supplies of foodstuffs will be sent immediately to resort areas.

Fuel supplies are also being arranged.

Railways would inaugurate and increase train service to summer home areas, mostly located along the shore of Lake Winnipeg and at Lake of the Woods in northwestern Ontario.

The chairman of as many "noncombatants" as possible from the area will help make easier the task of those fighting the flood, the brigadier said.

Will Relieve Pressure

This suggestion for voluntary evacuation of women and children does not include those carrying on normal business activity. It will relieve the pressure on sewers, traffic arteries and transportation facilities," said the brigadier.

"Those who can conveniently evacuate their families to points outside Winnipeg are urged to do so without delay.

Brig. Morton called the proposed out-of-Winnipeg movement "shining on the side of safety."

He said he cannot predict how how much further the Red River will rise. It could rise a foot. It might be an inch; it might be a foot.

SENATE LAUNCHES DRIVE TO AVERT THIRD WORLD WAR

Ottawa, May 10 (CP)— A campaign to get Canada to back the world-government as a means of averting a third world war has been launched in the Senate.

Senator W. Q. Zuker (L-Ontario) introduced a motion Tuesday, asking the Upper Chamber to approve the idea to get North Atlantic pact nations together to explore the possibilities of federal union.

In launching his campaign, Senator Zuker, who succeeded his 1945 battle to make marriage legal, made these points:

1. Unless all this possible discomfort, families resident in Winnipeg are urged to send their wives and children outside the flood area.

2. Moves towards world or Atlantic union, which means meeting of governments into one, already have started in the United Kingdom and the United States.

3. Although Russia has not yet joined, the formation of the union will not prevent war.

4. If Germany falls into the hands of the communists, it will be a catastrophe for Europe and the democratic world.

As the three-hour Senate debate rolled on, Senator Zuker became involved in a cross-the-floor battle over his motion, already up for ratadg, was the only per-cent sales tax on margarine be abolished.

Formation of Quinte High School District Discussed by Municipal Representatives

Construction of a new high school in Belleville or district, or an addition to the present collegiate, will be necessary within the next few years if the present trend in the number of students continues.

This fact was emphasized Tuesday evening at the elected representatives of the City of Belleville and neighboring municipalities at a special meeting held in the Collegiate library to discuss formation of a Quinte High School District to include Belleville and the four rural townships of Sidney, Thurlow, Tyendinaga and Ameliasburgh with the possible addition of the village of Frankford.

No action was taken at the meeting which was called merely for the purpose of providing information to the educational heads and municipal councillors attending the gathering.

Many Thurlow Students

At the present time students from the four municipalities named above, and also from Frankford, fill the classes at Belleville Collegiate, the various municipalities paying for their education from the city. Rural pupils number almost half the present enrolment of the school, 1,000.

For next September the enrolment at the school is expected to be over 1,100 and will tax school accommodation to the utmost, while if the present increase of pupils continues, there will be no hope of accommodating all the pupils from the area in 1952.

Grade eight at the meeting was G. L. Duffin, representative of the Department of Education, who appeared to outline to us the history of education in this province. He said that approximately 75 per cent of the province was now divided into high school districts and that the most successful of these being in North Hastings.

Offers Many Advantages

Mr. Duffin went on to note that the educational possibilities of the proposed Quinte High School district were great, but that the possibility for specialized vocational training. He pointed out that specialized courses in vocational training were lessened if the school was over-crowded and under 1,000 pupils.

"The Belleville Collegiate is now serving the area well," he said, "and it would be unfortunate if anything occurred to reduce the possibilities of offering as good a vocational training."

If the present South Hastings High School Board decided to construct a school and operate under a separate head the city would lose its present quality of vocational training and there would possibly be vacant rooms, while the rural school with only five to six hundred pupils would not have adequate vocational training.

"This would be a very unfortunate development — yet it has happened in many instances throughout Ontario," Mr. Duffin said.

One Board

It was the opinion of the Department heads, he said, that it would be to the advantage of all if the Quinte district municipalities united into one board and proceed together in any building program. This could be carried out either through enlargement of the present collegiate, or through construction of a second school. Then students would have full opportunity of choosing the course desired.

Mr. Duffin believed that a nine classroom academic addition could be built to the present school for approximately $200,000, while a second school with its attendant educational and other facilities would cost between four and five hundred thousand dollars.

If the Quinte district board was formed there would be four representatives from the city and approximately the same numbering representing the various rural municipalities. The board would take over present assets and liabilities of the local collegiate and would look after transportation of the students.

Higher Urban Birthrate

Here the speaker noted that the country birthrate was considerably higher than that of the urban centres and of necessity approximately one-half of the rural children must eventually find employment in cities and towns. Therefore the country united needs more if rural students were as well trained as their city cousins. Belleville drawing from the surrounding rural area just as the rural area depends on the city, if they go in separate directions opportunities were spoiled for both.

Estimated taxes would not be but little immediate change in the cost of operating under a district high school board. The same pupils would attend the same school, and the assessment would be different. Grants also would be paid under the present system the Belleville Board of Education would receive 35 per cent of the cost. Under a district board 60 per cent of annual debenture costs would be received in grants.

Costs to the taxpayer would be divided on a mills on equalized assessment but a fair distribution would be a matter of agreement between the municipalities concerned.

In conclusion, Mr. Duffin urged the representatives of the various municipalities to think first in terms of advantages to the children and secondly in terms of cost to the taxpayer. "If you do this you will make a very wise decision," he said.

More Information Needed

Mayor H. Jack Allin said his council would require more information on the matter before any action was taken. In any event, because of financial commitments his council would proceed cautiously, and not before it knew the proportion of costs the city would be called upon to pay and also whether or not a new school would be required in the near future.

Roy Sills, chairman of the South Hastings High School Board, noted there was a very definite problem with regard to school accommodation. He noted that a survey had shown the number of students desiring to attend High school at Belleville would be nearly doubled in seven years time.

He said there were several solutions to the problem. First the Belleville Board of Education could serve notice on the rural municipalities that it would be no more education for county students, thereby forcing the rural area to build its own school. In this event costs to the rural taxpayer would be doubled.

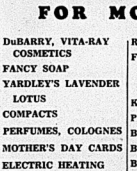
MRS. FRANK YOUNG

(Stirling-Mount Pleasant Rawdon, May 10 — (Special)— Mount Pleasant United Church, Rawdon township, was well filled on Monday afternoon when relatives and friends were in attendance for the funeral service of a former resident of Mount Pleasant, Mrs. Frank Young, who died late resided in the village of Stirling. Prior to her marriage Mrs. Young was Miss Simpson, one of Rawdon's pioneers. She was in her 81st. year and was a resident of the third concession of Rawdon township for many years. She was a member of Mount Pleasant United Church and before Church union she was a member of Mount Pleasant Women's Missionary Society for some time.

Mrs. Young's husband predeceased her thirteen years ago and she is survived by one son, George Young, Toronto, and one brother, Alex Simpson, Stirling.

The funeral service was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. H. C. Vaclavik. During the service Mrs. Marguerite McMullen completed with a request left by the late Mrs. Young, and sang the hymn "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

Pall bearers were Leonard Sharpe, Will Potts, Wilfred Hall, William Robb, George Pollard and Thomas Young.



Interment took place in the family plot at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

ANDREW THOMSON (Ryleston District)

Allan's Mills, May 10—(Special) —Andrew Thomson well known resident of Ryleston district, was the result of a heart seizure Tuesday evening at his home in the 11th concession of Rawdon township, near Rylestone. He was apparently in his usual health during the day and attended a stock sale in the afternoon.

The late Mr. Thomson, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Thomson was born 67 years ago on the farm where he died and all his life was passed there. He was well known throughout the district and was a highly esteemed by many friends to whom his sudden death has brought much regret. He was a member of the Christian Brethren and attended Gospel Hall at Springbrook.

He was the last of his family and is survived by his wife, the former, Elizabeth (Lizzie) McKeown, who has been seriously ill for some months; four sons, Ross Thomson of Stirling; William Thomson of Bonarlaw; Fred Thomson of Campbellford, and Clarence Thomson, who resides on the homestead; four daughters, Mrs. Alex Thomson, Stirling; Mrs. Murrey (Hazel) Fleming, Oshawa; Mrs. Gordon (Jerrine) Sutherland, Stirling, and Miss Leatha Thomson, at home.

New Separate School Will be Ready for Opening in Sept.

In course of construction during the late winter and early spring, the new Roman Catholic Separate School being built on College Street will be ready for occupancy for the opening of the school term in September, it was stated today by William J. Lynch, chairman of the Separate School Board.

The school is now completely closed in with glazing of windows completed, and finishing touches being given the flat built-up gravel surface roof. General contractor for the building is the White Lumber Company, of this city.

Built as a junior school for classes up to the sixth grade, the new Separate School was planned to accommodate children in the north part of the city and in the rural districts to the north. Approximately one-half of the 320 pupils expected to attend the school will come from the rural area north of the city.

Practically Fireproof

Constructed along modern lines approved for a junior school, the two-storey building will have four classrooms with accommodation for 40 pupils each. Main construction of the structure is concrete block with exterior facing of brick. The building is practically fireproof with concrete slab floors, which will be covered with linoleum in classrooms and corridors in the corridors. Overhead joists are of the steel bracing type and the roof is concrete. Walls and ceiling will be plaster.

No Basement

General plan of the school is an "L" shape with a "shop corridor. Main entrance is off North James Street with two classrooms facing that street and two rooms on College. In addition there is also a staff room, a store room and storage. The building has no basement.

Although members of the Separate School board considered an auditorium for the school, they were unable to secure approval for this accommodation for a school confining but four classrooms.

General contract for the completed school was $76,000. Total cost, including equipment, is expected to be in the neighborhood of $90,000.

Interest Centres On 'Mutt' Parade For Children

Juvenile interest in the city this evening will be centred on the "mutt" parade to be staged in the downtown area as a welcome gesture to "Knee-Hi" famous muffle baby dog who will be visiting local school today and tomorrow.

The local Kinsmen Club committee, sponsoring the appearance of "Knee-Hi" in the city, have been literally swamped with entries for the parade and mutts of all shapes, sizes and breeds are expected to be paraded by their youthful owners.

There are prizes galore and any kind of a dog is eligible —as long as they are on leash. There will be a prize for the largest dog, for the smallest dog, for the best dressed dog, and for the dogs with shortest and longest tails. The dog which can do the best trick will also come in for a prize as well as the mutt who can eat a dish of Ballard's Dog Food in the shortest time. Winners will be awarded with silver dollars.

Route of Parade

The parade will form up at the Garage Supply on Foundry Street and will get underway promptly at seven o'clock. Rout of the parade will be down Front Street to Bridge, east to Pinnacle and then north to Campbell, down Campbell and back to Front Street. "Knee-Hi" will stage a safety demonstration on Front Street, and will present Ballard Bridge Streets.

Taking part in the parade will be the local police car with police officials, the official car carrying Dr. Ballard and presenting Dr. Ballard's Dog Foods. "Knee-Hi" will ride with Kinsmen president, Ernie Colebourne's lap. The Kinsmen Boys' Band, Boy Scouts, C.A.C.A. Band, decorated bicycles, Girl Guides and Brownies, Pipe Band and Fire Department, will also appear in the parade.

Dixie Lee Crosby Backs up Her Crooner Husband

Hollywood, May 10 (AP) — Dixie Lee Crosby, once a singer herself, lifted her voice Tuesday to back up her crooner husband Bing's denial of a rift in their marriage, the Los Angeles Herald-Express reports.

"If Bing says there is nothing to it, there is nothing to it," the newspaper quoted Dixie as saying by telephone from Carmel, Calif. "If anybody thinks different they can take it from there."

Rose and Harry Lawyers, John O'Melveney, said Monday that "there are some strained relations" in the 20-year marriage, and brother Larry Crosby added: "Dixie is in a separation and not a divorce."

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, May 10 (CP)— Industrial stocks brightened in an otherwise weaker session of the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Low-priced mining stocks continued in the limelight in the brisk activity.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,857,000 shares, about 330,000 shares less than yesterday's similar period.

Powell River featured a firmer paper list on a gain of a full point at new high at 36. Utilities foods and several liquors also brightened. Textiles steadied in mid-session while steels and agriculturs continued easier.

Leading junior and senior gold producers dipped steadily while penny prospects traded heavily. Dulama Mines, a feature of recent sessions, dipped on profit-taking and Harricana, Akaitcho Yellowknife, Market Consolidated and New Thurbois were among the more active penny stocks.

Base metals also eased. Prices opened on an upward trend but dipped as the session progressed. MacDonald Mines held the at 76 cents on heavy trading.

Western oils moved narrowly at slightly lower levels.

Wm. McMurter, Wife Are Injured Near Shannonville

Mr. and Mrs. William McMurter, R.R. 5, Belleville, suffered head injuries and were admitted to Belleville General Hospital early this afternoon, following a two-car collision which occurred on No. 2 highway at the east intersection leading to Shannonville village.

Mr. McMurter, accompanied by his wife, was driving east when on the curve east of the Shannonville bridge his car was in collision with a Black's Wholesale delivery truck from Belleville, driven by John Adams 88 George Street.

It was reported that Adams had intended to swing off the highway to the road leading to the village when the accident occurred. The truck plowed into the left front side of the McMurter vehicle doing considerable damage. Adams was uninjured.

Tuesday evening a transport and an auto were in collision opposite West End Motors on No. 2 Highway, doing damage amounting to approximately $150 to each vehicle. The westbound transport driven by James. Godfrey, Ajax, was directly passing the used car lot when a car driven by William Walter, Great St. James Street, emerged from the car lot and bumped into the passing transport.

The McMurter accident at Shannonville was investigated by Provincial Constable Pellitero, while the one last night was investigated by O.P.P. McLeod.

Key Clubbers Conduct Meeting Of Kiwanis Club

Members of the Kiwanis Key Club had charge of the luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon held at the Centre on Tuesday. Don Rose who gave the key address at the convention recently held at Colborne, was chairman of the meeting and with his associate members conducted a most instructive and interesting assembly.

During the luncheon, Jack Walton, chairman of the hobbycraft classes held during the winter, thanked the teachers and instructors for their assistance and Taylor Franklin presented each with a token of esteem from the club. Mrs. Helena Duffy and Mrs. Archie Gilroy were presented with bouquets while Bob Cheshire, Jack Brown, Howard Fitzgerald, E. Richardson, Alex Kelly, Jack Doran and Milton Fowler were given gifts.

A tenor horn solo was given by Bill Babbitt accompanied by Charles Cawker, while Robert Hendry delighted with a piano solo. The Key Clubbers not to be outdone by their older brothers, gave a singing commercial on Ted Schwab and also one to the club for their many kindnesses. The clubbers conducted a "slave auction" and Larry Buskard and Bill Campbell will do odd chores around the homes of the Kiwanis members, who bought their services, the money obtained was donated to the Key Club fund.

Larry Buskard, Tom Allison, Jack Barr and John Hagerman, gave an account of their trip to Colombus and the highlights of the convention. The speakers were introduced by Bill Dobbs Jr. William Riley on behalf of the club expressed the appreciation of the members.

The attendance prize, donated by Ronald Keel, was won by Warren Jones.

The note was in reply to a British demand for payment. Britain dropped trade negotiations with Hungary last December.

United Soccer Club Loses to Sixardee

Belleville United lost their Bay of Quinte Soccer League match against 6 R.D. at the Fairgrounds last night by three goals to nothing. A fairly strong wind and the setting sun made play a bit difficult at times. Belleville won the toss and elected to kick with the wind, but 6 R.D. managed to get two first half goals.

The first goal came from a defensive error. Law of 6 R.D. shot from 20 yards out when the goalkeeper was out of his goal. Lane, the Belleville left back, in attempting to clear the ball, unfortunately put the ball into his net. The second goal was scored by Bradley, Belleville attacked strongly and tried to even the count, but could not get past the Air Force defense.

The only goal of the second half came from Woodcock, who is a brother of the Woodcock playing for Third Lanark, the Scottish First Division club. Blaker in the Belleville goal put the ball in his own net in attempting to punch Woodcock's shot away.

Teams:

Belleville United: Blaker, Cox, Dale, Williamson, Hiles, Lane, Moody, R. Alexander, Gemmell, Barclay, Cathcart, subs, Lee Alexander.

6 R.D.: Law, Batherley, Chilton, Woodcock, Kenak, Batt, Bradley, Rinner, McNeill, Wright, Land, Fletcher, Harrison, Robinson.

Referee: Les Digby.

Trenton Flyers have a game against Stratford Legion at Stratford on Saturday.

In order to allow them to travel on Friday, the following revisions to the schedule have been made: Vets and Flyers to be played Thursday instead of Friday and Batawa and Vets postponed from Tuesday 9.

THOUSANDS VISIT

Superintendent G. S. Scandale, saying it had been decided to follow the society's policy of not nursing its animals, added that although Brumas was formally valued at £200 "her publicity value would be hard to estimate and the premium of her life would almost certainly be high."

Be that as it may, one Londoner affects indifference to the little one's fate. It's Micha, her father, who in the next cage doesn't even raise his head to see how she's coming along.

"He daren't," says keeper Smith, "He's not Ivy's husband. He's just a friend. His wife, Susie, is in his cage."

Book - stores sell bound volumes of Brumas photographs; toyshops have Brumas bears and white - painted Brumas dolls. The BBC televised an afternoon with Brumas. Even the high - toned Observer devotes to Brumas and the zoo one of its "profiles," usually confined to illustrious Britons.

PURPOSE

"Anybody who thinks this is going to be a job of a few days has another think coming. It's going to be a matter of weeks."

Jack Donoghue, army public relations officer at Brig. Morton's operations headquarters in the legislative buildings, said the evacuation should be able to start later today.

Will Move North

Road traffic to all the summer resorts Brig. Morton mentioned would have to be northward from Winnipeg. At present a subway on the highway outlet was flooded.

City Engineer W. D. Hurst has said a bypass around the subway will be made immediately. It should be completed by night fall.

The evacuation plan was announced as a gigantic squeeze play by two uncontrollable rivers slashed into fast-dwindling suburban St. Vital, driving new thousands to refuge in the safe ground of the city's heart.

Almost simultaneously, Royal Canadian Mounted Police announced plans to evacuate all-red mainling persons from both banks of the Red River south of Winnipeg to the international boundary.

That will turn the whole Red River valley into a no-man's land of water and empty homes.

BY FIRE AND FLOOD

Elemental forces have been turned loose along the Red River where thousands of people have been driven from their homes by unprecedented floods and where the condition is so acute that military authorities have taken command of relief and direction in the interests of all. In Quebec two communities have been visited by another element, fire, which has made tens of thousands of people homeless and with millions of dollars of material loss by fire in Rimouski and in the lumbering town of Cabano many homes have been destroyed in Tuesday's conflagration.

Those who have lived in areas which have often been flooded always fell concern at this time or earlier in the year over the spring break-up until the people know what the early spring will bring. In some communities in different parts of Canada citizens know something of floods, the communities in the Toronto area recently being swept by flood waters. In the past British Columbia coastal areas have known the havoc which may be caused when the melting of snow in the mountains which poured down their waters, swept away property, caused loss of life and disrupted business. But the flood that has struck the Winnipeg area on the Red River watershed is one of the worst disasters, though floods are not uncommon along that river flowing through level land. This spring's disaster has been very severe.

Fire, one of the elemental forces with which man has had to struggle down the centuries, remains possibly the most terrifying of the natural enemies by which man is surrounded. While certain seasons in some parts are more prone to the ravages of fire, it is not a menace against which man has ever to be on guard. With all the progress of civilization and control of the forces of nature many habitations and works of man seem potential victims for fire, the destroyer.

Sympathy and aid for the stricken areas in these visitations and disasters show that the people of Canada feel with those who have to pass through the ordeal from which elemental disturbances of fire and flood can create. Rimouski's tragic fate is one of the most distressing that could ever strike a community for fire is a deadly enemy when it overpowers all barriers and gains full sway hastening to the foundations the works and labor of man. The loss is placed at twenty million dollars and more. In ruins are many old homes, institutions of mercy, the hospital, county buildings and churches which have been the very bloodstream of the city. Fortunately in Rimouski in spite of the overpowering rush of the conflagration, no lives were lost. Now a great task lies before the residents of another town, Cabano, on some miles from Rimouski. Cabano like Rimouski fell a victim to the fiery element. Here fortunately too no one was caught in the conflagration. But the loss is heavy and many homes have been destroyed and lie in ashes and rubble.

Man has made heroic efforts to safeguard communities against disaster, but fire often does strike as in the two Quebec centres with great havoc. The meandering Red River under a given set of conditions can wreak destruction and driven thousands from their homes. To this stricken part of the Dominion help is going while the military authorities have taken charge for the welfare of the city's inhabitants.

Man has for ages been building up defences against disasters of flood and fire. Engineering has made immense strides in these directions. Firefighting equipment and planning have served well but at times the break-out with disastrous effects and the concurrence of atmospheric events often brings floods. However united action in help in time of such disasters goes far to tide over the stricken communities while in the future lies perhaps a greater undertaking which will render unlikely a recurrence of such events. However that may be, that remains man's hope. He has conquered many a natural enemy and he will undoubtedly achieve greater victories against the possibilities of fire and flood with the steady progress of science.

EDUCATION DOES THE TRICK!

Canadian thinking has rapidly switched from a fatalistic attitude about forest fire losses to an earnest attempt to grapple with the major problems yet unsolved.

Seventy-five per cent of forest fires is ripening up detection and suppression work. Only nine fires accounted for the loss of two-thirds of the timber burnt in the last 20 years in Quebec. It reached within one hour of breaking out, 75% of forest fires won't go past the 10-acre mark, but if 24 hours elapse, over 13% reach the 1,000-acre size. All of which indicates that the aerial approach needs still further development. Use of helicopters, smoke-jumpers, water bombs ties in here, and this angle isn't being overlooked by forestry officials in industry and government.—Woodland World.

In the huge mass of evil as it rolls and swells, there is ever some good working toward deliverance and triumph. —Carlyle.

NATURE AND MEN

The earth is at its loveliest
With nature's brave display.
'Tis only men who fail their best
And waste their time away.

With bloom the cherry trees are bright,
As always, year by year.
'Tis only men who think it right
To shirk their purpose here.

There will be fruitage in the fall,
And fields of golden grain.
'Tis only men who think that all
High service asks is vain.

All things in nature grace the soil
Until their tasks are done.
'Tis only men who will not toil
Until life's course is run.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

LOOKING BACKWARDS

20 YEARS AGO

May 10th, 1930

The Rev. Harold B. Neal, for five years minister of the United Church at Wooler, has notified the Board of Holloway Street United Church in this city, of his acceptance of the call to the church pastorate tendered to him by the Board.

The Rev. Dr. MacTavish has returned home from Toronto where he spent several days.

A truck from the Department of Game and Fisheries was in the city today en rout to Stirling. It was laden with cans containing thousands of trout fry which will be deposited in the streams adjacent to Stirling village. Anglers will be much pleased that these streams have been re-stocked.

Miss Elsie Kerr of Toronto is home on a short visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kerr.

Mrs. Arthur Burton and daughter, Gwendolyn Burton, Albert Street, have sailed for England where they will spend some time with Mrs. Burton's parents.

30 YEARS AGO

May 10th, 1920

It seems to be a long and tedious road with many devious windings and curves to a bridge free of tolls between Prince Edward and Hastings Counties at Belleville. By keeping everlastingly at it a free bridge can be secured and the representatives of the municipalities concerned should get together on a definite plan of action at once.

Mrs. James Hudson of Los Angeles, California, is visiting her sister, Mrs. D. Joss, Murney Street.

40 YEARS AGO

May 10th, 1910.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Harrison, Bowmanville, spent yesterday here with friends.

Mr. C. E. Cameron of Toronto spent yesterday here with friends.

Mr. W. B. Riggs is spending a few days in Toronto.

Hon. R. P. Roblin, Premier of Manitoba, recently visited the old Roblin homestead near Fish Lake in Prince Edward County and visited his father and brother for a few days.

With time honored ceremony of a most brilliant and impressive character, George V, was yesterday morning proclaimed King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the British Dominions beyond the Seas, Defender of the Faith and Emperor of India.

The Rev. C. H. Dennim, minister of John Street Presbyterian Church, is spending a few days in Toronto.

50 YEARS AGO

May 10th, 1900.

Mr. Bert Kemp left this morning to spend a few days with friends in Victoria township.

A branch of the Retail Merchants' Association has been formed in Belleville with the following officers: President, A. L. Geen; First vice president, George Wallbridge; second vice president, W. B. Riggs; secretary, T. Blackburn; treasurer, J. W. Walker.

The men who were employed in the north woods during the winter with the Rathbun Company are being paid off and nearly $45,000 will be received by the men.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Barragar of Sioux Falls, Iowa, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson, Everett Street.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

When I was born, there was nobody in my mother's bedroom but my mother and old Dr. Hart, who swished out the room in a basin of warm water for a minute, and then shouted down stairs for my aunts to come up and get me. I weighed ten pounds, eight ounces.

Seven minutes after I was born, all my female relatives as well as my father had had a good look at me, twiddled my toes, pried my eyes open to see what color they were, brushed my hair up to see if it was going to curl; and then reluctantly wrapped me up in a belly band, a shirt, diaper, socks, vest, long dress and a magnificent cream silk shawl that my grandmother loaned to each of her new grandchildren in turn, for the first month or two.

It is different now. Babies are born in a special laboratory of the hospital, and rushed into a bullet-proof glass nursery via an underground tunnel, so that nobody can see them en route.

If the father wants to see his child, he applies at the desk of the maternity ward, and is given a card with name on it. Then when he exhibits through the bullet-proof glass, and a nurse in a mask wheels a small metal bin over to the window. In it, uncovered, barely clad in a wax-white baby, lies his get. Weight: six pounds, one ounce.

Touch it? Good heavens!

In some of these old-fashioned hospitals, fathers grandmothers, uncles, aunts, etc., are still allowed to do all the fussing and cooing and pinching that overcomes me when the baby is brought in to nurse.

But in the latest hospitals, all visitors are asked to leave before the nursery is opened and the nurses go swiftly with their little bundles along the corridors. One hour before this, the next-of-kin are permitted to pay their social calls at the nursery's glass partition for a frigid, antiseptic peek.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

IT WORKS WELL ANYWHERE

Archie Campbell, a famous missionary, tells the story of two sons of a Korean Christian pastor who were shot by a communist. The boys died well. The arms extended in the form of a cross.

Then things changed about a bit, and the communist was captured and tried for murder. The Korean pastor, whose sons had been murdered, put in his appearance at the trial and pleaded so eloquently for the life of the man who had murdered his two boys that the judge paroled the murderer in the custody of the pastor. The pastor's plea was that this man should not be put to death because he was not ready, not converted, to meet the ordeal of death.

The communist has become an ardent Christian and his family has embraced the faith. The father of the communist came to the Korean pastor after the trial and prostrated himself at the feet of this Christian man. The father of the murderer has insisted that he be allowed to pay for the education of the children remaining in the pastor's family.

If we had enough high-powered Christianity it would break open communistic Russia quicker than hydrogen bombs. Furthermore, it will work in our own country to break down systems of ignorance and wickedness—and in our own lives.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

MOTHER'S DAY

At Sardi's the other night, I met up with Sol Hurok, the impresario, and over the blind cup of tea we got to chinning about artists — their care, feeding and coddling.

"You wouldn't think Broadway actors were temperamental," said Sol, "if you had to deal with opera singers."

"Mesbe so," I said, "but did you ever tangle with Tallulah Bankhead?"

"A Campfire Girl," said Hurok. "I used to handle Challapin, and whenever he didn't feel like giving a concert he would throw bottles of throat-gargle at me."

"That's nothing," I said. "In Philadelphia one time, Tallulah—

"In Boston one time," the impresario cut in, "Isadora Duncan stepped to the footlights in the middle of a dance and bawled the audience out for 'smiling and being filled with concealed lust.'"

"Tallulah—"

"But the biggest fandemonium of them all was Pavlova, the gypsy dancer. One night he happened to step into a ladies' room a slagehand had left near the wings, and did he get mad! He chased the stage hand all over the joint, pulled a knife and announced he was going to cut his throat."

"Maybe Bankhead is a Girl Scout," I said, "but on the other hand, you aren't Joe Louis. How about the time Louis was killing the stagehand?"

"Very simple," said Sol. "I took a yo-yo out of my pocket and began to jiggle it up and down, and Escudero was so fascinated he forgot all about the ladder. And if you want to know what I'm doing with a yo-yo in my pocket — well, you try managing a stable of concert artists."

"What's Marian Anderson like?" I asked. "I never heard any stories of her acting up."

"Miss Anderson is virtually the only artist I've handled who has been entirely temperamental on me," said Hurok. "Fannie Hurst once said the Negro contralto had not simply grown great, she'd grown great simply — and that about sums it up.

"To show you what I mean, a few years ago a reporter interviewed Marian and asked her to name the greatest moment in her life. I was in her dressing room at the time and was curious to hear the answer, because I knew she had many big moments to choose from. For instance, there was the night Toscanini took her by the hand and 'told her that there was the finest voice in the century. Then there was the private concert she gave at the White House for the Roosevelts and the King and Queen of England. Also the night Rachmaninoff came to her in the middle of Winter with a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and got her to play 'Carmen' in the Moscow Art Theatre.

"Besides that, I remember the time she went to Philadelphia to receive a $10,000 award. Asked by the person who had done the most for her home town. And to top it all, there was the concert Sunday in Washington when she sang behind beneath the statue of Lincoln and sang for a crowd of 75,000 which included Cabinet members, Supreme Court Justices and most of Congress."

"Which of those big moments did Marian pick?" I asked.

"None of them," said the impresario. "When Marian was told the reporter that the greatest moment in her life was the day she went home and told her mother she wouldn't have to take in washing anymore."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE LITTLE EXTRAS

Often it is that the little extras of life bring the value and remembrance far above the main acts that constitute the day. For example: I pass through a little village station every day to work, and it costs me my coin, but the officer there always thanks me, day in and year out. I have a barber, who is intelligent and cheerful, who gives me something more than the haircut—a word of meeting him and a "good luck" wish as I leave. Little courtesies may be of no unexpected, even extra trouble, and often going out of our way to do them, are far more than to give pleasure to someone else, but what a memory of happiness these things are, when totaled!

In the sum of the years, the remembrance of the little extras of life shine out in memory like stars in a blue heaven. I have a friend who is not wealthy, though he has accomplished a great deal, but he is beloved by a long list of friends who are recipients of endless little extras in small service and thoughtful deeds at his hands.

Nature is scattered with these extras—flowers of exquisite design, in the out-of-the way places, varied coloring in soil, and earth structure, and unique formations that are the work of God, no matter in what direction we look, or wherever we go. There they are, hiding, sleeping, or awaiting our discovery—mystery and beauty.

If we only counted up these accumulated extras, and in full appreciation took them all to mind and heart, each day we would grow richer and richer, and happier as well. There are those who are always finding fault with us, but what an unusual surprise it is for another to receive a little extra, of some sort, that is unexpected, and wholly unexpected!

It's the little extras, that the other fellow doesn't render, that are the ones who given them, on his way to the top. Things for which he wasn't immediately paid, but to pay for which there is need of a hidden urge. The solidness of life will prove richest if they are but noted and distributed!

Mackenzie's Column:

Soviet Strategy Has Produced Vicious Circle

(Associated Press News Analyst)

Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain and Secretary Acheson of the United States are up against a particularly tough problem in their London discussion of ways and means for winning the cold war.

They are confronted with the amazing need of stabilizing the economic position of the democracies, while at the same time they must provide a military security which is sapping the economic vitality.

It is a vicious circle which has been produced by Soviet strategy.

The cynical, mass-close observers hold that the western powers have been contributing (inadvertently, but none the less significantly) to the success of this Russian scheme through lack of organization. While the communists are presenting an ostensibly solid front, the western nations continue to find difficulties in co-operating.

The London Times declares that "at no time since the war have western statesmen gathered in more circumstances."

The Times says that for a hen brood reared recently about the doubts and differences that divide the western powers than about the fundamental principles and common interests that unite them. The paper thinks the reverses in the Far East have left the west without an answer, and believes the answer lies in the direction of more effective organization of the will power and materiel resources of the free world community.

Of course the question of how to increase European unity is one of the most important matters being considered by Messrs. Acheson and Bevin.

Part of the past lack of unity among the western powers is put down by some observers as self-interest. It may be, too, that it has been in part due to the fact that western powers have clung to the wishful thinking that, after all, Russia would in due course abandon her cold war and play ball with the west.

THE LADY WAS CHAGRINED

One with "inward" "toxic," exophthalmic or exophthalmos or means protruding eyeballs, prominent, wide, staring eyes, as though the individual were always mad or frightened) goiter, or hyperthyroidism (the general or constitutional disorders due to excessive functional activity of the thyroid gland) or hyperthyreosis of thyrotoxicosis (different names for the same condition —you, see, we doctors find these various names for the same trouble keep you dumb) ignorant guessing. As you are less likely to discover when we are guessing about what ails you—and with this type of goiter may show little or no apparent enlargement, swelling or thickening of the neck just above the breastbone, but there are certain characteristic symptoms upon which the diagnosis of the disease is based.

I've used myself as a spot again, and now I must try to get out of it without doing any serious harm. Symptoms have no place in a health column. People should not refer to symptoms or tell their symptoms when they write to me for information or advice. Symptoms should be given in a letter. When a correspondent describes the chief symptom of his or her symptoms, no matter how he or she words it, the request is for a diagnosis or a medical examination — that is, for medical advice—and I write to refer to a physician.

Now for such requests, if they rate an answer at all: Consult a physician. Let me say that a more suitable then I regret it is impossible to form an opinion without having examined the patient, etc. etc.

The characteristic symptoms and signs of exophthalmic goiter besides the wide, staring, more or less protruding eyeballs (exophthalmos)—in mild cases the exophthalmos is sometimes misinterpreted as being beautiful—there are tachycardia or rapid heart action; a fine tremor, most noticeable in the fingers when the patient sews writes or does the other fine work and is apt to be worse in the morning; all an assortment of disturbances or complaints commonly described as "nervousness," periodic exophthalmos or "nervousness" here recently I tried to arm you poor geeks against being exploited by medical merchants who string gullible customers along with "shots" and "sedatives" for their "nerves" instead of finding out what, if anything ails them and treating it or refusing to cater to their craving for drugs. The following letter, typical of the reaction this article prodiced:

"I read with interest, and may I say chagrin, your article on 'nervousness.' Perhaps it was of special interest to me as I have recently undergone operation for toxic thyroid . . . For your enlightenment I will describe 'excessive nervousness' — you said 'nervousness' but what excessive nervousness means but you." (The lady goes into a detailed recital of her general symptoms most of which we not mention here, except that her hands and arms are shaking and dropping things, such as dishes, pen, etc. This is not imaginary. Then she goes on) "Ready . . .

Oh, well, I still hope other readers may be better understood what I meant. In the very article which chagrined this reader I referred to the case of a woman who insisted that her "nerves were unstrung" and had the diagnosis of some clinic racketeers that her trouble was just her bad nerves—and that she came under the observation of a real doctor who found an early case of exophthalmic goiter.

But I don't know. Maybe the woman, like this correspondent who chides me for the chagrin I've realized about a article about "nervousness" still attributes all of her complaints to her poor "nerves."

The lady assures me her symptoms are not imaginary.

Excuse me a moment while I drum my fingers on the desk and gently grit my teeth.

If this lady or anyone else can prove that I have been intentionally applied that "nervousness" or the various disturbances or disorders attributed to "nervousness" are imaginary I'll make public apology.

The second item I described several other cases in which the patient's nerves had become became evident or was recognized after a prolonged period of "just nervousness." In one case mention now just what ailed these patients, but in each case the disease had nothing to do with the patient's nerves.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Gall Bladder Trouble

Will a person who has gall bladder trouble get pains in the heart? (H.E.D.)

Answer—Pain due to gall bladder trouble may be felt in the region of the heart. Stomach trouble, especially excessive acidity, may cause similar pain "heartburn."

Dean Described As Hairy Old Goat By PC Member

Ottawa, May 10—(CP)—The Dean of Canterbury — a self-avowed communist — praised Russia Tuesday night before an audience of 200 without drawing a single interruption.

The Soviets have the A-bomb. How long do you think it will take them to get the H-bomb?" asked Very Rev. Hewlett Johnson, usually known as the "Red Dean".

The question went unanswered. The meeting, sponsored by the Canadian Peace Congress, was quiet and orderly and two city policemen on special duty had nothing to do.

A. L. Smith (PC—Calgary West) Tuesday in the Commons described the Dean as a "hairy old goat" and said he thought it was about time the Dean was stuffed and put in jail.

Commenting on reported statements by the Red Dean on his recent visit to Moscow, Mr. Smith said heatedly:

"I think it is about time that that hairy old goat was stuffed and put in jail."

He added that he would say the same thing about "this Endicott."

(Dr. James Endicott of Toronto is president of the Canadian Peace Council which is sponsoring the Deans appearance in Canada.)

If Canada did not have laws to deal with "blackguards like these," then "let us get the laws," said Mr. Smith.

PLEADED GUILTY

Owen Sound, May 10 (CP) — George Grimoldby and his 17-year-old son Teasdale pleaded guilty to charges of shooting with intent to maim. They were remanded to May 16 for sentence.

Police said Grimoldby fired two shots at his wife, Jessie, as she ran to a neighbor's home after he quarrelled with her. The son, Kenneth, fired shots at his father's legs in an effort to protect the mother. The father suffered minor injuries.

Missing Angler Had No Food For 50 Hours

Lion's Head, May 10 — (CP)— Lost in the bush for 50 hours without food or sleep, 45-year-old John Matthews Tuesday night was on his way home to Guelph, little the worse for his mishap.

Matthews was with a party of four other Guelph hunters on the tip of the Bruce Peninsula when he became lost on Sunday. Monday and Tuesday large search parties scoured the area under direction of provincial police officers.

Tuesday afternoon Matthews was spotted by searchers as he approached the Lake Huron shore on the west side of the peninsula, roughly 50 miles north of Owen Sound. The search unit took him to the home of conservation officer Robert Jordan at Lion's Head.

Matthews had no food and no matches with him, but when the searchers sighted him he was still carrying his fishing pole with a trout that he had caught before he became lost. He said he had had no sleep, but had wandered around apparently in circles. Matthews estimated he had covered not more than seven or eight miles through the bush. The spot where he was found was only 4 or five miles from where he became lost.

His companions on the original trip, his brother, James Matthews, Bert Reynolds, Bill Close and Dick Johnson, all of Guelph, were in the search parties and Tuesday night accompanied him back home to Guelph.

SPLIT ON HOLIDAY

Fort Frances, Ont. — (CP) — Retail merchants here are disputing whether stores should close on Mondays or Wednesdays during the tourist season.

81-Year-Old Man Stabs Wife With Butcher Knife

Rochester, N.Y., May 10—An 81-year-old man stabbed his 70-year-old wife to death with a butcher knife and an ice pick Tuesday and then attempted suicide, Police Inspector Emil R. Lamblase said.

Buonacorso was charged with first-degree murder after he was prevented from jumping from a second-floor porch roof Lamblase reported.

Buonacorso's wife, Mary, was killed in the kitchen of the couple's second-floor apartment. Neighbors told police the couple had been quarrelling.

Buonacorso is partly blind and deaf.

Lamblase said he understood the argument was over sending Buonacorso to "an institution".

Spring Seeding Much Later Than Last Year

Ottawa, May 10. (CP)—Canada's Spring seeding season, with few exceptions, is later than last year and in most areas is "well behind normal," the Bureau of Statistics said Tuesday in the first of its 1950 series of telegraphic crop reports.

In the Prairie Provinces, with the exception of small areas in Southern Alberta and Saskatchewan, practically no seeding has been done. Seeding over much of Alberta and Saskatchewan should become general this week, but excessive moisture in the great part of Manitoba will delay seeding there for another week or more.

Persistent cold, backward weather throughout Ontario has delayed spring seeding. Good progress has been made in the southern and central counties. It will be another week to 10 days before work on the land is started in Northern Ontario.

Although pastures have made little growth, lack of feed supplies has forced a number of farmers to turn out their young cattle and dry cows. Extensive winter-killing of clover and alfalfa has been reported and the prospective hay crop has been reduced considerably. From 10 to 15 per cent of the winter wheat acreage has been killed.

OPERATION TO BE RECORDED

Edmonton, May 10 (CP)—Next Sunday's complex operation to separate Siamese twins, Brenda and Beverley Towsaend, will be recorded on film.

The Alberta government's economical affairs branch and the University of Alberta have completed arrangements for photographing the operation in colored movies and in stills. The films will be used for future medical reference.

A double team will make a complete photographic record of the rare operation.

WEDDINGS

BARRETT—TRAVENER

On Saturday, April 22, at 10 a.m., the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the setting for a pretty wedding when Helen Betty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Travener, of Belleville, became the bride of Donald John Barrett, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Barrett, also of Belleville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father J. Buckley.

The wedding music was provided by Miss Mary Fleury, church organist, and the soloist was Miss Helen Grant.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her eldest brother, Mr. John H. Travener, was becomingly gowned in a street length suit of navy bengaline, fashioned with long sleeves, waist-length jacket and flared skirt draped at the sides. Her accessories were white, and she carried a muff of red roses.

Mrs. William McGinty, of Sudbury, attended the bride, wearing a street length gown in Old China blue with matching hat and navy accessories. She also carried a muff of red roses.

Mr. Edward J. Barrett, Belleville, was groomsman, and Sergeant Harold Gerow, of the R.C.A.F., Trenton, and Pat Barrett, of Belleville, were ushers.

At the reception, which was held at Tobe's County Gardens, the bride's mother received her guests, gowned in navy with navy accessories, and corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore dove grey with black accessories, and corsage of red roses.

Travelling to Toronto, Windsor, and Detroit, Mich., the bride chose a black and grey checked wool suit with matching purse, red shoes in suede, trimmed with light lizard, red straw hat with white trim. Upon their return they will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, and Thorncrest Village, Islington, Ontario.

W.I. Rally Hears Lady Brooke And Mrs. R. Sayre Speak on Organization Throughout World

"Woman's duty today is to know what is going on in the world, to take her stand on it," said Mrs. Raymond Sayre, international president of the Associated Country Women of the World, as she addressed over 500 women gathered to Holloway Street United Church for the Women's Institute rally of the Belleville and Kingston areas, on Tuesday afternoon.

The speaker's platform was pleasingly arranged with a profusion of potted ferns surrounding a large basket of blue and golden snapdragons, intermingled with blue carnations, emblematic colors of the Institute.

Mrs. K. Faul, of Belleville, R.R. 2, was chairman, while Mrs. J. R. Futcher, of St. Thomas, Ont., R.R. 1, and president of the Federated Women's Institute of Ontario, introduced Mrs. Sayre, who, in her reply, in the gracious introduction, thanked the assembly for the splendid song, "How Do You Do", remarking how much she had appreciated the friendliness of the women of Canada, and how much she felt at home. Last year on her visit to Guelph, Winnipeg, and on down to New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island, the same friendliness had been evidenced.

Prefacing her remarks on the importance of the Women's Institute movement, and what it had done for the rural people of both the United States and Canada, Mrs. Sayre gave a brief description of her early married life as a farm woman in Iowa, on a farm of one hundred acres; of her desire to have a modern kitchen like city people, of her planning her kitchen after the catalogue pictures, and of how the spic and span kitchen was lost during the winter months under the array of winter work clothes, rubber boots, milking utensils, supply of wood, and sometimes the bringing in of the harness to be mended, and smell of wet leather mitts drying, and the last straw, of the distinguished guest from Ireland.

Resigned to Philosophy

"In those days," said Mrs. Sayre "my general resignation was a philosophy of "Can't have it, and don't expect to." Even along educational lines, the country schools, and the children attended, were taught by young high school graduates, who, when they had attained a better standing, left the rural school for the city school because of higher salary, and the country people accepted this with the "can't blame them" attitude. This was true also in religious education.

During her work in the garden and while patching overalls, Mrs. Sayre's ambition was to get something done about this situation; to get the women of the rural districts banded together to improve their way of living, for all that is best in religious training and in education should be had in the country as well as in the city. It is through women that this can be done, for in the hands of women are the formative years of the children, and the needed power to get things done through the power of the franchise.

In Canada about 75 to 80 per cent of the teachers are women, who can teach children to trust each other, for the ideals inculcated during childhood, last, making for freedom, peace and democracy, and unity, but there must first be freedom.

World Becomes Neighborhood

Through science, the world has become a neighborhood; planes have obliterated distance; when one country loses its freedom and security the other's freedom is unsafe. "No man is an island unto himself, but a part of the whole. "Therefore," said the speaker, "we must make it a brotherhood by assisting people to preserve freedom which is their natural right. There must be respect for each other regardless of bank account, religion, or colour; permission to come and go freely in your own country; when persecuted by your own land, you have the right to seek refuge in another."

Added to individual freedom, each one must do the things that are needed to be done; the secret of democracy is to do all you can do yourself to be free, for freedom can only be had when all work together to its end, accepting the responsibility for fighting Hitler's day, the rural people of Germany sold out the spiritual for the material. What is needed is not what will it get you, but what is right, or is it wrong?

Presented with Gift

Following the close of Mrs. Sayre's address, Mrs. J. Black, of Warkworth, Provincial Director, extended words of appreciation to Mrs. Sayre and presented her with a gift on behalf of the Belleville area. This was followed by piano and organ duet, "Spring Pastoral", by Mrs. E. M. Hubbs, Belleville, and Mr. William Conner, Ida, Ont., Mrs. Hubbs, the introduction of Lady Cynthia Brooke, by Miss Isabel E. Lewis, of Toronto, director of Women's Institute Branch and Home Economic Service for Ontario. Miss Arnold Reilly, of Shannonville, past president of the Hillcrest Women's Institute, favored with two delightful vocal selections, one being, "Killarney", in honor of the distinguished guest from Ireland.

Lady Brooke said, that like Mrs. Sayre, she was also a farmer's wife, and had also lost sons in the great war, and that she was charmed to be able to visit a sister organization and to step once more onto British soil. Lady Brooke, who is the First Lady of Northern Ireland, being the wife of the Prime Minister, is also chairman of the Women's Institute there. She spoke of Ireland itself, mentioning its beauty and size. The largest ship building industry in the world was there; that during the war, 170 naval vessels had been built, as well as large ships and small ones, with the "Penelope" being a type of the latter. This had been so vital during the war that the navy changed its name to "Pepper Pot". However, it has been repaired, and is still at sea.

Fine Linens Made

The chief industry of Ireland, is at Ulster, where the fine linens are made. This is the third largest dollar item in the United Kingdom budget. There are no natural industries; the country being purely agricultural with 90,000 farmers. The farms are largely family affairs, passing down from father to son. Poultry and chickens belong to the women by means of which they purchase clothing for themselves and children.

Milk is produced in abundance, and dried, much being exported to England. The farms have become mechanized, with tractors and other implements being used. The natives are a hard-headed and hard-working people. They have a great interest in their homes, with music at home and in the choirs, singing, and listening to stories of other lands bind the family together.

The Women's Institutes of Ireland tend to create neighborliness; they absorb strangers, encourage them to take part in the community life, thus making the world the place it should be by helping others.

Mrs. R. J. Penny, of Kingston, extended appreciative thanks to Lady Brooke for her informative talk on Ireland, and on behalf of the Kingston area, presented her with a gift. Mrs. Hudson, provincial director of the Kingston area, also extended thanks to the Church for the use of the hall.

Following the close of the meeting, refreshments were served in the Sunday School room.

Women's Activities

WALLBRIDGE W. A.

The May meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Woods, on Wednesday afternoon, with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. Morley Phillips, opened the meeting. Scripture was read by Mrs. Albert Fisher. The lesson theme "Faith in Obedience" was taken by Mrs. Ken Ketcheson. Devotional part was closed with prayer by Mrs. Ken Kingston.

Business part followed by discussion on catering for a wedding and also on catering to serve dinner on May 9th at Scott's community livestock sale.

Mrs. M. Phillips, Mrs. A. Fisher, Mrs. J. Chisholm and Mrs. C. Sine were appointed delegates to attend L. A. Convention in Stirling on May 25th.

It was decided that Mrs. M. Phillips, Mrs. Ken Kingston and Mrs. Roy Woods, decorate the church for Sunday service.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the hostess.

Splendid Year Of Achievement Reported

The closing meeting of Queen Alexandra Home and School Association took place Monday evening with a good crowd present.

The retiring president, Mr. Ray Lennox, in the chair, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Cleo Colling, past president of the Kinmont Club, who gave a detailed outline of the new swimming pool.

This pool, when completed, will be 105 by 45 ft. with a wading pool of 45 by 40 ft., and will be operated from June 1 to September 8 each year. Mr. Colling said he wished any citizens who had the opportunity of seeing the swimming pool at Peterborough would do so, as it is well worth seeing.

Thanks were expressed to Mr. Colling for his very informative address by Mrs. Gordon Barclay.

The various committee reports for the year were then given by the heads of the committees.

Lunch Committee

In his report, the president said that the preceding year had been a successful one, due in a large part to the achievements of the membership committee under the leadership of Mrs. R. D. Arnott, and to the splendid programs arranged by the program committee, as well as to the issuance of printed programs.

Some of the subjects covered at the meetings were: juvenile delinquency, health, religion, local history; educational facilities, recreation and psychology.

Mr. Lennox credited the recording and corresponding secretaries, the treasurer and all members of the executive for the vital part they had played in making the year a successful one.

Slate of Officers

The following slate of officers for 1950 was presented by Mrs. Courtland Miller and installed by Mrs. W. Fiskin: Mrs. R. D. Arnott president; Mrs. C. L. Wallbridge, 1st vice-president; Mrs. W. D. Wilson, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. J. E. Mastine, 3rd vice-president; Mrs. A. R. Graham, recording secretary, Mrs. G. D. Dies, corresponding secretary; Mr. A. G. Tooth, treasurer.

Members of the executive are: Mrs. Roy Dulmage, Mrs. James McKenna, Mrs. Ali Davis, Mrs. A. F. Sheeman, Mr. E. H. Robbs.

Mrs. Arnott, the new president, presided for the closing of the meeting, and extended thanks to Mr. Lennox and his 1949 executive.

Refreshments were then served by the Kindergarten mothers.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature

about Food ... What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

Trial by water is being revived. The primitive method of throwing a suspected criminal into a pond and then judging his innocence or guilt by his ability to stay afloat is now being used by potato merchants.

In order to tell whether potatoes are best for frying or baking, dealers now dunk the spuds in salt water solution. Those that float are good for frying. Those that sink are best for baking.

Some vegetable stands now have three sections of potatoes plainly marked for baking, frying or boiling.

Some vegetable stands now have three sections of potatoes plainly marked for boiling, frying or baking.

Fried potatoes that do not keep their shape or baking potatoes that aren't light and mealy, usually mean that you've bought the wrong kind of potatoes. You wouldn't buy a chicken unless you specified that you wanted it for frying, roasting or boiling. Give your potatoes the same break.

Even potatoes which are chopped for hash are better if you choose the frying type. They hold their shape and do not turn the hash into a thick mush.

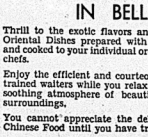
Corned beef hash is an economical dish of chopped corned beef and chopped potatoes, cooked together until the flavors are well blended. Toasted almonds with corned beef hash are a nice contrast to the soft meat and potatoes.

Baked Corned Beef Hash.
Serves- 4.

Chop 1 medium size onion very fine and place in a saucepan with 2 tablespoons fat. Add 1-2 cup finely chopped green pepper. Simmer slowly until onions turn yellow.

Add 2 cups of chopped cooked corned beef (canned corned beef will do) and 2 cups of cooked potatoes chopped fine.

Add 2 cups hot water in which 2 bouillon cubes have been dissolved, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Bring to a boil. Simmer 15 minutes.



Place pan, uncovered, in a moderate oven, 375 degrees. Bake for 1 1-2 hours or until liquid has nearly evaporated. Stir occasionally. The hash should be nearly dry. Add 1-4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Place hash in casserole or serving dish. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese. Sprinkle with paprika. Place under a moderate broiler flame for cheese to brown.

Place 1-4 cup almonds, from which shells and skins have been removed, in a pan with 1-2 inch of hot oil or vegetable fat. Fry almonds until they are light brown. Don't overcook almonds; they will burn quickly if not removed from fat in time.

Arrange hot almonds over hash just before serving.

McINTOSH BROS.

STORES LIMITED

Kingsridge

By Alice Ross Colver

While Susan and Timothy were dancing, Gerry was dining with Alicia Brandt and her husband.

He had approached her place with curious anticipation. He could not remember ever having seen her. She had arrived in Kingsridge so short a while before his mother's death and he had been sent off to school as soon afterward, that he had no knowledge of her at all beyond the fact that she had taken Mattie, Barton into her house the stormy night when Elizabeth King had turned her away from hers. And this evening she was extending the warmth of that humanity to him too. For of the whole town she was the first to take cognizance of his presence. Yet what had she to gain now any more than then? The question piqued him.

The butler admitted him and he was shown to the threshold of the living room. It was lit only by a fire in the fireplace and at first he saw no one. Then he heard the throaty chuckle he had heard on the telephone a few days ago and discerned a thin white arm waving from the shadows of the couch.

"Here! Over here!" she called. her voice strong and young and as she switched on a lamp on the table beside her.

He went across to her and she extended her hand without rising. "Just in time!" she said, "I'm about dying of thirst."

He could see fler clearly now. She was reclining against dark pillows, clad in her hostess gown of a rich emerald green that was most becoming to her. A silver collar circled her throat. A silver card girdled her waist. On her feet were flat-heeled narrow silver sandals, and a rounded green comb held back her short gray hair, but the face whereof faint lines of weariness but her eyes held a spirited sparkle. She might be any age, he thought, but he guessed that she was not a great deal older than he.

"I hope I'm not late," he began and stopped before her direct, quizzical look.

"Now you're not like that, I know," she said.

"Like what?"

"Perfunctorily. Polite. I saw your entrance, and your exit, at the Kings." A smile glowed in her eyes as she swung her feet to the floor and drew the low coffee table toward her with one hand, patting the cushions beside her with the other. The table held all the necessary ingredients for drinks and she went to work at once. "You'll have a cocktail, I hope. I've exercised self-restraint as long as possible. And since Lesley doesn't care for them we won't wait for him."

He took the slender-stemmed glass she offered him, and, still standing, asked her an abrupt question.

"Why did you do it? You didn't have to. She was nothing to you. why did you do it?"

The smile left her eyes and he saw them suddenly compassionate and remembering. She answered simply. "Because I knew what it was like to be hungry."

"You?"

She nodded, patted the place beside her again, and as he sat down, she said "once I was a Broadway hoofer."

He looked his surprise. "And now," he said slowly after a moment gesturing about the room "all this."

She lifted one eyebrow above her lifted glass. "Something like you."

"Well, so."

"No? Why not?"

"Because you're secure. I've just got a toehold."

She drained her glass and put it back on the table. Then clasping her thin white hands around her knees she looked at him bleakly a moment.

"We'll see what we can do about that."

"You and I."

Gerry experienced a feeling of warmth stealing over him that was attributable to more than the drink. This woman, he thought this middle-aged, gray-haired woman was his friend. Because of a past that might have resembled his at least in its deprivation and struggle which she had never permitted herself to forget, she had become a friend and ally.

As if she were reading his mind Alicia went on drily, "also I don't like Elizabeth King. I enjoy nothing more than getting something over on her." And the smile glinted in her eyes again.

He laughed his short hard laugh "We are two of a kind," he said as if he made an earth thought.

Alicia's glance flashed to Gerry in a look that was at once surprise, recognition and admiration. It was fire leaping to fire. She was as aware of it as he was, and with as much astonishment. Then, deliberately, her eyes, reaching for a silver box of cigarettes, took one herself and passed them to him. In an odd silence he snapped on his lighter and watched her breathe out smoke as she leaned back against the cushions.

"Yes," she said slowly. "I think we are. So we must not be reckless. We must plan — carefully." She paused and then, finished. "Because I really want to help you to more than a toehold." her look now was calm.

He nodded, telling himself that he must have been crazy a moment ago. All she intended or wanted was friendly kindness. Nevertheless, from that moment he was conscious that a fragile and dangerous rapport had been established between them.

Lester appeared at that moment, walking in with a briskness that did not wholly conceal his advancing stiffness, greeting Gerry after an almost imperceptible second of silence, with the impeccable manners of the perfect host who never permitted anything to startle him, declining with courtesy the cocktail Alicia offered while explaining to Gerry that he preferred wine with his meals. He then went on to talk about wines knowledgeably until dinner was announced. Gerry thought him stuffy and a deadly bore, an impression that was not lessened throughout the meal. He monopolized the conversation, keeping it general and heavy as he discussed the state of the world with a kind of pontifical solemnity, presenting well-known facts with an air of great discovery, and drawing trite and foregone conclusions from them as if they were treasures of his own. Listening to his well-modulated monotone, watching him sip his wine with remembered re gularity, Gerry thought. "My God! What a character. How does she stand him?"

Once, when Lester was patting his potatoes into a meat mound he thinks he employed after every bite, Gerry felt Alicia grow tense. Glancing at her, he saw her hand tightly clasped around the stem of her chair and her eyes riveted on the lightly patting fork. In the next second she had pulled herself together and was smiling. But he had seen and she knew he had seen and their shared knowledge of this, too, was silently added. It was relief when dessert was finished and they moved back to the living room for coffee. This also, Lester declined, saying, "never at night, you know Alicia. But you two enjoy it while I, if I may be excused, will exercise the dogs." And, with his pale eyes expressionless and his small smile without mirth, he left the room quietly.

"God bless the dogs." Alicia murmured, as they heard the front door close, and looking straight at Gerry, she laughed a high, wild laugh. It came out as if it had escaped by force against her will and as suddenly ended. "Shall we dance?" she asked and without waiting for him to answer, she went to the record cabinet. "I wanted to go to the assembly with you tonight but Lester doesn't care for dancing. It's been years since we've done any. And I haven't reached the point of middle-aged plump," she dropped the needle onto the record and turned toward Gerry with her arms lifted "yet" she finished.

He made no answer. In the small cleared space to one side of the big rug they revolved slowly. He felt her weightless in his embrace. Weightless and hardly breathing. Yet he knew he was holding a volcano. Suddenly she stopped and drew away from him, her smoke-gray eyes black. "Lester is fifty. I'm well, let's say I'm past thirty," she said lightly. "How old are you?"

"Twenty-eight."

"You might be older." And she went to the cabinet and stopped the music. "That's all for tonight, Gerry, if it's just the same to you." The silence that followed her ending of the music was suddenly filled with constraint and he did not know how to break it. He became as life had taught him to become in a langer-

At the same time he was filled ous moment, watchful and wary, with a great excitement. It was she who spoke first.

"Everything is very strange, isn't it?"

He nodded, his dark brows drawn.

"It is for me too. Believe me. I certainly didn't ask you here for anything like this. I had no idea. She broke off. "Will you go now? I meant that about it's being all for tonight. I want to think."

How to brighten meals with
HEINZ 18 FAMOUS SOUPS

Hints for lunches, dinners, suppers, snacks

What a wealth of wonderful eating—what a range of wonderful flavours! All Heinz Soups —every single famous one—are now in full supply to add exciting new enjoyment to the meals you serve your family and friends. 18 distinctive varieties—each an individual masterpiece—are now ready-to-hand in grocery stores. Hearty soups, light soups, cream soups and clear soups—choose the ones you fancy from the luscious line-up below. The following hints tell you how, when and where Heinz soups can be fitted into your menus.

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP—The mellow, glowing soup that's such a general favourite, so mildly spiced that the tomato is the thing! beloved by the cook because it's the quickest sauce, the most versatile ingredient, the handsomest dresser-up she has on her pantry shelf.

CREAM OF MUSHROOM SOUP—Flecked with lovely natural mushroom colour, lavish with tender mushroom pieces—a soup that is tempting and special, full-bodied and deeply satisfying. For a marvellous quick sauce just heat it and add a dash of cream.

CREAM OF CELERY SOUP—The clerest and finely cut celery gives each full-bodied spoonful more than the usual soup-ite of milk may be added and the result will still be rich enough for most tastes.

CREAM OF GREEN PEA SOUP—Creamy smooth, lightly seasoned, with the fragrance of fresh-shelled peas! peas and pea pieces! Pea soup's perfect for a guest luncheon or a family meal. It's everybody's soup!

CREAM OF GREEN VEGETABLE SOUP—Young tender vegetables from the sunny garden lands of the Leamington, cooked and finely sieved and made into a unique soup. With cheese and chicken, a perfect luncheon!

CREAM OF CHICKEN SOUP—Famous for its buttery richness, its deep chicken flavour with the fillip of celery, its generous chicken pieces. Superb eating! Combine it occasionally with Cream of Mushroom—a wonderful blend!

CHICKEN NOODLE SOUP—A light broth, the chicken flavour clear and true, the pieces of chicken and the egg noodles tender and tempting. A delicacy that appeals to every taste.

CHICKEN GUMBO SOUP—A hearty soup that is a light meal in itself—a dinner soup in the grand manner—or just the hospitable Southern note to start an otherwise cold supper.

BEEF NOODLE SOUP—Old-fashioned, simmered beef stock with diced beef left in the clear broth, bright carrot and parsley flecking it brilliantly, plenty of ribbon-like noodles delicate, nourishing.

VEGETABLE SOUP—A savoury, substantial soup combining 14 different vegetables, fresh-gathered at their best moments, cooked with meat stock, carefully seasoned, and with the alphabet macaroni that children love.

VEGETABLE SOUP WITHOUT MEAT—Fresh, fine flavours of 14 vivid vegetables, appetizing colour of sun-bright tomatoes in the stock, mild seasoning, alphabet macaroni—a grand soup for the school lunch kit, for quick meals any time.

SCOTCH BROTH—A grand old-fashioned soup that smacks o' the heather and the beach . . . sturdy mutton broth with plenty of meat, vegetables, and, of course, barley; a "growing" soup for children, fine fare for all the family.

CLAM CHOWDER—A meal in itself, with the sea-food flavour predominating, tomato given great importance, diced potatoes as expected, and sweet pepper contributing smoothly to a grand blend of flavours.

MOCK TURTLE SOUP—Different, distinguished, a special-occasion soup, delicate, nourishing.

VEGETABLE SOUP—A savoury, substantial soup combining 14 different vegetables, fresh-gathered at their best moments, cooked with meat stock, carefully seasoned, and with the alphabet macaroni that children love.

VEGETABLE SOUP WITHOUT MEAT—Fresh, fine flavours of 14 vivid vegetables, appetizing colour of sun-bright tomatoes in the stock, mild seasoning, alphabet macaroni—a grand soup for the school lunch kit, for quick meals any time.

OXTAIL SOUP—Promising aroma, deep red-brown colour and rich savoury appearance—then real ox-tail flavour, the touch of excitement so many meals need, a super ingredient for made-up dishes, too.

PEPPER POT SOUP—A hearty, homan soup—sturdy enough for the main dish at luncheon or supper; a rich broth full of savoury solids—tender white meat, succulent vegetables, all seasoned by a knowing hand.

BEAN SOUP—Hearty, stick-to-the-ribs fare—those famous Heinz Beans, tender, delicious, well-cooked and supported by savoury bits of smoked pork, in a rich golden-brown stock.

PURÉE ROBSOLE—A soup of distinction, quite special in character. Split peas, smoked pork and tomato give it heartiness and the charm of novelty. Fine family fare.

For flavour and freshness and nourishing goodness, there's nothing to equal Heinz Soups served alone. But from the descriptions above, you can readily see why Heinz Soups also lend themselves so to many cooking uses. They play a superior part as basic ingredients in a host of delicious, inexpensive and easy-to-prepare dishes—everything from soufflés to macaroni. The Heinz booklet "57 Ways to Use Heinz Soups" gives you the recipes for 57 of your favourites. When shopping, look for the happy Heinz Chef —the sign of the Heinz Soup Department.

FORMATION

Administrator for the Belleville Board of Education, Mr. L. A. Kells said that the increase in the number of pupils at the collegiate had forced the Belleville Board of Education, to serve notice to the rural municipalities that effective in September the school would not be open for rural pupils. However, there was no intention of putting this into effect if it could be avoided.

Loss If Area Withdraws

Mr. Kells said his greatest fear was if the suburban area withdrew the population of the Belleville school would fall below 600 pupils and the school could not operate efficiently with that number of students.

The matter would rectify itself eventually but for up to seven years the Collegiate would lose $65,000 annually if the county withdrew,"he said.

The net cost of the local collegiate after grants, was approximately $150,000 according to Mr. Kells. Of this amount the county contributed about $65,000 or nearly half.

Mr. W. E. Currie high school principal agreed that the local school could operate more efficiently with 1,000 or more pupils. Next year there would be over 1,000 but part of the library would have to be used as a classroom also dual use of some classrooms to provide accomodation.

"The school will then be literally bulging at the seams and there would be no hope of accommodating all the pupils in September of 1951. There will be a big increase in the number of pupils up to 1955 and later," he said.

Action Required

He noted that action of kind was absolutely necessary and he hoped this would not be to the disadvantage of rural students whom he described as very fine pupils."

To a later observation by Alderman William Argue that the Belleville Collegiate would be again filled by city students it's a few years even though the rural areas did withdraw, Mr. Currie noted this would be true only with academic classes. He said a higher percentage of rural students took vocational training and even though the school was filled with city students, vocational classes would still be slim and operate less efficiently.

Harry Selden, member of the Belleville board, noted there was a feeling among rural representatives that they would prefer to "buy" their secondary school education. This being the case he asked if the Department of Education would approve of an addition to the Belleville school if the local board decided to build.

Mr. Duffin replied that undoubtedly the board would have to forward an agreement assuring that rural pupils would continue to attend at Belleville school for a stated period.

Costs Distributed

County Treasurer Eric S. Denyes raised a moot point when he observed that although educational costs had gone up sharply in recent years, the cost to Belleville taxpayers for the operation of the Collegiate had not risen. This he suggested, was due to attendance by county pupils.

"That was true to the end of 1949", replied Mr. Kells. "The Collegiate rate for 1950 was increased one-tenth of a mill."

"I might say that one-tenth of a mill is not very much," observed the county clerk.

Mr. Stills observed that there were still some debenture charges to be met with respect to the Belleville Collegiate. He wanted to know if amalgamation took place would the board be eligible to receive 60 per cent grant on the remaining debenture charges. He was told this would be the case insofar as the academic share of the cost was concerned.

No Guarantee

To a question raised by several in attendance that there was no guarantee that the present rate of provincial grants would continue, Mr. Enos David, chairman of the Belleville board, stated the trend was for grants to increase, not to be reduced.

Mr. Duffin replied this was correct, noting that provincial grants for education in 1934 were but seven millions. Last year they were 34 millions and this year had been increased to 42 millions.

"But I must say that just as there is a limit to local spending, there is also a limit for the province. The province must meet its budget the same as local municipalities, and if revenue dropped it would be only natural to assume educational grants would suffer the same as other appropriations."

Harry Harrison, Reeve of Thurlow, noted that increased grants did not always apply. He said that only two years ago larger high school areas were receiving 75 per cent. The grant was now 60 per cent.

50 Per Cent of Cost

Brooks Allen, member of the South Hastings board noted this had been true in their case insofar as transportation costs were concerned. He said the daily cost of pupil transportation in his district last year had been $147.12 on which they had expected to receive a 75 per cent grant.

However, they had found there was government approval only to the amount of $122.32 and they would receive 60 per cent grant on this figure. The result was that the provincial grant for transportation amounted to only about 50 per cent of the total cost.

Mr. Duffin replied that transportation costs for the province were averaged, and in the case of South Hastings, the rate paid to bus companies must be greater than the average.

Mr. Allen said the cost to ratepayers for school transportation had worked out at about one mill, while Mr. Earl Dafoe, board treasurer, said the total 1950 educational rate for the South Hastings' area would work out at about five mills.

To a question by Reeve Ben Hecker of Sidney township, Mr. Duffin said that if the rural area decided to build its own school it would receive a 70 per cent provincial grant.

Expected Student Increase

Alderman Liddle wanted to know the expected increase in school attendance providing amalgamation took place. He was told by Mr. Kells that a survey indicated this would be between 1,900 and 1,700 in from seven to ten years time.

Mayor Allin wanted to know what the Belleville school population would be in the same period. Mr. Kells replied that if the survey held true the Belleville Collegiate would be completely filled by city pupils in about seven years. It was noted by Mr. Currie, however, if this were the case, vocational classes would not be completely filled.

To a question by Alderman Clarke, Mr. Duffin replied that Ottawa was the only urban centre which had amalgamated with rural districts to set up a high school area. He said the department was permitting this move, but was doing nothing to encourage it.

Suggests Committees

Mr. Duffin noted the best procedure if amalgamation was to be considered would be for a small committee from each municipality concerned to meet to discuss details. This suggestion was dropped when Mayor Allin said he would object to naming a committee until he learned whether his council favored the move.

During intermission held midway through the meeting those in attendance visited the collegiate home and economics department where members of the Collegiate Home and School Club served sandwiches and coffee.

Flood-Stricken Manitoba And Fire-Ravaged Quebec Receive Aid From Many Places

(By The Canadian Press)

Help from many places has poured into flood - ravaged Manitoba and fire-swept Quebec communities since the disasters east and west took over the front pages of Canada's newspapers.

Official relief efforts in the Manitoba floods, and the Rimouski and Cabano fires in Quebec, have been bolstered by a multitude of voluntary contributions in many forms. A Canadian Press survey today showed the aid helping the west, and the aid helping the east, with aid coming also from many United States communities.

Federal financial assistance has been promised both provinces and the armed forces and national organizations are battling valiantly in the twin disasters, but apart from this a noteworthy list of voluntary aid efforts has already been compiled.

The city council of Rimouski, with 2,500 homeless by fire, passed a resolution of "deep sympathy" with the Manitoba flood victims and said it was ready to assist them in any way it could. City manager Leopold Garon said there might be some supplies which Rimouski could turn over.

British Columbia has allocated $50,000 from its emergency relief fund for Manitoba flood aid, and $50,000 for Rimouski.

Probably no one official in either Quebec or Manitoba could supply a complete list of the aid received, but here are some of the way in which aid was rallied and expedited in various fashions including mass RCAF flights:

For the Manitoba Floods

Hundreds of thousands of sandbags flown from Halifax, Montreal and Toronto, including flights chartered by the Ontario government.

A province - wide Saskatchewan collection of rubber boots and sandbags, with an 18-car special train from Regina loaded with beds, blankets and other material.

Pumps and rubber boots from the Ontario government.

Six thousand hospital mattresses from Quebec command of the army at Montreal; 12 cars of Bailey bridge equipment from Montreal; and from the Bell Telephone Company at Montreal two systems of self-powered mobile radio-telephone equipment and a large consignment of communications material.

For the Quebec Fires:

Premier Duplessis announced appointment of a committee to accept donations for relief, started with an anonymous $50,000 contribution.

Children's clothing from the Junior League and the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire; 100 electric heaters donated at Montreal; a carload of beds and mattresses from the Provincial Colonization Department at Quebec; all available machinery and 10,000 pounds of potatoes from Montreal.

Many other donations were arriving both in Quebec and Manitoba.

Mayor Joseph Mruk of Buffalo, N. Y., offered the "entire resources" of Buffalo's emergency committee to Rimouski victims.

Typical of the flood of relief was departure from Montreal last night of a small eight-passenger amphibian plane for Rimouski. It carried 1,000 pounds of food, cigarets and supplies. This plane's load came from hundreds of firms and citizens answering an appeal from the St. John Ambulance Company.

Yet No Takers For 2 Kerchiefs, Is Boom Over?

New York, May 10—(AP)—Can the boom really be over?

It's more than a month now since a Manhattan Men's Shop advertised two linen handkerchiefs for $115, and there have been no takers yet.

There was one serious nibble, from a man and his wife who came in with a magnifying glass. They're "thinking it over." About 30 other persons asked to see the handkerchiefs, but apparently they were only curious.

"We got a lot of mail when the ad first appeared," says Donald Blackwell, president of Bronzini, Limited, a shop for millionaires. "Most people who wrote in said they were scandalized. Others asked, were they reading right? Was it $115 or $115?

But people who know Bronzini were not shocked. The store has sold men's silk robes up to $750 each. It offers silk suspenders with 18-karat gold clips for $245, including tax, and shoes and house slippers made of leopard, zebra or lioness skin from $45 to $60.

Seventeen Dead or Missing, Many Homeless, Floods Sweep Over Dakota and Nebraska

Omaha, Neb., May 10 — (AP) —Seventeen persons were dead or missing and more thousands were homeless today as the most damaging floods in years swept over North Dakota, Minnesota and Nebraska.

Scores of communities were isolated as the surging waters from rain-swollen rivers and streams spilled out over thousands of acres of land.

All the fatalities were in Nebraska. One of the worst floods in nearly 50 years struck the southeastern section of the state Tuesday.

The waves of water engulfed homes and swept cars from highways. Most of the dead were highway travellers caught by the floodwaters.

The flooding Red River, bordering North Dakota and Minnesota, dealt further devastating blows to property and livestock. Some other streams in Northern Minnesota also were running wild. The Red Cross reported more families driven from their homes all along the swollen Red River.

Will Fee Livestock

The livestock situation in North Dakota was described as "desperate." Governor Fred G. Aandahl ordered an aerial livestock feeding service started today.

Damage to highways, bridges and culverts from the floods in Grand Forks county alone was estimated at nearly $1,500,000.

In the currently affected area in Nebraska the floods were as bad or worse as any in nearly 50 years.

Nearly all day yesterday the town of Dewitt with 500 residents was isolated. Telephone and telegraph lines were down, all highways were flood-blocked and the entire town had water at least two feet deep.

National Guardsmen made contact with "ducks," amphibious military trucks. The ducks transported the town's doctor on his rounds, brought water to substitute for the town's polluted supply, and carried food supplies. A plane dropped typhoid serum.

Four Nebraska city persons, en route to a funeral in Kansas, were caught in a crushing wave of water on a highway near Auburn, Neb. The freight train force carried the car far into an adjoining farm field. All occupants perished.

A Burlington bus, en route from Nebraska City to Lincoln, was similarly caught near Tecumseh. The seven or eight passengers were literally washed out. They were saved by hanging on to trees, standing or afloat. One of the survivors, a nurse, spent nine hours in the water, clinging to floating branches.

For hours, even the bus itself was missing. Search planes finally located it half buried in silt. A family of four was caught in a car near Dunbar. The parents and two children got out. But for three terrorizing hours in the black of the night, the parents held the children — one six years, the other three months old — above the water's reach, only to have them finally snatched away. The parents survived.

Freight Train 'Just Rares Up', Kills Two of Crew

Kremlin, Okla., May 10 (AP) — A Rock Island freight train "just rared up" as it reached a bridge near here Tuesday night and two crew members were crushed to death beneath the engine's flaming wreckage. Two other men riding in the engine escaped uninjured when about 10 cars in the 53-unit train left their tracks and quickly became enveloped in blazing oil.

Farm Hand Burned, Child Trapped Trying to Save Dog

Regina, May 10— (CP) — A three-year-old girl and a farm worker died Saturday in a fire at Nobleville, 226 miles north of Regina, it was learned Tuesday. The child was the daughter of O. Lattien; the farm worker was George Petrau, 24. The little girl was trapped and burned to death when she leaped out of her father's arms to save her pet dog.

SAYS HE WAS ATTACKED

Toronto, May 10 — (CP) —A quarrel between two fishermen April 15 Tuesday resulted in a sentence of six months definite and three months indefinite for Ernest F. Pickering, 22. Pickering was convicted of stabbing Robert Peddle, 45, four times in the face and chest. Peddle said Pickering ordered him to move from a fishing spot and then attacked when he refused.

Conservatives' Chances Of Regaining Power in Britain Look Brightest in Five Years

London, May 10 (CP)— Conservative chances of regaining political power seem as bright now as they ever have in the last five years.

Their prospects appear to be improving slowly but surely. Six months ago Labor campaigned for the February General Election as an odds-on-favorite. If a new election were held next week a neutral observer said today, betting would probably be the other way.

The Conservatives can cite at least two post-election auguries which appear to be based on more than wishful thinking:

1. Although Labor has won all three by-elections since the general election, its majority has been reduced in all cases.

2. Liberals appear to be moving closer to the Conservatives and away from Labor. If the Conservatives could exploit this situation, they might succeed in creating a political atmosphere favorable to a bigger Tory share of the Liberal vote.

Both points probably need qualification. In the first place, it is easy to misinterpret by-elections as indicators of national opinion. But, for what it's worth, students of statistics say that the most recent by-election, at Brighouse, Yorkshire, showed a 1.714 percent swing from Labor to Liberal.

Hold Winning Cards

This swing, repeated on a national scale, would be enough to put the Conservatives back into power with about 50 seats to spare.

Labor's effective majority in the House of Commons at present is nine votes.

Any analysis of party relationships is bound to be tricky, but Conservatives appear to hold the winning cards at the moment. They are proceeding cautiously, avoiding any words likely to offend the Liberals, and in the end may succeed in creating a feeling of confidence between the two parties.

Barring any formal electoral compact, and even ruling out the possibility of local agreements, the Conservatives thus would be in a strong position to capture a decisive share of what might be called the unattached Liberal vote.

In the February election, 474 Liberal candidates won 2,600,000 votes. They are not likely to run nearly that many in the next country-wide ballot, thereby leaving a lot of votes on the bidding block.

ACTION OPPOSED

St. Catharines, May 10 —(CP) —The action of Merrition in dumping garbage in a gully on the Boyle Road in Grantham township met strong opposition from the Grantham council Tuesday night. The garbage dump has been in use for some weeks but approval from Grantham was necessary for dumping, and this approval was refused Tuesday night.

STIRLING

St. Paul's United Church Begins Silver Jubilee Services

Stirling—The various organizations of St. Paul's United Church under the leadership of their pastor, Rev. R. A. Baker, have mapped out a series of special services to mark the Silver Jubilee of the Union of 1925.

The first of this series was held on Sunday evening when St. Paul's Woman's Association, under the leadership of Mrs. Walter T. Elliott, president, presented an outstanding service.

The special guests were: Mrs. A. Fallis, of Toronto, Dominion president of the Council, who brought greetings and offered prayer that the work of this organization might continue to be successful.

Many Women's Associations

There are 5,304 Woman's Associations in the United Church with a membership of 170,661. In 1949 they raised $2,744,756.

Mrs. T. F. White, Toronto, Dominion Life Membership secretary, spoke briefly and presented the certificates. She said this was the largest group of women ever to receive these Life Memberships at one time and those in the office in Toronto were thrilled when the cheque came for such a large amount. With each certificate a card was inserted explaining the great responsibility placed on each member and a goal to attain.

Pins Presented

As a special gift, the local president, Mrs. Walter Elliott, presented "Life Membership" pins to each. These pins have the seal of the United Church of Canada with a band of gold around the royal blue and engraved on the band "W.A., Life Membership".

Mrs. R. A. Patterson, who is acting as secretary owing to the illness of Mrs. Fred Wescott, read the names and a large number of the ladies have had their places at the front of the church for the presentation.

They were in two groups—first charter members, who had served St. Paul's W.A. for 25 years included: Mrs. E. G. Bailey, Mrs. J. P. Coulter, Mrs. Thomas Doman, Mrs. Earl Leury, Mrs. W. L. Fox, Mrs. George Leury, Mrs. G. W. Hagerman, Miss H. C. Hamilton, Mrs. W. Hawkins, Mrs. W. S. Martin, Mrs. Charles Linn, Mrs. J. B. Thompson, Mrs. Fred Wescott, and Mrs. Carleton Wright.

The second group of 50 years life members in St. Paul's are: Mrs. Bidmer Hill, Mrs. R. B. Duffin, Mrs. Major Fraser, Mrs. A. E. Good, Mrs. Arthur Gordanier, Mrs. H. C. Pitman, Mrs. W. C. Pitman, Mrs. Warren Preston, Mrs. Claude Tucker and Mrs. George White.

Love Gift

Two large vases of snapdragons and tulips were placed on the church altar as a love gift from the surviving charter members and these were arranged by Mrs Wm. Cornett.

The charter members at rest are —Mrs. S. A. Hatton, Mrs. A. Mosher, Mrs. T. Montgomery, Mrs. E. Eggleton, Mrs. H. Johnson, Mrs. G. Reynolds, Mrs. R. A. Elliott, Mrs. George Dowsath, Mrs. C. F. Wait Mrs. Henry McCutcheon, Mrs. A. Walker, Mrs. G. Fraelick, Mrs. E. McMullen, Mrs. B. Sine, Mrs. C. W. Thompson and Mrs. Robert Reid. They rest from their labors and their works do follow after."

Guest Speaker

Mrs. D. F. Aylesworth of Bath, a Presbyterian W.A. officer, gave the special message on the theme "Blessed are the pure in heart". She graphically pictured a number of human interest stories which were all based on theme of "Service".

The illustrated Jubilee program used as its frontpiece "The Beatitudes".

The church organist, Mrs. A. E. Baker, A.T.C.M., rendered appropriate "O God Our Help" and the minister, Rev. A. E. Baker, gave the call to worship followed by the Processional hymn.

Mrs. Walter Elliott welcomed the large number of guests from various groups and she felt the change to D.S.T. had made a difference in the attendance.

Twenty-one societies in the surrounding district were specially invited to this service and a large number had availed themselves of the opportunity to attend.

Mrs. J. M. Wood, Belleville, Presbytery president, brought greetings and read the Bible lesson.

The members of St. Paul's W.A. sat in a body and all wore blue silk badges to designate their membership and they were especially pretty pinned on the black choir gowns, as several W.A. members are also members of St. Paul's choir.

The choir rendered "Tarry With Me, O My Savior".

Guest Soloist

Mrs. M. F. Davidson, Belleville, secretary of Belleville Presbytery W.A., was guest soloist and rendered "There were Ninety-and-Nine".

The offering was dedicated by Mrs. R. Harman, president of Toronto East Presbytery W.A., who took the place of Mrs. C. W. Barrett, Brighton, who was unable to attend because of illness. Mrs. Barrett, with her husband, the late Rev. C. W. Barrett, were at St. Paul's, Stirling, in 1925.

At the close of this special service, the president, Mrs. Elliott, extended thanks to all who had helped to make the event, one long to be remembered, and then came a pleasant surprise, Rev. A. E. Baker told the story of the Fairy Stone Crosses from the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia. The legend says that the fairies wept at the time of the Crucifixion of Christ and where ever the tears fell, crosses sprung up all over the mountains.

The minister presented Mrs. Elliott with one of these lovely tokens in appreciation of her work in connection with St. Paul's W.A. Jubilee Services. This came as a complete surprise to the recipient but she graciously extended her thanks.

The service closed with "Blest Be the Tie That Binds".

The next Jubilee Service will be sponsored by "The Marrieds' Club".

WHITE'S DISTRICT

White's District—A number from this district attended the "Music Festival" at Trenton High School on Friday evening in which the pupils of Bayside and Quinte View Schools participated.

Mrs. D. Rush was a Thursday visitor of Mr. and Mrs. C. Rush.

Little Miss Sylvia Millar of Trenton, spent a few days recently with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock.

Sunday School and church services were held on Sunday afternoon. White's Church on Sunday afternoon. At the Sunday School Service Mrs. C. Rush as missionary superintendent, gave a fine talk and Miss Marilyn Bowers and Master Donald Bowers contributed a duet "Jesus Bids Us Shine."

Mr. Garnet Reid who has been attending Kemptville Agricultural College has returned to his home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Sadler and Miss D. Sadler of Frankford were Sunday dinner and tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Young.

Several of the farmers have been very busy sowing their early grain and pea crops and a few have planted their early vegetable seeds. The heavy wind of Saturday afternoon raised dust clouds but no damage was caused in the immediate vicinity.

Mrs. Alex Vader and children of Johnstown were Wednesday visitors of her mother, Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson.

Bayside W.M.S.

Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson was hostess to the ladies of the Bayside Woman's Association on Wednesday afternoon with nine members and three visitors present.

The president, Mrs. C. Rush, presided over the meeting with a program celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada. The members dedicated themselves to advance in membership organization, leadership, reading and study, in giving, in service and in fellowship with God, that as individuals they may grow in grace and in the knowledge of God and of our Savior Jesus Christ.

Receive Given

Mrs. H. Rutter gave an interesting report of the morning session of the W.M.S. convention held in Napanee. This report was prepared by Mrs. H. I. Mooney who was unable to be present.

Mrs. R. J. Flynn gave a report of the afternoon session of the above convention. Both reports were well given and brought worthwhile messages to those who were unable to be present.

Mrs. Frank Sandercock offered her home for the July meeting which is to be a joint meeting of the W.M.S., Mission Band and all members of small children are requested to attend.

The hostess served delicious refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

HOW TO GET QUICK RELIEF FROM SORE, PAINFUL PILES
A Candid and Honest Discussion on a Delicate Subject

FOREWORD: This is a frank attempt to give you in non-technical language certain information regarding a widespread and personally annoying physical condition. A condition which not only affects sufferers mentally, but which these thousands suffer untold discomfort, pain and embarrassment, far too often this condition at first superficial in itself—can be Nature's warning of more serious trouble to come. We believe every man or woman who suffers from this condition will find in their own personal comfort to read the statement below.

Leonhardt Proprietaries, Ltd.

Since the dawn of civilization, medical men have carried on a ceaseless war. Not only to save human lives, but to relieve,—or better still, prevent some of the physical afflictions which afflict the incalculable human misery they cause.

Thus, when a famous physician or a noted scientist makes an important therapeutic discovery or perfects a new surgical technique, the news flings around the world. Yet, even while these front-page discoveries are taking place, many of the most widespread human maladies—"hay fever"—"the common cold"—"sinus-itis"—certain digestive disorders—are undergoing constant scientific study and laboratory scrutiny by men who pulse never before has it been because these "everyday" maladies do not seem serious.

Among these seemingly commonplace afflictions are "piles". Those who suffer from this amazingly widespread trouble are burdened with a double handicap.

They yearn for relief, but hesitate to seek it—merely because of "false pride". The sheer embarrassment of seeking advice or treatment often makes it preferable to suffer in silence. There is no "drama" about piles. No glamour —no glory—no fortune. Only the man who finds a way to help pile sufferers. The subject itself is "unmentionable"—it is seldom, if ever openly discussed. But no man or woman who has known, or now knows, the agonizing, embarrassing torment of itching, burning piles, can long in business efficiency, in social pleasure, in good looks and vitality and sheer enjoyment of life—will not find quick and safe, efficient method for relieving this condition, could well be a far-reaching contribution to human health and comfort.

WHAT ARE PILES?

Piles, as such, are not a primary ailment but result from some condition preceding or associated with them. The contributing conditions that cause piles never originate in the parts affected.

In their early stages, piles are inflamed, distended rectal veins—actually, "varicose veins" in the delicate membranes of the rectum. Most of their primary causes—some surprisingly often, in fact—is hepatic congestion or torpidity of the liver which results in common, everyday constipation. In ordinary layman's language, here is what happens:

1. When the liver is unduly congested and its normal function is slowed by sluggishness the flow of blood to the liver from the lower bowel is retarded and dolens of small rectal veins become swollen and distended with blood.
2. This sluggish, congested liver action usually causes constipation.
3. With the start of constipation, hard clogging masses form in the lower bowel and colon.
4. These hard masses press upon and irritate or bruise the sensitive, distended rectal veins.
5. Blood thickens and stagnates in the bruised area. The tiny veins become greatly inflamed, over-sensitive, lumpy and thus exceptionally painful.

6. The pain from these blood swollen veins, plus aggravation of the constipation itself, is "self perpetuating". The condition increases the itching, burning pain and soreness, which in turn further increases the constipation—which in turn tends to further enlarge and irritate the swollen veins which first caused the trouble. It is a vicious circle.

This is why, from the very onset, piles are sheer torment—as their victims know all too well.

But the agony and embarrassment of piles are only one answer—chronic piles or the surgeon's knife. A big price to pay for lack of knowledge!

Yet, today in many cases, radical action may not be the only answer. More than half a century ago an able and qualified professional man began an intensive study of the entire subject of piles—their cause and effect. He found a method by which this vicious circle may be broken. This man compounded and allowed, a combination, many different combinations of ingredients. He finally devised a formula of medicinal agents which, when used as directed, results in 86 out of 100 cases-showed amazing relief. Proving that piles come from congested conditions inside the body—never from an outside cause. Therefore it is sensible to treat piles inside where the trouble starts. To combat piles you need internal medication that actually relieves congestion, stimulates the liver and bile, gently and effectively eases constipation, and works to improve the circulation of blood in the lower bowel. And as proper treatment improves blood circulation in the lower bowel the healing forces of Nature take hold and promote a healthier condition in the sore, painful areas—often permanently. That is why you need internal medication if you want to relieve the unnatural congestion that is the real cause of piles. It is on that sound reasoning this man originated an internal treatment for piles.

* * * * *

He gave his formula the trade name of Hem-Roid and began to use it, not only in his own practice, but also to furnish Hem-Roid to his friends and acquaintances. Several years later; in 1904 to be exact, he sold the formula and name, Hem-Roid was then offered to the general public.

* * * * *

The remarkable results through the use of Hem-Roid are a matter of record extending over the last 50 years. Thousands of packages have been sold in various countries throughout the world. Hundreds of users have testified to its quick and efficient action.

* * * * *

SPECIAL NOTE: Makers of Hem-Roid sincerely believe that pile sufferers everywhere will welcome this information. Of course some persons, because of long standing, neglected cases should consult a physician. But for the average pile conditions, we have nothing better than Hem-Roid to give you the action and results you desire.

* * * * *

* * * * *

We want Hem-Roid to prove itself to you in your own case, so we make this generous offer. Secure from any drug store a package of Hem-Roid, 60 tablets, 30 full days treatment, at the amazingly low cost of $1.50. The the tablets exactly as directed for 10 days. If at the end of that time you are not delighted with the results you get, return the unused portion of the package to the druggist and your full purchase price will be refunded without question—you are the sole judges. So you risk nothing—not even the small cost of Hem-Roid, (a few pennies a day) if you are not completely satisfied. And you do stand to gain quick and immeasurable relief from the pain, discomfort and embarrassment you have endured. So why suffer? Why risk costly and perhaps dangerous methods when inexpensive Hem-Roid may give you quickly, easily and pleasantly just the help and benefit you seek?

* * * * *

It would show a serious lack of interest in your own personal comfort for you to continue to suffer the pain, itching and annoyance of piles when so good a remedy as Hem-Roid may be had at such a small cost. And it is rare indeed that more than 10 days use are needed to prove its merit. Try it and see for yourself.

ROSLIN

Lime Lake Talent Presents Three Humorous Plays

Roslin — On Friday evening three humorous plays were presented in the Anglican Church Hall, Roslin, by Lime Lake talent, under the auspices of Moneymore Ladies Guild.

Mr. Fred Wilson acted as chairman for the evening.

The first play presented was "Kidnapping Betty" and showed the many amusing situations and difficulties encountered by the local school teacher in securing a place to board.

Cast of characters were: Dan Fielding—Mr. Earl Milligan; Nat Meadows—Mr. Wm. Lucas; Bud Simpson—Mr. George York; Betty Meadows—Mrs. C. Jarmin; Molly Fielding—Mrs. Wm. Lucas; Joanna Fielding — Marion Lucas; Sally Perkins—Mrs. Bob Mills.

Between the first and second play a violin selection was given by Mr. W. G. Henderson; a recitation by Miss Brown, entitled, "The Browns of Wallen Green," followed by a guitar selection by Miss Joan Vance.

2nd Play

The second play presented was "Wanted a Housekeeper". In the first act two bachelors, who were getting sick and tired of their own cooking and washing dishes decide to advertise for a housekeeper.

The second act shows results of the ad, as the many applicants for housekeeper were interviewed. In the end, the men decided they would rather carry on as before without a housekeeper.

Cast of characters: Abe Perkins —Mr. George York; Ike McSweeney— Mr. Earl Milligan; Gertie Brown—Mrs. Bob Mills; Olga from the Volga—Mrs. B. York; Mrs. Sweetly and Gerald—Mrs. Thomas Tyner and Albert; Mrs. Boggins—Mrs. Fred Wilson and Gladys Charming—Mrs. Wm. Henderson.

Between the second and third acts Mrs. Gordon Simpson and Shirley sang a duet "My Happiness"; a recitation by Mildred Lucas, "Grandma's Help"; solos with guitar accompaniment by Miss Joan Vance, were "Quick Silver" and "Enjoy Yourself".

3rd Play

The last play was "Spring Cleaning" and showed the busy times that arise during the annual spring housecleaning.

Cast of characters: Mrs. Ella Spooner—Mrs. Wm. Lucas; Mrs. Jack Moore—Mrs. T. Purvis; Hilda—Mrs. C. Jarmin; Gay Moore—Miss Marion Lucas; Mary Spooner—Miss Helen Wales; Mrs. Olsen—Mrs. Harold York.

The players had been well chosen, with capable portrayal of their characters.

Lunch was served refreshments by the ladies of the Guild.

MALE MODELS

Elmsdale, N.S. — (CP) —The Home and School Association here raised funds by staging a fashion show with nine men modelling everything from evening gowns to beach suits. Women working in relays gave a running commentary to the packed house. S. Sutherland was crowned "queen" of the show.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WE'RE GOOD FOR "SUMPIN", AFTER ALL

Two Kingston softball leagues have affiliated with the Eastern Ontario Softball Association, the first in eight years, says an Ottawa report. Johnny Carr-Harris has been named the western convener of the Association and will cover a district extending from Gananoque to Belleville.

So this village won't be off the sports pages entirely this summer. At least we shall be known as the landmarks for district boundaries for out-of-town leagues; the home of the Corbin Lawn Bowling Gold Trophy; the only city between Toronto and Montreal without a senior baseball club, and the birthplace of Al. Kelcher, and Lefty McCabe.

DON'T SELL 'EM SHORT

Tip to Senior Baseball Team Managers Hereabouts — Don't sell this Smith's Falls COBL entry short. It seems the Falliers are a farm team of the Ottawa Nationals of the Border League and mayhap not a few of the budding aspirants who tried out with the Nats will be seen in a Falls uniform some soon. Batawa laddybucks are getting in some practice licks at the Fair Grounds these frosty evenings getting ready for the Glorious 24th when they open against Smith's Falls on the down-east diamond. Picton are hosts to Kingston while Napanee treks to Brockville for openers on the same date.

THE HARDER THEY FALL

"You can believe that old gag that the bigger they come the harder they fall," Ray Villmer, 49-namic pint-size (as wrestlers go — he would be a forty-ouncer in any other walk of life) Master of the pancherdemic fraternity said the other night, after he learned he had been matched with the Strangler Bob Wagner on Friday night. "I'll teach that big so-and-so a lesson he'll never forget. He won't be sticking his foot out tripping me up when they tangle around the ring, after Friday."

Villmer was plainly furious at what happened. He apparently had the big but clumsy roughie-toughie Wild Bill Longson in a very tough spot last Friday when he was tripped, it is reported, by Mr. Wagner. Mr. Wagner did a quick right-about-face and didn't wait for the referee's whistle. He strode toward the dressing room with a look of smug satisfaction after his pal Longson was declared the winner following Villmer's inability to get back into the ring before the ten-count.

Towering Ski-Hi Lee, plus jeers, jeers and big torso is due back on Friday in the semi-final match against popular Earl "Moose" McCready. The "Moose" regained his former popularity in his 1950 debut here last week, and it was quite evident the faithful still like him. Ray McClarity a newcomer to Belleville has been signed to match his skill with Al. Korman in the opener.

"IT AIN'T HAY, BROTHER"

Big Wee Willie Davis, he of the six-foot five height and-256 pounder shook water from his wet noggin as he stepped from the shower last Friday, following his bout with Earl "Moose" McCready.

Wee Willie, as he is popularly known has done quite a few stints before the movie cameras, and by the time this is being read, he will be back again in front of the klieg-ins, or at least getting ready to throw his ponderous weight around in a movie role.

"I may not like 'Ray' (meaning Villmer) but I'm not the least averse to that combination of "dough and use" if you get what I mean," he smiled.

We didn't but did a few minutes later when Wee Willie showed us proof that he will be off to Hollywood where he will appear in an Abbott and Costello flicker in which he will play the role of a toughie in the Foreign Legion. The pay? Mere peanuts, kiddies. All Wee Willie will collect for eight weeks work-ing-exerting with Foreign Legionnaires, and heaving the comedians out of a French fort somewhere near Casablanca-where Sidi-Bel-Abbes. is $750 per seven days, or eight times that amount overall. You figure it out. It gives us a pain in the income tax department.

DOTS AND FLASHES

Schedule of the South Hastings Baseball League will be available in a day or so . . . Latta, Shannonville, Read, Melrose and Canniffon are on the roster . . . Schedule calls for games on Wednesdays and Fridays . . . The handsome Labatt Trophy for the champions of the "B" Section, Commercial Softball League is now a reality. "Barney" Parsons, company representative selected the handle the other day — and it's a beauty . . . Turk Broda, hero of the Smythian "Battle of the Bulge" in the recent National Hockey League "wars" has joined the Labatt Company as a sales representative . . . Don't be surprised to see the "Turk" surrounded by an illustrious sports company in this district soon . . . Speedy St. Louis' Belleville baseball nine practices tonight at the Fair Grounds from six o'clock till curfew. Everybody welcome . . . Kingston United defeated the Ottawa Combines in an Eastern Ontario Soccer League fixture over the weekend. The United meets Belleville Navy on Saturday and will wear white outfits due to the fact both teams colors are red and white . . . Jack McNab, who is trying out for a spot on the Belleville Motors softball team, fell on his equatorial line the other night, we're informed, and rocked himself to sleep before he could retrieve a lost fly ball that came his way . . . Trenton Flyers soccer team goes to Stratford Saturday where they take on the Legion team of that city . . . Consequently the Flyers-ANAF Quinte League game has been brought forward to tomorrow night . . . Said the teacher to Tommy, aged 7, "If I lay an egg on the table and two on the chair, how many will I have?" Replied the precocious one, "Personally, I don't think you can do it".

Star Golf Pros Tear Their Hair Over New Rules

London (CP)— Looks like those lively 1950 golf tournaments may become more torrid than ever during the 1950 golfing season.

These are the portents, at least, on this side of the pond.

The cause of it all is none other than that august body, the Royal and Ancient Golf Association which has introduced a revised code of playing rules to be tried out for a period of two years by all affiliated unions.

Despite efforts of the Royal and Ancient Rules of Golf Committee to make the revisions simple and clear cut, players already are tearing their hair out over the correct interpretation of rule 30, governing an unplayable ball. Disagreements have also cropped up over other changes.

Infringement of rule 30 brought disqualification to a leading contender in the first major tournament of the 1950 British season — the $4,000 professional event at Moor Park.

The player Max Faulkner, a Ryder Cup player and assistant to the master-smith Henry Cotton, came breezing in with a first round score of 72, only to find himself disqualified by the sidelines. He had incorrectly interpreted the re-drafted rule about an unplayable ball.

Played Provisional Ball

Clinging close to par figures Faulkner suddenly found trouble with his booming tee shot from the 17th tee. Thinking he was out-of-bounds or lost, he promptly played a provisional ball which landed within easy pitching distance of the green.

When he found his first drive embedded under a brush, he deemed it unplayable and went on with his provisional ball to gain his par.

Faulkner reported the incident to the tournament committee and to his dismay learned he had incurred automatic disqualification.

The rule governing an unplayable ball is quite specific. It makes it clear that the player is the sole arbiter of when a ball is unplayable. However, once a ball is so declared the player must either lift and drop under penalty of one stroke within two club lengths of where his ball came to rest or go back to the tee and play another. A provisional ball as such is not permissible.

Faulkner said afterwards: "I've read the rules until my head is dizzy. I knew the ball would be unplayable so I drove a provisional just to save time. I thought the rules had been framed to make that possible.

Disqualification in minor tournaments have also been reported due to the failure of competitors to familiarize themselves with the new code. Two of the main pitfalls: Don't try a putt away again during a stroke competition; don't lift your ball if it is in line of your opponent's putt in a medal round. Hole out first, even if your ball is nearer the hole.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

By The Associated Press

Milwaukee — Rocky Graziano, 166, 1-2, Brooklyn, stopped Vinnie Cidone, 156, Brooklyn (3); Sonny Boy West, 135 3-4, Washington, stopped Bob Sandeberg, 134, Rockford, Ill. (5).

Los Angeles — Enrique Bolanos, 138, Mexico City, stopped Merlo Trigo, 139 1-4, Monterry, Mexico (7).

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, May 10 (AP) After committing his 11th balk in eight games 33 1-2 innings), pitcher Charles (Red) Adams of the Portland Beavers admitted he found his hobby easier than obey the balk rule. A quick check-up of Pacific Coast League questionnaires revealed his hobby as "taming mountain lions and making pets out of them." . . . Maybe the rest of the coast-leaguers feel the same way. They recorded 105 balks in the first five weeks of the season as compared to a total of 78 in the four previous years. . . Cincinnati Reds have the word of Al Vincent, his coach last year that rookie Frank Smith is "one of the most unperturbed pitchers in a jam I've ever seen." . . . He'll get plenty of chances to be unperturbed in Cincinnati.

Historical Note

Monday, August 6, 1906, Branch Rickey hit two home runs for St. Louis Browns against New York, the first off Jack Chesbro, whose hurling earned him a place in baseball's Hall of Fame, and the second off Walter Clarkson . . . If he recalls the feat, Branch probably wishes he could repeat it just once — then sell himself for $250,000.

What's One Third

Ray Sioviak, Arnold College coach, passes this one along for what it's worth: . . . Joanna Ray's third-baseman, Andy Robustelli, coaches a girls' softball team in New Haven in his spare time. . . In a recent practice session, Andy saw an opening for a double play and shouted to the gal on third: "Second, throw to second." . . . The girl held onto the ball as a puzzled look crossed her face, then she asked: "Coach where is second?" . . . That sounds suspiciously like Ralph Warner's yarn about the feminine Florida fan who couldn't understand why the program said Joe Dimaggio was an outfielder: she thought he was a hitter.

Kitchener Wins From Fort Wayne

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 10 (AP) —A four-run seventh inning gave Kitchener a 5-4 victory margin Tuesday night as the Canadians whipped Fort Wayne. Kekiongas 11-7 in the third game of their North American non-professional baseball championships.

The winning splurge came on four hits and two Fort Wayne errors. Relief pitcher Roy Tredgett received credit for the victory.

Star Outfielder of N.Y. Yanks Joe Dimaggio is in Midst Of Worst Slump in Career

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

What's wrong with Joe Dimaggio— and we don't mean his health.

The star outfielder of New York Yankees, one of the greatest and highest paid in the game, is in the midst of one of the worst batting slumps of his life.

What is the reason for his current puny .247 batting mark? The Yankee Clipper would give a large hunk of his $100,000 salary to know.

"I can't explain it," he said before Tuesday night's American League game against St. Louis Browns. "All I know is that my timing is off."

Joe went four for none as the Yankees defeated the Browns 4-2. Lefty Ed Lopat pitched a three-hitter for his third triumph. Hank Bauer had a hand in all the Yankee runs. He singled and doubled against loser Joe Ostrowski, drove in two runs and scored twice himself.

Dimaggio now has gone six games with only two singles to show for his efforts in his last 23 times at bat.

Meanwhile Ralph Kiner, the National League's home run king, went on another batting spree Tuesday night. He blasted two home runs, one with the bases full, to almost-single-handedly defeat Brooklyn. Kiner's sixth and seventh homers of the season enabled Pittsburgh Pirates to overcome a 5-0 deficit and whip the Dodgers 10-5.

Second of Campaign

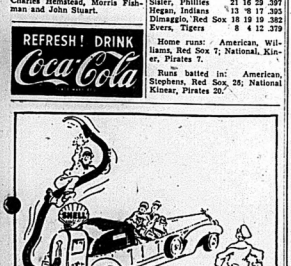
Kiner's grand-slammer was his second of the campaign and eighth of his big-league career. That ties him with Philadelphia's Bill Nicholson for most grand-slam homers by active National Leaguers.

Mel Parnell pitched Boston Red Sox into a first place tie with Detroit in the American League by defeating the Tigers 6-1. The Red Sox, led by rookie Walter Dropo, pounded Virgil Trucks for eight of their 13 hits. Dropo, subbing for the ailing Billy Goodman, at first, hammered his second home run in eight games and two singles.

Eddie Joost's eighth-inning home run enabled Philadelphia Athletics to shade Cleveland's slumping Indians 9-8.

Lloyd Hittle turned in a 3-2 victory for Washington over Chicago White Sox in his first start of the season. The lefthander allowed nine hits, five of them coming in the seventh inning of the Sox' runs.

Back in the National League, lefty Johnny Schmitz hurled Chicago Cubs to a three-hit 6-0 shutout over New York Giants. Giant Manager, Leo Durocher, second baseman Eddie Stanky and pitcher Sheldon Jones were ejected from the game during a seventh-inning argument.



PRESIDENT RE-ELECTED

Toronto, May 10 — (CP) — Vince Sheridan of Toronto was re-elected president of the Ontario division of the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association at the Association's general meeting Tuesday night.

With the exception of four directors, the entire board was returned by acclamation. W. Jack Addison, Leo Grogan, Art Hallisell and Ted Mac were named the board of directors.

Directors elected by acclamation included George McCullagh, Charles Hemstead, Morris Fishman and John Stuart.

Harold Wilson's Boat Ready to Attempt Record

(By The Canadian Press)

Harold Wilson of Ingersoll, owner-driver of Miss Canada IV, the Canadian challenger for the Harmsworth Trophy, said at London, Ont., Tuesday night that he would make an attempt to set a world's speedboat record at Gravenhurst, Muskoka, "possibly within the next month or so."

Speaking at a Y.M.C.A. dinner he said that Miss Canada had been completely overhauled and should be ready for trials soon.

"We expect to have the new propeller from England within two weeks. When it arrives, it won't take us long to get ready."

Wilson was undecided at first whether to make his bid for the record at Gravenhurst or at Picton, where last October he failed to crack the present record set by Sir Malcolm Campbell at Lake Coniston 14 years ago. However, a new course has been laid at Gravenhurst which meets all his requirements.

"If I do establish a record at Gravenhurst," he said, "I will try to better my own record at Picton later on."

Wilson set a North American mark at Picton when he sent his sleek, shark-nosed craft over the water at 138.865 miles an hour, the world's record is 141.

Wilson said the course at Gravenhurst was 8½ miles straightway on Lake Muskoka.

Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday reduced their roster to 26 players by releasing Ed Wright, 31-year-old right-handed pitcher, outright to their Toronto farm club in the International League.

Wright, a pre-war pitcher with the Boston Braves and a 11-11 performer with Toronto last year, did well during spring training but has been used only in batting practice since the start of the season.

Rugged Rocky Graziano, one-time world middleweight king, belted out a technical knockout Tuesday night at Milwaukee over Vinnie Cidone of Brooklyn. The scrap was halted at the end of the third round.

Cidone, who floored Graziano in the second round for the only knockdown of the fight, was stopped by a cut over his left eye. A crowd of 12,386 paid $49,575 to see the bout.

Tom Casey, who may play football in Winnipeg next fall, took steps Tuesday to make sure he wouldn't have to switch to water polo.

The swivel-hipped Negro backfielder who played for Hamilton Wildcats in the Interprovincial Union last season, plans to talk terms with President Ralph Minete of the Western Canada Union's Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

But his first move on arrival in flood-menaced Winnipeg was to don a pair of hip-waders and head for the dikes to tote a few sandbags. The contract talks will come later.

Springfield Cubs Finally Reach .500 Level Again

(By The Associated Press)

It was a tough haul, but Stan Hack's Springfield Cubs finally have reached the .500 level again in the International League.

Not since April 22 — the second day of the season — have the Cubs been at .500. Then it was one victory and one defeat.

Tuesday night Springfield — after 16 days of trying — evened their record once more, at 8-8, with a 7-6 victory over Montreal Royals.

A crowd of 4,215 saw Bob Thurman's three-run homer in the ninth inning give Springfield its slim edge.

Al Ihde, third Springfield pitcher, was the winner. Roland Lee, middle man of three Royal hurlers, was charged with the loss.

Ted Sepkowski hit a three-run homer for Springfield, while Don Thompson found the range for Montreal. Thompson's blow had given Montreal a 6-4 edge in the eighth.

Three games — Jersey City at Buffalo, Syracuse at Rochester and Baltimore at Toronto — were postponed because of rain.

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, May 10 (CP)— There was a "hearts and flowers" touch to Lynn Patrick's resignation as coach of New York Rangers.

Reports of the occasion had the National Hockey club's front office wishing Lynn nothing but the best as he headed west to join his father in running the new Victoria entry in the Pacific Coast League.

But Milt (Toronto Star) Dunnell says the facts behind the departure of the freshman coach who nearly won the Stanley Cup are somewhat less pleasant than those that met the eye. For what it's worth, here's Milt's version:

"When Lester Patrick was near the end of his active connection with the club he put on the hockey map, Ranger president Gen. John Reed Kilpatrick told him he planned to bring up Lynn from New York's New Haven farm club to replace Frank Boucher as Ranger coach.

Milt says Lester didn't like the idea. The old Patrick claimed to have taught Boucher all he knew about the executive end of the game and felt Boucher was ignoring his advice.

"Lynn Couldn't Win"

"It's a bad time for him to take over," Lester told the president when he suggested Lynn as coach.

Lester explained to friends that his son couldn't win. Boucher was stepping out after a successful coaching career to take over as manager. If Rangers did well under a new coach, Boucher would get the credit. If not, Lynn was the goat.

Despite his father's warning that he'd never be happy under Boucher, Lynn took the job, feeling it was probably his only chance to coach an N.H.L. club.

"At the start," concludes Milt, "he and Boucher were buddies but before the season was far spent, Lynn had decided Lester was right."

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, May 10 (AP) — Robert Mitchum, who has seldom expressed satisfaction with his movie work, is again talking — not only talking—about retirement.

The actor is faced with the dilemma of most members of modern civilization — he doesn't like his work, but he needs the money. In his case, the problem is acute; he says his recent troubles with the law dissolved whatever savings he had. The result, he claims, is that he has to work all of the time to keep his head above the financial waters.

"When I make some more money," he vowed, "I'm going to retire and be a farmer. But for long, long time I'm just going to sit. Instead of two pictures a year, I'd do six — and for the same amount of money I'd get for two."

Mitchum, who is inclined to say almost anything, took a poke at film in general and his own in particular:

Plain Dull

"Movies are too immature and just plain dull. Most of the ones I've been in are a lot hogwash. They keep making the useless things because they continue to sell.

"It's different on Broadway. If a play is no good, it folds after a few performances. But if a movie stinks, people still go to see it.

"I think there should be a reason for making a motion picture. There's no excuse for a bunch of characters just cavorting around."

The actor-critic even teed off on his own work: "They don't want me to act. "Don't try to emote; just turn your head this way.' That's all that's necessary.

"It's embarrassing. Why, I know a fellow who embarrassed himself right out of the movies. He was really a fine actor, but he kept making stupid pictures. He got so embarrassed with them all he just had to get away."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

An experienced bridge player fights to the finish. He concedes the rest readily enough when there is absolutely no chance for one more trick. But not if it merely looks improbable.

He does not give up when a contract only looks as if it will not make. He first throws one of his opponents into the lead to see what happens. The foe may make a mistake. Or something.

Some amazing results are had this way. There is no telling when an opponent is in doubt about a return lead. Or, if not in doubt, he sometimes chooses a lead contrary to sound principles.

My partner was the declarer at a doubled five diamond contract. It was in this deal:

♥ A K Q 9 4
♦ K 6 5
♣ 9 6 2

WEST
♠ Q 8 6 4 2
♥ J
♣ Q J 8 7 5

EAST
♠ A K J 10 3
♥ 10 8 5 3 2
♦ Q J 10 7 3
♣ K

SOUTH
♣ A 10 4 3

The opening lead from west was the spade four. East won this with the king and returned a spade. Dummy had ruffed it with one of the small diamonds. South and dummy drew two trump rounds.

Two top hearts pulled in a couple of tricks. When west showed out on the second round of these, the suit looked sour. Now it may be expected that two club tricks will be lost.

There seemed nothing south could do about it. But he did. He decided to throw east into the lead with awful results. Leading a club from dummy, east was permitted to keep it with the king.

It caught east with his minors out. Either a heart or a spade return from there saves south two club tricks. A spade back permits a south club stuff and a ruff with dummy last trump. On the heart queen can be stuffed the last south club.

What if east returns a heart? Dummy will get two tricks with queen and nine. On these can be stuffed the two small south clubs.

Opponents were helpless. Declarer decided to let east hold the first club trick. South shrugged: "What could I lose?"

HUNGARIAN FOOD PROBLEM

Budapest, May 10—(AP)— The official communist party newspaper admitted Tuesday Hungary is having difficulties in the supply of certain foodstuffs and warned shoppers to display "more discipline." The newspaper, Szabad Nep, said the difficulties were temporary, and added that Budapest inhabitants consumed much more food in the first part of 1950 than in the similar period last year.

Former heavyweight champ, Jack Dempsey, had a hand in the production.

Calgary Stamps One Game Away From Elimination

Edmonton, May 10 — (CP)— Calgary Stampeders will have to pull out all stops tonight if they intend to stay in the Allan Cup hunt.

Down 3-1 in the best-of-seven final series with Toronto Marlboros, the Stamps will be attempting what they have done in previous hockey playoffs this year, winning with stretch drives of three and four games in a row.

In the Western Canada Senior Hockey League semi-final against Saskatoon Quakers, Stamps won the first game, lost the second and swept the next three. In the league final against Edmonton Flyers they dropped the first two and won the loop title on the next four.

The hot-and-cold Calgarians, a mixture of rookies and spry veterans, lost their first encounter with Kamloops Elks, British Columbia champions but then took the next four. They won the western title in a series against Fort Frances Canadians which saw them win the first game, drop the second and take the next three.

The eastern champions will find themselves much more at home in Edmonton Gardens, which has a larger ice surface than Calgary's Victoria Arena. All the previous games have been played in Calgary.

Bowling Tourney Extended to May 27

The Eastern Ontario Scratch Bowling Tournament sponsored by the Bowl-O-Drome here has been extended to May 27 manager Bill Bateman announced today.

The leading team thus far is out of Belleville and is composed of bowlers, Thompson, Peoples, Dixon, Peoples and Hilchon. Their score, the highest to date is 3160.

In the high doubles, Saylor and Hyatt lead with 1273 with Bredon and Hyatt in second place with 1259.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

Little Benny's Note Book

In school today Miss Kitty was asking different fellows read out loud, saying, Reading aloud is the best training to prepare you for public speaking in later years. Oratory is a very fine virtue, but also need a certain amount self-confidence or we'll never able to address public gatherings successfully. Many of the greatest men of the passed as well the present were also great orators. A kid could hold vast audiences spellbound with their flow language. And while I am on the subject, I regret to observe 2 young men in this class practicing their public speaking at the Meaning me and Puds Simkins whispering to each other, and everybody started to laff, and Miss Kitty banged her desk with her ruler, saying Quiet, please. The 2 orators will remain after the class is dismissed and write a composition on the subject, "The most difficult speech I ever made."

Which we did, me writing. The most difficult speech I ever made was one time when a suit of my long underware blew off our clothes line into the back yard where our lady about my age, and I made a difficult speeches, one to my mother on the subject of the cold and asking for my underware back and the other to the young lady's mother, asking for it back

HALF OF CABANO

Half Town Ruined

Half the town is completely ruined including 80 per cent of the area's industries. By careful count there were 122 buildings destroyed including many multiple-dwelling houses. Just a little less than half the residents are homeless. Nearly 300 men have automatically become jobless.

The swiftness with which the army and the Red Cross moved in saved the town residents from severe hardships.

A small town built around the lumber industry, Cabano is Ireland from Riviere Du Loup 150 miles east of Quebec.

Damage caused by the blaze—fanned by a 50-mile-an-hour wind Tuesday morning when the fire broke out — was estimated at $6,000,000, including 10,000,000 feet of lumber and 6,000,000 bags of wooden roofing materials.

Troops Guard Ruins

Troops, 37 men of all ranks, heard of the second disaster.

stood with fixed bayonets over the devastated town throughout the black of Tuesday night, lit here and there by orange-colored flashes of flames from dying fire nests.

Although emergency shelters were set up in four different buildings and tents were put up by the army near the parish church, many hundreds roamed the streets through the smoke filled night with flashlights.

Brig. J. V. Allard, officer commanding the Quebec Military Region, is in charge of maintaining order in the town.

A forest fire about half a mile from the town is still burning but the absence of wind eliminated any danger to the town, for the time being at least.

Quick to Plan Relief

Red Cross officials, still working on the $20,000,000 Rimouski fire disaster 65 miles east of here, were quick to plan relief organization. Volunteers were placed under a central committee headed by Dr. Harvey Doney of Toronto, Red Cross national director.

Dr. Doney rushed here from fire-stricken Rimouski when he heard of the second disaster.

At the height of the fire dynamite was used by firemen to blow up a two-storey cement block building of the huge sprawling mill and lumber works of Ernest Pelletier.

Compared with the Rimouski disaster, the Cabano fire though also a matter of serious moment, tragic for residents of this isolated community.

Most of Town Destroyed

Most of the groceries in the town were destroyed as were the two only bakeries, and the two largest hotels. Without prompt food supplies brought in Tuesday night and early today feeding the homeless would have been next to impossible.

Origin of the fire is attributed to a flaming chip of wood from a planing mill of the Pelletier Lumber Works.

The chip came out of a chigney over a furnace used to burn chips from the planed lumber. A fire had started a few days earlier near this planing mill for the same reason. It was put out at that time but Tuesday a flaming chip of wood fell on 85 cords of dry lumber.

No Stopping March

"It was only 10 minutes before 50 houses were burning," one man said describing how the fire started.

There was no stopping the march of flames. Assistance came promptly from fire departments of Riviere Du Loup, St. Rosaire, Notre Dame Du Lac, Edmundston, N.B., Frenchville, Maine, but fire had spread so widely that fire-fighters limited their work at first to protecting untouched areas and then moved in more to kill the fire gradually.

The power lines in the town lay broken in the streets but the plant of the lower St. Lawrence Power Company was not destroyed as was reported earlier. However, the company's offices were destroyed.

During the fire the parish

Cure Jean Philippe Cyr walked amidst the burning streets with the consecrated Host and later with a crucifix.

HOUSE DECIDES

Mr. Lapointe said that in every case where one of the emails was denied there had been "good and sufficient" reason for the Post-master-General to believe that the mails were being used for fraudulent purposes.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said the two ministers had made some "ridiculous" statements. But a government motion for the committee of supply to report progress prevented him from debating the statements.

In the Senate, a heated two-hour debate developed on a motion by Senator W. D. Euler, Ontario calling for elimination of the 3-cents-per-cent sales tax on margarine.

Noisy Scenes

In the debate on communism, noisy scenes were precipitated when John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) charged the government with failure to invoke laws against communism.

He said that a clause in the widely-criticized section 98 of the Criminal Code another section had been added restricting the powers of section 98 with regard to the prevention of subversive intention. Thus, the government had power only to newspapers, to openly advocating a change of government by force," were allowed to continue publishing.

Mr. Garson rose, asked if Mr. Diefenbaker's argument against it now was possible to prosecute in such cases without the Criminal Code amendment proposed by Mr. Drew.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he was using Mr. Garson's own argument. He was using it to show that under the existing law, prosecution was possible and conviction was possible.

"The law as it stands, if carried out, would bring results," said Mr. Diefenbaker.

Other counting had outlawed communism and he believed that Canada should do the same. But if the minister would not bring the law "up to date, then enforce it as it is." Those who had such a love for the iron curtain should have the privilege of being behind iron bars for a while.

Mr. Garson angrily reported interjections as Mr. Diefenbaker spoke. In some of the noisiest scenes in the House in weeks, Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Garson repeatedly called each other at the same time said members' aides on "left downs" and calls for "order" from the chair.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said the most disturbing thing Solon could do would be reverse his policy and appeal to the western powers for a 15-year pact of peace and friendship. It would "throw the democracies into a tailspin." The sudden necessity to shift production energies into peaceful pursuits would bring a depression.

SENATE LAUNCHES

Senator P. H. Bouffard (L—Quebec) said that in 1948, when Senator Euler first started campaigning on behalf of margarine, he was promised that any Canadian oils would be used in its manufacture, more than 90 per cent of the oils originated in the United States.

Senator Euler denied the charge.

Proving Disaster Claim

Senator Bouffard, a lawyer, said he could agree with Senator Euler on international matters, but certainly not on such a national matter as margarine.

The introduction of the sale and manufacture of margarine in Canada was proving a "disaster" to the butter industry and to Canadian farmers. Removal of the sales tax would mean reduction of less than three cents per pound, but there was no guarantee that the reduction would benefit the consumer.

If the government were to remove that tax—and there were a lot of more important tax removals to be considered first—then, said Senator Bouffard, he would want government to control the margarine price so that the tax removal would benefit the consumer.

However, the removal of the tax was in itself "ridiculous". At the most Canadian consumers would save no more than $1 a year.

Senator Bouffard said he was not interested in a margarine line or butter manufacturing but he believed that "limited protection" to the dairy industry would be a "sound policy".

He recalled that several years ago, when Senator Euler started his campaign in the chamber to make margarine free, the Ontario senator had promised that only Canadian oils would be used. Instead, more than 80 per cent of the oils used in the manufacture of Canadian margarine came from the United States.

Claims Charge Not Correct

Senator Euler said the charge was not correct. He never had made any such promise.

Perhaps he had not understood the promise made in 1948, said Senator Bouffard, but that was his impression. He had never-paper clippings in his office which would back up his remarks.

As a result of the introduction of margarine, Canadian taxpayers had to meet the cost to the government of more than $1,000,-000 lost in trying to dispose of surplus butter.

Senator T. A. Crerar (L—Manitoba), who seconded his motion on federal union, sided with Senator Euler on abolition of the sales tax and said he was opposed to "pressure" groups which were trying to keep the tax on.

Senator J. Wesley Stambaugh (L—Alberta) said elimination of the tax would hurt the dairy farmer.

Discuss Federal Union

Senator Euler, on the question of federal union, said he believed the initiative for calling the exploratory conference should be taken by the United States.

Initially, he believed the union should embrace the democracies alone. Later, it might include the communist countries and would mean complete merging of the countries, politically, economically "and in every other way."

The alternative to world or Atlantic union, said Senator Euler, may not mean a shooting war but it will mean a constant fear of war and the enormous expenditure now necessitated by the cold war and the need for protection against attack.

His motion, he said, was similar to one now before the United States Congress. There was hope that Congress would accept the resolution during the current session.

Many Favor Proposal

He also had received a letter from Henry Osborne, member of the British House of Commons, saying that more than 100 members of the British parliament favored the proposal.

The crusade already has been started in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France, as well as in the U.K. and the U. S.

World leaders such as Primo Minister Attlee of the U.K., Winston Churchill, former Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Prof. Albert Einstein already had given record favoring Atlantic or world federation.

If peace could not be obtained in a federation world through application of the principle of the brotherhood of man, then it was time that nations which think and live alike unite to survive "before soon no peaceful war sends the world in chaos."

Red Charges Police Tortured Him With Richest Food

Lisbon, May 10 — (AP) — Portugese police were charged yesterday with creating a new torture — chicken, steak and eggs.

Alvaro Sunhal, held for seven months for trying to overthrow the government, said his jailers fed him chicken soup and fried chicken every day for lunch; steak and fried eggs every night for dinner.

"This became a daily torture. Nobody could stand the same food every day," he complained.

The judges spurned his plea and sentenced him to four years in jail as leader of a communist underground.

Hunt Piggy Bank Stolen With $2,000 Loot

Syracuse Lake, N.Y., May 10 — (AP) — Police are looking for a copper magnate's stolen piggy bank.

The bank, containing 800 pennies and $5 in silver, was in $2,000 worth of loot taken by burglars who broke into the summer home of Edmond A. Guggenheim of New York City.

Three men are held in jail at Malone on charges in connection with the theft.

Police said Tuesday some of the loot had been recovered, but not the piggy bank or 80 bottles of liquor.

Strange Story of Kidnapping Told by Man

Robbed and Held Prisoner by Two Men in Cabin

Shelburne Man Was Object Of Province-Wide Search

North Bay, May 11 — (CP) — A farmer who disappeared 16 days ago in Southern Ontario turned up today near this northern city and told a strange story of being chloroformed, robbed of $225 and held prisoner 16 days in a summer cottage.

Fred Ancomb, 32, of Shelburne, stumbled into nearby Callander, red-eyed, haggard and trembling. He told police he had been kidnapped by two men who offered to sell him a tractor for his 100-acre farm 70 miles northwest of Toronto.

Cpl. Everett Hicks of Orangeville, who directed the search for Ancomb in the Shelburne district before the hunt became province wide, set out for North Bay this morning to assist in the investigation. Ancomb planned to remain here pending the arrival of his wife.

No Ill Effects

The heavy-set farmer, described as a plump man without an enemy, appeared to have suffered no ill effects from his experience. At the time of his disappearance, his wife referred to him as "a God-fearing man who neither drinks, smokes nor swears."

Ancomb vanished April 25 after he withdrew some money from a bank in Shelburne. Police officers were on hand today as he told reporters of his adventures since he met the "tractor salesmen."

Ancomb said he got into a car at Shelburne with two men after one of them promised to demonstrate a tractor. A cloth smelling of medicine was thrown over his head and he lost consciousness. He came to on a bed in a cabin where he was held for 16 days, he said.

He believes the cabin might be a summer cottage in the Huntsville area.

He was taken from the cabin about 1 a.m. today, blindfolded and bundled into a car. He said it seemed to him that the car travelled through two towns before the blindfold was removed.

During his captivity, he was allowed out only once, to his pocket when he left home, he said.

Not Harmed Physically

But he said his captors did not harm his physically in any way. They let him shave once, four days ago.

"The window was boarded up tightly," he told a reporter. "I could not see what was outside or me out of that room. They gave me two meals a day. In the morning, it was porridge and sweetened milk. At night there were always baked beans, mashed potatoes and bacon or sausages.

"There was only summer bedding in the room. I had to sleep with my clothes on to keep warm. I had to use a pillow slip for a towel."

SENATOR SAYS OLEO MAY CAUSE EYE DEFECTS

Ottawa, May 11 (CP) — Senator J. W. De B. Farris has posed a new problem for the dairy industry.

The British Columbia Liberal told the Senate Wednesday that in the United States a scheme has been devised to use vegetable oils to produce ice cream and fluid milk.

He said the scheme was so well done that it was difficult to detect the presence of the vegetable oils, even through scientific analysis.

Senator Farris spoke in opposition to a motion by Senator W. D. Euler (L-Ontario) urging the Senate to approve the idea that the right persons also vote on margarine be eliminated. Senator Euler, a Vancouver lawyer, was supported by Senator R. B. Horner (PC-Saskatchewan), a farmer, and Senator Jacob Nicol (L-Quebec), a newspaper publisher.

Attacking margarine on five points, Senator Farris quoted a prominent United States scientist as saying that eye defects show up in persons using margarine exclusively for a period.

Quotes Authority

His authority was Dr. Christian Segard, director of the medical research, Wisconsin Research Foundation, who claimed that these defects occur in the second and third generations.

Senator Farris quoted Dr. Segard as saying:

"The first generation can handle margarine all right, but after second and third generations, defects begin to show up."

His other points:

1. The question of margarine tax was one for the government and the Commons to decide — not the Senate. The Senate could be regarded as "meddlesome and mischievous" if it tried to dictate government taxation policy.

2. Policies of the margarine manufacturers tended to destroy the dairy industry.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS:

Toronto, May 11 (CP)—Synopsis: Intermittent light rain fell in most districts of Ontario yesterday, and temperatures were below seasonal values averaging around 45 during the afternoon. Northern regions skies were partly cloudy with occasional light rain.

The weak disturbance centred north of Lake Superior is expected to move southeastward bringing light rain or snow to northern regions today. Over the remainder of the province it will be warm and sunny.

Model air from the Gulf of Mexico moving slowly northeastward is causing a wide band of rain and thunderstorms over the central states. This precipitation is expected to move slowly southeastward reaching Lake Erie region tomorrow night.

MINISTERS MEET TO DRAFT PLAN OF WEST DEFENCE

Hope to Avoid Shooting War

London, May 11 — (CP)—The Big Three Foreign Ministers met today in draft a strategy they hope will keep the cold war from exploding into a shooting war.

With an appeal from State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States to sacrifice some national interests to avoid war, the ministers seek agreement on plans to avert initiative in the east - west conflict from the Russians.

Almost three weeks of intensive preparation by ambassadors and experts preceded the meeting of Acheson, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France.

The major hope of success comes from the dramatically sudden French proposal to pool coal and steel resources with Germany and any other country that may wish to join the combine.

This plan could settle the No. 1 problem of western strategy by forging a strong link between Germany and the west.

It drew from Acheson a statement that the "significance and far reaching" of the

FIRE IN BEDROOM

Fire, starting in a bedroom, caused small damage Wednesday evening at the home of Stanley Bulpit, 161 Station Street.

Firemen who responded to the alarm were unable to determine the origin of the blaze which damaged bedroom furniture and ate its way into the attic before being extinguished. The blaze was extinguished with the aid of water from the booster tank, thus cutting water damage to a minimum.

ILLEGAL FISHING FINES ARE PAID OUT OF COURT

Three county residents, Royce Grills or Thomasburg, Kenneth Courtney of Stirco and Stanley MacDonald of Point Anne, were assessed $25 fine and costs in county court following pleas of being guilty of having pickerel in their possession. All three were paid out of court. One of the charges was laid by C. H. Winters and the other two by Fred McDonald, game and fish-eries inspectors.

Cadets of Ship 'Quinte' Evidence Fine Training And Discipline at Inspection

Smart and trim in their "round rigs" cadets of the RCSC "Quinte" evidenced fine training and discipline in their annual inspection and "At Home" held in the "ship" last night.

Diversity of training and adaptability of the youthful sailor cadets were evidenced in the marching, seamanship and various demonstrations offered for high ranking officers of the district and a large crowd of civilian visitors.

Shortly after seven o'clock, a smart guard of honor drawn up in formation were inspected by Lieut. Commander H. W. Webster representing Lieut. Commander H. K. Hill, officer commanding RCSCA, Cadets who also inspected the corps in review formation.

Marching like young veterans the cadets later swung past the reviewing stand outside the ship, halted by the order, "Eyes left" Lieut. Commander J. Chris, area commander, the corps was under Lieut. R. Maxwell, officer commanding.

Salt-capped waves and a stiff breeze greeted the cadets when they went to "sea" for seamanship demonstrations. Two cutters were manned while a sailing craft was buffeted by the strong breeze and a stout whaler, under sail, also stood out to the stiff weather. The whaler, however, encountered difficulties and was towed ashore by a smart motor boat which carried officials and representatives of the Navy League.

Demonstrations Given

Later on the main deck of the ship the corps offered a divisional demonstration under officer of the watch, Sub. Lieut. L. Turner. Officer of the watch was Sub. Lieut. Boyce and Midshipman Curry. Petty Officer of the watch was P. C. Richards.

Cadets also gave demonstrations in rifle drill, marching, semaphore signalling, knots and bends. Much interest in the tying of the different nautical knots was evidenced by the spectators who were invited to take close-up views of the demonstrations.

Much laudatory comment was heard on the splendid appearance of the interior of the ship with its fine nautical equipment and furnishings.

Present at the inspection and "At Home" were Col. W. H. Wills, Mr. Ross Silver, Ontario Sea Cadet committee and zone chairman of Eastern Ontario; Dr. Russell Scott, chairman Belleville branch, Navy League; J. Watson, chairman Belleville Sea Cadet committee and Lieuts. Addison Lloyd and Jack Howe, RCNR.

Two Men Face 61 Charges of Altering, Forgery

A total of 61 charges of forgery and uttering were being read in magistrate's court today in Kenneth Johnston and Frank Greeley, both of Picton, as they appeared before Magistrate R. C. Wills for sentence on charges of passing bad cheques.

Last week Johnston was found guilty on a charge of uttering, while Greeley pleaded guilty to forgery and both were remanded until today for sentence. J. D. O'Flynn, counsel for the two men, last week intimated they would plead guilty to the remaining charges compiled for presentation today.

Arraignment of the two men on the multiplicity of charges was expected to take most of the afternoon. Fourteen charges of uttering read to Johnston on Monday were for offences in Hastings county. Johnston was to be arraigned on 36 charges of uttering while Greeley faced 22 charges of forgery. In addition numerous charges from the Brockville district will also be presented.

Public Invited To Visit Hospital Friday Afternoon

Friday, May 12, is the anniversary of Florence Nightingale's birthday. This day is set aside as National Hospital Day, and the public is cordially invited to visit the hospital and observe the work being done in the community by its own hospital. The hospital will be open to visitors from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m., and the public will be shown around the various departments by members of the School for Nursing.

Visitors are requested to register at the desk in the front hall so that they may be assigned to a guide.

Graduating Class In Optometry Visits Local Plant

Sixty-eight members of the graduating class in optometry at Toronto University visited the American Optical plant yesterday afternoon where they were shown the various processes of manufacturing lenses from the raw glass to the finished lens.

The graduating class made the visit to the city through Norman T. Kekewich, manager of the local firm's instrument sales division in Belleville. They made the trip down in two chartered buses and after lunch visited the American Optical plant where they were met by plant manager Gilbert B. Scott and his supervisory staff.

Today Mr. Scott stated the graduates were taken on a complete inspection tour of the company's new plant, the visitors making many complimentary comments regarding the fine appointments of the building.

Each step in the lens manufacturing process both for single vision lens and for bi-focals, was explained to the visitors as they were taken through the plant.

They saw the raw glass blanks before grinding and how special refractory glass is fused onto blanks for the manufacturing of bi-focal lens; the various grinding processes with the maintenance of exacting optical tolerances and finally the finished lenses, inspection and packing for shipment.

CIRCULATE PETITION

Timmins, May 11 — (CP) — A Cochrane citizen told the town council Tuesday night he will circulate a petition requesting that a plebiscite be held to give the town an opportunity to vote for Sunday sport. M. A. Palangio appeared before council to find out how many signatures he would need before council could authorize a vote.

Norman Kerr's Farm Home On Big Island is Burned

Fire which started from a chimney blaze during Saturday afternoon's heavy gale, completely destroyed the farm home of Norman Kerr on Big Island in Prince Edward county.

All the contents of the farm home were destroyed as was the machine shed and machinery stored in the building. The wind was blowing away from the barn and this was saved.

Cecil, aged eldest son of Mr. Kerr was alone in the house when he heard the roar of the chimney fire fanned by the gale. He lifted a lid on the stove and the flames shot out causing first degree burns on his arm. The curtains ignited and the flames spread so rapidly he was unable to extinguish them.

He ran to the barn to notify his father and younger brother but when they returned it was impossible to enter the house. Mr. Kerr lost his watch and a sum of money. He will rebuild as soon as possible.

Canine Exponent of Safety Rules for Children Delights Thousands in Demonstrations

"Knee-Hi" talented wire-haired dachshund and canine exponent of safety rules for children, delighted thousands of public school and collegiate students as well as a large crowd of adults during a two-day appearance here under the sponsorship of the Kinsmen Club and by courtesy of the Dr. Ballard Dog Food Company.

Dr. George E. Brunson, American schoolteacher and child psychologist, and Mr. W. C. Brunson put the clever dog through its paces illustrating its antipathy towards juvenile carelessness regarding traffic regulations and infringements of other good behavior rules on the part of youngsters.

Dr. Brunson in a running commentary on safety urged the children to carefully study rules regarding the riding of bicycles. He pointed out that mastery of the knowledge of the correct signals when riding congested highways; the danger of double-riding and other hazards.

"Knee-Hi" demonstrated his dislike of the breaches of the rules by promptly pulling the "culprit" off the bicycle while the double riding. The sagacious animal also demonstrated to the school children the correct way of walking across an intersection in the proper manner.

Showed Errors

It showed the errors of walking "out" from behind parked cars and as the children applauded, it checked up on any demonstrations who were interested in lighting fires, fighting, throwing stones at windows and firing guns, through the simple expedient of grabbing one of the boys by the trouser leg and dragging him from the scene of activities.

Following the demonstration, "Knee-Hi" invited it audiences to join the "Knee-Hi Safety Club" and hundreds took the opportunity to secure one of its sisters.

Dr. Brunson and "Knee-Hi" were assisted in the various demonstrations by Ron Fox, Robert Brown and Glen Jackson, three students of the city, and their bicycles.

Pointed Out Benefits

During the demonstrations, he pointed out the benefits to be derived from the Community Swimming Pool being sponsored by the Kinsmen Club. President Ernie Colbourne of the Kinsmen Club also briefly addressed the demonstration audiences, especially those in the schoolyard, and expressed his appreciation of the assistance given by the school staffs, also members of the Belleville Police Department.

Demonstrations were given to student bodies of all the public schools, St. Michael's Academy, the Collegiate Institute and in a public performance given on Front Street this afternoon.

"Knee-Hi" it is claimed, has performed in 10,000 demonstrations and before ten million school children and others during his "safety campaign" career.

Ont. Intell. Inkspots Win Major 'B' Bowling Title

The Ontario Intelligencer "Inkspots" champions of the Major "B" Tuesday Bowling League added another feather to their championship cap last night when they defeated the Callaghan Ice team, titleholders of the Major "B" Monday League for the City Major "B" championship.

Paced by the bowling of Cec Hardwick, who won the high triple (664) and high single (309) the Inkspots rolled an aggregate of 3299 as against 3276 of the opposition, Hardwick's single was the highest rolled in the Recreation Alleys this season.

Mark Storms was the highest individual scorer for the losers racking up a triple of 752 and a single of 312.

The team:— Callaghan's — J. Callaghan (544); J. Taylor (438); M. Callaghan (572); L. Miller (553); M. Storms (752) and M. S. Callaghan (525).

Inkspots — J. Semark (648); B. Rawson (576); B. Hardwick (527); M. Morrow (449); C. Hardwick (664); A. Adams (686).

IN MEMORIAM

TRACEY — In loving memory of a dear father, William Roy Tracey, who passed away on May 11, 1942. We often sit and think of him When we are alone,
For memory is the only friend That death can not take away.
Dad's memory is dear to me,
Always in the same place,
When all other things decay,
Memory will still keep green
And never fade away.
Sadly missed by Bill, Florence & children.

NONCE — In loving memory of Murney E. Rodgers, who passed away on May 11th, 1949.
God called him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he'll live still.
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
We often sit and think of him
When we are alone,
But what remembers him most
Is the vacant chair.
Ever remembered by wife, son, Dorland and daughter-in-law Mervin. M111

TRACEY — In ever loving memory of Roy Tracey, who passed away 8 years ago today.
A wonderful father, who passed away eight years ago today.
A day of remembrance and to recall
How dearly he loved us all.
Some may forget him now he is gone
But we shall remember him as nothing how long.
Not a day do we forget you
In our hearts you are always near
We loved you and miss you dearly
As it dawns another year.
We often sit and think of you
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend
That death can not take away.
Like ivy on the garden wall
When all other things decay
Our love for you will still keep
Your memory fresh and green.
Sadly missed by loving wife and son Patrick and daughter Geraldine. M111

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, May 11 — (CP) Base metal stocks brightened in an otherwise weaker market on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Demand was strong in early trading for leading base metals but slackened as the session progressed. Volume for the first 3 hours was 1,697,000 shares.

Consolidated Smelters featured the base metal list, gaining 1 1-4 at a new high at 105 following news that the company had increased the price of lead. United Keno Hill, Pend Oreille and Noranda metal were also higher.

Fractional losses appeared among a handful of leading industrials. Industrials closed strongly Wednesday into new peak price territory but profit-taking appeared today. A few textiles held firm.

Activity slackened considerably in golds. Senior and junior producers slumped and the penny prospects that have featured previous sessions this week were comparatively quiet. Newland was active and higher.

Western oils were slightly lower.

PRODUCE MARKET

Noted Pastor From India To Speak Here

Reverend N. G. Vasu, native Christian pastor from India, is coming to the city this weekend to preach at special evangelistic services in Grace Chapel on Saturday evening, both Sunday services and on Monday evening.

Mr. Vasu is something more than an ordinary pastor in his home province of Madras. He is the principal of two schools with an enrolment of 600 children, is editor of a publishing firm and a church paper and is the head of an orphanage. He is on a North American tour studying education, religion and social service.

This noted Christian leader is in great demand as a special speaker and he has been drawing huge crowds in Montreal and other large centres. He is going directly from Belleville to Toronto for a series of services in Dr. Oswald J. Smith's Peoples Church.

Wears Native Costume

Of large stature, Mr. Vasu makes a picturesque figure in his native Indian costume which he wears on all occasions. Born a Hindu he was converted to Christianity in 1924 at the age of 16 while attending a Christian school. In 1929 he entered the ministry after he found that Christianity was "strikingly different" from Hinduism in that Hindulism "has no living God."

Though stationed in Madras he travels frequently throughout India on Evangelistic missions. Last year he was a delegate to the World Missions Conference in Paris and since then has travelled through Europe.

In a recent interview with Stanley Matthews of the Montreal Daily Star, Mr. Vasu warned "only a revival of old-time religion will frustrate the modern rise of heathenism. All must come to the feet of God and pray that this revival will come soon, for the forces of paganism are rallying to convert the world to their way of thinking."

HINT FOR YOUNG MAN

Bangor, Me., May 11—(AP)—Some young man is going to get a pretty broad hint about marriage. Agirl recently asked for a marriage-intention blank at the city clerk's office. She told the clerk she was going to fill out part of the blank and show it to her boy friend. She though he would "take the step."

ROBBED

"You don't need a razor, you're just going my place!"

Polite Green Description

Anscomb gave police a description of the men. He said one had brown hair, greying at the temples, was about five feet seven inches tall, weighed about 180 pounds and wore a brown hat. The other, about two inches taller and weighing slightly less, wore a brown suit and a fawn trench coat but no hat.

For the last two years, Anscomb has been living on a Shelburne area farm with his wife, whom he married in 1941 before going overseas with a tank regiment, and two-year-old adopted son, Johnnie.

His wife said Anscomb bought the farm with federal assistance under the Veterans' Land Act and has been "making a go of it." Buying the farm meant realization of a life-long ambition, which had led him to save his money while working at a factory job after the war.

Neighbors Assist

Neighbors in the Shelburne area turned out by the score to help search for a night search when it was reported that footprints had been seen in a marsh south of Shelburne.

Provincial police broadcast a description of Anscomb throughout Ontario. Provincial Constable Everett Hicks of Orangeville said officers had made a thorough search, and he described Anscomb's disappearance as "a complete mystery."

Assign O.P.P. To All Ontario Racetracks

Toronto, May 11—(CP)—Premier Frost announced today that provincial police will be assigned to all race tracks in Ontario.

It will be done as part of a province-wide investigation of gambling, he said and will not "interfere with or take responsibility from" municipal police forces.

Policing of race meets up to now has been left to local police and to independent protective agencies engaged by track owners.

Mr. Frost's announcement disclosed that two provincial police inspectors are being sent to Windsor to investigate police conditions there. The inspectors are W. H. Lougheed and Frank Kelly.

(The Windsor Police Commission last week asked that an inspector be sent to supervise local administration. The commission's decision followed investigation of charges that police administration in the border city was lax.)

"We are placing provincial men on the tracks without interfering with the municipal force in any respect," the premier said.

"The provincial police will review the situation in order that conditions will be kept under their own eye in addition to the other agencies," he said, "this is a part of the investigation that the provincial police have been instructed to carry out on a province-wide basis. There has been some talk of international gambling' and it may well be that it has some of its roots right here in Ontario. Our police are going to look into the whole situation."

Officer Granted Request of Theft Suspect

Peterborough, May 11 —(CP)— A policeman who said he wanted to "play along" with a theft suspect testified today at the preliminary hearing of charges against William Holland, 24. Holland is alleged to have stolen a diamond ring and a diamond-studded brooch from Mrs Blanche M. Dixon, in whose house he boarded.

Detective Sgt. William A Clarke said that after arresting Holland for questioning he granted Holland's request for permission to speak alone with Mrs Dixon. He kept Holland in sight and saw him "take the ring from his person," Sgt. Clarke said.

Later, Clarke said, he had given the brooch to a girlfriend, Holland took him to a boarding house where he "took the brooch from the lapel of a woman's coat" the policeman said.

He said he believed Holland had the ring when arrested.

"Why didn't you frisk him then?" asked defence counsel Spencer Pitt of Toronto.

Sgt. Clarke said he knew Holland as a "party with a past" and wanted to "play along" with him.

The case is continuing.

TEEN - AGED BOY CHARGED

Hamilton, May 11 — (CP)—A 13-year-old boy has been charged with criminal negligence in the death last month of Edward Nawrocky, 9, of Burns. Police say the boy threw a lighted can of gasoline at Edward, whose clothes caught fire. He died in hospital the next day.

TRENTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Industrialists, agriculturists and businessmen of Trenton and district are to be commended on the success of their drive for membership in the Chamber of Commerce in the community. Belleville has one. So should every municipal entity in the area.

Then it should be possible to have an over-all district executive, representing all municipal groups. This body could receive representations from its various component units and send them on to the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Canadian Chambers of Commerce.

That a great deal of mutual benefit affecting all sections of the community would result from such a move is beyond doubt. In unity there is strength. To a large extent the interests and problems of this entire area are mutual.

The farmer, the fishermen and all others are primary producers depend largely on the local market for their prosperity.

Similarly those engaged in retail trade depend on primary producers, whether agricultural or commercial to a very large extent, for the success of their business. And the manufacturers can only afford to remain in business and keep their employees on the payroll at a decent wage if the farmer and the retail employee have the money to buy their products.

This may be called a cyclical economy. It is also sound economy. The unhappy experience of this country in times of depression conclusively proves that.

These are some of the reasons we would welcome a district association of Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce in this area. It is our firm belief that by concerted and co-operative action we could do much to contribute to mutually greater prosperity and to protect ourselves against hardship in times of recession.

For these reasons that we commend the businessmen and industrialists of Trenton on their decision to organize in this manner. We trust that they may be successful and that eventually they may work together with the organizations already existing in Belleville and with others that may be established in the setting up of a wider district association.

THEIR TRAINING COUNTS

Parents whose sons are Boy Scouts can find a great deal of satisfaction in knowing that even if the boys should get lost in a forest they have had training which will safeguard them.

This fact was brought to light the other day when through the newspapers ran the story of five Boy Scouts who lost their bearings but nevertheless were able to protect themselves and make use of the training they had received.

A cold night in the bush at this time of year would be a predicament persons not Scouts would consider rather risky from the standpoint at least of health.

These boys had learned the art of being able to take care of themselves in being able to find shelter, warmth and food in the confines of the forest. Moreover, just his life when the Scouts went after him as a means of satisfying their hunger. They dined well on the animal as they were able to start a fire in the open. Then they knew how to build a shelter or wind break against the elements. They hunted guard in turn during the night and took turns watching.

Dawn brought one of those greatly to be desired sights, a plane hove in sight. And they were ready to give their location to the airmen. So they sent up a pillar of smoke by throwing green boughs on the fire. The flyers saw the smoke and understood. The Scouts were soon on their way back home.

They had learned what people in ages long ago knew, how to protect themselves against cold and hunger and they used that knowledge to speed their discovery.

BRITISH TRADITIONS

The Dominion rejoices in the role played in its development by people of many nationalities and races, but there would be no Canada, and there would certainly be no real safeguarding of minority "rights" had we not inherited from our British ancestors their wonderful traditions of democracy, tolerance and individual freedom.

In saluting Empire Day, we are not bowing the knee to a dead and archaic system, but to a vital British genius for political progress, in which the liberties of the individual have been ardently protected. Ever and anon has been shed to keep this heritage; we need more reminders of that, not fewer.

Those who have confidence in Canada, and know its history and the force that made it a reality, may well look into the past and across the seas to trace the source of whatever genuine nationhood we have attained. It is older by far than Canada; older than the Victorian era. It is a part of our history that can be ignored only at our peril. It is the real foundation of freedom.—Hamilton Spectator.

THE MIRROR

The mirror plainly shows to me
The fellow I have grown to be;
The mouth, the chin, the nose, the eyes,
That all who know me recognize,
But there's the inner man I know,
And him the mirror doesn't show.

I stand to shave or comb my hair
Or knot the tie I wish to wear,
So that the outer I shall be,
As mother phrased it: "Fit to see."
But is such neatness merely this
That hides the chap I really am?

Should I untended let him go,
Thinking his weakness doesn't show,
Those faults which only I detect,
Should I not struggle to correct
And try to keep that inner part
As neat and tidy as I can?

Mackenzie's Column:

Amazing Gestures Of Peace Offered By Bitter Rivals

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Only a great threat like the cold war could have brought about such amazing gestures of peace as are being exchanged between once bitter enemies like France and Germany.

France has proposed the pooling of Europe's vital coal and steel industries under a common authority as a move towards peace and prosperity. This project would include the joining of France's output in the rich Saar and Lorraine regions with that of Germany's industrially-famous Ruhr Valley.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany has greeted this proposition as "a magnificent step of the untrammeled spirit of sacrifice," adding:

"It appears to me that this creates the pre-conditions for making any other conflict between France and Germany impossible."

Of course, we mustn't rush to conclusions. A sweeping proposal has been made by Paris, and a quick and favorable reply has been received from Germany.

However, it's obvious that the French proposal could have far reaching results if it develops favorably. The features of France-German amity are the most appealing elements, but this is only one aspect of a general economic development involving the whole of Western Europe.

Secondly, the project is calculated to mean great things for the economic rehabilitation of Europe. And the economic rehabilitation is essential to military preparedness for defense.

In this connection the United States is said to support the idea of German participation in the economic and political fields but not in the military. That probably will represent the views of the Western European countries—France, in particular, has been fearful of German rearmament, and this feeling is shared by Britain and lesser states.

However, from the economic viewpoint there is widespread agreement that the rehabilitation of Germany is essential to the recovery of the rest of Europe.

Polish Minister To Canada Has Been Recalled

London, May 11 — (Reuters) — The Polish government has recalled Jan Milnikiel, Polish Ambassador to Canada, of his duties and he will leave Ottawa for Poland May 12, a message received here tonight from the Polish press agency said.

The message said the ambassador was relieved of his duties at his own request and paid his farewell visit Tuesday to the Canadian Ministry of External Affairs. M. Marino Gal, of the British Legation in Ottawa, has been appointed Charge D'Affairs for the time being.

In a letter addressed to the Polish government asking to be relieved from his post, Milnikiel was quoted by the Polish press agency as saying that during his stay in Canada he was "unable to solve some of the outstanding points in dispute between the Polish and the Canadian governments."

"Because of a determined, unfriendly attitude of the Canadian government," he came to the conclusion that "he could not counter the worsening of relationships between the two countries and, in view of this, he could not fulfill his mission."

The diplomatic correspondent of the Polish press agency added in explanation of the Polish government's decision:

"The Canadian government continues to maintain its negative position regarding the question of returning to Poland lapes and other Polish National treasures, which five years after the end of the war are still in Canada without any legal justification."

At Ottawa A. D. P. Heeney, Under-secretary of State for External Affairs, said Canada has not yet been officially notified of Poland's action.

He added, however, that it was "not unexpected." The Polish minister was already due to leave Ottawa May 12, but his departure had not been associated with the withdrawal of the mission.

PHOTOGRAPHS CARDS AT 500 M.P.H.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MANY, MANY A CQUAINTANCES

Stevenson, in his book "Virginibus Puerisque," has this to say:

"Those who have few intimates appear to be avoided." Rather does he favor "those who swim loose, who have their hat in their hand all along the road, who can number an infinity of acquaintances. I am of the opinion that we all prefer the latter.

There is this advantage, too, as we get older and many of those whom we have known and loved are taken from us, with "an infinity of acquaintances" we have them to draw upon to keep us less lonely, and to fortify the spiritual substance within us, that shrinks a little every time a beloved friend dies and no longer lives in life to give us comfort, cheer, and hope.

An occasional acquaintances is always a potential friend. In my case experience the change has taken place overnight! Every human contact has its spark of hope. We can never meet too many people, for though at the start they may be mere acquaintances, we never know at what time they may blossom out as full bloom friends!

The politician seeks acquaintances so that he may have them do something for him some day, by giving to him their vote, but we everyday folks look deeper into acquiring acquaintances. We hope for those to whom we may give, for we give we are sure to get. We can make of our heart a trading post indeed with

I have one friend who takes a superior place among my friends. He was once a mere acquaintance. I have never known anyone to whom so many go for advice and information. Never is he too busy to lend his time, and always so gracious! For himself he asks nothing, but he keeps giving and giving to others. Strangely he is a newspaper man, newspapers are known to thousands, but I rarely hear of anyone doing something for him. He's not a satisfied, and he grows richer in personal happiness every day.

Few public men have the genius for acquaintances as has Jim Farley, known by name at least to millions, and through personal contact to about as many. There is a sincerity about the man that makes one feel that he would like to know him fully.

Personal Health Talks

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letter should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address: Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.)

CONSULT YOUR PHYSICIAN WHEN YOU ARE WELL

How often should one have a physical or medical examination or check-up? This question turns up frequently in the mail. Generally, too, the correspondent asks just what the examination should include. Sometimes the correspondent even asks how much it will cost.

Here I'll try to answer the first question only.

First, although I'm a doctor, of sorts, I'm subject to the same pathological mishaps as you are, although not so likely to suffer physical derangements as you are, because I know better than you do how to slave off the manifestations of physical and mental disorders and loss of teeth, rheumatism, and the like, as you grow old.

This is not a secret which I keep to myself. Bless your heart, no, I tell you all about it in the book let The 7 Keys to Vite—for which you have only to send a dime in coin and stamped self-addressed envelope.

On the other hand, because I'm a doctor perhaps I am a bit prejudiced about the periodic health examination by my business. That is, I may be inclined to urge examinations when you are really unnecessary or not worth your while. But I try to put myself in your place and, I suppose, that is why thanks or credit or commission from one fee checking system or upon my recommendation. To the best of my recollection no doctor has ever acknowledged any check me for referring an applicant for a check-up. Or, if he has, he has been charged more than once to learn that a physician or specialist to whom a patient of inquiries has expressed a low opinion of me and my column if the patient has mentioned my name in the course of the interview.

This I believe with all my heart and soul. Every one old enough to vote should have at least visit his or her dentist at least once a year, better every six, for careful examination of the teeth and prophylaxis or treatment of any trouble the dentist may discover.

Theoretically I suppose I should recommend the same program in regard to general health—that is that every one should visit his or her physician at least once a year for a physical or health examination and the proper kind of treatment for any trouble the physician may discover. In actual practice I doubt if it works out as well as that. I mean to say that there are still too many physicians who still believe that periodic physical examinations are a continuation of the old-fashioned family doctor idea of "looking in" on the family at least once a week, whether they were sick or not, and charging for the visit.

Periodic health examinations are not curatives. Mothers generally despise the first laugh of a baby by medical standards. In my own view. The startled little creature, having its first taste of Mother, explodes with laughter.

Fathers, as a rule, employ a different technique. Mother revels in the darling they threaten to smash the baby's head against the right down onto the baby's bulge. When the threat fails, the baby is almost hysterical with laughter.

All through childhood, the commonest laughter is that resulting from the mishaps, failures, confusions of playmates and others. Let an old lady slip and fall on the street, and the larger the lady and the harder she falls, the louder the uproar from all the children within view. Laughter, in its origin is the sound we make to express our emotions of thankfulness at the good things so somebody else did not happen to us. Laughter is an instinctive cackle of relief. Laughter in the infant, is what would have been a scream, if he had not seen Mamma that popped up; or if Daddy really squashed his head down on the floor.

Humor comes straight into our language through Latin French concurcurers. In Latin, the word humor means moisture, and sometimes the sap of plants. Maybe the old Englishmen were right to attach to our humor meant that we laughed until we cried. But, I suppose, humor may have meant something closer to the modern idea of laughing tender, like a plant with sap in it, compared with dry sticks as of laughter.

MIRACLES

Twentieth century man sometimes professes great difficulty in believing the Biblical miracles. They just couldn't happen, he asserts. They are contrary to nature. They do not stand the test of reason.

Twentieth century man needs to realize that there are many things in heaven and earth that are undreamt of in his philosophy—or in his science. The miracles recorded in the Bible do not require acceptance on the basis of reason but on the basis of faith. Miracles are not to be explained by part in the ministry and life of Jesus. There are some people who claim that the deity of Jesus Christ is proved by the fact that he performed miracles. This would believing the Biblical miracles. Rather it is the other way around because he was God he performed miracles. We are not called upon to believe the gospel because the miracles; instead we believe in miracles because we believe in the gospel. Jesus being the kind of person He was, it is po unwarranted strain on wholesome faith to believe that he performed miracles. His life was greater than any miracle He is reported to have done. His influence through centuries has been a continuous miracle.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Humor has roots says Al Capp the author and cartoonist of L'il Abner in man's inhumanity to man.

Maybe laughter has. But humor hasn't. Humor grows out of laughter. But all laughter is not incited by humor.

The first laugh an infant ever emits is the result of some sudden threat that does not materialize. Mothers generally despise the first laugh of a baby by medical standards. In my own view. The startled little creature, having its first taste of Mother, explodes with laughter.

Fathers, as a rule, employ a different technique. Mother revels in the darling they threaten to smash the baby's head against the right down onto the baby's bulge. When the threat fails, the baby is almost hysterical with laughter.

All through childhood, the commonest laughter is that resulting from the mishaps, failures, confusions of playmates and others. Trenton—Mrs. Elsa Goldberg was elected new president of the Trenton Kinettes Club at its regular meeting, Mrs. Marguerite Carr is the new vice-president, Secretary for the coming season is Mrs. Rita DuVarney and Mrs. Joyce Adams is the incoming treasurer.

Mrs. Helen Chapman will be social convener and Mrs. Margaret Wall, flower convener. Mrs. Wilma Cooke is new bulletin editor. Mrs. Julia Cummer was named director. She has been president for the past two years.

A social meeting is planned for the evening of May 22nd at the home of Mrs. Vernon Wannamaker. Mrs. Mel Dunfield will assist the hostess.

On June 15 the club is sponsoring a tag day. Proceeds of this appeal will be used to send needy children to camp during the summer season.

On May 4 the first interclub meeting for the district was held at the British Hotel in Cobourg. Representatives were present from Peterborough, Oshawa, Trenton, Belleville and Tweed. Guest speaker was Mrs. Nancy Pyper of Toronto, well known Canadian newspaper woman and world traveller. Mrs. Pyper gave a very interesting address, recounting her experiences and impressions gained on a recent trip to England and Ireland.

While no definite program has been drawn up, plans are being made for a very active season commencing in September.

4 Members to Attend

The annual convention of No. 6 district, Kinsmen clubs, is being held at the Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal, commencing May 19. It will last for four days. Delegates attending from Trenton will be president Denny Cummer, Cyril Johnston, Henry Fillon and Bert Lilling. The club will be Snowdon-Mount Royal.

A full program of entertainment and business sessions has been arranged for the gathering which is expected to be one of the largest and most successful in the history of the district.

Man Lifts Elephant 2 Men, Platform Height of 4 Inches

Trenton, N.J. May 11 (AP) Jack Walsh lifted two men and an elephant four inches Wednesday night.

He did it with his back. The two men and the elephant were standing on a specially-constructed platform, and the estimated gross weight was more than 3,000 pounds.

Walsh got under the platform, and had to balance it as well as lift it.

There were plenty of witnesses. Newspaper men said they detected no signs of trickery.

The stunt was staged by the Hunt Bros. Circus at a benefit for a nearby Lions Club. Walsh weighs 178 pounds stands five feet, eight inches, and says he has lifted 4,000 pounds in pig iron.

FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Las Vegas, Nev., May 11 (AP) — Ann Cooper Hewitt Nicholson, who once charged that she had been sterilized so there would be no heirs to her estate, has filed suit to divorce her fourth husband, Frank (Rodeo Roy) Nicholson, onetime radio disc jockey. He and the heiress were married Sept. 5, 1947 — the day after Nicholson's previous wife committed suicide in San Francisco.

NAVY AND AIR FORCE COMBINE TO BRING SUPPLIES TO WINNIPEG

The Royal Canadian Navy and the Royal Canadian Air Force combined forces at Halifax, N.S., over the weekend to provide three tons of blankets and clothing for flood evacuees in the Winnipeg area. Shown above loading the supplies on the R.C.A.F. Dakota at H.M.C.S. Shearwater are, left to right, Able Seaman Douglas Lauder and F/O. J. Q. 13 BELGIAN MINERS KILLED

Charleroi, Belgium, May 11—(Reuters)—Thirteen miners were killed today when coal gas exploded in the Mariemont-Bacoup coal mine near here. At least 23 more were reported trapped below the surface.

Three badly-injured men were rushed to hospital.

Women and girls with tear-stained faces thronged the mine gates waiting for news as rescue squads worked frantically to reach the trapped men.

'JUST OPENED DOOR' SAYS WALTER REUTHER

Atlantic City, N. J., May 11 — (AP) — Walter Reuther said Wednesday that $100 a month pensions won by C. I. O. Automobile and Steelworkers Unions "just opened the door" on a program calling for $200-a-month pensions in 10 years. "We can build brick by brick so that in 10 years we can have the pensions people are entitled to and which industry can afford," the president of the United Automobile Workers told the Steel Workers Convention here.

Patrol Boats Have Red River Almost To Themselves

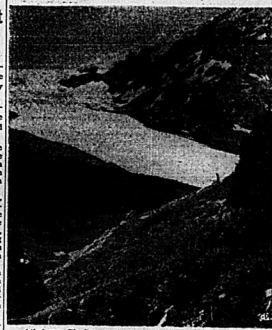
Winnipeg, May 11. (CP)—R.C.M.P. patrol boats today have almost all the Red River Valley to themselves.

There is little left in the 60-mile stretch of usually fertile farmland but desolation, deserted homes and water.

A few stubborn farmers, the odd railway telegrapher and some livestock are all that remain in a dozen flooded communities south of St. Norbert, eight miles from here.

At St. Norbert, 550 persons, evacuated by patrol boats Wednesday from other points, were stranded near the station. The Canadian National Railways line, which officials said was operating on an "hour-to-hour" basis, was cut at Portage Junction, between St. Norbert and Winnipeg.

Most of the stranded came from St. Jean Baptiste, 47 miles south of Winnipeg, where a school and a priests' home were used for shelter. Most of the town was under water a week ago.



Other evacuees from Aubigny, Ste. Agathe and St. Norbert arrived here yesterday.

The decimated population of Morris, normally home to 1,100 persons, was further cut when all but two of the R.C.M.P. detachment left. Telephones operated planned to leave today.

Police barged into Morris and Letellier, and Dominion City near the International border, will patrol the river banks on the lookout for isolated families, looters and stranded livestock.

At Emerson, scene of the Red's first onslaught two weeks ago, some of the population hung on. They awaited a new crest expected to be two feet higher than the last. It may reach 48 feet by Saturday.

WEDDINGS

CHAMBERS—BROWN

Springbrook United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, May 6, at 2:30 p.m. when Audrey Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brown, of Mel- old, Ont., was united in marriage to Harold James Chambers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chambers, of Eldorado. The Rev. H. A. Beare officiated before a lovely background of colorful potted plants and tall standards of ferns.

Mrs. George Williams, organist, rendered the wedding music, and the soloist, Miss Jean Wallace, sang before the ceremony, "I Love You Truly", and during the sign- ing of the register, "I'll Walk Be- side You".

Given in marriage by her fa- ther, the bride was charming in her graceful bridal gown of bhuh satin fashioned with moulded bod- ice, long, tight fitting sleeves, and scalloped neckline trimmed with seed pearls in silver tones. The skirt was full, forming a slight train. Her silk-embroidered fingertip veil was held in place by a halo of braided satin. She wore a double strand of pearls, and carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Gordon Gay, of Foxboro, and sister of the bride, was ma- tron of honor, wearing a floor length period gown of pale blue brocaded taffeta, matching em- broidered fingertip veil, with headband of blue. She carried a fan-type bouquet of pink lilies carnations, and wore a single strand of pearls.

Miss Shirley Walker, of Mar- mora, and Miss Colleen Colden, of Belleville, were bridesmaids, at- tired in similar floor length gowns of pink moire taffeta, matching fingertip embroidered veils, and matching headbands of pink. They were also attended of pearls, and carried fan-shaped bouquets of blue-tinted carna- tions.

Little Myra Chambers of El- dorado, and niece of the bridal groom, was flower girl, daintily gowned in a frock of floor length yellow taffeta with match- ing veil. She carried a basket- shaped bouquet of sweetpeas.

Mr. John Keene, of Eldorado, was groomsman; Mr. Don Camp- bell, of Eldorado, and Mr. Keith Brown, of Peterborough, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a re- ception was held at the home of the bride, where the bride's mother, wearing a navy silk crepe gown, with a corsage of pink roses, received the many guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a grey gown with black accessories, and a cor- sage of red roses.

Those who served the wedding repast were, Misses Lois Mason, Donna Bateman, Ruth Leonard, Joan Young, Betty Jones, Mar- jon Reynolds, Mrs. Gerald Fox, and Mrs. Ray Howard. Assisting in the kitchen were, Mrs. Chris Bateman, Mrs. Laura Bateman, Mrs. Gerald Broadworth, Mrs. Mary Spry, and Mrs. Murney Mason.

Following the reception, the bride and bridegroom left on a honeymoon trip to Hamilton, Windsor, and points west. For travelling the bride donned a stunning navy blue ensemble, with navy shortie coat, and matching accessories. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Chambers will reside in Eldorado.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a cabinet of silver; to the groomsman, leather billfold; to the ushers, folded tie clips.

The bride's gifts to her attend- ants were costume jewellery and to those who served, china cups and saucers.

Out-of-town guests were pres- ent from Toronto, Peterborough, Whitby, Madoc, Eldorado and Belleville.

Women's Guild of St. Thomas Holds Springtime Tea and Sale Of Home Cooking at Rectory

Wednesday afternoon a delight- ful Springtime tea and sale of home cooking was held at the rectory of St. Thomas' Anglican Church under the auspices of St. Thomas' Women's Guild. Receiv- ing the guests at the door were: Mrs. Arthur Smith wife of the rector; Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson, president of the Guild; Mrs. R. Gibson, secretary of the Guild; Mrs. J. E. Genet, vice-president of the Guild; Mrs. N. Edwards, vice president of the Guild.

The tea table was appropriate- ly appointed with an exquisite handmade Chinese lace cloth, centered with a bowl of daffodils, tulips and sprays of British Co- lumbia huckleberry, flanked by silver services; while around the room were placed vases of the same flowers, and from the man- tel, reflecting back, their beauty were silver candle holders with theiy tall ivory candles.

Inviting to the team room were Mrs. J. E. Mastine, Mrs. R. A. Pringle. Those who poured the tea were Mrs. R. Boyle and Mrs. W. Bird; Mrs. S. Gilmore, Miss A. Wallbridge, Miss Austin Smith, and Miss I. Thompson.

Many Assisted

Serving were Mrs. J. Watson, Mrs. J. Clarke, Mrs. A. R. Mastine, Mrs. A. Gouin, Miss D. Penberthy Mrs. McBrien, Mrs. J. Howard, Mrs. H. Alford, Mrs. J. Marshall, Mrs. H. Murray, Mrs. S. T. Leg- gott, Mrs. E. Rosebush. Those who replenished the oft emptied plates of sandwiches and cakes were Mrs. E. Bateman, Mrs. A. T. Y. Leslie and Mrs. C. Fisher, Mrs. J. E. L. Hawkins, Mrs. T. H. Kelly and Mrs. J. Scrimgeour. Those who were engaged in tea making in the kitchen were Mrs. E. Taylor, Mrs. R. Allen, Mrs. E. Taylor, Mrs. S. Hern and Mrs. J. Mc- Kenna.

The treasurer was Mrs. G. Mil- ler and the convener of the tea was Mrs. A. S. Lewis assisted by her committee of Mrs. J. E. Bate- man, Mrs. H. Alford, Mrs. A. R. Hunt, and Mrs. A. T. Y. Leslie.

On the fancy work table, con- vened by Mrs. L. White, Mrs. N. McNish, Mrs. A. Skelcher, Mrs. D. Ross, and Mrs. C. Fitzgibbon, were all manner of lovely articles including dainty chair sets in crochet; wooly baby things, boot- ees, little sacques, bonnets, a pretty knit one-piece bathing suit in yellow, with satin ribbon ties; comfortable warm socks in brown wool for men and boys; dainty aprons and work frills, and from the pretty prints with floral back- grounds in rose, pink, green and red; little bathroom slippers, and lovely shell work jewellery brooches and earrings matching

Splendid Cooking Table

Directly across the room was the home cooking table laden down with its enticing display of confections: tempting pumpk- kin pies, taffy tarts, chocolate loaf cakes, beautiful angel cake with mounds of pink icing; choco- late topped cup cakes, lemon tart- lets, little gem cakes topped with shredded coconut; date bread- raisin and nut hermits, jellied vegetables with generous chicken pieces; little jars of home made mayonnaise, and marshmallow squares, each specimen of the culinary art, a perfect piece. In charge of this were Mrs. W. Van Tassel, Mrs. M. Davison, Mrs. Fozard and Mrs. J. Rogers.

Across the hallway was the paradise of dolls. Here one could find all things that the most fastidious doll could wish: little ar- berets, little straw hats with their single rose, dresses for mother and daughter, made from the daintiest print with blue dots, with a lovely doll to match, and another with the doll complete with bonnet, made from the same fine material with red dots; lovely white beds with organdy frills edged with narrow blue satin rib- bon,and asleep in the bed, a tiny pink doll; little carriage robes, and bed spreads; so many dolls, each one divinely lovely, but the two outstanding dolls were the blue-jupper dressed boy and girl, the girl with pleated blue skirt, white blouse trimmed with nar- row blue edging, with matching blue beret. An Red hair, taking one back to childhood's days with its carefree days of leisure.

Many Accessories

Besides the dolls, cuddly ones, and all, there could be had all the accessories needed for perfect grooming, and happy living, bootees, hot water bottle covers, teens, dresses, and little coats, in blue and white and pink. This room was under the convener- ship of Mrs. J. E. Genet with her assistants, Mrs. P. Seibert and Mrs. Connolly.

On the white elephant table, convened by Mrs. Austin Smith and Mrs. R. Keel were pretty pieces of costume jewellery, shell brooches and earrings; necklaces of all hues, and materials, prob- ably from Fiji Islands; colorful crocheted buttons for layets; a three-strand bracelet of sparkling brilliants; dainty clips, and many other attractive little gadgets.

A delightfully planned tea, worthy of much appreciation to its convener and her committee.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

The Polynesians don't throw to at a wedding. They eat it stead, as an act of eating rice, fact, is part of the official nfirmation of marriage.

Rice, as a symbol of fruitful- ss and large families, has been ed at wedding rites for centuri- . Among some people, throw- g rice at the bride and groom as intended to placate and fend e evil spirits that attended eddings.

Every bride, learning to cook, ows that rice can indeed be an ill influence if not properly nded.

The easiest rice to cook is the overted or maleklzed type. This the rice that was developed ring the recent war. It com- ines the B vitamins and cooks dry and wholly grained.

An almost fool proof method f preparing rice is to cook it in e top part of a double boiler, ing only enough water for the ce to absorb. In estimating the mount of rice needed, remember at 1 cup of raw rice will yield cups of cooked rice.

Dry fluffy rice is the best thing serve with rich, stewed chicken vers.

Chicken Livers with Rice, Serves 4.

Order 1-2 pound chicken liv- ers. Place livers in a wire strainer and lower strainer into a pan of simmering water for 1 minute. This will clean the livers and help them to retain their shape.

In a saucpan melt 2 tablespoons fat—bacon preferred. Add 1-3 cup finely chopped onion and 1 teaspoon finely chopped garlic. Simmer until onions are yellow.

Add 1-4 pound of fresh mush- rooms, washed and cut into 1-4 inch slices. Simmer slowly 5 minutes.

Add chicken livers, 2 table- spoons chopped parsley, 1 can un- diluted tomato soup, 1-2 cup wa- ter, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Bring to a boil. Reduce flame and simmer 20- 25 minutes. Remove any excess fat from sauce. Add salt and pep- per to taste.

Prepare rice as follows: Place 1 cup of rice and 1 teaspoon salt, in the top part of a double boiler. Cover with water and cook over simmering water, keeping lid closed, until all water has been absorbed, 35-40 minutes.

The modern idea for floors is that throughout the house, they should be colorful, resilient, easy to keep clean —and that they should reflect the character of the residents. All these qualities add up to Marboleum Inlaid. By clever use of available colors, patterns and contrasting inserts you can add materially to the attractiveness of your home and reduce the cost and labor of housekeeping. BING DENIES SEPARATION RUMORS

Known for 20 years as the ideal Hollywood couple, reports now indicate Bing Crosby and his wife are on the verge of separation. The report was made by an attorney for Bing Crosby who said nothing will be settled until the crooner returns from Europe in June. Here Bing is shown with his wife, former actress Dixie Lee. Bing denies the report. Mrs. Crosby refuses to comment. They have four sons.—Central Press Canadian.

Women's Auxiliary Hears Talk On Management of Hospital

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary held on Tuesday afternoon was featured by an address given by Mr. P. C. McGuire, chairman of the Hospital Board of Governors, describing the management of the Belleville General Hospital.

The meeting, held in the nurses' residence, was presided over by Miss Ivy Dickson.

Reports were read by the secretary, Mrs. P. T. Seibert and the treasurer, Mrs. M. Robb. Mrs. W. Dallas presented the financial report from the Exportality Shop.

During a short business session a report on plans for the rummage sale being held on Saturday, was given by Mrs. G. Scott. Mrs. James Forrester convener of the house committee, reported on progress of the project of decoration in certain rooms in the hospital which the Auxiliary has undertaken.

The guest speaker, Mr. P. C. McGuire, was introduced by Mrs. G. Scott.

Heavy Expenses

In describing the work of the hospital, Mr. McGuire said that the $625,000 handled in 1949, at least 300,000 was used for purchasing food, drugs, dressings, X-ray films, plumbing and electrical supplies, bedding, in fact everything from pen-nibs to chimney pots.

Daily, the hospital must bed 350 people, serve over a 1,000 meals, and supply almost $200 worth of drugs. In addition, $1,000 worth of bandages and dressings are used monthly, and 1,000 tons of coal are required each year to keep the sick guests warm.

60,000 Lab. Tests

Speaking of the scientific services the Hospital makes available to the community, Mr. McGuire reported that the laboratories perform 60,000 tests annually in the scientific investigation of disease and follow up that the doctors require. Over 500 patients are x-rayed monthly and the hospital dietician personally supervises the weighing and preparation of 30 to 40 special diets.

Next month a physiotherapist will join the staff thus adding still another service to the treatment of the sick.

Referring to immediate and future conditions, the speaker said that besides thorough revolutizing several departments, the hospital has added a new building housing completely new bedlers. The x-ray department has been modernized and a new laundry will be in operation in a week or so.

In the future, hospital officials hope to improve nursery accomodations, acquire more lab. space, and install lockers and rest rooms for hospital personnel.

Understanding Needed

"All these projects require money, planning and mutual understanding," he concluded, "and it is only with the goodwill between us and such a group as the Women's Auxiliary that we shall be able to keep pace with the demands of serving the sick who come to us for success."

Mrs. T. Hefky expressed the appreciation of the members of the Auxiliary to Mr. P. C. McGuire for his informative address.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Miss Potts assisted by student nurses Misses Ritz, Gay, J. Thompson and Sims.

Women's Activities

SHANNONVILLE W. M. S.

Last Thursday the Women's Missionary Society of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Archie Greatrix. Mrs. L. W. Scott, president, presided, and welcomed the 16 members and five visitors who were present.

Mrs. Claude Clark read the Scripture lesson from John 17. An invitation to attend the Missionary rally at Hollowy Street Church on June 6th was read and accepted. A letter of thanks from Mrs. Will Houston was also read, thanking the W. M. S. for the card of sympathy sent at the time of her grandmother's death.

Mrs. Everett Stratton, treasurer, reported receipts of proceeds from the Easter supper netted $51.30 and the thank offering $12. Mrs. Hudson Cook kindly offered her home for the packing of a quilt which she had prepared for quilting.

The roll call showed that several members had visited the sick and shut-ins. Mrs. A. Greatrix temperance secretary, gave a reading entitled: "My Son Is Coming Home for Thanksgiving" by B. Gowe.

The program was under the direction of Mrs. E. Stratton, with the following numbers being enjoyed: readings by Mrs. Sam Elliott; Mrs. C. Clarke; Mrs. A. Greatrix; Mrs. F. Doxtator; Mrs. E. Stratton and Mrs. Elmer Vivi-

Faille Suit

Useful town costume

By VERA WINSTON

BACK again, and more important than ever, is the town suit of faille, the sort of urbane suit equipped to go anywhere from luncheon on to the wee small hours. Black rayon faille is used for a charming suit sporting well-handled scalloped detail in the small rolled collar, the hem of the jacket and the turned back cuffs. The sleeves are cut in one with the jacket. The skirt is straight and slim. The outfit can be worn with or without a blouse. It is shown with a chiffon scarf and flowers in a fine supporting role.

STIRLING

Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter IODE Holds Successful Meeting

Stirling — A very successful meeting of the Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter, IODE, was held at the home of Mrs. George Noble, last Thursday, with a record attendance of 32 members.

The regent, Mrs. Bruce Bell, opened the meeting. Mrs. Arthur Duncan of Batawa, introduced two members of the Trenton Memorial Hospital Board, the chairman Mr. W. H. Ireland, and the secretary treasurer, Mr. Sherwood Graham, who gave interesting and informative talks regarding the construction and financing of the hospital. They stated that a great deal of much needed equipment was required before it would be completed. Such articles as mattresses, curtains, blinds, furniture, kitchen equipment, as well as laundry and numerous other things are needed.

First Opportunity to Help

Organizations are given first opportunity to furnish rooms at a cost of $1,000 this amount being set by the board. Mr. Duncan expressed the hope that the chapter might be able to contribute toward this worthwhile project in memory of those who fought in the Second Great War.

Considerable discussion followed, and the girls voted unanimously to raising money toward the hospital, in the way of furnishing a room, if at all possible. The fact that there is no IODE Chapter in Trenton, also was a deciding factor in the matter.

Everyone felt that the hospital would be of great benefit to the district around Stirling as well as for the Town of Trenton and that they would take great pleasure in helping to raise funds for this much needed hospital.

Ways and Means

Various ways and means of raising money were discussed. Each member was made responsible for the raising of a given sum and to raise the amount between now and September.

A lilac tea is being planned for the middle of May. Every member is subject to a fine if she is not wearing the Badge of the Order at any IODE event for the duration of the hospital campaign the proceeds from this source also to go towards the hospital fund.

As the chapter has accepted an invitation to attend church service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, on May 21st., it was decided to invite the Chapters from Campbellford and Marmora; these chapters to bring their standards and the group would meet at the church at 10.45 a.m. D.S.T.

Received Into Order

One new member and two applications for membership cards were taken into the chapter and order and everyone repeated the Order of Service of "Admittance." They were welcomed on behalf of the members by the Regent, Mrs. Bell and the honorary regent, Mrs. E. A. Luery.

Mrs. Scott thanked the hostess for opening her home for the meeting, and the group leader for the fine program provided. Mrs. Stratton also thanked her group for their assistance.

After the close of the meeting, Mrs. Greatrix and her assistants served delicious refreshments and a social time was enjoyed. Next meeting at the home of Mrs. S. Elliott, June 1st.

HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Better postpone your wedding if you have doubts

Maybe it's the approach of June, traditionally the brides' month, that is responsible. But whatever the cause, an unusual number of letters right now come from girls who are having the jitters over an imminent marriage.

Many of the girls just don't know why. All they know is that they have become suddenly apprehensive, and find themselves constantly wondering whether or not they may have made a mistake in their man.

Others say that they just don't seem to enjoy being with the men they have been expecting to marry the way they did at first, but can't divine the cause.

And still others seem to have a fairly definite idea of what is worrying them, but are uncertain as to whether it is important.

Now it is perfectly natural for any girl or woman to be somewhat jittery when facing such a radical change in her life as that from the single to the married state. She is about to enter a completely new world, and as the day draws closer when she will step across the threshold, she often goes through a brief period of panic.

Those brides-to-be who are merely suffering from this sort of things are right bright should not take it too seriously. These will, of course, be plenty of adjustments to be made in the new world, but to the girl who realizes this beforehand, and prepares herself to meet it, it will not be seriously upsetting.

On the other hand, where there is definite dissatisfaction with the way things are going between a girl and her fiance, it is something else again.

Consider the following letter, for instance, from a young woman of 26 who has been engaged for eight months to a man of 30, and plans on a June wedding.

"I used to look forward to our dates as we had so much fun," she writes me, "but now even though I still love my fiance, I dread our dates as he criticizes me from the moment I see him till the moment we part. He talks as though he were doing me a favor by dating me, but still continues to make plans for our marriage. I do hope you can help me as I've lost so much weight recently worrying about this. Sometimes I wonder how cruel can a guy be with a girl he claims to love."

Any girl who feels that the man with whom she plans to spend her life is capable of cruelty, had better stop right where she is and think a long time before any wedding takes place. The man who is cruel-critical before marriage is hardly likely to be any kinder afterward. Once the ceremony is over, and the girl tied to him as his wife, he usually feels there is no need any longer to make any effort at consideration at all. In fact, his critical attitude invariably gets worse as the novelty of marriage to her wears off.

My first inclination would be to tell the girl who writes this letter that she had better break her engagement immediately. But if she does not want to do anything as final just now, then I urge her at least to postpone her wedding until she can either look forward to it with confidence and happiness, or can resign herself to the inevitable and call it off.

There is not much chance, I am afraid, of a man like this changing his attitude and turning out to be a loving and thoughtful husband.

The Right Way to Brush Teeth

When brushing teeth, give special attention to the biting surfaces where caries usually first appear.

By HELEN FOLLETT

NOTHING will make a girl more self-conscious than teeth that do not qualify. She doesn't dare smile. She realizes that the lipstick coloring calls attention to them.

Dentistry works miracles these days and there is no reason why professional attention will not make the biters presentable. To accomplish along these lines is to be penny-wise and pound-foolish. Unless the teeth are in a healthy condition, the general health will suffer, as the first processes of digestion take place in the mouth.

Some individuals are blessed with constitutionally sound, fine teeth that successfully withstand the effects of neglect for years. These lucky ones are few and far between. Those of us who are less fortunate must give particular attention to mouth hygiene.

Two Brushes

You should have two brushes and you should wash them carefully after they are used. A small one will do a more thorough job of cleaning and polishing than a large one. Bristles should be of different lengths and set in groups.

Brush from the tooth bases to the ends, using the brush with a rolling motion so that the bristles will clean the sides of the teeth. Give special attention to the biting surfaces where caries usually first appear. Use a mouth wash afterwards to flood away any particles of food that have become dislodged.

The water should be warm and a good dentifrice used. Don't give just a swish and a promise. Be thorough.

For the sake of your teeth, you should drink at least a pint of milk a day because of the calcium content. Vitamin C is supposed to promote the health of the mouth pearls. This vitamin is found in fresh fruit, orange juice and some vegetables.

Fruit and vegetables are a help in keeping your complexion fair and smooth, too. We are learning more and more all the time about the effect of diet upon appearance. The better you feel, the better you look.

CONVERGE ON EDMONTON

Edmonton — (CP) — A large number of workers, including many women, are coming to Edmonton from every province in Canada seeking jobs despite warnings that the job supply here is limited, the unemployment insurance commission reports. The workers are attracted by reports of a building boom and developments in the oil industry.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

A prospective grandmother inquires

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. What is the proper way for me to sign the card I am to enclose with the baby's shower to be given for my daughter-in-law?

2. Should the mother-to-be send a thank-you note to the hostess who gave the baby shower for her?

3. Are the baby's parents supposed to give gifts to the baby's godparents?

4. One of the men in the office where I work became a grandfather recently, and several of the group in our office kidded him about "the cigars". Now that I am soon to be a grandmother I am wondering if grandmothers and grandfathers are really supposed "to hand out" anything to celebrate this occasion?

G. M.

1. Sign the name by which your daughter-in-law addresses you—perhaps "Mother M."—or perhaps by the name your son uses. However, if perchance she still uses (as would be most unusual) your formal name, for example "Mrs. Martin", you would sign your informal name as you would to a letter, For example, "Dearest love, from Grace". Or, if you prefer, "Dearest love to you and my prospective grandchild!"

2. Yes—this is the gracious way to show her appreciation, and her courteous manners.

3. No, the parents do not give gifts to the godparents. It is, as a matter of fact, the godparents who should give a gift to the baby.

4. This is the usual friendly spoofing that goes on, particularly in a group of co-workers, when the newcomer arrives—it's generally the baby's father, not the grandfather, who hands out the cigars". But don't worry—you as grandmother, have no obligations as to handing out gifts of any kind!

When proprietor gives bottle of champagne

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. The proprietor of the restaurant where we are having our wedding reception always gives the bride and groom a complimentary bottle of champagne. Should we serve this to the guests at the reception, or keep it for special occasions, such as an anniversary?

2. I have been told that when I cut the first piece of the wedding cake, I give this to my bridegroom. Is this so? Then do I cut the rest of the cake and serve it to the guests?

Bride-to-be

1. You should have this bottle of champagne served to the guests.

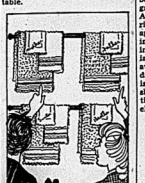
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

How does your skin behave?

Keep in mind this fact: a well-cared-for skin has greater resistance to the griefs with which it can be afflicted and will be more likely to correct its own ills than one that is neglected.

Some women have an idea that their complexions are too delicate to come in contact with soap and water, so they depend upon creams for removing atmospheric dust. Creams are all right; we couldn't very well get along without them. But for removing dead skin scales, for hustling up the circulation to provide cheek roses, there is nothing like a rousing soapy scrubbing, especially at night.



In a family, each individual should have a personal towel and washcloth; have clean ones every day. One child afflicted with acne can communicate this trouble to others in the family. Use a clean pledget of cotton whenever you apply lotion. Buy powder puffs by the dozen, so you will always have a clean one; keep them in a plastic container where dust will not reach them. Have a container for brush and comb. No matter how ornamental the . . .

I am sure this is the intention of the proprietor . . . and he would naturally be disappointed if you did not feature his gift at your reception.

2. You, the bride, cut the first piece of the wedding cake, the groom's right hand placed over your right hand as you cut the cake. Then you break the slice, and divide it with the groom, as evidence of your promise to share with him now and forever. (As a matter of fact, long, long ago, among primitive peoples, the act of eating together from the same dish indicated marriage.)

After you have cut the first slice of the cake, a waiter will finish cutting and serving the cake. Or if you prefer, and there is adequate time, you may cut the rest of the cake and have the waiter serve it. (At a home reception, very often the bride asks a relative or one of her intimate friends to take over this festive responsibility.)

brush and comb may be they should not be on the dressing table.

Each individual should have a personal towel and washcloth

If your sky is dry, flaky and scaly, apply a heavy cream after the bedtime face washing; let it remain on over night. The flesh will lap it up. Use light finger massaging the cream application, patting and slapping briskly. This practice will increase glandular activity, will stimulate the tiny capillaries under the surface of the skin. In the morning, you will need to use clear tepid water and, after a gentle drying, use cream. An oily foundation cosmetic will serve as a protective measure against wind and sunlight.

The oily skin will be benefited by two soapy cleansings a day, frequent laving with witch hazel will tend to remove the shine. To get at the root of the matter you should cut down on fat foods—butter, cream and pastries—as these excite the sebaceous glands, because them to exude more of their oily fluids than the epidermal coat needs for normal skin well-being.

If blackheads and pimples are present, go lightly with make-up. A cream rouge will serve better than the compact. Never grind in powder with the pad. After the use of soap and water, rinse with cold water, dry and apply a lotion made by dissolving a teaspoonful of baking soda in a cupful of water. Skin specialists advise acne patients to avoid rich foods and chocolate. A daily bath with a heavy brush lotion is a part of the treatment, so the skin all over the body will function normally as an organ of elimination.

Women's Institute

MOUNTAIN VIEW W. I.

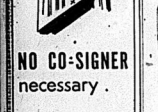
Mountain View — The Mountain View Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. E. Wallbridge last Wednesday with 31 ladies attending. Mrs. E. Hall presided.

Correspondence was read and business discussed. Mrs. D. Jones and Mrs. C. Sprung were appointed delegates to attend the District annual which will be held in June, and arrangements made for as many members as possible to hear Mrs. R. Sayer, who will visit Belleville Area on May 9th.

As the "Grandmothers' Day" the roll call was well responded to with, "An article made or owned by my grandmother."

Mrs. J. Cretney, convener for the programme, grouped together the 13 grandmothers present, who sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold." Each grandmother helped with the program, consisting of poems, readings, piano and vocal numbers, which were most interesting.

Mrs. Hall presented gifts to the youngest grandmother, Mrs. Burnett; the oldest grandmother, Mrs. P. B. Hamilton; grandmother with most grandchildren, Mrs. F. Wallbridge.



Mrs. F. Motley conducted a contest, "Things our grandmothers missed", which was won by Mrs. C. Barber and Mrs. W. Barber.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. Wallbridge, Mrs. D. Conklin, Mrs. C. Barber, Mrs. W. Barber and Mrs. D. George.

Mrs. J. Cretney, assisted by Mrs. J. Keeble, served tea from a service over 100 years old.

FOXBORO

Growth of the United Church Tweny-Fifth Anniversary Theme

Foxboro.—The May meeting of the W.M.S. was held on Thursday afternoon in the S.S. rooms with a good attendance.

Mrs. W. Scott and Mrs. Bernard Hollinger were in charge. The theme was "Celebrating the 25th. Anniversary in the Auxiliary." The program as given in the Missionary Monthly was followed.

Mrs. E. Chambers rendered a solo "Would You Learn the Secret of a Life of Joy".

Mrs. J. G. Sills gave the history of the years 1925-1930 when there were 200,000 women and children from the Atlantic to the Pacific who composed the membership of the United Church. Seventy thousand women were reading the Missionary Monthly. Japan gave the W.M.S. the first scholarship student, and after graduation, she returned to her own people as a Christian teacher.

Years 1930-1935

Mrs. W. Hodgen gave a synopsis of the years between 1930-1935 —new organizations had sprung up and the older ones had increased their membership and givings—but a drought came and givings decreased thirty per cent and the missionaries' salaries were reduced 15 per cent, but still the work was carried on and 25 different racial groups served in these institutions and in spite of war, and flood, Chinese Christians in Honan, South China, and West China, became members of the great United Church.

Mrs. (Rev.) F. Gilbert told of the work done during the years 1935-1940—how the Schools for Leaders increased. During this period all cuts had to be continued. One hundred and eighty home missionaries reported on their work and there was a steady growth in membership.

In 1938 a missionary council met, and Christians of 64 countries came together for study and fellowship.

Mrs. J. W. Daniels told of the years 1940 to 1945 which were critical and yet thrilling, when not one department escaped the impact of war. Overseas fields were temporarily closed and missionaries evacuated, but because of courage and devotion the work went forward, givings increased and co-operative work was strengthened.

Momentous Days

The work of the years 1945-1950 were given by Mrs. E. Tummon. These were momentous days from the close of the war to the 25th anniversary of Union. English war brides and newcomers from Europe were welcomed. Responsibility for health services and Indian schools were taken by the governments. Effective Christian witness is made in church, medical and educational work and all have learned of the power of Christ's Gospel.

Mrs. M. Reynolds asked "What of the Future?" and said, "We are called to share in making Canada a Christian nation, and in extending home mission work. All fields are asking for more missionaries and this calls for more prayer—larger givings and more devoted study and service.

The leader, Mrs. Hollinger, gave the names of different presidents and their term of office during the 25 years, namely, Mrs. S. C. Coy, Mrs. George Priest, Mrs. P. V. Hollowell, Mrs. W. Wickett, Mrs. W. Scott and Mrs. Simmons.

Mrs. S. C. Gay gave some interesting thoughts on membership, and givings, and told of some of the opportunities for advance.

Mrs. Simmons asked some pointed questions in regard to helping the Mission Band and C.G.I.T. work. Miss Marion Daniels and Mr. Robert Shorten have gone into full time church service from the congregation since union. It is the duty of the W.M.S. to present the needs and opportunities in such a way as to challenge the young people.

Mrs. George Priest told of the impressionable years and related some ways she thought advisable to make an impression on the young children and that the singing of some of the older hymns was a most important factor.

Mrs. Scott gave a two-minute talk on "Thoughts from the Study Book". Mrs. Hollinger led the service of personal dedication to advance in the auxiliary.

PAY DEPARTMENTS MERGED

STIRLING

Mrs. Garn Dobbs Gives Inspiring Talk At St. Paul's W.A.

Stirling—The regular monthly meeting of St. Paul's W.A. was held in St. Paul's Church parlors on Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance.

The special guests for the afternoon were the ladies of St. John's Guild, and St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid, who were graciously welcomed by the president, Mrs. W. T. Elliott, as were a number of visitors from Belleville. The delegate to the W.A. convention to be held in St. Paul's, Stirling will be Mrs. R. C. Martin.

Mrs. A. Scott reported 26 calls made which brings total number for April to 51. The planning of the convention dinner on May 25, and the banquet for the C.N.I.B., on May 15, was left in charge of the executive.

Mrs. C. Macklin reported two "Thrift Parcels", forwarded through "Care," one to England and the other to Scotland. Members were reminded that Blue Cross Hospitalization dues were payable during the next two weeks. Mrs. Ed. Warren took the chair to preside over the afternoon's program. Mrs. W. C. Coy read the Scripture passage Romans 12. Mrs. L. Graham delighted all present with her fine solo, "Just For Today".

Guest Speaker

The guest speaker, Mrs. G. Dobbs, of Belleville, was introduced by Mrs. Warren. She based her remarks on verses 53rd and 54th of the 14th chapter of St. Mark's gospel.

The speaker asked the question "Are we like Peter, do we travel afar off content just to get a glimpse of Him far ahead, or are we anxious to walk along with Him?" She said that while listening to the popular radio program, "What's Your Beef?" she wondered what was the particular beef was, and decided it was the supposedly Christian women, who absolutely refuse to take church or civic responsibility. No matter what they are asked to do, they usually reply "Oh, I just can't do that". They are denying Jesus just as surely as Peter did many years ago. It is true we cannot all be leaders but all of us can show our colors as good Christian women by visiting the sick and aged; performing little thoughtful deeds of kindness for the heartsick, and loneely, and being active Christians". When Jesus came to earth He knew He would be called upon to pay the supreme sacrifice, but He never said, "Oh, I know I cannot do that".

"We are not asked to die for Him, we are just asked to live for Him. Let each of us face up to our responsibility and walk with Jesus, not follow from afar off."

This splendid inspirational address should certainly make each one think seriously of her responsibilities, and may it be kept in mind, until the time rolls around again to appoint a nominating committee.

Following the closing of the meeting, refreshments were served and friendly conversation was enjoyed.

Mrs. Maurice Bell moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Dobbs, for her splendid address, to the soloist, to the program and lunch committee for their co-operation.

Women's Institute

QUINTE W. I.

The Quinte W. I. held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. Jack Parrott. The president, Mrs. Myrtle Greatrix opened the meeting and extended a hearty welcome to all members and guests. Some letters were read and business was discussed. The president asked as many as possible to attend the District Annual to be held at Carmel, on May 30th.

Mrs. Judith Vivian had charge of the program. Those taking part were Richard Garrison, who "Take Me Out to the Ball Game", and "Now is the Hour". Mrs. Currie gave a violin solo accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Harry Sine. Mr. Will Dorey an interesting talk on Home Decorating for the Individual", and his topic "Color Scheme". Mrs. Currie favored with another delightful violin solo. Miss Sulman gave a reading entitled, "The Country Post Office". Richard Garrison favored with two more songs, "I've Got a Lovely Bunch of Coconuts", "She's Too Fat for Me".

The president thanked all who had taken part in the program and the hostess for opening her home. The meeting was closed in the usual way, after which dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and the lunch conveners, and a social half hour enjoyed.

The secretary reported that during the month of April the Inspector had attended a meeting of inspectors of the various affiliated societies sponsored by the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals at Toronto.

The election of officers resulted in the following being re-elected for the ensuing year: President, Mr. Clare Hayes, vice-presidents Miss Hilda Ackerill, Miss Amy Wallbridge, and Mrs. R. W. Tennent; secretary, Miss Helen Fralick, treasurer, Miss Josephine Tickell, executive: Mrs. A. E. McColl, Mrs. M. E. Branscombe, Miss Aileen Cherry, Miss Helen Sulman, Miss Irene Keeler, Inspector, Mr. Thomas Thorne. Representative on Ontario S. P. C.A. executive, Mr. Clare Hayes.

In the inspection of stables, shipping yards, etc., the investigation of reports of cruelty, the taking care of stray or injured animals and the furthering of humane education the Belleville and Hastings County Humane Society is carrying on in as adequate a manner as limited means allow. Greater support on the part of the public would enable this work to be done more effectively.

May 7th-13th is internationally observed each year as "Be Kind to Animals Week."

EXECUTORS AND TRUSTEES FOR HALF A CENTURY

take your time

BUT ACT NOW...

Scrambling to make a Will when danger threatens is probably better than not making one at all but the preparation of such an important document should not be left to the confusion of a last minute rush.

Making a Will is something that can easily be attended to before emergencies arise. This duty should not be neglected. The logic and advantages of appointing a Corporate Executor and Trustee are obvious and well recognized.

All that is needed to get the job done, and done well, is to ask us to help you plan your Will, which we shall gladly do without charge. You can then have it drawn in proper legal form, naming The Royal Trust Company your Executor and Trustee, execute the Will and file it with us for safekeeping.

It is not wise to be A MAN WITHOUT A WILL

Weirdly-Dressed Dogs Feature Kinsmen Sponsored 'Mutt' Parade

Brass bands, boy scouts, girl cadets, clowns, Highland pipers and many others were featured last evening in the "mutt" parade, sponsored by the Kinsmen Club.

It marshalled through the city streets to remind the citizens of Belleville that the slogan "Help Belleville's Kiddies Keep Healthy, Be a floater", symbolizes an urgent need to contribute to the Kinsmen Club fund for the construction of a municipal swimming pool.

Leading the parade, as it ascended down Front Street was the widely-publicized dog "Kneehigh", riding in a car with Ernie Milbourne, president of the Kinsmen Club, and other officials who were spearheading the drive, by Majorettes

Immediately behind, following the standard bearer, was the Kinsmen Boys' Band headed by Bob Coleman's colorful drum major, Sylvia Motley and Betty Brooks.

Marching behind the band were several troops of boy scouts and girl guides, who were, in turn, followed by a truck carrying posters displaying the slogans and theme of the parade, "Help Belleville kiddies keep healthy. Be a floater." One of the highlights of the evening was the precision-like marching and the smart appearance of the R.C.A.F. band which furnished music for the central portion of the parade.

Weirdly Dressed Dogs

Included in the central section were Junior Girl Cadets, Sr. John Ambulance Brigade, and a large contingent of boys and girls leading their gaudily, and often weirdly dressed dogs. Accompanying the canine representatives and their masters was another group of youngsters wheeling their colorfully bedecked tricycles. Leading them was 8-year-old "Tiny" Reynolds lying secure in his wheel chair-like conveyance which he had decorated with multi-colored crepe paper and streamers.

Among the units that composed the latter part of the parade were the Belleville pipe and drum band, and two fields trucks of the city fire department.

Bringing up the rear were a group of cavorting clowns riding in a battered horse-drawn wagon and a dilapidated Ford jalopy.

Crowd Delays Performance

Due to the large crowd of youngsters and grown-ups that pressed in on all sides, "Knee-High" was unable to perform on Front Street last evening. However, it was announced that the dog would demonstrate her safety-first techniques at a various schools throughout the city today.

Upon the conclusion of the parade, a large number of boys and girls assembled in front of the armouries to watch the dog judging contest sponsored by the Kinsmen Club. The Kinsmen, in co-operation with Ballard's Dog Food, offered prizes to the youngsters owning the largest dog, the smallest dog, the best dressed dog, the dog with the longest tail, the dog with the shortest tail, the dog that could do the best trick and the dog that could eat a morsel of dog food the fastest.

Due to the large number of dogs entered and the clamorous and enthusiastic participation of the assembly, the original program had to be amended somewhat.

So many dogs sported short tails that the judges decided that each entry should receive a can of dog food. All of the dogs that could do tricks won piggy banks for their owners. The owners of the five best dressed dogs each received a silver dollar. The eating contest was cancelled and dog food and piggy banks were distributed as well.

Prize Winners

Other prize winners were as follows: 1st prize of two silver dollars to owner of largest dog won by Phyllis White; second prize of one silver dollar won by James Brennan.

Boys' Class: 1st, Gail Hammond; 2nd, Hannah Bard.

Dog with the longest tail: 1st, John Foster; 2nd, Jack Doig.

Those who won prizes for the best decorated bicycles were: girls, 1st, Donna Blue; 2nd, Sandra Randle; 3rd Beverly Brown.

Boys' class: 1st, Bruce Fleming; 2nd, John Wagar; 3rd, Paul Campbell; 4th, Ronald Houston.

SHANNONVILLE
Mrs. A. Reilly Holds Successful First Musical Festival

Shannonville — The Orange Hall was filled to capacity on Monday evening, May 8th, on the occasion of the annual "Music Festival" of the schools of Tyendinaga area.

Rev. L. W. Scott acted as chairman of the evening's entertainment. At the conclusion of the program, he complimented the music teacher Mrs. Arnold Riley, on her fine efforts. The numbers being exceptionally good and an outstanding program. He also commended the teachers for their co-operation and the children participating.

Mrs. Claire Weese, Melrose, assisted Mrs. Riley as accompanist during the evening.

The opening chorus was by the Junior grades "My Own Canadian Home" and was well rendered.

Rhythm Band

A "Rhythm Band" comprised of the Juniors of S.S. No. 11, Mrs. Grant McLaren's school, and S. S. 14, Mrs. Davis' school presented the next item. One of their number led this band which consisted of bells, cymbals, drums, tambourines and triangles. It was surprising the excellent time observed by these youngsters.

Sylvia and Sandra Allen, twins from Mrs. McGurn's school, sang the well known song "School Days" with suitable costumes, not forgetting the hickory stick and slate.

John Juby, from Mrs. Jorden's school appeared with a well blackened face to sing "Oh Susanna."

The Juniors of Mrs. Ross Shetler's school appeared in a boat, "Miss Tyendinaga" to sing "The Boat Song". Each pupil represented a sea-wife in white nightcap on. This was indeed a novel presentation and well presented.

Two of Mrs. Clayton Phillips' pupils of the Shannonville school, Barbara Caldwell and Ruth Angevine sang "The Little Dutch Girl and Boy" with appropriate costumes completed by a little dance.

A second "Rhythm Band" presented an enjoyable number led by one of their group. The pupils of Mrs. Parmi's school, Milltown, comprised part of this band.

Stole The Show

The Juniors of the schools of Miss Marie Badgely, Mrs. McGurn, and Mrs. Shetler, presented an enjoyable number "Daisy, Daisy", in which little beads adorned with large sunbonnets and the usual white dress, waist-coats. Little Miss McGurn, dressed in white and pink, with Master Wringe, dressed in a silk hat, white pants, appeared on a decorated tricycle to steal the show.

The next item was "Mother and Home" by the girls of grades IV, V and VI. Evangeline Riley sang "Mother" effectively, while the word was spelled out with the letters. A duet poem "The Little Brown House" was also recited to climax this number.

"The Man in the Moon is a Cow Hand" was sung by Master Jack Weese. The Juniors of Mrs. Garrison's room, Shannonville, presented "The Holy Polar Bears" garbed in white suits, even to pink ears and a tail. Morley Pringle appeared as the leading man in this number, which also comprised a little drill.

A chorus of the Senior girls sang "The Bells of Saint Mary's", as the next item of the evening's entertainment.

Three boys and four girls from Mrs. Shetler's school sang "The Little Red Schoolhouse" with effective dramatization. The girls were garbed in sunbonnets and aprons. Huge red, white and blue ties added to the boys' costume.

The Seniors of Mrs. Phillips' room pleasingly rendered the old familiar air "The Blue Bells of Scotland".

The next number was a Senior girls' chorus "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" with Elaine Currie and Leo Farrell, as soloists, Sheila presenting a charming appearance in her green accessories.

A chorus by the Senior boys "I Walk A Girl" was well presented. Four of the group singing the verses.

The Senior grades completed the program with their rendition of "Land of Glad Tomorrows".

Thanks Extended

At the conclusion of the program, words of appreciation and thanks to Mrs. Riley to the teachers and parents for their co-operation were voiced by Mrs. Thacker, S.S. No. 10; Mr. J. Forrestal; S.S. No. 15; Mr. Hate, S.S.

No. 29; and Mr. W. McMechan on behalf of Tyendinaga area.

Mrs. Ross Shetler, president of the local Teachers' Association, presented Mrs. Riley with a beautiful mirror from the pupils and teachers, in appreciation of her fine efforts and as a momentum of her first music festival.

Mrs. Riley graciously replied, expressing her thanks, mentioning the fact that she had enjoyed her work immensely and appreciated the co-operation of teachers and parents. Mrs. Riley is to be commended on this excellent program, as she has just been teaching in this area since the new year.

The numbers chosen to be presented at the South Hastings Educational Association Festival to be held in the Collegiate auditorium in Belleville on May 15th, will not be decided until the latter part of this week.

Present at this festival were Mrs. Wesley Sine, Foxboro; president of the S.H.E.A., also a number of visiting teachers and music teachers from Belleville, Stirling and Sidney.

TWO GUESSED RIGHT

Dawson, Y. T., May 11 — (CP) — Two men Wednesday picked up $1,700 each for their guesses on ice break - up time on the Yukon River. The ice began to move at 12:13 a. m. Wednesday. Ole Lande, a sawmill operator, and Joe Ladue, both of Mayo, Y. T. had guessed 12:15 a. m. Lloyd Spencer, winner of last year's pool, was close again with a guess of 12:20 a. m.

BOY TO APPEAR FOR TRIAL

Cornwall, May 11 — (CP) — Maurice Leger, 14, charged with manslaughter in the death of his father, will appear for trial here June 1 before juvenile Judge P. C. Bergeron.

The father, Morris Leger, 37, was stabbed with a butcher knife during a scuffle at their home April 15.

Bell Requests Rate Increase On Interim Basis

Ottawa, May 11 (CP) — The Bell Telephone Company of Canada today applied to the board of transport commissioners for permission to boost rates, on an interim basis, effective June 1.

The proposed higher rates are designed to increase the Company's "phone service revenues in Ontario and Quebec by about 20.6 per cent.

The requested rate boosts are for the full amount now being sought by the company in its main application before the board. They would remain in effect from June 1 until the board rendered a final decision on the permanent rates.

The company first applied for the rate boosts last September and the board has been hearing argument on the application since March 8. A large number of Ontario and Quebec municipalities are opposing the application, including the cities of Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton, London and Kingston.

Hon. F. Philippe Brais, senior Bell counsel, in opening the interim application today, said that the board's final decision on the permanent application could not be expected until long after June 1, the date on which the company's estimates of required revenues were predicated.

"If no relief is granted in the interim the applicant will suffer serious and irreparable injury and prejudice," said Mr. Brais.

All Interrelated

Failure of the company to meet its charges and to pay its traditional dividend "at this critical point" would destroy the company's ability to finance its construction program, "every part of which is interrelated."

Mr. Brais also states that: "any reduction in the construction quantity for the current year would reduce the quality of service necessitate a substantial curtailment in the number of employees with a disturbing effect on the labor supply force, greatly increase unfilled orders for telephone service and unfilled orders for better grades of service, disrupt the construction program not only for the current year but also 1951 and subsequent years and seriously delay the restoration of normal service.

"The interim application of the rates applied for might make it possible for the management of the applicant to avoid curtailment in the construction program while a final decision on its rates application is pending — "

HOSPITALS INUNDATED

A sea of muddy water poured over the Riverview section of Winnipeg during the weekend when the Red River gushed over dikes near the three municipal hospitals (large buildings at top). Some 140 patients were evacuated and more than 100 families fled the area. — (CP Photo.)

POINT OF ENTRY

There is no relaxation in the international border town of Emerson, Man., as a new flood crest is forecast for the Red River. Almost every building — including the United States immigration office in the foreground — is surrounded by water. The Red, now flowing almost everything in the photo, normally is a narrow stream behind the line of trees at the top. — (CP Photo.)

Kingsridge

By Alice Ross Colver

He said, suddenly savage. "If you were serious about wanting to help me the last thing I want is any mixup in this town."

"It wouldn't do you any good," she agreed, "I know that. It wouldn't do either of us any good." She put out her hand and he took it, feeling the fragile bones of it under her thin skin. "Goodnight. Don't hate me. These things happen." She seemed to sag and then stiffen. "I'm really your friend. Really I am."

As he went out and down the lazy driveway in a mood of angry uncertainty, he heard the dogs barking in the distance behind him. What he did not hear was Lester Brandt's words spoken in a soft whisper to himself as he struck his cane at the bushes beside him. "I don't know why she invited him. She never told me he was coming. I didn't know till I walked in there. But I don't like him. I don't like him at all."

And in the Reverend Ferguson's study that same night, Ella Ferguson sat mending her husband's socks while he, in slippered comfort, his hands clasped over the small rotundity of his stomach, gazed in contemplative silence at the small creeping flames in the fireplace before him. Once in a while Ella glanced at him but the years had taught her never to speak first. A sermon might be hatching.

"I'm ashamed," he said suddenly, patting the mound of flesh beneath his hand.

"Well, you will eat," she answered mildly.

He looked at her in surprise. The gesture had been wholly unconscious. "What has eating to do with it? I was talking about our sins of omission."

"Regarding whom, dear?"

"Regarding the newcomer in our midst."

"Oh." She squeezed the darning egg out of one sock and pushed it into another. "How you get these dreadful holes! But you called on him. It wasn't your fault that he wasn't there."

"He ought not to be staying at that dreadful place."

"Of course he shouldn't be staying there." Ella's voice held an edge rarely heard in it. "He should be at Kings Ridge."

"Exactly."

She looked up. "But what can we do about that?"

"Alicia Brandt," he answered obliquely, "the most godless of my flock, is entertaining Gerald Barton this very evening. I repeat, it makes me ashamed."

Ella wove her thread in and out. No one would know she was using brown thread in a black sock because it was the toe. But she didn't have any more black. "Well," she said, "you don't need to stay ashamed. I'll invite him here for dinner any night you say."

"The point is my dear, that if Alicia gives him a dinner, what ought we to give? Shouldn't it be more?"

She put down her mending with a small sigh. "If only you would not beat around the bush."

He shook his finger at her. "Showing your age, Ella my dear. You used to be much better at this." Suddenly his merry face grew sober. "We have two spare bedrooms, haven't we?"

"You mean . . . Oh! But we can't rent one. This Manse is church property. It's not allowed."

"Who said rent?"

There was a silence. In it he read all her thoughts on her face. A stranger in their house. Indefinitely. Breakfasts. Lunches. Dinners. With food so terribly high. To say nothing of the extra cost of his sheets in the laundry. And his towels. And the second bath room to keep clean when she was already busy enough.

"It's not impossible," she said at last reluctantly. Then she looked at him, her gentle face breaking into light. "Oh, I see! You mean to shame them."

"As Alicia shamed me."

She nodded. Then she went back to her mending. In and out in and out. The brown really looked terrible. She must remember to get some black tomorrow.

"I don't think it'll work," she said suddenly. "I think all they do is make the Kings mad. So we won't get our stoker."

He mused on this, staring again at the flames, his fingers patting his stomach once more. "You may be right," he said finally.

"You know Steven didn't promise to give it. He just asked us what we wanted most in the way of improvements in the Manse this year."

There was a moment of silence. Then she went on slowly. "You ought not to be digging out those ashes, Joe. You've got to watch your heart a little, whether you like to admit it or not. And the janitor just never gets here till you've finished. He does it on purpose, of course. He thinks the church is enough for him to take care of at the wages he gets. But we can't find another man to replace him anywhere in this whole town. And he is good in the church."

The Reverend Ferguson rose to put another log on the fire.

"I think," he said, as he straightened up, "I'll simply leave the stoker and my heart in the hands of the Lord. Yes, that's what I think I'll do."

Thus within a week, the town of Kingsridge was sharply divided in its sentiment over the return of Gerald Barton.

It was Friday when Elizabeth King learned of the Ferguson's offer to Gerald Barton. She and Steven and Audrey and Frank had just finished luncheon. Donald had gone skiing with a group of his friends and Susan was on her way to Jane Baird's whom she was to pick up in Donald's car and take to a dessert-bridge.

When the telephone in the hall rang, Elizabeth answered it herself. The others still lingering at the table, heard her voice rising in a crescendo of astonished exclamations. Presently she returned, visibly perturbed. Assuring herself that John was out of earshot in the kitchen, she sat down in her chair, exclaiming, "Well! If that isn't the limit!"

"What my dear?" Steven inquired mildly.

"The Fergusons. They called on Gerry this morning and invited him to live with them!"

"Are you sure?"

"Of course I'm sure. Ella just told me herself. What could be surer than that?"

"Nothing of course. I simply like to have my facts straight."

Audrey murmured. "The Brandts two nights ago, and now the Fergusons. What does that make us look like?"

"Exactly! And Alicia wanted to make us look like that, you may be sure. I know Alicia. It was a deliberate slap in the face. She could have seen that night, the way he barged in here and then the way he flung out—" She broke off. "As to the Fergusons," Elizabeth sent her flashing glance down the table toward her husband "all I can say is I hope when it comes time for your New Years check, Steven, that you'll remember what they've done."

"I'll remember, Stevens' quiet reply gave no indication of what he meant. What he meant was that the Fergusons' generosity was going to make no difference in his own. The Manse was, without question, much too large a play for any minister to maintain. And it was old. And definitely in need of many repairs which the salary offered the Reverend could not possibly cover. Regardless of what Joe and Ella had done or might still do in connection with Gerry, the stoker would be installed this year as they had hoped and as he had more than half-promised. Besides.

But he voiced the rest of his thought.

"What I would like to ask," he said, "is what other course was possible open to them as Christian leaders in a Christian community than the one they chose?

"You would put it that way," Elizabeth answered. "But it seems to me a call would have been sufficient. Why did she have to invite him to live there?"

"Is he going to?" Audrey asked.

"No. He turned them down."

Frank gave a short snort of laughter. "I bet he did. A man like Gerald Barton isn't going to take up quarters in a minister's house!"

Elizabeth pounced. "Now there is something in that."

"He turned me down too."

Steven's words struck his family into stunned silence for a moment.

"You mean you asked him here?"

"Certainly. That first night. And he turned me down." Steven's eyes held a little glint at the memory. He had liked his nephew—liked and respected him at that moment more than at any time since he had known him.

"For heavens' sake." This was beyond Elizabeth's comprehension but she swiftly recovered. "Why in the world didn't you say something? I could have let people know. I could have gotten credit. Now no one will ever believe me."

"Which is the reason why we must invite him again. For dinner at least."

"Steven!"

"Oh, yes, my dear, we must. And, having gone to the Brandts he won't be able to refuse us this time."

"Father!" Audreys brown eyes were filled with her deep distress. "We can't do that. We mustn't. Don't you see? It just gives Susan her head."

"She's already got that," Frank observed somewhat sourly. "She's had it for a long time."

Steven went on as if he had not heard either of them. "I've been thinking about this ever since that night. It's not only the example our friends and neighbors have set us. It's our, I dislike the word, duty. Let us say we cannot ignore the relationship Gerry bears to us. Because of that we owe him a little more than anyone else. A second offer of hospitality will be amiss." He paused. "He errs, you know." he added, more to himself than anyone, "chiefly in being himself. And for that he is hardly to blame. We should bear it in mind."

Ontario Intelligencer April 26th, 1950

Traffic officers stationed at the Belleville Provincial Police will shortly commence a campaign to check motor vehicles for bad brakes, and other unsafe equipment, like poor windshield wipers. The chief equipment necessary for the safe operation of autos.

The local police headquarters has developed which a brake efficiency device which can be attached to any car in a matter of seconds for testing the brake efficiency. By reading the brake efficiency and the distance required to stop, the police can secure information as to the condition of brakes on the car under test.

Girl Guide Activities

The Girl Guide Local Association met for their regular meeting at Kiwanis Centre. It was well attended by Guiders, officers and parents of Guides and Brownies.

At this meeting final plans were made for the 'Spring Tea' which is being held later in the month at the home of Mrs. J. B. Forrester, where there will be homecooking, candy and novelties for sale. One very interesting display will be the articles prepared by the Brownie Packs to be sent to the Grenfell Mission. There will be a Brownie Rally held at Queen Alexandra School during the month. Particulars for this event will be given by the Brown Owls of each pack, but a very enjoyable time is expected. The annual Church service of the Girl Guides will be held at the Tabernacle United Church in May. All companies and Packs will meet on the Collegiate, cadet at 10:30 a. m. The Boy Scouts will also attend this service and will form on the campus at the same time.

The Grenfell Mission

The Guides and Brownies of Belleville have as their own project, a most worthy and fascinating cause. It is simply spoken of as the Grenfell Mission", but for the Brownies it always starts with the tragic story of a child of Labrador before the mission work of Dr. Grenfell, told them by Grey Owl, Mrs. Branscombe. She unfolds the sad tale of the little boy who died for lack of medical attention at the crucial time, and describes the wonderful work done by Dr. Grenfell and his mission for the sick and poor folk living in the lonely settlements scattered along the rocky coastline of Northern Newfoundland.

The children become so interested and sympathetic that they are at once inspired to translate this enthusiasm into a practical form and so grows the project. The Brownies and Guides (Guides, by the way, who often started this work as Brownies) make dolls, stuff toys and sachets, dress dolls and make quilts of all kinds for the sick children in the hospitals of the Grenfell Mission.

In June of each year, the bales containing these gifts, all beautifully wrapped with Christmas greetings, are despatched by Dr. and Mrs. Branscombe on their long journey to Labrador. Apart from the gifts for the sick children, good warm clothing is sent, also books, books of school papers for distribution among the fisher folk.

At the Guide and Brownie Tea, dolls, dressed by mothers and friends will be displayed. Sitting with these, will be Miss Florence Ayling, who helps each year in this work of dressing dolls and visits several of the Brownie Packs to instruct in the making of the stuffed dolls.

To Miss Ayling, the mothers and friends, and of course to the Brownies and Guides are extended many thanks, but it is the touching and grateful thanks received from the nurses of the sick children that really wring the hearts, and encourage the Guides to continue each year with a project that is needed. The happiness and satisfaction that comes from service to others and pride in a job well done are thanks enough.

1st Belleville Brownies

The Brownies of the 1st Belleville Group are feeling very pleased and proud of themselves as they are nearing completion of Badge work. The following girls will be to be congratulated are the first Brownies of their particular section to get their badges for proficiency and thrift and other departments—

Joyce Blackburn, Heather Lewis, Marilyn Brickman, Anne Tooth:

Minstrel — Joyce Blackburn, Marilyn Brickman, Anne Tooth;

Toymakers — Joyce Blackburn, Heather Lewis, Marilyn Brickman, Anne Tooth;

Collectors — Joyce Blackburn, Anne Tooth;

Knitters — Marilyn Brickman;

Golden Hand — Jacky Watson, Jane Wallbridge, Sandra Newman;

Golden Bar — Beverley Durno, Lois Hickson, Marion Forward and Jane Evans.

The weather man was in a bad mood for "Cookie Day" but that did not dismay the Brownies of the 1st Belleville Pack. It was a most encouraging sight to see the turnout of the little Brownies, all eager to sell their cookies; an excellent showing was made. The remaining packages were sold during the following week, but the quota allotted to the pack was sold.

Thanks to the mothers who supported so well, and to the Brownies of the 1st Belleville pack from Brown Owl, and Tawny Owl. "Well done."

1st Belleville Girl Guide Company

The 1st Belleville Company has been busily engaged of late in making toy animals for the Labrador barrel, under the able leadership of their Lieutenant, Mrs. A. Geen. They have also been having a competition between patrols to see which can bring in the greatest number of used silk stockings, which are also sent up north for use in making rugs.

A hike planned for Easter week had to be postponed due to wet weather. All Guides are working hard at Second Class in hopes of being able to go to camp. It was a pleasure to welcome the District Captain, Mrs. H. Amos, to the Tuesday meeting. She has promised to come to the meetings in the absence of Mrs. Geen. The Guides thoroughly enjoyed learning a dance under her able direction. They were also fortunate in having Mr. Rose Watson at the meeting to teach semaphore and hope he will be able to come again.

The Canary patrol welcomed a new Guide on Tuesday, Barbara Brown. Barbara has transferred from the 1st Company in North Bay and all are glad to have her in the company.

MOUNTAIN VIEW

Mountain View.—Mrs. George Neal entertained at a birthday supper on Sunday evening in honor of her daughter, Pearl, who had celebrated her birthday the previous day. The guests were Nellie Sprague, who was also celebrating a birthday, Shirley Thompson and Yvonne Poste.

The May meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Ernest Wallbridge, of Huff's Island, with a good attendance. This was a grandmothers' meeting and the grandmothers under the convenership of Mrs. J. Cretney, put on a splendid program.

Mrs. H. Wilson of Belleville, spent a day recently visiting friends in the neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Sprague and family spent Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Sprague's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Woy, Bowerman's. The occasion was the celebration by the family of Mr. Woy's birthday.

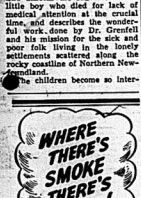
Rev. W. A. Amos spent the dinner hour on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Hamilton.

Mr. Jay Sprague accompanied Mr. B. Sprague of Big Island, to Toronto, and spent the day there on Sunday.

Arbor Day

On Friday Miss Huff and pupils held "Arbor Day". The morning was spent in cleaning the school yard, the girls also cleaned windows and woodwork. At noon the children enjoyed a picnic lunch which consisted of sandwiches, jelly, cocoa, pie, candy and oranges. In the afternoon games were played in the schoolyard.

Mrs. Hannah Pearsall, of Picton, was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Sprague on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Allan Ramsay and children of Trenton Air Station, were Monday guests at the same home.



Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stapley, Stirling, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Hamilton.

Miss Pearl Hamilton, RegN., was a weekend guest at the Lauretian Hotel, Montreal. On Sunday Miss Hamilton was a guest of Dr. and Mrs. Schoffield at their summer home, at Bark Lake, Quebec.

WINNIPEG EVACUATION BY ROWBOAT

Rain, cold and ice, has added to the discomfort of Winnipeg citizens forced to flee their homes as the flooding Red River rose to record heights. This family, one of the thousands who have left the flooded areas for higher ground, had to evacuate their home by row-boat with such few possessions as they could take with them. — Central Press Canadian.

Church Council Will Decide if Vote to be Taken

Fisherville, Ont., May 11—(CP)—The council of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church will decide May 18 whether to order a congregational vote on the expulsion from the church of three members of the Masonic Order.

Rev. Walter D. Hescher, minister of the 600-member church for the last eight years, said he considers the Masonic Order "anti-Christian," an accusation that is denied by the order's members.

The minister, who held a charge at Desboro in the Owen Sound area for 17 years before coming here, has touched off a controversy which has split this village of 300 persons in a farming district 25 miles south of Hamilton.

Asked why he regarded the order as anti-Christian, Mr. Bauer said:

"In none of their prayers is Christ mentioned. They eliminate Jesus Christ from the entire ritual and therefore they do not worship the true God of the Scriptures, the Trinity, and therefore it's idolatry."

The Masons in the congregation last week challenged the minister to debate the issue in the parish hall. He did not take up the challenge. Now they are going from member to member urging resistance to what they call the minister's "tyranny."

FLOOD HIGHLIGHTS

tario contribution of sandbags today passed the 500,000 mark. More than 800,000 altogether have been shipped from various points in Eastern Canada.

Ten North Stars, two DC 3s and one air cargo liner are flying equipment from Toronto. Eight North Stars are flying equipment from Montreal. Space is equally divided for cargo and seats so that refugees may be brought on the return trip.

More than 50,000 doses of typhoid vaccine have been flown to Winnipeg by the University of Toronto. The University of Connaught Laboratories are working in high gear to keep up with the demand. The Ontario Hydro - Electric Power Commission was preparing 32 portable diesel generators for shipment.

Saskatoon, May 11 — (CP) — Alderman Bill Gray said Wednesday night Saskatoon may be asked on to accommodate 5,000 to 7,000 Southern Manitoba flood evacuees.

He said a telegram received from the Red Cross in Winnipeg indicated mass evacuations were being contemplated.

A meeting of military and civilian personnel made plans to billet 2,000 refugees at Dundurn Camp, 30 miles southwest of here, "just in case" a mass exodus becomes necessary. Arrangements were being made to handle 2,000 evacuees on 36 hours' notice.

Meanwhile, 200 Winnipeg school children were to arrive today. They would be billetted at the University of Saskatchewan.

25,000 REPORTED

lous. One dike went out last night, letting the Red pour over part of East Kildonan suburb at the city's northeast outskirts.

Bridge Position Critical

Even more critical was the position of the bridges. Hour by hour communication between the half-dozen, river-separated sections of the metropolitan area became more difficult. Most bridges were closed and those still open were almost all restricted to essential traffic.

The Red, and the Assiniboine and Seine which join in the city, all lapped at bridge roadways and overflowed approaches.

At 5 a.m. CDT (6 a.m. EST) the level of the rivers was 32.4 feet, the highest they have been since 1826. The rise since the same time Tuesday was six inches. When it would stop could not be forecast. The flood crest was submerged somewhere to the south.

And in North Dakota and Minnesota, where the Red rises, a new flood threat was poised on Emerson, the Manitoba border town which got the first century-record crest 10 days ago.

The whole Red River Valley was a no-man's-land. The Royal Canadian Mounting Police were hastening evacuation of the last settlers yesterday. At least 10 towns were isolated and deserted. Communication, except by boat, was wiped out for many villages.

Inestimable damage has been done to the rich farms along the Red.

A Canadian Press survey showed:

No one was hurt. Dike workers scrambled along the narrow tops ed one-eighth of greater Winnipeg now is under water. Thousands of homes are flooded and likely to remain that way for several weeks. No drop in the Red River's level is anticipated for some days, and even when it comes it will be slow.

More than 500 square miles of southern Manitoba, provincial government experts said, is inundated. That huge lake must be drained off by the river before Winnipeg can expect much relief.

The dike which broke Wednesday night, built along Kildonan Drive, made a sweeping curve on the Red's eastern bank. Two sections of the barrier collapsed. Army engineers decided the 12-foot wall of water could not be stemmed. The Red was left to flood its own level among the rows of tidy homes.

to safety. Most residents had quit their homes last weekend when flood-control headquarters warned the dike might go at any moment. Compulsory evacuation of the handful left was carried out without casualties.

Only Two Deaths

Only two deaths have been blamed on the floods so far. One was a farmer drowned in southern Manitoba when his boat overturned; the other a civilian volunteer trapped by a rush of water in a suburban basement.

The East Kildonan break was more spectacular, but the situation in the southern suburbs was more damaging.

There the Red and Seine extended slowly over all of St. Vital municipality, joining twice to cover everything in shallow lakes before resuming their separate courses northward to their normal confluence in North St. Boniface, across from Winnipeg.

Fort Garry, too, was flooded as far west as the Canadian National Railways tracks, and swank Riverview almost as badly.

Other major - flooding points were North St. Boniface, near the old Whittier Park race track; a strip along the west bank through railway and industrial premises skirting the Winnipeg business district; a slowly-widening area of the St. John's district in North Winnipeg; and a shallow section of the Glenwood Crescent area, where Elmwood cemetery was partly under water.

Assiniboine Causes Trouble

Even the placid Assiniboine was causing trouble. Its runoff halted by the Red's level at their junction near the Canadian National Railways' Main Street station, it swelled across part of the River Heights area and into West Gate, Middle Gate and East Gate, one-time swank residential area in central Winnipeg.

Behind the Assiniboine's Wolseley Avenue dike, residents were warned to stop pumping water from their basements. It was weakening the dike from behind. The river at that point is only a long block from Portage Avenue, one of the city's major thoroughfares.

In countless other places, clogged sewers backed into basements. Pumps spurted water onto downtown streets. Some cafes and stores were closed because the pumps failed to keep water down. Power and heat was turned off in many buildings, including hospitals.

In urging the evacuation of women and children, Brig. Morton, the flood-control commander, predicted the situation will be worse before it gets better. He emphasized his advice was not alarmist, but just a move to prevent needless discomfort and perhaps hardship.

Dispersal Required

The flood was interfering with the city's daily life. It might cause dislocation of utilities such as telephones and transportation. Evacuees from flood zones — 16,000 or so from St. Vital alone by the time that municipality is cleared by Friday — had doubled the normal population of some Winnipeg districts.

That was unsatisfactory from a health and public services viewpoint. Sanitation and hygiene would become more difficult. Milk for babies might not be available.

"The dispersal of as many noncombatants as possible from the city will serve to make the task of those fighting the floods easier," Brig. Morton said. "This suggestion does not include those carrying on normal business activity. It will relieve the pressure on sewers, traffic arteries and transportation facilities.

"Those who can conveniently evacuate their families to points outside greater Winnipeg are urged to do so without delay."

1,600 HOMELESS IN SECOND DISASTROUS QUEBEC FIRE

Ask Residents to Boil Water Before Drinking in Order To Prevent Epidemic in Cabano

"A scourge sent to test the strength of the people, not a punishment from heaven for their sins," was the consolation offered his 3,200 parishioners, Wednesday, by Rev. Philippe Cyr, above, parish priest of this fire-devastated town in southeastern Quebec, where flames caused an estimated $3,000,000 damage. "Only the intervention of God prevented loss of life," said Father Cyr. —Central Press Canadian.

City to Seek Outside Help To Rebuild Town

Rimouski, Que., May 11—(CP)—A town planning commission today looked forward to three years of heavy reconstruction work to rebuild a large part of Rimouski destroyed by a $20,000,000 fire earlier this week.

"We think it will take us about three years to complete the commission's program," said town manager Leopold Garon. "It will mean a great deal of work, but so far the population of Rimouski is responding very well to the challenge."

Many of the 2,500 Rimouski citizens made homeless by the terrible blaze have already sought building permits, town manager Garon said.

The town planning commission started work about a year ago, the official said, and completed its plans after the fire was put under control.

Meanwhile workers Wednesday started the heavy job of clearing the debris caused by the fire which destroyed about a third of the town. The bulldozers at the steam shovels have been put in operation.

One carload of building materials including cement, plaster and wood arrived Wednesday—the first to come in since the fire, and more materials are expected shortly.

Build New Mill

Reconstruction plans, Garon said, include establishment of a new Price Brothers lumber mill, which employs a great number of Rimouski citizens. Plans now, he said, call for a temporary mill to be built shortly with a permanent mill being set up later.

It was in this mill that the fire started when a power line was swept away by heavy winds last Saturday night, setting fire to the lumber yard.

Other establishments vital in the life of Rimouski and destroyed with the conflagration were several industries, the seminary, a convent, hospital, court house, orphanage and old peoples home. These will be rebuilt as soon as possible.

Meanwhile, Red Cross workers who moved in shortly after the fire was started continued distributing food and caring for the homeless. Garon said the Red Cross will continue its work here "for some time to come" as supplies continue to come in from several points in Quebec province.

FONDA NOT BENEFICIARY

Greenwich Conn., May 11—(AP)—Henry Fonda, motion picture and stage actor, received no bequest in the will of his estranged wife which was admited to probate Wednesday, Mrs. Fonda, the former Frances Seymour Brokaw, 42, killed herself by slashing her throat last April 14. The petition to probate said the estate consisted of more than $400,000 in real and personal property and $3,500 in Greenwich real estate.

Cabano, Que., May 11 (CP) — Orders to prevent disease from polluted well waters in this devastated lumber town have been issued by provincial health department authorities.

Dr. Sarto Sirois and Dr. Jean Marie Tremblay found that residents, deprived of their normal water services, were turning to old abandoned wells formerly in use here.

The physicians warned that all water from stagnant wells should be boiled before drinking, otherwise the polluted waters might start an epidemic of disease.

There are 1,500 homeless in this isolated community where the industrial section and 118 homes were reduced to ashes in a few hours Monday.

With few resources of its own, this town of 3,200 inhabitants, largest centre in rugged Temiscouata county, is looking for outside help to rebuild the town.

Mayor Emilien Morin told The Canadian Press he would appeal to Premier Minister St. Laurent and Premier Duplessis for housing assistance.

With immediate food and shelter services functioning smoothly local Red Cross volunteers, under the direction of the Riviere Du Loup Chapter, took over the relief effort from the firefighters already set up by regular Red Cross staff.

Mayor Morin said Wednesday night that the fire devastated the equivalent of two thirds of the town. The ruined section was the business and residential portions. Damage was estimated at $6,-000,000.

The mayor said there was some consolation in the prospect of work opening up. The Canada Company Limited lumber yard and mill for the next few months. The mill is the only important industry in the community that survived the blaze although most of its cut lumber was lost.

There was no indication when electric power and water services would be restored. Damage to telephone and telegraph lines was extensive and crews today continued the job of restoring the services.

Troops, whose swift arrival eliminated problems of property protection and maintenance of order almost from the start, remained on duty under Brig. J. V. Allard, Officer Commanding of Quebec Military Region.

Huge army tents set up on grounds near the church serve as a centre where some 1,200 persons sit down to hot meals three times a day. The meals are cooked by 10 bush cooks most of them from Fraser Company.

Large numbers of the homeless are still living with other Cabano families but hundreds still must use temporary shelters set up in the town and on its outskirts.

A severe electric storm followed by heavy rains drenched the community Wednesday night and extinguished a few remaining smoking ruins. A forest fire that had been burning near the town was drowned out.

DIES OF INJURIES

Toronto, May 11—(CP)—Glenna Roughley, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Roughley, died in hospital Wednesday two hours after being injured when she ran into the side of a motor-truck driven by F. L. Rosati.

Robbery Suspect Bitten Inside Throat by Teeth

Oakland, Calif., May 11 (AP) —A robbery suspect was bitten inside his throat, that's right —inside) by his own stove teeth Wednesday.

Jarred loose by this commonplace motion, his set of five false teeth plopped down his throat and clamped firmly on his epiglottis. Physicians in a hospital extracted the choppers and treated the bite.

Discuss Proposal Of Fund For Church Building

London, Ont., May 11 (CP) — Establishment of a $500,000 fund to loan money for building churches and other church property, will be among matters scheduled for discussion next week at the 19th session of the synod of the Anglican Diocese of Huron.

The fund would do away with outright gifts from the diocese.

Among other items listed in the convening circular of the synod is a resolution, sponsored by the Rev. H. G. Rokeby-Thomas, Port Stanley and the Rev. J. R. Thompson, St. Thomas that the synod "vigorously" protest civic marriage now being considered by the provincial government.

Wind-driven flames, believed caused by sparks from the chimney of a sawmill, on Tuesday, levelled almost one-half of the municipality of Cabano, Que., 80 miles from razed Rimouski. Eighty per cent of the industrial life went up in smoke as flames left 1,600 homeless, 122 houses destroyed and most of the remainder damaged. Above, dazed inhabitants gaze at smouldering ruins of the town. Relief forces were rushed in from Rimouski, Tuesday night and the Red Cross is administering relief. —Central Press Canadian.

Pearson is Given Ovation At Dinner Honoring Acheson

London, May 11—(Reuters)—L. B. Pearson, Canadian Minister of External Affairs, Wednesday night received a personal ovation when he was called to speak at the Pilgrim Society dinner given in honor of Dean Acheson, United States Secretary of State.

Replying to a call from the chairman, Sir Campbell Stuart, Pearson paid a graceful and humorous tribute to Acheson and Foreign Secretary Bevin, whom he described as "my fellow member of the trade union of foreign ministers."

He recalled that both Acheson and Bevin had narrowly missed being Canadians. Acheson's father had migrated to Canada and married a Canadian, and but for an ecclesiastical appointment in the United States, Acheson himself would have been born in Canada.

Bevin had told Pearson that as a young man he once decided to go to Canada, "but," said Pearson "he did what he rarely does and changed his mind."

As he had personally always had the ambition of being Canadian minister of external affairs, he felt he was lucky not to have had such competition on hand. But "my gain is Canada's loss."

Canada's position as a middle power gave her a special place between the United States and Britain.

"It's not always easy for the little fellow to keep in step with the giant strides of the two big fellows—especially when the big fellows get out of step themselves," Pearson added amid laughter.

Thanks largely to the work of Acheson, the occasions when the two big fellows were out of step had, he felt, become less and less frequent. And so Canada found that the risk of being squeezed between the great powers or pushed from one side of the road to another was less and less frequent.

Turning to the conference of North Atlantic Foreign Ministers which opens here next week, Pearson said that they will face the difficult task of translating into policies the principles which had been hammered out in the year since the North Atlantic pact had been signed. They had rightly begun with defence, but the time had come to extend this cooperation into the economic and even political fields.

Pearson repeated a hope he recently expressed, in a speech in Canada that the North Atlantic Alliance would provide the foundation for "a great co-operative economic commonwealth of the western world, which might even one day become a political commonwealth."

In this atomic, jet-propelled age, no lesser aim than this, he claimed, would be adequate, no lesser vision would do.

Says U.S. Won't be Surprised If Russia Produces Alleged Confession of Lost Plane Crewman

By C. YATES McDANIEL

Washington, May 11—(AP)—The United States won't be surprised if Moscow eventually produces an alleged confession from a crew member of the American B-29 plane lost in the Baltic April 8.

A government official in a position to know said this today on the basis of what he asserted to be American "knowledge" that Russia made prompt efforts to salvage remnants of the plane and to pick up the survivors, dead or alive.

He said also that the U.S. "knows" the following facts, entirely apart from diplomatic interpretations of Moscow's version of the incident:

1. Four Russian fighters opened fire from the rear of the slower moving American patrol plane;

2. The attack took place over the Baltic Sea "more than 30 miles" from the coast of Russian occupied territory;

3. The plane was on fire before it hit the water.

This official said the government would not reveal how it got this information because it would give vital information to Russia. He said he did not know whether the Russians had any success in finding the plane or its occupants.

He agreed with U.S. Navy officials who said Wednesday that the chance of survival for any of the crew members was "very remote."

He recalled, however, that communist authorities customarily wring confessions from political prisoners and foreigners involved in incidents.

Only this week the Chinese Reds announced that they were freeing two American flyers, missing for nearly 19 months in North China, after they had "confessed" to "spying" on Red military installations.

MANY SEGMENTS OF INDUSTRY HIT BY STRIKE

Chicago, May 11 — (AP) —A strike by railroad firemen against four major rail systems threatened sharp cuts today in many segments of industries in the United States.

Prospects of an early settlement in the dispute appeared dim.

The crippling walkout, which started Wednesday, directly involved only 18,000 firemen. But thousands of other rail workers — maybe as many as 200,000 — may be idle if there is not a quick settlement. Countless other thousands are expected to be made idle by a long strike.

The only direct effect of the strike in Canada as far as rail operations were concerned was the cutting of service between Detroit and Buffalo on the New York Central line that crosses Southwestern Ontario. Officials estimated about 60 per cent of the traffic has been cut but Canadian rail workers were not affected by the walkout.

Some U. S. industries felt the impact of the firemen's work stoppage immediately and started curtailing operations. Some coal mines were among the first to feel the effect of the strike called by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineemen.

One-third of the country's rail passenger and one-fifth of the rail freight movement was disrupted. The tie-up caused cancellation of service on at least five other lines. Bus and airlines reported a big increase in business.

Trains Being Operated

There were reports of trains being operated on some of the affected lines. The president of one such rail carrier, the Southern Railway Systems, said "we are running a increasing number of freight and passenger trains."

The union went on strike to enforce demands for a second fireman on multiple-unit diesel locomotives and on small switch diesels now operated by a single engineer. A fireman and one engineer now operate the big diesel locomotives.

The strike-affected lines are the western sections of the Pennsylvania and New York Central systems and the entire Santa Fe and Southern Systems

Face Severe Cuts

In Detroit, the automotive industry appeared facing cuts in production. Chrysler Corporation which resumed operations this week after a 100-day strike termed the situation "very serious." An official said operations would have to be sharply curtailed next week. Ford and General Motors expressed similar concern.

The Fisher Body division of General Motors and the Midland Steel Products Company in Cleveland started cutting operations and laid off 5,000 employees.

The Santa Fe dispatched two trains from Chicago to Los Angeles and two from Los Angeles to Chicago. The New York Central sent two passenger trains from Chicago to New York and from Chicago to Boston.

All southern railroad passenger service was suspended from Memphis, Tenn., to Chattanooga.

The Chesapeake and Ohio cancelled 16 trains into Chicago, Detroit, Toledo, O., Columbus and Grand Rapids, Mich.

CONVICTED OF MURDER

Columbus O., May 11,—(AP)—A jury, under instruction to convict James D. Heer of slaying a fellow student at Ohio State University Wednesday night found him guilty of second-degree murder. His victim, 21-year-old Jack T. McKeown, was shot to death Nov. 12 following a fraternity homecoming party at which guests drank liquor, witnesses testified. The penalty for second degree murder is life imprisonment.

Asks Court Order To Force Customer To be Less Blatant

Paterson, N. J., May 11 (AP)— An automobile firm has asked a court to force a customer to be less blatant, saying that he says he claims is a "lemon."

Hudson of Ridgewood Motors, Incorporated, of nearby Ridgeway, charged that Angelo Padula drew pictures of lemons on the car, strung real lemons on it, and drove around with a sign that said: "This is a lemon — nine miles to a gallon of gas."

The complainants said they offered Padula a new motor, but that he insists they replace the whole car.

LEAVES FOR MOSCOW

Prague, Czechoslovakia, May 11 (AP)— U.N. Secretary General Trygve Lie left Prague for Moscow today in a Russian plane.

The U.N. official hopes to ease tension between the Soviet Union ad the western powers through conferences with Russian officials including possibly Prime Minister Stalin.

He was accompanied by Konstantin Zinchenko, Russian assistant secretary-general in charge of Security Council affairs. They are due in Moscow this afternoon.

Toronto's Bid For Amalgamation Stalled for Time

Toronto, May 11 (CP) — After months of controversy, the city of Toronto's bid for amalgamation of 13 suburban municipalities in a new greater Toronto unit today was stalled on a technicality. It's the difference between "amalgamation" and "annexation."

The Ontario municipal board Tuesday heard the Toronto application for progressive amalgamation of the smaller units and decided it could make no decision at present. That's because the city asked for "amalgamation" of 10 municipalities, and only parts of two others.

The board ruled the city could not amalgamate only a portion of one municipality. If mere sections are concerned, the word is annexation, and this word did not appear in the Toronto application. The board said a new Toronto by-law covering the application must be drafted before it can properly consider the application.

The Toronto by-law seeks to amalgamate 10 municipalities outright, but only parts of two others — Scarborough township in the east and Etobicoke township in the west.

To bring the amalgamation question to a decision the city may appeal to the Ontario government, which has been spurring the union. Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto said that Ontario Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar has authority to issue an order on the matters of this kind, and the city may appeal to him to do so in order to expedite matters.

Mayor McCallum said that passage of a new city by-law covering the application would slow up things unnecessarily because there would have to be a new hearing at which all the previous arguments would be rehashed. Some of the suburbs are strongly opposed to the plan.

THOMASBURG

Thomasburg—Arbor Day was observed on Friday at the public school in the forenoon. The pupils and teachers devoted their time to the annual Arbor Day cleaning.

During the afternoon the Junior room pupils enjoyed a holiday while the senior room pupils and the teachers, Mrs. Hazlett and Mrs. Montgomery went to Actinolite where the pupils took part in the planting of trees for reforestation.

Rev. H. B. Herrington and Mrs. Herrington, of Newburgh, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Wilson. Mr. Herrington was a pastor on the Thomasburg charge for eight years, during that time they endeared themselves to a large number of people in this vicinity, who attended the evening service in the United Church in the village. The Rev. Morley Clarke had previously invited Mr. Herrington to be the guest speaker at this service.

Rimouski Will Be Built Bigger, Better Says Mayor

Rimouski, Que., May 11—(CP)—Residents of this fire-wrecked St. Lawrence River city some 180 miles below Quebec today looked to the future in a determined but hopeful manner. From its ruins, they say, will be built a bigger and better gateway to the Gaspe Peninsula.

Gone was the first shock and despair that followed a howling blazing inferno that Saturday and Sunday wiped out the greater part of the city's industrial life, its homes and religious institutions.

Mayor Victor Lepage spoke for Rimouski's 12,000 inhabitants, 2,500 of them homeless, when he said:

"The fire now is a thing of the past. All we are thinking of is the future and rebuilding."

Destroyed in the $20,000,000 fire were its largest industries, its seminary, convent, hospital, court house, orphanage and old peoples' home.

Order had returned from chaos. The scene was so calm that troops were released to help battle a blaze that partially destroyed the neighboring town of Cabano, caused $6,000,000 damage and left 1,500 homeless.

The Price Brothers Company, in whose huge lumber yards the blaze here started, are considering long-range plans for rebuilding.

The company's two mills employ 1,600 men and had an annual payroll of $10,000,000.

Relief supplies in the city now are considered adequate and Mayor Lepage said there is already enough money on hand to permit opening accounts in stores outside the fire-ravaged zone so that persons without finances can get adequate supplies.

Candles Cause of Fire

Shippegan, N.B., May11 (CP) — Candles on both sides of a coffin containing the body of Mederick Bourdreau, 48, were reported the cause of a $10,000 fire Tuesday which destroyed the home and barn of Ernest Boudreau at Six Roads, 13 miles from Shippegan. The fire started while the family was at supper Tuesday. Ernest Boudreau smelled smoke, opened a door of the room where the body lay and found the place ablaze.

BATTLE ORDER FOR BERLIN TROOPS

British troops stationed in Berlin are living under conditions which would remind war veterans of just-before-battle days. This group who spend their days carrying full marching kit are shown relaxing in the Tiergarten in between patrols. The east sector has been so active with demonstrations that the troops are on constant alert. — Central Press Canadian.

SELL WORLD'S LARGEST PEARL

Nearly two inches wide and three inches long, this pearl called the "Pearl of Asia," is now on sale in Paris. The price tag is $70,000. The pearl, weighing 605 carats, is owned by the foreign missions of Paris, who bought it in 1918 in China as an investment. It has a long history, going back to the 16th century, it has belonged to the Shah of Persia and later to the Emperor of China. It was stolen during World War II and later found in a pipe where it had been thrown by the thief. Field Marshal Hermann Goering was about to buy it when it was stolen. — Central Press Canadian.

Justice Minister Answers Coldwell

Ottawa May 11—(CP)—No indication that the flour milling industry is contravening the Combines Act has been received since the 1947-48 investigation that found a combine had existed in the industry, Justice Minister Garson told the Commons Wednesday.

In a tabled reply, he was answering C.C.F. leader Coldwell, who had asked if the government had taken steps to learn whether the industry had "continued or resumed the price-fixing and other arrangements" which had been reported through a combines investigation.

Mr. Garson replied that the report of Fred McGregor, then Combines commissioner, had said last year that, since his investigation started in September, 1947, there had been many evidences of restoration of price competition in the milling industry. . .

The report alleging a combine in the flour-milling industry, produced the biggest storm of the 1949 fall session of parliament.

The cabinet refused to accept the finding and withheld the report for several months beyond the 15 days within which, by law, it should have been published after its reception.

Mr. McGregor resigned as Combines Commissioner, and the opposition charged the government with breaking the law. No prosecution was undertaken.

$160,000 SETTLEMENT IN BOATING ACCIDENT

Placerville Calif., May 11 (AP) —A settlement of $160,000 was approved Wednesday in court for 14-year-old Imogene Wittsche who lost two legs in a boating accident on Lake Tahoe. The settlement was made by Phil Davis, wealthy Oakland motor-car dealer whose boat severed both the girl's legs below the knees.

Looks Around, Shunt Engine Cuts Off Rear of Car

Timmins, May 11 — (CP) — Diedonne Lauzon may not be so proud about sleeping commands next time.

He stopped his car when he heard someone yelling at him. As he looked around to see who it was, a shunt engine sliced off the rear of the car.

Unhurt but not undismayed, Lauzon discovered it had been a man riding the engine, hollering at him to get clear of the railway crossing.

Hiccups 8,640 Times Daily For 83 Days

Timmins, May 11 — (CP) — Mike Conte isn't out to break the hiccupping record — but if there is one, he may do it in spite of himself.

He has been at it for 83 days. He averages about six every waking minute for a daily score of about 8,640.

"I have no (hic) desire to break any records," Mike said from the hospital bed in nearby Ansonville. "One of the things I want most in this world is to (hic) get rid of them."

Conte, 46, had been at a party. A little drinking. A little singing. A good time. And then the hiccups.

He has lost 20 pounds since they started but he says he gets no sympathy.

"Who ever heard of anybody sending flowers to a patient suffering from (hic) hiccups?"

SENT TO TRIAL

Whitehall Notebook:
Communist Member to Receive Parliamentary Service Pension

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, May 11 — (CP) — Willie Gallacher, the man who kept the red flag flying in Westminster, is to receive a pension for his parliamentary services.

Members have granted a sum reported to total £300 ($620) a year to enable the fiery Scot to live in what his wife describes as "comfort."

Gallacher, 69, has been a leading member of the communist party since 1920. Until the 1945 election, he was the only communist member of the House of Commons. Along with 99 others running under the red banner in the Feb. 23 general election, he took a beating at the polls.

But he didn't seem depressed at finishing last of three in the Scottish constituency of Fife, west.

"Now," he told reporters, "I'll be able to sleep in my own bed for a change."

Private Fund

A month later he collapsed with internal trouble. He was taken to a hospital in his native Paisley where it was feared an operation might be necessary.

His friends then form a private parliamentary fund established in 1936. All members contribute £12 yearly, but only those with more than 10 years in the house are entitled to benefits. Gallacher represented Fife West for 15 years.

In Paisley, Mrs. Jean Gallacher told a reporter she and her husband would get more good out of the pension than they ever did out of Gallacher's £1,000 a year as an M.P. .

"Willie gave part of his salary to the communist cause," she said. "When he had paid his secretary and other expenses there was never much left."

Gallacher, short, bespectacled, blunt-spoken, with the unmistakable air of the working class revolutionary he prided himself on being, became one of the most conspicuous figures in the house, starting with his maiden speech for Scottish miners in 1935.

Violent Orator

He never wavered in his faith. He spoke forcefully, sometimes violently, in his grating Scots voice. He battled it out with the speaker and other members, almost always on his own and kept bobbing up for more.

Refuses to Cut Vogeler Sentence

Budapest, Hungary, May 11 — (AP)—Hungary's Supreme Court of Justice refused today to cut the 15-year prison sentence of Robert A. Vogeler, American business man who was convicted last February on spy charges. The court also rejected the appeals of Edgar Sanders, a Briton who was sentenced to 13 years on the same charges, and five Hungarian co-defendants. The government announcement also disclosed that Imre Gelger and Zoltan Rado, Hungarian nationals who were sentenced to death in the same case, had been executed.

SCHOOL'S OUT

Torn from its foundation by surging flood waters, this tangled mass of twisted lumber, once a schoolhouse, was caught by the Red River current and carried downstream and finally smashed against the Elm Park bridge between South Winnipeg and suburben St. Vital. The river laps against the bridge's roadway, usually many feet above water.—(CP Photo.)

EVACUATE WINNIPEG SUBURB, CONTINUE BATTLE

Flood waters filtered to within inches of the heart of Winnipeg Wednesday. The plants that supply all power for trolley buses and street cars as well as the bulk of electricity in this city of 220,000 were surrounded by water. Swarms of men were bolstering shaky dykes, holding back seven feet of water which had climbed to within inches of the tops of the flood ramparts. In the greatest single evacuation in Canadian history, the mass evacuation of the 13,000 people of St. Vital, one of the flood-threatened suburbs of Winnipeg, began today. Above, Winnipeggers are busy combatting the remorseless Red River. — Central Press Canadian.

Duplessis Says Liquor Licence Was Cancelled

Montreal, May 11 (CP)— $118,000 damage suit against Premier Maurice Duplessis, stemming from cancellation of the liquor licence of a Montreal restaurant owner, was scheduled to continue in Superior Court today.

When the hearing opened Wednesday, Premier Duplessis was the first to testify to allow him to return to his government offices. He was not expected to appear today.

Start of proceedings was delayed for more than 53 minutes when it was discovered that none of the court officials had summoned an English-speaking stenographer to take down the testimony.

Mr. Justice Gordon C. Mackinnon commented: "It's unreasonable that the court and the Premier should have been immobilized for 35 minutes when the function of office needs Premier Duplessis very urgently at this time."

The Premier told the court that he had no alternative but to approve cancellation of the liquor licence of Frank Roncarelli if "public order was to be maintained and trouble avoided" in Quebec.

He said that Roncarelli, who launched the action against the Premier personally, in June, 1947, had hindered the work of the courts by acting as bondsman for arrested members of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect three years ago. The premier had charged the sect at the time with distributing "seditious propaganda."

Only Approved Order

"I studied, examined and analyzed every aspect of this case carefully and there was nothing else I could do as a matter of conscience but to cancel the permit if trouble was to be avoided," he said.

The Premier, also attorney-general of the province, insisted that he did not actually give the order but approved it after it was suggested to him by Chief Judge Edouard Archambault, then General Manager of the Quebec Liquor Commission.

On further questioning, Mr. Duplessis said a suggestion by Mr. Archambault, when approved by the Attorney General, is equivalent to an order.

Received Complaints

He testified that he had received complaints from many parts of the province regarding the Witnesses of Jehovah. His attention was further directed to the matter when he was informed that the business of the recorder's court was being complicated by a backlog of cases against the Witnesses who had a systematic way of providing bail bonds.

"At the time, I didn't even know Roncarelli, never saw him, never knew he existed and further, I never knew he held a liquor permit," Mr. Duplessis continued.

"I received a phone call from Judge Archambault informing me that the person who was acting as professional bondsman for Witnesses of Jehovah arrested in Montreal was one Roncarelli who held a liquor licence. I asked him to verify this and call back."

"When the facts were established the license was cancelled."

Admits Adherence

Roncarelli, 43, then testified he was "an adherent" of the Witnesses but never organized, directed or encouraged any propaganda of the sect.

He said he had acted as bondsman for many Witnesses but had never paid cash. The attitude of court officials had always been one of "cordial acceptance."

He termed "an abominable fabrication and abominable lie" a report allegedly found in his liquor file that he allowed "their women" to frequent his restaurant and permitted police to hold parties there.

He sold his restaurant for $58,000 in 1947 he said, and estimated his loss on the deal in excess of $100,000.

King Signs Order To Detain 70 Aircraft

London, May 11 — (AP)—The King Wednesday signed an order detaining in Hong Kong 70 aircraft until a court rules whether they belong to the Chinese communist government or an American corporation headed by Major Claire Chennesault.

The order also authorizes the Supreme Court of Hong Kong to rule on the ownership of the aircraft.

The 70 planes originally were part of the operating fleets of China National Aviation Corporation and the Central Air Transport Corporation. The two companies were permitted to make Hong Kong their main base when the Chinese red forces were nearing Shanghai in 1949.

Last December, Chennault's Corporation, Civil Air Transport, Inc., declared it had acquired ownership of the planes by purchase from Chinese Nationalist authorities in Formosa. The Chinese communist government also claimed the aircraft.

Power Project Bill Put Back In Deep-Freeze

Washington, May 11 — (AP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway and Power bill was put back Wednesday into the deep – freeze of the United States Congress.

The public works committee of the House of Representatives ended nearly three weeks of hearing testimony on a bill to authorize the long-discussed $500,000,000 plus international development. That lays the measure to rest for the balance of 1950.

Congress has always shelved the measure, although the Canadian government has been willing to go ahead with the project was first put forth. Every American president since that time has favored it.

Even before the current hearing ended, the committee voted not to act on the bill until it first is considered by the Senate — something that won't happen at least until next year.

School Pupils Know Little About Ontario

Toronto, May 10. (CP)— Ontario's elementary school pupils may learn about Congo natives and Indian ivory but they know next-to-nothing about counties in their own province, says former teacher Harry Hutton.

Director of extension courses at Queens University, Kingston, he said in an interview Tuesday, "they can't even name them, let alone describe where they are."

He said he had just completed a survey in which he asked 1,000 Grade 7 and 8 pupils to name and locate five counties in Ontario.

The results: 27 answered correctly, 30 others gave names but vague locations, and the rest scored anywhere from zero to 30-per-cent correct.

The following were listed by some pupils as being counties: Montreal, Thornhill, Noranda, Toronto and Stratford.

Mr. Hutton said the trouble started some 20 years ago when formal instruction on county geography was dropped in favor of "incidental" learning.

He added that he made a recent survey of 20 college students in Northern Ontario. "Not one of them ever heard of Lanark or Perth."

A new plan now under consideration may bring back the equivalent of the formal instruction set up, he said.

"We have gone all out for Marco Polo and the Eskimos," he says, "but we have gone too far."

Farmers have been at Spring seeding last week.

START OF DISASTER

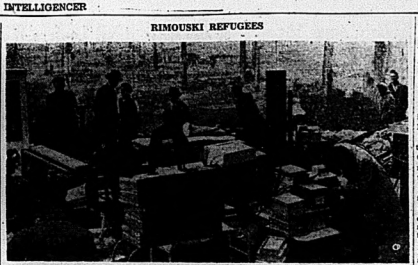
This photo of the start of the $20,000,000 weekend conflagration at Rimouski, Que., shows the situation firemen faced as they battled to save the town of 15,000 population. From the blazing lumber yard in the background, flames were driven by an 80-mile-an-hour gale across the Rimouski River to ravage the western section of the community. — (CP Photo.)

Volcano Izalco Called 'Lighthouse' Is in Eruption

San Salvador, El Salvador, May 10 — (AP) — The volcano Izalco, long called "the central American lighthouse," belched fire and lava Tuesday night in a great display of activity. It began to erupt five days ago. In daylight plumes of smoke hiding masses of hot cinders can be seen rising from the peak to the accompaniment of loud rumblings. At night the volcano is covered with flames.

Spring Seeding Is Under Way In Most Sections

Toronto, May 11 (CP)—Spring seeding is under way in most sections of southern Ontario the agriculture department said today in its weekly crop report.



Late spring run-offs and delayed thaws in some northern districts have delayed seeding operations from one to two weeks.

Feed crops of alfalfa and clover are poor in many sections and farmers are reported putting their cattle out to pasture. Many others fear a poor hay crop also.

TIME FOR TEA

Regina — (CP) — An expectant hush fell over the audience as English adjudicator John Sterling stood up after the last competitor had performed in a music festival here recently. "I hope you'll excuse me," Sterling said, "but I'll just have a cup of tea, then we'll get down to business."

RIMOUSKI REFUGEES

Amid a forest of chimneys — all that remains standing in a large section of Rimouski following the disastrous weekend fire — residents of the stricken Quebec town search through a pile of rescued possessions to take stock of what was left them after the conflagration. They now face the problem of finding shelter in a community with 2,500 homeless. — (CP Photo.)

THEN SOMEONE THREW THE TOMATOES

Three members of the German soccer team, who'll make a tour of the U.S. under the sponsorship of the State Department, are shown enjoying their introduction to western hemisphere delicacy, the hot dog. Fred Schmidt, Herbert Wotljeciak and Heinz Spundflasche, captain of the team, were among the 16 athletes who were pelted by a barrage of tomatoes and apples on New York's city hall steps. Police arrested three of the demonstrators, who said they were members of Betär, an organization of young Zionists. — Central Press Canadian.

Cage Rope Breaks, Electrician Falls 90 Feet to Ground

St. Thomas, May 11 — (CP) — John H. McArthur suffered serious injuries yesterday when the rope of a boatswain's cage broke and plunged him 90 feet to the ground.

The 23-year-old electrician was working on a floodlight installation at Pinafore Park. He suffered a broken left leg, cuts and bruises, shock and possible internal injuries. His condition was reported critical.

THAMES CRUISES

Chatham, Ont. — (CP) —Summer cruises on the Thames River may be resumed this summer, F. C. Summerfield of Windsor plans to run cruises out of Chatham, Wallaceburg and Windsor if he can find a suitable craft capable of carrying 350 passengers along the shallow stream.

Messrs. Arthur Dawe, Cecil Byrlott, Ralph Gibson and Rev. C. W. Duquette of R.B.P. No. 347, Picton, motored to Roblin on Monday evening, where they saw the Red Cross degree exemplified by the Queensboro degree team. Thirteen candidates were initiated into this degree. About 175 were present and an evening of good fellowship was enjoyed.

Picton — A large turnout of Odd Fellows led by the Lions Club band of Trenton attended divine service on Sunday morning in St. Mary Magdalene's Church. The beautiful bouquets and baskets of flowers in the church were placed there for the greater honor of God and in memory of Mr. Patterson Dever and of deceased members of the Despard family, and of Dr. John Christian, by their families.

Mr. Raymond Shepard has been appointed caretaker of Mary St. Public School following the resignation of Mr. Elmer Duetta.

Mrs. G. A. Whiteman is spending two weeks with relatives in Toronto.

EARLY DENTAL WORK

Doncaster, Yorkshire, England — (CP) — A woman's skull believed to be more than 1,500 years old was found near here. A missing tooth is thought to have been professionally extracted.

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Edmonton, May 11 — (CP) — Allan Cup competition outlasted all other hockey cup tournaments this season, again arousing the ire of those who maintain the hockey season has been extended too far into the spring.

Bob (Calgary Herald) Mamini writes that poor matching by the C.A.H.A. of superior and inferior teams in lengthy playoff series only serves to lengthen the season.

"Just why top leagues in the Dominion should be compelled to play extended series with secondrate opposition has always been a mystery. Not so many years ago two games with total goals to decide was enough to settle an argument in the playdown leading to Canadian hockey honors. And the final went into the records as a two-out-of-three affair.

"But a good thing was dragged out too far when every meeting in the playdowns array was stretched to seven-game affairs. Hockey's masterminds certainly should be able to rate the top leagues in Canada, have the best play ff for regional titles to see which club is to meet the main league representatives."

No Racketeer Goldmine

Don (Edmonton Journal) Fleming says that abandonment of saliva tests by the R.C.M.P. at Canadian race tracks will not mean a re-opening of lucrative avenues to racketeers planning a fix.

"Departure of the red coats from this field leaves a responsibility that will not be long before being shouldered by a successor. The racing men fully realize the necessity for keeping their meetings above reproach, if they wish to earn the confidence of the public."

CNR 'Loafers' Win Bowling League Championship

The "Loafers" team of the Canadian National Railways Bowling League won the 1950 championship from a field of twelve in the final games of the season at the Bowl-O-Drome Wednesday night.

The new champions finished the season with a score of 1651 points. Stores were in second place with 151 and Wreckers in third with 145. The rest of the teams finished in the order following: Motive Power, 133; Yard, 132; Office, 125; Despatchers, 119; Engineers, 100; Decos, 97; Boilermakers, 88; Wheel Slingers, 87 and Call Boys, 44.

The Loafers will be presented with the J. D. McMillan Trophy emblematic of the league championship at the annual banquet being held on May 17th.

Individual scoring champions were, high average, T. Caton, 222; high single, S. Hulbert, 412 and high triple, T. Caton, 870. High single with handicap was won by J. Rossiter with 461 and high triple with handicap went to G. Scott, with an 825. Loafers took the high team score with 3,463 (triple) and Stores annexed the singles with 1,351.

The Canadian National league is one of the oldest if not the oldest bowling organization in the city, having been in constant operation since its inception in 1914.

Three of the original bowlers who helped found the league are still "in action" and doing a good job on the alleys. They are Robert Johnston who had a 1950 average of 201; Sammy Symons, 178 and Harry Robinson 162.

New Breakdown Of Expenditures Being Considered

Ottawa, May 10 — (CP) —The cost dollar-conscious session of parliament in years now has before it a new type of breakdown of government expenditures which shows that the cost of some broad groups of federal functions has jumped by as much as 1,000 per cent over the last 12 years.

The total proposed outlay by Ottawa this fiscal year is nearly $2,400,000,000, or more than four times that for the 1938-39 fiscal year.

The breakdown was prepared by the finance department at the request of George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and it lists expenditures broadly on a departmental rather than departmental basis.

It is currently the basis of protracted battle in the Commons public accounts committee, but bids fair to become the subject of debate on the floor of the House, and a permanent feature in the annual tabling of estimates.

It appears at a time when these developments have sparked a heightened sense of economy in parliamentary ranks:

1. Finance Minister Abbott's statement that expenditures have pretty well hit what Canada must now accept as normal peacetime costs of government and his challenge to opposition parties to make specific rather than general suggestions for reductions.

To Study Estimates

2. The Senate's decision to reverse its tradition policy of leaving the check on spending to the Commons. It has embarked upon road committee study of departmental estimates for the first time.

3. Statements by Watson Sellar, the auditor-general, that he thinks the Commons undertook some more effective check on spending.

4. Mr. Drew's call for a royal commission on government administration and establishment, and the government's refusal.

Over the multi-sided battle now in issue looms the possibility that major new advances in government costs lie ahead because of broadened social security legislation of defence obligations or other reasons. This shadow looms at a time when revenues and expenditures are running so close that only additional taxation or deficit financing — borrowing— or reduction in current items could meet new costs.

Prime Minister St. Laurent has stated that any marked reduction in national income and consequent shrinkage in tax revenue would leave the government in a position where it could not meet its annual bills under the present tax structure.

That is the background for the finance department's summary of the cost of various government functions.

May Charge Boy Fired Air Rifle Injuring Teacher

Toronto, May 11 (CP) — Police said Wednesday they may lay a charge against a boy who fired an air-rifle pellet through a public school window, injuring a teacher.

William McCormick, vice-principal of Alexander Muir School on west-end Gladstone Avenue, suffered a painful nose injury and lost considerable blood.

The case came to light Tuesday night when management committee of the Board of Education decided to talk with police about chances of curbing the "increasing menace" of air rifles.

Toronto police commission recently asked the Ontario government for a ban on sale of air rifles. Chief Constable Chisholm said that between 1933 and 1949 some 200 persons were injured through careless handling of the guns.

James McCubbin, secretary of the police commission, said Wed. a letter will be sent to Attorney-General Porter asking for an amendment to the Municipal Act allowing municipalities to forbid the firing of air rifles. Mr. Porter said he would be glad to receive any such suggestion.

THAT BALK RULING

Baseball fans have been in more or less of a dither since the introduction of the so-called new baseball balk rule, and its effect on pitchers and fans in the major leagues. After all, the majority of the clauses of the rule are not new; its simply the fact they haven't been enforced by the men, pitch suddenly and fails to make mask and pad laddies. And as a matter of fact, the balk rule, new or old is one of the hardest to interpret in the entire book, if all the clauses are to be adhered to.

Box-seat and bleacher umpires usually have the answer, they think when a pitcher makes some sort of a move that, they think when a pitcher makes some sort of a move that, in their opinion should call for the balk penalty by the umpire. Ottumwa, and we have seen it, a pitcher has actually committed a balk but it 'goiby' His Nibs and usually the crowd. Now that the fire and fury of the press has been in the baseball public's ears since the decision to enforce the rule garnished with a new wrinkle or two, it behooves the "amateur" league pitchers and umpires to brush up on the ruling.

We note by the revised 1950 constitution and rules of the Ontario Baseball Association that it includes balk rule plus its recent embellishments. That means that affiliated leagues and associations of the OBA will have to abide by it — and there might be a lot of woe. An umpire who has studied the complicated affair, and knows at least the majority of its clauses, and who has been enforcing it in his league, might run into a peck or two of trouble should he at some time be called upon to officiate in a league or with teams that has not been so fussy about adhering to the finer points of the ruling. It is going to be very hard on this Bill Nibs especially if the fandom is rabid and what fandom isn't when the home team is on the short end of the score.

* * *

Add this to the fact that the teams have not studied the fine points of the ruling, especially the pitchers and there'll be young riots starting all over the country. To avoid this, in part, at least, not only should officials, managers and players study the ruling, but league executives should make it a point to see that all teams under their jurisdiction have a knowledge of it. If the players see the justice of a balk decision, the fans will blow their tops, but temporarily, give the umps the customary catcalls, their ideas of his ancestry and ability as an official, and cool off.

To go a bit further, we suggest that the Central Ontario Baseball League, the Belleville and District Baseball League, in fact every league affiliated with the OBA, or operating under its rules and regulations call a special meeting with the balk rule as the balk rule.

League officials should insist that its umpires, team officials and players make a definite study of the ruling and thus avoid some inevitable unpleasantness on the diamond this season. It would not be definitely fair for one league to treat the ruling wishy-nilly and another adhere to it more or less rigidly. If this is the case then look for fireworks come playdown time. In fact the Ontario Baseball Association should do some field work along this line, or it may be called upon to perhaps call out the reserve army to protect its appointed officials.

The balk rule is in the books and as such should be observed and adhered to as much as the three-strike, four-ball rule. But its observation should be universal, and it will not be unless league executives either on their own initiative or through the parent OBA see that this is done. It will be better for all concerned.

* * *

"READ, MARK AND . . ."

Here is the balk ruling and its new additions as it appears on Page 82, Rule 8.05 of the Ontario Baseball Association Constitution and Rules of 1950:—

A. The pitcher, while touching his plate, makes any motion usually associated with his pitch and fails to make such delivery;

B. The pitcher, while touching his plate, feints a throw to first base and fails to complete the throw;

C. The pitcher, in pitching position, fails to step directly toward a base before throwing to that base;

D. The pitcher, while on the pitcher's plate throws, or feints a throw to an unoccupied base, except for the purpose of making a play;

E. The pitcher delivers the ball to the batter while his pivot foot is back of, or not in contact with the pitcher's plate;

F. The pitcher delivers the ball to the batter while he is not facing the batter;

G. The pitcher makes any motion naturally associated with his pitch while he is not touching the pitcher's plate;

H. The pitcher unnecessarily delays the game;

I. The pitcher, without having the ball, stands on or astride the pitcher's plate or while off the plate, he feints a pitch;

J. The pitcher, after coming to his set position, removes one hand from the ball other than in an actual pitch, or in throwing to a base;

K. The pitcher, while touching his plate, accidentally or intentionally drops the ball;

L. The pitcher delivers the ball while the catcher is not in the catcher's box;

M. The pitcher delivers the pitch from "set position" without coming to a stop of one full second.

Penalty:

The ball is dead, and each runner advances one base without liability to be put out.

THAT'S THE SPIRIT, M'LADS

A fine spirit of co-operation is apparent with the boys of the Canadian National Railways Athletic Association insofar as their new sports field and playgrounds project is concerned. Under the capable and discerning eye of President George Foster and his equally capable assistants, work on the new grounds is progressing favorably. It is in full swing and grading and leveling operations by the McFarland Construction Company with Art. McFarland and Jack Sutton in charge are going full blast.

We are informed that the childrens' playground is rapidly nearing completion and it is fervently hoped, will be in operation at least by the end of the month. Members of the Association and officials are behind the financial end of the project in a manner that is highly satisfactory, and that in itself is a distinct credit to the executive of the CNRAA. The entire membership is showing a splendid spirit of cooperation, financially and otherwise, and the new CNRAA Athletic Field and Playground, when completed will not only be a splendid asset to the CNR and the city, but a physical monument to the co-operative efforts of a group of men who have the welfare of others and their children at heart.

Strangler Bob Wagner will have to watch his footwork in his main bout against dynamic Ray Villmer in Memorial Arena Friday night, for the pint-size pachyderm will be out for figuative blood, and that's for sure. He is still burning up over what he calls a "dirty trick" that Wagner played last week when the Strangler sneaked out a foot and tripped him while he was playing ring-around Rosy with Wild William Longson. Villmer is bound and bent to subdue the ferocious Wagner and that with the latter's disdain of the mighty atom's ability should make for wrestling fireworks aplenty. In the semi-final Earl McCready meets Sky Hi Lee, the Oaralan hunka dynamite and that clash should develop some thunder. Ray McClarity meets Al Korman in the curtain-raiser.

Wagering Money Scarce, Tax too High Says Orpen

(By The Canadian Press)

Fred Orpen, who runs Toronto's vest-pocket-edition Dufferin race track, is moaning the 1-2 per cent government-cut blues.

He says that with wagering money scarce the Ontario government's recent hike in pari-mutuel betting-machine tax from 10 to 12 1-2 per cent has forced him to lay off 15 to 20 betting clerks on quiet days. In addition to that tax the track takes a cut on a sliding scale ranging up to nine per cent so that the bettor may have to hand over as much as 21 1-2 per cent of a wager.

"I have to take back somewhere—running a business and when business is poor I have to cut down. I can't ask the horsemen to accept a 'cut in purses. Their expenses are still the same."

Directors of the Canadian Standard-Bred Horse Society Wednesday at Toronto awarded to Dufferin a fair at London. Out, the Canadian standard-bred futurities for two-year-olds and three-year olds. These stakes to be contested during the second week in November, will carry the highest value in their history.

The Canadian Trotting Association accepted the bid of the Thornliffe Harness Raceway to stage the matron stake for two-year-old trotters and pacers, with a guarantee of more than $2,000. The race annually is given to the Ontario track which makes the highest bid and last year was run at Barrie.

Guelph Maple Leafs of the senior intercounty baseball league Wednesday night defeated Toronto York Yankees 5-1 in an exhibition game at Guelph. Four Guelph hurlers held Toronto to a single hit while Guelph collected six hits off four Toronto pitchers.

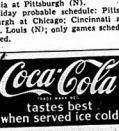
Eddie Stanky, second-baseman for New York Giants, was notified Wednesday by Ford Frick National League president, that he has been fined $50 as a result of a dispute with umpire Frank Dascoli in a game in Chicago Tuesday.



The dispute followed a play at second base in the seventh inning. Stanky and manager Leo Durocher of the Giants were ejected by Dascoli after a long jawing session. Pitcher Sheldon Jones also was thumbed off the Giants bench. Neither Durocher nor Jones was fined.

Manchester United, famed soccer team of the English League first division, defeated a team of National League all-stars 3-0 Wednesday night in a dull game under the lights before a crowd of 12,500 at Toronto's Christie's National Exhibition stadium.

Manchester led 4-0 at halftime on two goals by Jimmie Downie, inside-right, and singles by Stanley Pearson and Henry Cockburn. Jack Rowley netted the fifth goal in the second half.

Toronto Marlies Win Allan Cup, On Way Home

Edmonton, May 11 (CP) —Toronto Marlboros and the Allan Cup were returning east by rail today. The Marlies became Dominion senior hockey champions Wednesday night when they trounced Calgary Stampeders 9-5.

The Western champions, who won only one game in the best-of-seven series, were no match in the fifth encounter for the fast-skating easterners, an average seven years younger.

For Toronto it was the first Allan Cup triumph since the Nationals turned the trick in 1932. For Marlboro coach Joe Primeau, former Toronto Maple Leaf, it was his first Dominion senior hockey title after coaching two junior teams to Memorial Cup championships.

A terrific burst of scoring power in the first period gave Marlboros a commanding 6-3 lead. After a scoreless second session the Toronto team outscored the cowboys 3-2 in the final 20 minutes.

Juniors Spearhead Attack

Two players called up from junior ranks for Marlboros' stretch drive, George Armstrong and Danny Lewicki, spearheaded the Toronto attack. Their four goals, three of them by Armstrong, proved the difference. Lewicki is scheduled to join Toronto Maple Leafs next season and Armstrong also is a Toronto chattel.

Al Buchanan, Red Johnson, Scotty Muir, Johnny McLellan and Chuck Blair were the other Toronto marksmen.

Veteran Dunc Grant duplicated Armstrong's three goal feat for the losers and Stan Devyn and Herb Lovett scored once each.

Goalie Rusa Dertell was spectacular in the second period as he kept Calgary hopes alive almost single handed. In the three periods he batted out 41 shots against 18 for Toronto netminder Pat Boehmer.

In the third period Marlboros scored three straight goals to boast a 9-3 lead at the 6.10 mark.

The porous Calgary defence sorely missed the services of thumping Julian Sawchuk, sidelined with torn knee ligaments.

Hard Training Theme of Ideas For Argo Coach

Buffalo, May 11 — (CP) — Frank Clair of the University of Buffalo who has been signed to coach Toronto Argonauts in the Eastern Big Four next autumn, said Wednesday that hard training is the theme of his ideas for the Canadian campaign.

"My plan calls for guards who can move in a hurry," he added. "We'll probably bring in two American guards, two ends, a centre, quarterback and another backfielder."

But Clair won't know what Americans he'll have until the professional squads on this side have made their training camp cuts. He said he's not figuring on veteran professionals, but hopes to collect some promising youngsters.

He'll get acquainted with the Canadian players in a golf tournament planned by Argos at Toronto within the next 10 days. Bob Moran, president of the Argo club who saw Clair Wednesday, said that Argos have planned three pre-season gatherings.

Argos' manager Ted Morris and trainer George Stockwell accompanied Moran here for the preliminary conference with Clair.

Annual Scramble For Talent is Nearing Height

Toronto, May 11—(CP)—With the start of the senior lacrosse season in Ontario less than two weeks away, the annual scramble for talent is nearing its height.

For the first time in many years Toronto will have a contender. The team organized by Jack Campkin already has signed up Bill Timpson, Bruce Webster and Steve Kapasky, all of Toledo, O., and Stan Muchenna of Windsor, Ont., players from last year's Canadian-American loop.

The Toronto entry goes into competition with Owen Sound, Peterborough, Brampton, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Mimico and Weston.

Brampton Excelsiors have lined up Fred (Whitey) Severson, star of the '48 Mann Cup finalist New Westminster Adanacs, as well as Lou Landess of Vancouver Salmonbellies.

Peterborough Lumberjacks are preparing for their second year in senior company are pinning their hopes on Jim Kinna and Russell Buchanan, former British Columbia juniors, and on Don Ashbee, who played for Owen Sound last year.

At Hamilton, Jack Gair has taken over as coach of the Wildcats, last year's champions. Stu Scott has shifted to Hamilton from St. Catharines and Don Brownridge is back after a stint with Owen Sound.

Jack Chase is moving to the Owen Sound lineup from Peterborough. St. Catharines plans to have Bill Nielsen and Jimmy McMahon Mimico and Weston are expected to stand pat on last year's squads.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

Five game Final!

A NEW RECORD, A NEW TROPHY FOR THE LEAFS OF '26!

Louisville stadium baked under a glaring Kentucky sun. On the diamond Toronto maple Leafs overwhelmed the Louisville Colonels. The stake was the Little World Series championship. The Leafs—International League winners—had edged the Colonels in four home games. This was the deciding day.

An injury to Leafs' star pitcher forced a last-minute substitution. A win seemed doubtful—but sparkling pitching pulled them through. Held to five hits, the Colonels were shut out, 5-0. The Leafs became the only team in baseball history to gain the title in five straight games —a record that stands today.

Team spirit and good sportsmanship have won world-wide respect for Canadians. And team spirit with sportsmanship helps you to—in work and play. Together they keep your opportunities in Canada : : : unlimited.

Opening Day for International League ball in Canada is May 3—when Montreal Royals meet Jersey City and Toronto is matched with Syracuse.

Cardinals' Stan Musial Good Bet to Become National Loop's First .400 Hitter in 20 Years

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Stan Musial is the best bet not to become the National League's first .400 hitter in 20 years.

Not since Bill Terry lashed the ball for a .401 figure in 1930 has a National League batter ventured into the .400 neighborhood. Now Musial of the St. Louis Cardinal slugger, is only one hit shy of .500 at .483.

First base seems to agree with Musial. Ever since manager Eddie Dyer gave up on Steve Bilko and moved Stan from right field to first, he has drilled holes in the fences.

The big spurge really started when Musial returned to the lineup after a six-day layoff due to a sprained knee. Since his return Stan has 18 hits in 30 at bats or .533. And he hasn't reached Brooklyn's Ebbets Field his happy hunting ground, that opens next week.

Only two pitchers have collared Musial so far. Cliff Chambers turned him back hitless the second night of the season.

Joe Hatten got him out May 3 as a pinch hitter.

Musial had his biggest night of the season Wednesday with four singles and a walk in the Cards' 5-1 victory over New York Giants behind Max Lanier's seven-hitter.

Brooks Move Down

Brooklyn was knocked out of first place by Cincinnati Reds 4-0 on Ken Raffensberger's three-hit job. It was Raffy's first victory of the season, snapping the Reds' seven-game losing streak.

As a result of the Dodgers' loss, the idle Phillies moved to the top, the leap by the first time since opening day. The Phils' day game at Pittsburgh was rained out.

Chicago took advantage of four Boston errors to trim the Braves, 6-3. Doyle Lade needed help from Paul Minner to earn his first triumph at the expense of Warren Spahn.

Rain washed out the big goings in the American League, postponing the Detroit-Boston game at Fenway Park and the New York Yankee-St. Louis Browns game. All concerned play double-headers today.

Nothing seems to stop that Washington club which clicked off its fifth straight, 7-6, over Chicago. The Senators broke loose for five runs in a big fifth inning rally started by Ed Stewart's pinch-triple.

Cleveland snapped a four-game losing string by scoring three unearned runs with two out in the ninth for a 4-3 victory over Philadelphia.

Port Arthur Man Given High Post At Cincinnati

Cincinnati, May 11 (AP)—Alex Sinclair of Port Arthur, Ont., Wednesday night was named general manager of the Cincinnati baseball team in a wholesale shake-up of Garden officials.

The Garden corporation operates Cincinnati Monarchs of the American Hockey League and the big arena also is the scene of various skating, boxing and basketball attractions.

Sinclair succeeds Edward L. Schott of Cincinnati, whose resignation was announced by Garden president Louis Richter. Schott said his duties as president of the Coney Island amusement park here and general manager of the Garden were too great.

Richter also announced that no discs of dismissal have been sent to Charles Sawyer Jr., assistant general manager, William Nimble publicity manager, and Ivan Rembay, building manager.

Sawyer is the son of Charles Sawyer, United States Secretary of Commerce, who was president of the Garden until a few months ago. He resigned because of the press of duties in Washington.

Sinclair has been superintendent of the Garden since its opening more than a year ago. He is a former hockey player, both at the lakehead and in Britain.

Richter also pointed out in his announcement that King Clancy, coach of the Cincinnati hockey team last season, has a contract to return here next year. He declared that rumors Clancy might go to Chicago Black Hawks or some other club in the National Hockey League are false.

Yuhas Turns in Fourth Straight Without Defeat

(By The Associated Press)

Johnny Yuhas, budding St. Louis Cardinal pitching prospect, is the brightest star on the Red Birds' Rochester International League farm club.

Yuhas turned in his fourth straight victory without a defeat Wednesday night as he pitched the Red Wings to a 10-5 victory over Syracuse Chiefs in the second half of a doubleheader.

Yuhas stopped the Chiefs on eight hits. His mates gave him an 8-0 lead in the first six innings. Don Richmond pounded a pair of homers, the league leading one to ease Yuhas' task.

The Chiefs won the opener, 3-1, behind the six-hit pitching of former Red Wing Bud Byerly. The Chiefs' runs came on Bill Reeder for all of their runs in the sixth inning on four successive hits.

Buffalo Bisons, the pacesetters who drove in seven runs on a pair of homers, the league leading Montreal Royals trounced Springfield Cubs, 13-4. The Royals several in four innings with seven runs in the seventh

Bill Ratchan, former no-hit star of Philadelphia Athletics, limited the Cubs to seven safeties including home runs by Carmen Mauro and Smokey Burgess.

The runner-up Rochester City Giants collared Buffalo Bisons 9-7. The Giants piled up an 8-1 lead in four innings with Bill Wallinton's three-run homer clinching the game.

Rogers Bowman went all the way for the Giants, allowing eight hits including a pair of home runs by Fred Hancock.

Toronto Maple Leafs ended an eight-game losing streak by edging Baltimore Orioles 3-2. Chet Laabs waked with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth to force home the winning run. Ken Trinkle, making his fifth straight relief appearance, was the winning pitcher.

Robinson May Not be Styled A Movie Actor

Hollywood, May 11 (AP) — Jackie Robinson, generally identified as the efficient second baseman for Brooklyn Dodgers, may not be styled a movie star.

Robinson plays himself in the soon to be released picture "The Jackie Robinson Story," and it may be reported that Robinson does not try to act. He merely plays the role of a most unusual athlete named Robinson.

As a production, the picture has shortcomings. Ignoring this phase —the absence of vast sets, extravagant and often unnecessary props and mob scenes—the story is told with an honesty unusual in screen biographies.

It tells the story of how Robinson became the first negro in baseball's major league, the high walls into organized baseball and events in his youth leading up to this unprecedented phase in sports. All these events are told in sequences as fast and pungent as one of Robinson's cracking baselabs.

A good part of the picture deals with Jackie's breaking into pro baseball with Montreal Royals of the International League.

Shown and recited are the prejudices in baseball against a Negro, the sectional feeling, the threatened "strike" of a clique on the Dodger club itself. And shouted, too, are such insults thrown at Robinson as "black man," "nigger," "liver-lip" "shine" and the like.

The part played in the whole drama by Branch Rickey, headman of the Dodger organization is a vital one in the story as it was Hollywood, May 11 — (AP) — Hollywood's two interchangeable ex- William Holden and Glenn ...-are at it again.

For some time, the two stars have been mentioned for the same ... and it's always anybody's ... as which one will play it. Now ...re doing a complete switch. ...oc-bor Glenn is playing a ...

western role in "Beyond The Sunset," which was written for Bill.

And Bill is going to Columbia to play the reported in "Born Yesterday," the role Glenn was supposed to do. Ford bowed out of the role when he couldn't come to agreement with the studio.

"My contract called for top billing," he told me. "My role was a good one, but it would still be subordinate to the one played by Brod Crawford and Judy Holliday. It would have been silly for me to get top billing over them."

Nose and Throat

Jimmy Durante is kiddingly mad because Jose Ferrer is playing "Cyrano de Bergerac," the film story of the big-nosed lover. "How da ya like dat?" says the Schnoz. "I'm the only guy in pictures who could play the role w'dout a putty nose and dey overlooked me."

Jane Russell says she's happy to have Bob Mitchum as a leading man in "His Kind Of Woman." Says she: "At last I've got one who is bigger than I am. I'm always felt that I should be the one to rescue my leading man."

Comic Comments

Abbott and Costello will do another picture after "In The Foreign Legion" and then take their long delayed European jaunt.

Donald O'Connor says there may be another "Francis" picture, but count him out. When I reminded him Harry Parks said the same about a Jolson sequel he replied: "Yes but there was a wealth of material there. The first Jolson picture left you wanting more."

AT THE McCARTHY — Mickey Rooney plays one of the most exciting roles of his film career in the Harry Popkin, Sam Stiefel, Jack Dempsey thriller, "The Big Wheel," now playing at Odeon's McCarthy Theatre, through United Artists release.

AT THE BELLE — Jeanne Crain and her date, Bennie Bartlett seem quite thrilled with each other in a scene from "Cheaper by the Dozen," hilarious comedy of family life, in Technicolor. Clifton Webb plays the father of twelve children, and Myrna Loy the mother. The film is continuing today and Friday. Matinee daily.

AT THE CAPITOL — Two Gun Guy — Jill Rhiott prepared for action in this scene from the action-packed Republic picture, "The Savage Horde." Wendy Barry and Adrian Booth star in the film, which is at the Capitol Theatre today and Friday, same program, for added thrills, "Horse Sense Bridge," starring Audrey Long and Warren Douglas. Both hits are first showings.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

All four aces and all four kings do not necessarily produce a grand slam. Add a couple of queens and you may still be short. As you can see in this deal:

	NORTH
	♠A 5 4 2
	♥A 9 6
	♦A K 3
	♣A K 6
WEST		EAST
♠J 10 9 3		♠8
♥J 10 3		♥7 6 5 2
♦Q 5 2		♦J 10 9 6 4
♣Q 10 4		♣9 8 3
	SOUTH
	♠K Q 7 6
	♥K Q 8
	♦7 5
	♣J 7 5 2

The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 S	3 S
3 NT	5 NT
6 H	6 S

Five no-trump is convention signal by asking partner how many kings he holds. Six hearts is the reply, showing two kings. This tells north they have all the aces and kings between them.

North can count that south has two queens. How? Because an opening one bidder promises two sure tricks. With no aces, the two sure in south must be K Q combinations.

Although tempted to bid seven, north settled for a final bid of six spades. Fortunately, too. It so happens that only 12 tricks can be taken and even this is not without its problem.

Opening lead from west was the the trump jack. Declarer stopped to count the tricks he is likely to lose. One loser is in clubs, so it seems. Any other would have to be in trump.

So, south took the first trump round and led another trump. When east showed out on this second round, he is sure one trick will be lost in that suit. So, if possible, a club must be saved.

Another trump, three hearts, and two top diamonds were cashed. The third diamond was ruffed in south. North was in with a club to the king. The last trump was led and west had to take it. All he could return was a club and declarer took both last tricks.

When in a hole, get opponents to ruff you out.

NO ONE INJURED

Toronto, May 11—(CP)— Fire in the basement of the Royal Chesterfield and Furniture Company on downtown Richmond Street caused an estimated $8,000 damage Wednesday night. No one was injured in the blaze, of unknown origin.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

Little Benny's Note Book

This morning ma was eating a grapefruit diet with a thwarted expression, saying to pop, "William, I have a thousand and one things to do today, and I don't know how I'm going to find time to prepare a meel worthy of the name of dinner."

"My dear, you never prepared a meal in your life! that wasn't worthy of the name of bankwel, so, said, and ma said, 'Thanks for the compliment, I'm sure, but whatever else goes into a meel, a element of time is one of the least essentials. I'd suggest eating out, at some nice reasonable price."

"Nonsense," pop said. "Why let's not even mention it, she said.

Consider it not mentioned, my dear, pop said. Just toss a cupple of things together with your infallibel touch, and I'm sure it'll be a meel, he said, and ma said, Now William, if I took you at your word, and, started a meel by opening one can and ended it by opening another, you'd be the unhappiest man in the world.

How well you know me, pop said. The facts is, I'd be happy to take paper napkins at a nice reasonable resterant this evening, but I was counting on taking you to that movie you had your mind set on, he said, and ma said, Oh, you mean Minerva Marshall in Cry No More. Well then, we can eat some place near the theatre. So that really simplifies it, she said.

Minerva Marshall picture is to sleep through it, and in a resterant I never eat enough to make me feel sleepy, while I'm always deliciously drowsy after one of pop's meals, he said, and ma said, Oh, all rite, you always get your way, I'll fix a nice steake and hash brown potatoes the way you like them.

Sounding as if she felt better

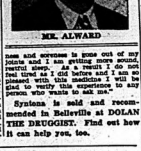
Planes Crossing Into U.S. Must Be Identified

Detroit, May 10 (AP)— All aircraft crossing the International border from Canada into the United States east of Lake Michigan risk interception by United States Air Force fighters, unless identification previously has been established.



The United States Civil Aeronautics Administration Wednesday sent this message over its teletype network and broadcast it to planes in flight:

"In the interest of safety, all airmen proposing flights which cross the Canadian border southbound, east of the 87th meridian (which runs through Lake Michigan), are encouraged to file flight plans, preferably instrument flight rules, with the appropriate aeronautical facility.

"Failure to file as outlined may result in in-flight identification by fighter aircraft. This notice does not relieve individual pilot of his responsibility with respect to customs and immigration re-

MR. ALWARD

"It is a real pleasure to tell you how much Syntona has done for me and I hope other sufferers will read this and benefit also," said Mr. Laurence Alward, St. Thames Street, Chatham, Ontario, in a recent report.

"My appetite was poor and whenever I ate anything my stomach would get so bloated I felt uncomfortable for hours. I suffered with heartburn, gassy cramps and sour acid risings. Often I would get dizzy spells and sick headaches. Sometimes was very bad at times. I couldn't get enough sleep at night and would get up tired and worn out. I couldn't eat breakfast. The poison went all through my system and I developed rheumatic pains and backache. My hands were stiff and sore.

"Since I've been taking Syntona the soreness has gone completely from my hands and I eat like a horse. My appetite is improved and I enjoy my meals once more. Gradually the dizziness, headaches and backache have gone away. The stiffness and soreness is gone out of my joints and I am getting more sound, restful sleep. As a result I do not get tired out as I did before and I am so pleased with this medicine I will be glad to verify this statement to any person who wants to ask me."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. Find out how it can help you, too.

LIBERAL CANDIDATE

Leon Crestohl, K.C., will carry the Liberal party standard in the June 19 Federal by-election in Montreal Cartier. Active in affairs of the Jewish community, the 50-year-old lawyer will run in a constituency where 40 per cent of the electors are of that faith. — (CP Photo.)

quirements.

"This notice does not apply to flight operations within the continental United States adjacent to this area or to northbound flights across the Canadian border."

The Detroit News said the warning is the first step toward setting up a United States Great Lakes aid defence zone, similar to those recently established in the northeast and northwest states.

In such zones all aircraft approaching the United States are picked up by radar and required to identify themselves at the risk of fighter interception.

RESIDENTS WANT ACTION

Toronto, May 11—(CP)—Board of control Wednesday heard a district appeal for action against starlings and controller Allan Lamport suggested a drive on pigeons at the same time. Mayor Hiram McCallum said pigeons had disappeared from police headquarters building on College Street and he suggested the police may have a secret weapon against them.

SUFFERS BROKEN BACK

Smiths Falls, May 11—(CP)—Maxwell Laroque, 17, of Smiths Falls, suffered a broken back and a fractured thumb Wednesday when he fell 18 feet to the bottom of a manhole. The youth was attempting to descend into a sewage disposal excavation when he slipped on the top rung of the ladder and fell to the rock bottom of the hole.

Trapped Man Dies After 27 Hours in Shaft

New York, May 11 — (AP) — A guy with a lot of courage — trapped like a rat in a mine shaft at the bottom of a well shaft — died in agony late Wednesday five minutes before rescuers finally reached him.

Well-digger Dominick Atteo was game to the end.

But burns, pain, exhaustion and the pressure of rocks and earth were more than his strong frame could stand.

Atteo, 49-year-old father of six children died five minutes before he was lifted out of his tomb 20 feet below a Brooklyn garage.

Only a few times during his agonizing imprisonment did he falter in faith, hope or courage.

A hospital intern and Roman Catholic priest administered to the body and soul through the long hours as rescue workers feverishly dug a trench to reach him.

Doctors said Atteo — crushed, injured and mangled — put up an almost superhuman show of courage.

Five hundred persons, many of them with rosaries, prayed outside during that fateful night.

Atteo's attractive, 32-year-old wife, Marie, became hysterical when the long vigil of prayers and tears ended in despair.

"I tried, I tried, I gotta do without him!" she cried. "He was the most wonderful man in the world, and so brave."

Might Have Been Blind

A friend told her that her husband might have been blind and crippled if he had lived.

"He couldn't have stood that," the widow said.

Dr. Harold Berson, 36, worn out by perilous trips down the well shaft to administer to the tortured victim, said: "I thought he was going to make it. His courage and endurance were beyond belief."

The doctor said Atteo apparently died of exhaustion and shock.

Atteo, a contractor, had been digging the well under the garage seeking water for washing automobiles. Use of city water for that purpose had been banned during the current shortage.

A one-in trapped him early Tuesday afternoon. And he was badly hurt. Later in a flare-up when a lighted cigaret lowered to him on a rope ignited with oxygen being pumped down the shaft.

Foreign-Trade Ledgers Splashed With Red Ink

Ottawa, May 11 — (CP) — Canadian's with a keen eye for goods labelled "British-made," went on a buying spree during March that architects Dominion's ever-all foreign-trade ledgers with red ink for the first time in almost a year.

Although spending $2,100,000 less for United States products than in the corresponding month last year, Canadians boosted imports from the United Kingdom to an all-time monthly high of $130,900,000. The net result, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday, was that Canada had a debit balance of trade with all countries of $3,700,000 in March—the first adverse balance since April, 1949.

There was one bright spot to the March debit balance picture. The $3,700,000 figure represented a sharp reduction from the $16,900,000 debit written into the ledgers in March, 1949.

Imports from all countries in the month under review were valued at $221,400,000 compared with $205,200,000 in the preceding month and $235,900,000 in the corresponding month a year ago.

OPPOSITION EXPRESSED

Welland, May 11—(CP)—Opposition to the principle of a flat rate for wholesale power to municipalities was expressed by the district 5 meeting of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association here Wednesday. The resolution submitted by Dr. Fred Barron of Paris and F. B. Cavers of St. Catharines counters a resolution passed by a small majority at the last annual meeting of the O.M.E.A. at Toronto.

Worry Of

FALSE TEETH

Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. FASTEETH is an alkaline (non-acid) dental powder of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

PLANT ADDITIONAL ACRES

Toronto, May 11—(CP)—York county's reforestation projects now cover 3,200 acres and an additional 100 acres will be planted this year, Reeve E. Logan of Whitchurch township reported to county council. Total expenditures have been $15,000 but the count now is valued at $100,000 with a potential value of $1,000,000 in years to come.

EXTENDS TEMPORARY ORDER

Toronto, May 11—(CP)— Mr. Justice R. L. Ferguson Wednesday agreed to an adjournment until May 25, extending to that date a temporary order restraining William E. Manlcom, Sarnia Labor leader, from inducing other firms to break contracts with the A-One Electric Co. of Sarnia. His Lordship was told there was a possibility of settlement.

Dress it up with

Barrett Brick-Type Sidings

You can give your home a smart, brick-like appearance with Barrett Sidings. They're good-looking, sturdy and weatherproof. They provide insulation and fire-resistance. Yes, they'll give your home a stylish new outlook on life — at far, far less cost than a real brick. In some cases, you'll pay not much more than you would for a good paint job!

TAKE YOUR CHOICE OF STYLES

INSULATED BRICK-TYPE SIDING—Mounted on ½-inch insulation board. Surfacing bricks, in a strikingly natural blend of buff, red and burned brick called "Varitone", are firmly embedded in asphalt. Here's a real brick and mortar effect plus high insulation value.

ROLL BRICK-TYPE SIDING—Brick siding in low-cost, low effective, roll form. Buff or Brick Red.

Give your home a new lease on life. Instead of painting, park up his appearance with BARRETT Brick-Type Sidings.

Your Barrett dealer sells Protection Plus

He stocks a complete line of roofing, insulation and weatherproofing materials. He's got what it takes to stop almost any weather. Whether your problem is leakage, scrape, rust or rot—see your Barrett dealer first!

Exhibit Replicas Of Crown Jewels

London London, May 11 (Reuters) —Visitors to Toronto's International Trade Fair which opens May 30 will see replicas of the King's Crown jewels on which a British antique dealer has worked for 15 years. Charles Eleton has spent years studying the priceless originals, which are kept closely guarded in the Tower of London. He has searched for and found stones of the exact size, shape, weight and color of the originals, though not all the duplicate stones are precious.

'SITUATION WELL IN HAND' SAYS ARMY HEAD

Labor Govt. Wins Another Challenge By 131-93 Vote

Conservatives Have Had Eleven Motions Defeated

SENATE DEFEATS MOVE TO REMOVE MARGARINE TAX

Ottawa, May 12 (CP)—A move to eliminate the eight-per-cent sales tax on margarine was defeated Thursday in the Senate.

The Upper Chamber, in its first formal division of the session, voted 38 to 14 to end a protracted and sometimes heated debate on a motion sponsored by Senator W. D. Euler (L—Ontario), veteran, long, business man.

The farm element, which loomed as a major threat throughout the week-long debate over the three-cents-a-pound margarine tax, combined, almost to a man, to defeat the campaign waged by the man who had crusaded for the manufacture and sale of margarine more than two years ago.

As the Senate debate on margarine reached its climax, an echo of it was heard in the commons where James Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, said that margarine was considered in the class of foods on which the sales tax should remain.

The final vote of the Senate debate produced these points:

1. A statement by Senator Salter Hayden (L—Ontario), Toronto lawyer and business man, saying he had evidence to deny the allegation that margarine harmed eyesight.

Compulsory Pasteurization

2. A call by Senator J. H. Lacasse (L—Ontario), to other provinces to follow the lead of Ontario and introduce compulsory pasteurization of milk. A doctor, he said his experience was that mortality rate in Canada fluctuated in accordance with the quality of milk.

3. A prediction by Senator John C. Haig, Progressive Conservative Leader, that the continued competition of margarine eventually will create a scarcity of fluid milk in Canada.

Senator Haig often referred to a statement made by Senator J. W. de B. Farris (C—British Columbia) quoting a United States scientist to the effect that the exhalative use of margarine affected the eyesight in second and third generations.

He had proof he said, backed up by the Health Department and the Canadian Medical Association, that this was not so. The factor involved was not found in the margarine sold in Canada was fortified with that vitamin.

Senator Haig said there were indications that 100,000,000 pounds of margarine would be produced this year. The butter industry could not stand that kind of competition. Margarine would put butter "out of business". The first thing Canada knew it would have a "dearth of fluid milk".

MARK 12th ANNIVERSARY OF CORNATION OF THE KING

London, May 12—Britain today served today the 13th anniversary of the coronation of King George VI. A 83-gun salute was fired from the Tower of London in commemoration of the occasion.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS:

Toronto, May 12 (CP)—Synopsis: Showers fell far below freezing in Northern Ontario last night as another succession of air-mass pushed southward from Hudson Bay. This cold air will reach the lower lakes tonight.

Meanwhile the weather over southern regions will be sunny and warm.

A disturbance over the Red River Valley is moving towards Southern Ontario and will bring need cloudy weather and some rain to most of Ontario Saturday.

London, May 12. (Reuters)—The government today fought off unexpected Conservative challenge in the House of Commons, defeated a motion deploring State trading by a vote of 131 to 93.

Last night, the government defeated a Conservative motion amounting to condemnation of the government's Scottish Housing Policy. The vote was 280 to 257.

Today's motion was the 11th the Conservatives have made in an attempt to challenge the Labor government's existence. It was the third challenge of the week to what is regarded as an opposition campaign to keep Labor's slim majority in the Commons off balance.

Today's action was not in the name of the official opposition, but in that of a Conservative private member. In these circumstances ,there was no question of the government's resignation even if it had been defeated.

Rainy River Valley District Bracing Itself

Fort Frances, May 12 — (CP) — The Rainy River valley district of northwestern Ontario Thursday night braced itself for what may be its worst floods since 1916.

Dikes were being thrown up around low-lying buildings, and farmers were told to protect their livestock and vital industrial supplies and buildings.

At Fort Frances, 200 miles southeast of Winnipeg on the Manitoba border, water was the highest in years. Heavy precipitation, which was two feet of snow in Ontario and introduce compulsory pasteurization of milk. A doctor, he said his experience was that mortality rate in Canada fluctuated in accordance with the quality of milk.

AIR TRANSPORT POLICY UNDER FIRE IN HOUSE

Drew Charges Govt. Has Stifled Expansion

Ottawa, May 12. (CP)—Canada's Air Transport policy came under Commons opposition fire Thursday night with George Drew charging that the government has "stifled" the expansion of civil aviation in this country.

The Progressive Conservative leader made the charge, denied by Transport Minister Chevrier, as the number debated, and gave approval in principle to, a government measure to streamline federal air transport regulations.

Several other opposition members joined the attack on the government's air transport policy and the difficulties which Mr. Drew said resulted from the fact the Trans-Canada Air Lines was under the wing of Trade Minister Howe and not Mr. Chevrier, where it belonged.

Howard Green, (PC—Vancouver-Quadra) charged that Mr. Howe was a dictator.

Earlier, the House quickly approved the first budgetary bill of the session, the 1950 amendments to sales tax relaxation proposed in the budget.

It also heard an appeal from J. H. Harris (PC—Toronto Danforth) that the government protect Canadian dairymen from margarine competition.

Barely Above Quorum

James Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, indicated there was no intention of changing the sales tax from the butter substitute.

The Air Transport debate in the Commons was aired before a Chamber which at times contained no more than 20 or 30 members—barely above the quorum of 20 members required to continue house business.

Mr. Drew said part of the cause of the trouble was that not enough ells civil aviation as it should e. Canada had no country to watch ada's national airline, T.C.A., was under Mr. Howe, while the Aeronautics Act, as it stood, made T.C.A.'s mother company, the Canadian National Railways, subject under Mr. Chevrier.

He speculated that air transport in Canada had been developed through initiative. There were people in Canada who wanted to extend private air transport services, especially the feeder-line field, but were being hampered by government policy.

Transport Minister Chevrier, Drew was not correct. Canada had developed her civil aviation tremendously since 1945 and now had 200 privately-owned air routes operating across the country.

U.S. Congressman Against Sharing A-Bomb With North Atlantic Allies

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Talk of the United States sharing the atomic bomb with its North Atlantic Allies brought this hot reaction from Congress; not a chance!

Among the Congressmen who would have to pass a law permitting such a move, there was consternation at the mere knowledge that the subject has been discussed by U.S. military officials in a preliminary way, even without approaching decisions or recommendations.

Senators and House of Representatives—Democrats and Republicans, cried out against letting any A-bombs get out of U.S. hands.

The lone voice in support of the idea came from Senator Brien Vinson (Dem. Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee—to be put in an "if". Vinson said:

"Our Allies should have all equipment necessary to be in a position to undertake a worthwhile defence against any aggressor. If it is necessary for them to have the A-bomb, they should have it."

Key members of the Congressional Atomic, Foreign Affairs and Armed Services Committee in this interviews that they are against arming cold-war partners with atomic weapons.

Typical was the comment of the military experts in the Pentagon, U.S. Defence Headquarters, are against it, on grounds A-bombe would be safer in American hands than in those of any information leaks or for U.S. Atomic secrets to fall into Russia's grasp.

If the idea were to stockpile Atom bombs at American bases in Allied countries, under shadowy Allied control, Congressmen evidently would be little more backing in Congress.

Senator Connally (Dem. Tex.), said that "I'd want to be mighty darned sure we got our bombs."

Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.), a member of the Armed Services Committee, remarked that if the U.S. gave Atomic bombs to her Allies, Russia probably would have to distribute some among her satellites.

"The Bulgarians might drop one on the Yugoslavs," he conjectured.

Western Powers Debate Easing Some Occupation Controls on W. Germany

London, May 12 — (AP)—The on the proposal is expected at this meeting.

Paul Three Days

The trio — Foreign Secretary Bevin, Foreign Minister Schuman and State Secretary Acheson Thursday discussed the war in Korea, Malaya, and other possible trouble spots. The conference will last three days.

But in a communique after their first meeting, they emphasized that the building up of western defences was the prime objective of the Big Three Conference.

An informed source said discussions were centring about relatively long - term projects requiring planning, now.

Would be of Value'

Most western diplomats agreed that a firm bond tying Germany to the anti-communist front would be of immense value. The United States plainly wants that development, though Acheson came to London with no concrete idea of how it could be achieved.

But French plans, which eventually might put all Western Europe's natural resources under international authority, have been not discussed Thursday by the Big Three ministers. For this, the British government still was talking about it.

Bevin was called away from the Big Three conference to attend the Labor Party conference while the plan was considered. Prime Minister Attlee told the House of Commons the French proposal would receive sympathetic consideration, but all indications were that Britain would not commit herself for some time.

Outstanding Civic Show Says Brig. Walsh After Reviewing B.C.I. Cadets at Inspection

"This is the most outstanding, civic show I have ever seen and I want to express to the people of Belleville my thanks and the City of Belleville, my sincere appreciation of their support."

That was the high tribute paid to the annual inspection of the Belleville Collegiate Institute cadet corps this morning by Brigadier Walsh, D.S.O., of Ottawa, who took the salute at the reviewing stand as the marching contingents of the corps were followed by in precision-like manoeuvres. In a brief address to the assembled corps, following the inspection, Brigadier Walsh paid particular tribute to the corps as a whole and to individual units. He was particularly impressed with the marching, and especially the work of the school's band. He asked that a letter be forwarded for we must learn to obey others before we can learn to lead and it generates the spirit of service which our country needs urgently in these days of unrest.

Many in Attendance

Brigadier Walsh was accompanied by Captain E. Thirgood, area cadet officer, Lieut.-Col. Ross Porritt, B.C.I. commanding officer, Lieut. Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Mayor Jack Allin; chairman of the Board of Education, Enos David; Board members, Fred Symons, Wallace Bell, Lieut.-Col. E. A. Gaetz and Principal George S. Currie, during the morning past and inspection.

He selected the outstanding cadet from each company after a careful inspection. They are Roy Taylor, A Company; Ron Cook, B Company; Kent Lewis, C Company; Ernest Reid, D Company and David Cadet Major Warren.

"A" Company of the boys' ca-det corps under the command of Cadet Major Taylor, Milligan was adjudged the best on parade and "A" Company, under the command of Cadette Major Rae Johnson was given first award in the inter-corps Trophies and prizes were presented following the inspection.

The school campus was ringed two and three deep by interested spectators when, at exactly ten o'clock when the cadet corps, numbering approximately 400 strong marched on to the parade ground to the martial rhythms of the school band under the baton of Bandmaster Ross Tuttle.

Under the command of Cadet Corps Commander Lieut.-Col. Roy McMillan, the trim khaki-clad cadets, rifles at the slope marched to their positions in the corps formation. They formed up with Cadet Senior Captain shortly after the arrival of the reviewing officer, Colors of the battalion swung in the light breeze and a brilliant sun shone down on the colorful scene.

Earn Applause

Followed the inspection of the corps by Brigadier Walsh as he stood in a near-perfect demonstration of marching the corps swung by the reviewing stand to the column of platoons where Brigadier Walsh took the salute. Another evidence of fine training was the fine marching and the absence of ripples of applause rose from the large crowd.

One of the most colorful features of the inspection was the presence of the pipers contingent of the girls' corps. Nattily apparelled in white blouses, blue skirts, white aprons and blue "wedge" caps, the corps, 250 strong equalled, the fine marching display given by their boy counterparts.

GASOLINE SPILLS IN RIVER

Winnipeg, May 12 — (CP) — R.C.M.P. reported Thursday night that British American Oil Company tanks at Emerson, Man., had broken, spilling 10,000 gallons of oil and gasoline into flood waters surrounding the plant. Citizens of the flood town, 60 miles south of here, were warned to be careful with matches or open lights near the river.

TASMANIAN LABOR GOVT. RAN INTO TROUBLE

Hobart, Tasmania, May 12 — (Reuters) — Tasmania's Labor government held all seats and edged back into power with a margin of one in final results of last week's general elections released today.

It has held office for 16 years. Her distribution in the 30-seat House is:

TWO CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH IN WINDSOR

Nine Children Six Adults Escape

Windsor, May 12 —. (CP) — Two children were burned to death early today when trapped in a flaming basement apartment. Nine children and six adults escaped.

The dead were Ronald Diamond, 6, and his brother, William, 12.

Three other members of the Diamond family — Mr. and Mrs. David Diamond and Harriett, Ronald's twin sister — escaped from the apartment but sufferred severe burns.

The Diamond's fourth child, 16-year-old Shirley, spent the night with an aunt.

Hospital officials today described the girl's condition as "fair."

On the first floor, Mrs. Henry Dorion was awakened by flames at her window. She got her five children, aged 3 to 11, to safety. Shortly after 3 a. m. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bondy, second-floor residents, carried their three young children to safety.

A fire gutted the cramped, low-ceilinged basement apartment where the Diamond family lived. The rest of the house was not heavily damaged.

The three small rooms in which the Diamond family has lived for about a year were closed off with a wall board from the rest of the basement.

The bedroom in which the family slept measured about eight by 10 feet. Heavy screens were on some of the windows.

Mr. Diamond has been unemployed for some time, and the family has received city welfare allowances.

English Farmer Emigrates Second Time to Canada

Halifax, May 12—(CP)—Fred Field, a farmer from Birkham Oaks, England, is giving Canada a second try.

One of 500 who stepped off the liner Georgic here Thursday morning, Fred has been an immigrant before.

In 1923 Fred and his wife came out to Beamsville, Ont., and were there until 1931. Then a little farm until "the wife got homesick". So home they went to the little community near Reading in 1931.

This time they are bound for a farm near Lyndon, Alta. With three married daughters living in Ontario, Fred declared "this time, I'll stay."

YEARS GLUT OF STEEL IN EUROPE

London, May 12 — (AP) —A British steelmaker said today Europe is threatened with a "glut" of steel within three years, if it doesn't watch its production a year that cannot be used.

Sir John Craig, chairman of Barclays Bank, Limited, made this prediction in the review of the bank's intelligence department. He also is chairman of Colvilles, steel and iron manufacturers.

Flood Levels Have Remained Same For 14 Hours

Non-Essential Traffic Stopped After Six P.M.

Winnipeg, May 12 — (CP) — Brig. R. E. A. Morton, commander of flood relief in the Red River Valley, said today the situation in the stricken twin cities of Winnipeg and St. Boniface seems well in hand "though we cannot think its seriousness is over."

The need for women, children and the aged to leave the flood zone still exists, he said — "even greater than yesterday."

Existing dikes must be maintained to prevent spread of flood waters which, it has been estimated unofficially, cover an area at least one-eighth of the metropolitan area. New dikes must not be built.

Meantime, Alderman C. E. Simpson, chairman of the civic executive committee of the city's emergency flood committee that cost of the flood disaster might run into the millions.

Chief Constable Charles MacIver said police will try to stop all non-essential traffic in Winnipeg after 6 p.m. daily to facilitate the urgent movement of dike workers and supplies.

Showers Have no Effect

Brig. Morton, speaking to newspaper men at his daily press conference, said the Winnipeg level of the Red and its tributaries may "vary for some time" because of the length of the watershed, the extent of flooding in southern Manitoba and amount of rainfall.

Showers this morning, he said, "should not appreciably" affect the flood situation. The rain stopped by noon.

For the 14 hours ending at noon today, the official flood reading had remained almost constant. The level at 10 p.m. Thursday night was 29.7 feet; at noon he was 29.8.

Early today one of Brig. Morton's deputies announced that flood-control headquarters that the level had not changed for six hours.

Brig. J. W. Brice said, however, that reports from flood-control engineers gave "no proof that the peak level has been reached."

Still in Danger

He expressed hope that "those citizens who are planning to evacuate" the flood-stricken cities of Winnipeg and nearby St. Boniface "will proceed immediately with their plans."

"We are still in danger," his statement said.

The statement, in indirect quotations of the Brigadier's words, said the Brigadier "was quick to assert . . . that there was no indication that the crest of the flood had passed through Winnipeg as yesterday's flood bulletin would radio announcement."

There is a reference to a report distributed early today, on the basis of apparently reliable information from flood headquarters in the legislature buildings, that the crest had passed through the two cities. The Canadian Press report did not state the crest of the flood had "passed through" Winnipeg.

City also stated that even if the river rise halted, there still was risk of serious further damage by seepage through pervious dikes, collapse of soggy dikes, and possible failure of power and water supplies.

900 Flood Refugees Have Arrived In Toronto in Past Three Days

Toronto, May 12. (CP)—The staff of Toronto government today reduced to four the number of planes ferrying relief supplies to flood-stricken Winnipeg. Seven planes made the flight Thursday.

Today's planes carried pumps, mobile telephone equipment, and other supplies requested by Manitoba officials. The Ontario government was advised that for the present Winnipeg does not need any more sandbags or rubber boots.

During the last three days, some 900 flood refugees, mostly children, have arrived in Toronto from Winnipeg to Toronto and an estimated 300 more have come by rail.

Among the refugees arriving here today were Sandra Niven, 7, and her sister, Karin, 3, separated from their parents for the first time. They will live with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Niven, of Peterborough, until the flood waters recede.

Karin and one of the air trip from Winnipeg: "We weren't scared a bit."

Youngest of the evacuees are the 12-day-old twin children of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Michie. Mrs. Michie is an air line employee. Mrs. Michie left a Winnipeg hospital bed to board the plane for Toronto.

Farmers Plan To Grow Less Wheat This Year

Ottawa, May 12. (CP)—Canadian farmers have declared their intentions of growing a little less wheat this year than a year ago and a little more coarse grain.

In a summary of 1950 planned acreages, the Bureau of Statistics reported today that farmers intend to plant 27,323,400 acres to wheat, about 300,000 acres less than the post-war record of 27,623,700 last year.

The Canadian oat acreage is expected to amount to 13,041,800, about 700,000 acres more than the 11,388,900 last year; barley acreage is expected to go up from 6,016,700 to 6,918,100 and rye seed from 321,100 to 497,000.

Rye plantings are expected to be a little lower than last year—1,177,900 against 1,190,600.

The intended wheat acreage includes 26,342,000 acres of Spring wheat grown mainly on Prairie soil and 860,000 of Winter wheat, grown mainly in Ontario. The Prairie estimate is down 400,000 acres from 26,735,700 last year, and the Ontario estimate up 100,000 acres from 805,000.

The Bureau reported that seeding is exceptionally late this year with Prairie seeding of April 30 amounting to only four per cent, compared with 40 per cent last year. In oats and barley only one per cent of the seeding has been done, compared with 16 per cent in 1949.

Floods in Manitoba, said the Bureau, are also playing into the acreage estimate. It anticipated a bigger shift towards Summer fallow in the Red River Valley if the floods persist too long.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION HOLDS DINNER MEETING

Last Friday evening the Belleville and district branch of Queen's University Alumni Association held their spring dinner at the Rickarton Castle Hotel in Picton.

Sixty-six Queen's alumni and alumnae, husbands and wives attended the dinner from Prince Edward and Hastings counties. Guests included Professor D. M. Jemmett, head of the electrical engineering department at Queen's, Mrs. Jemmett, and Mr. H. J. Hamlin, secretary-treasurer of the General Alumni Association.

Professor Jemmett, as chairman of the athletic board of control, gave an interesting talk on the sports picture at Queen's, and renewed fond memories for many of the older graduates present, set out changes that have taken place through the years. During the next few years the landscape at Queen's will change still more, with likely alterations to the stadium, and an extension to Ban Righ Hall.

A total of 46 cases were listed for hearing in the city magistrate's court today before Magistrate T. Y. Wills, the majority of cases being traffic offences and were settled out of court.

Twelve parking tickets paid $3.50 each for failure to take cognizance of traffic tickets left on their vehicles. Another four charged with the same offence had their cases settled by personal service of summons.

Two motorists were charged with speeding on city streets, one being tried in absentia. He was found guilty and assessed a fine of $5 and $9 costs.

Five cases involving theft, fraud, and passing of bad cheques were laid over until next week, while two local men Walter Asselstine, St. Paul Street and Joe Large were assessed $13 each fine and costs for having pickerel out of season.

Stewart-Warner Exemplifies Degree At Masonic Lodge

At the regular meeting of Eureka Lodge No. 282, A.F. & A.M., held on Wednesday night, a special degree team from Stewart-Warner Alemite Corporation, under the capable direction of Wor. Bro. S. H. Lennox, exemplified the initiatory degree upon one of their fellow-workers.

The degree team was composed of the following. Wor. Bros. S. H. Lennox; P. W. Dewberry; H. J. Allin and R. M. Thompson; Bros. Harold Bonter, Martin LaRue, Ernest Smith, S. D. Hagerman, C.P. West, Charles Keeble, R. A. Lennox, Fred Newman, W. T. Page, Leslie Bird, James Tebworth, Walter Batchelor and Walter Gill.

At the banquet table, Bro. Harry Callam, of the Department of Trade and Industry for the province of Ontario was guest speaker. He was introduced by Wor. Bro. H. J. Allin, Mayor of the city. The speaker outlined the work of his department, being a branch of the Department of Planning and Development.

The efforts of his branch are chiefly connected with working closely with Chambers of Commerce of the municipalities, in an endeavor to have an orderly expansion of industrial enterprise and to accompany this expansion with planned residential housing accommodation. Through his department enquiries of interested industries desirous of locating in Ontario are handled, and they recommend various locations best suited to the particular requirements of the industry involved.

Wor. Bro. S. H. Lennox moved a very hearty vote of thanks to the speaker for his interesting and informative address. Visiting brethren were cordially welcomed by Wor. Bro. E. C. Wood, Bro. L. Eagle favored with some fine piano solos. Bro. Stan Hagerman proposed the toast to the newly-initiated candidate and Bro. V. J. White responded with a few well-chosen remarks, rounding out a "night to remember" by all those present.

Mayor H.J. Allin To Turn Sod At Pool Site

First sod in the construction of the Community Swimming Pool to be built by the Kinsmen Club of Belleville will be turned Saturday afternoon at a special sod turning ceremony at which civic officials, service club representatives and members of parliament will be present, Mayor H. Jack Allin will officially turn the first sod of the sod turning ceremony to commence at three o'clock.

Site of the proposed Community Swimming Pool is on Dundas Street, East, on the former city tourist park, which has been turned over to the club for construction of the pool.

The location of the proposed pool is as central as was possible for the Club to secure, being one and two fifths miles from Cathcart Street at Demaine, the same distance from Bleecker at Station and College at Gette, and also from the old brickyard on the east.

The Kinsmen Boys' Band will be in attendance at the sod turning ceremonies, while the program will be broadcast over station CJBQ. The general public is cordially invited to attend the ceremonies.

Sidney School Area Pupils Plant Trees

On Thursday afternoon at Bayside, pupils from four Sidney schools planted 2,000 red cedars and Hogle's planted over 2,000 white, red and Scotch pines. This is a continuation of the reforestation project begun last year by the Sidney School Area Board. Bayside and Quinteview schools planted 1,000 red and white pines on the island last year, the four new schools were divided into five with a shovel and a pail of trees.

Mr. W. E. Edwards, zone forester and his assistant were in charge of the planting and showed the pupils the correct procedure in planting. The work was simplified by having furrows ploughed beforehand. A strong west wind made the planting a little difficult, but the most cases planted in good time. Mr. R. H. Mackie, P.U.C. and board members, J. W. Sargent and J. R. Harry were present to help with the planting. It is hoped eventually to have all the schools plant a plot at this location.

South Hastings Educ. Assoc. Will Hold Musical

The South Hastings Educational Association held its spring meeting in the Belleville Collegiate auditorium, on Monday, and will take the form of a musical program under the auspices of the pupils of the South Hastings Inspectorate.

Pupils from Sidney, Thurlow, Tyendinaga, Trenton, Frankford, and the RCAF Brealder school will take part."

Mr. G. Roy Fenwick, director of music in the Department of Education, will be the guest speaker, and comment on the musical numbers given. Many of the children of the Inspectorate have heard his school broadcasts and will be looking forward to seeing and hearing him in person.

Madoc, May 12 —(Special)— George McCoy Love died on Thursday at his home near Madoc after an illness of six months' duration.

Born in Madoc township the late Mr. Love was in his 74th year and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Love. He was a farmer and all his life was passed in the district where he was born. In religion he was a member of St. Peter's Anglican Church at Queensboro and served faithfully as a Warden of the parish for many years. Fraternally he was a member of the Loyal Orange Lodge No. 437, Queensboro, and also of theRoyal Black Preceptory No. 164.

Surviving him are two sons, Harry Love of Madoc township and Allan Love of Belleville; one daughter, Mrs. Philo (Lydia) Hafer, Madoc township, seven grandchildren and four great grandchildren. His wife the former Margaret Coulter died in 1945.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

OUTSTANDING

Under the command of Corps Commander Lieut.-Col. Joan Allen, the staff of cadettes drew sounds of applause as they swung along the campus in column of route formation past the reviewing stand.

Physical Training Displays

After the march-pasts, the entire battalion was put through a fine, gave a finished demonstration of physical training. More colorful and more spectacular, were the displays given by the girls. Clad in white shorts and white blouses, cadettes in two demonstrations evoked continuous applause as they went through the different manoeuvres with symmetrical grace. It was one of the features of the inspection.

The fine school band came in for its share of appreciative applause as it marched up and down the campus, with its hundred-weight lorrie, a 6-pounder anti-tank gun and a three-inch mortar. Later they gave demonstrations of how the mechanical transport, signals, knots, map-reading, First Aid, rifle and Bren gun training.

Watching on the sidelines with justifiable pride were members of the Administration and Training staff of the army who with Lieut. Angus Duffy, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, chief instructor, were responsible for the training of the two corps. These included Captains Art Storms, W. Cloutier and D. Kirkpatrick. From the Hasty Pees instructional staff were Captains Powers and Sergeants M. Rashotte, C. Sweetman and Lewis Duff in charge of the A. and T. Staff was Captain L. Hyslop.

After the inspection, Brigadier Walsh and party with cadet officers who have qualified for their commissions were guests at luncheon held at Golden Arms.

Officer personnel of the corps of Cadet Corps: Lt. Col. Roy McMillan, commanding officer; Major John McBride, second in command; adjutant, Major Fred Waite; quartermaster, Major Bill Scrymgeour; regimental sergeant major, Ken Moore. "A" Company, Major Bruce Milligan, commander; Capt. Tom Allison, second in command; Lieuts. John Hinchey, Bill Lazenby, Tom Lewis, platoon commanders.

"B" Company— Major John Dafoe, commander; Captain Paul Kourt; platoon commanders Lieut. John Barry, Frank Allin, Jay Howard.

"C" Company—Major John Smale, commander; Capt. Doug. Soule, second in command; platoon commanders, Lieuts. David Laurence, Don Dolan, Ron Maxwell.

"D" Company: Major Don Joss commander; Capt. Bill Clarke, second in command; platoon commanders, Lieuts. Howard Anderson, Murray Lennox, Bill Muirhead.

Girls' Corps

Lieut. Col. Joan Allen, commanding officer; Major Marnie Selden, second in command; Adjt. Jer Helen Buchanan, adjutant; regimental sergeant major, Jean Tilker; company sergeant-major, 'A' company, Major Rae Johnson; 'B' Company, Major Betty Seldon, 'C' Company, June Scriven.

A company of cadets from the RCSC Quinte Sea Cadet Corps did a fine service in helping police the grounds. They also took part in the general parade that started off the inspection proper.

Parade through the business section concluded the inspection.

POLICE BLOTTER

A comparatively quiet time was enjoyed by the local police department during the past 24 hours with little but routine matters being brought to the attention of officers.

A Victoria Ave. housewife complained that a number of articles of clothing had been stolen from her clothesline in the back yard, while another resident reported that two boys had been observed throwing lighted firecrackers into windows as they passed up Catharine Street.

Police obtained the names of the lads throwing the firecrackers and the matter has been brought to the attention of their parents.

Major Bowling League Concludes Season With Presentation of Awards

Trenton, Special—One of the most successful banquet meetings in the history of the Trenton Major Bowling League took place Thursday evening at the Queensway Hotel here. The dining room of the hotel filled to capacity with members of teams who had competed in a vigorous season's activities.

Presiding was Charles Allore, retiring head of the league. He was re-nominated for next year but declined to stand.

Head table guests included Mr. Allore, Johnny Acquino, Bill Boys, Vic Odie, Frank Amodeo, Group-Captain S. Greene, Commanding Officer of R.C.A.F. Repair Depot, Flight Lieutenant R. Wilson, Ted Parker, immediate past president Ernie Hicks and Horace Carswell.

In a brief review Mr. Allore recalled the names of some of the early bowlers in the Quinte district town when the first competition", he said.

Mr. Allore took occasion to pay tribute to members of the Trenton Recreation Commission. He also referred appreciatively to Bert Bingham of the local branch of the Royal Bank for his hard work in successfully putting the league across.

Successful Season

Stating that the season had been successful in every respect Mr. Allore called on Treasurer Frank Amodeo to read the treasurer's report. Mr. Amodeo stated that the league was in a financially sound condition. Bowling fees had amounted to $1,000.53, he reported, and after all expenses have been paid there will be a balance on hand of $199.13.

The team captained by "Gig" Giguerre, and including Louis Lamorre, A. Oconnor, Frank Amodeo, Harry Carr, Bob Bland, Ed Moore and Garrett Bowden won the Lafferty Transport Trophy. They also won $90 first prize money, bringing their total financial winnings to $127.75. In addition, Guay's Bowling Alleys presented them with individual cups.

The Russ Lawson-Mickey Wall team won $60 in prize money and $33.75 in point money. Other members of the team were Jack Coutts, Red Greenough, Jack Chatland, Wilf Tyler, Harry Ayrew. The Allore team, including two Allore brothers, Vic Allor and Howard Aziz took third prize money totalling $69.23.

Second Division Winners

Jimmy Wallace, captain of the team which headed the second division was handed a cheque for $61.75 to be split among the members. This team included Jimmy Wallace, Stan Joel, Mike Kowalnak, Al Scobbie, Ross Fairley, Mac Watson, Gibb Clegg and Robert Lampre.

The Trent Shoes team, captained by Ken Peacock took the second prize money amounting to $53.25. His teammates were Johnny Acquino, Jerry Novak, Fred Bedore, Clair Wallace, Tom Tilly and Aleck Muskeluki.

The two Hylear brothers, Eric and Len, were members of the third prize winners who divided $40.50—Captained by Bob Baker the group were known as the "Donuts". Other members were Letty Reid, Neil Ramsay and another pair of brothers Bob and Lou Carswell.

Prize money totalling $22.80 was won by Will Noonan and his "Bowlmakers", his bowlers were Walter Douche, J. Hanna, and Earl Jones. They were tied with Brice Rankin's Frankford entry and took the cash on an all or nothing basis.

Brown's Drugs team, captained by Cec Taylor won first point money, totalling $33.50. They were closely followed by Horace Ormshaw's Screwballs with $33.25. Bud Anger's Trent Theatre aggregation netted $32.25 as While Horace Ormshaw's Queensway Hotel entry split 23.75. Leroy Harrison's Trent Dyers entry won $20.75 as did Bob Osgoode's Wildcats. Bell's Billiards and Ewart Guay's entries each got $17.55. The Bata Shoe team, captained by Ken McLaren, took $12.75.

The high average winner from among the 128 bowlers participating was Horace Ormshaw. He had an average of 245 for the entire season. He also had the highest single score of 405. An enthusiastic bowler he had a high average in four separate leagues during the season. Runners up were Frank Ormshaw with 243 and Cec Tyler with 241.

Entertainment for the evening was supplied by the Calvert Hill Billy quartet from Campbellford. Their antics were greatly appreciated by the large crowd present.

In closing the meeting Mr. Allore said he felt there would be general agreement that it was the most successful in the history of the league. It was a fitting climax to a good season he added, and the enthusiasm and large attendance indicated that an equally successful league could be expected next season.

Air Officer Urges Support Of Recreation

Trenton (Special) — "We of the Air Force are proud to consider ourselves as citizens of the Trenton area and to play our full part in the life of the community in all its phases", Group Captain Stan Greene, Commanding Officer of the Repair Depot here stated Wednesday night. He was addressing the concluding dinner of the current season of the Trenton Major Bowling League.

"We want to do all in our power to make the children in this locality the healthy physical specimens they should be", he added. "We can loan our facilities and we will always be glad to do so. Just ask us."

The Group Captain made a strong appeal to his audience to get behind the local recreation committee and give it every possible support.

"Recreation is an important aspect of life in any community", he said, "and the measure of its success is the amount of general support and participation on the part of citizens generally." Therefore I urge you all, as sportsmen, to do all in your power, to make the activities of the local committee as successful as possible and to induce the widest possible degree of participation. In doing so you will be helping yourselves as well as building up the community and the country."

Group Capt. Greene C.O. of 6 R.D. To Retire Soon

Trenton — (Special) — Local sportsmen learned with regret on Wednesday night that Group Captain Stan Greene, popular Commanding Officer of the Repair Depot here is soon to be retired. He broke the "bad news" himself in addressing the annual presentation banquet of the Major Bowling League.

Group Captain Greene is completing 25 years of Air Force service. "I have enjoyed my active service in the air force and my stay in Trenton," he said. "I am going to find it difficult to sever associations that have meant a great deal to me for so long and to retire." He assured his audience, however, that although retired, he would still retain his interest in the Air Force and in Trenton and would have happy memories of many pleasant associations here.

Legion Branch Undergoes Extensive Alterations, Active Season Planned

Trenton (Special) — A complete renovation job on the premises of Branch 110 of the Canadian Legion here is under way at the present time. When it is finished the local branch will be one of the most modern and well-equipped in the province.

"We are completely renovating and modernizing our premises," president Alan Vandervaart told us today. The lounge is being entirely redecorated and new comfortable furniture is being purchased. In addition a new heating system is being installed.

A series of Thursday night dances is being started and the proceeds will be used toward completing the improvements. The work will be lower than might be expected due to the fact that much of the labor and materials required is being donated. "We are grateful to the good citizens who are helping us in this laudable manner," Mr. Vandervaart states.

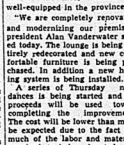
Darts and cribbage tournaments are now in progress. In addition plans are being made for a lawn bowling league to be held during the summer months and the branch will have an entry in the town league.

"We have completed an active and successful season," Mr. Vandervaart states, "and with these improvements completed we will be in a position to do even more next year.

The club premises are used socially each evening except Thursday. That night they are made available to the Sea Cadets.

With the improved facilities in prospect the branch is embarking on a vigorous membership campaign. "There are a great number of veterans in this area who are not members of the Legion" Mr. Vandervaart states. "We feel that they should be and with our new and more adequate facilities we should be able to induce many of them to join. In that way they can strengthen the hand of the legion and at the same time enjoy the social comradeship of those withwhom they served on the active service."

Bowlers Elect Five Directors



Trenton (Special) —Members of the Trenton Bowling League, at their annual dinner meeting at the Queensway Hotel Wednesday evening, selected a five-man board of directors. They will choose a president and a vice-president from among themselves.

This is a departure from the previous practice of electing the officers and executive members separately. It was adopted on the recommendation of president Charles Allore and members of the outgoing executive

A resolution moved by Charles Stals and seconded by Howard Aziz that the executive be increased from five to seven members was declared lost. It was felt that it would not be wise to make the executive body too numerous.

Ken Peacock was named returning officer for the election. Those nominated included Gig Giguerre, Barney Bowden, Horace Ormshaw, Ken Peacock, Lou Fournier, Cec Tyler, Vic Augur, Jack Hagar, Bill House, Leroy Harrison, Jimmy Wallace, Eddie Hicks, Bob Creasey, R. Lemire, L. Lamore and H. Aziz. Messrs. Giguerre, Ormshaw, Augur and Bob Lemire withdrew. Retiring president Allore had stated that he would not stand for re-election.

Those elected were Ken Peacock, Bob Hagar, Bill House, Jimmy Wallace and Howard Aziz. The order in which they were elected, they will elect their own executive officers from among themselves.

MOTHER'S DAY

Next Sunday is the day generally set aside as "Mother's Day." It is the annual occasion on which children pay sincere and official tribute to the virtues and kindly graces of the women who gave them birth.

Usually this recognition takes the form of some tangible gift. Accordingly most commercial establishments use the occasion to advertise effectively their wares which would be appropriate for the occasion as gifts.

That is quite proper and to be expected. However "Mother" deserves much more than that. She deserves the love, care, affection and respect of her children. She also deserves to have them act in such a manner as to be a credit to her and a source of pride.

Too many of us take mothers for granted and do not realize the profound influence they have had on our lives and the contribution they have made to our advancement. "Mother's Day" provides an occasion to remedy that oversight.

The proper outlook was publicly expressed almost a quarter of a century ago by the late Viscount Bennett, onetime Prime Minister of Canada. The occasion was the national convention of the Liberal Conservative Party (as it was then called.) The year was 1927. The place was the great auditorium in the city of Winnipeg.

He had just attained the proudest moment of his career up to that date. He had been elected by fellow citizens in every part of Canada to assume the toga first worn by Sir John A. Macdonald. It was a proud moment indeed.

But almost his first words were not addressed to the cheering thousands present in the vast hall. Forgetting them entirely, through the magic of the radio, he addressed himself humbly to a frail woman sitting in a modest home at Hopewell Cape on the rocky New Brunswick coast—the home in which she and her deceased fishing schooner husband had raised a family in accordance with their Christian traditions.

Briefly expressing his gratitude at the great honor conferred on him he went on to say: "And now I want to take leave of you all for a moment and address myself to my mother. All that I am or ever can hope to be I owe to you, mother. God bless you." He said no more. There weren't many dry eyes in that vast hall after that sentence and it evoked the most deafening applause of anything he had to say on that historic occasion.

The same Bennett (knighted a then was) for many years never missed going home to Hopewell to spend Christmas Day with his mother. Often he made the long journey from Calgary to the Atlantic coast fishing village, attended Christmas service with her in the tiny Methodist church there and left the same evening on his way back west. Busy as he was, he never forgot what he owed to the woman who had borne him.

His example in that respect might well be followed by everyone. Next Sunday is "Mother's Day." It is to be hoped that all of our readers whose mothers are still alive will suitably observe the occasion and that those whose mothers are dead will pay tribute to their memory. Let us all make this Mother's Day really mean something.

WIPING OUT MALARIA IN SARDINIA

One of the results of the First World War was the decision to wipe out the disease of malaria in Sardinia. Rockefeller Foundation trained experts were brought into consultation and the upshot was that the Italian Government and the International Health Division of the Foundation in 1946 embarked on a vast experimental project to kill off the native species of malaria mosquito in the island.

The result is that "this year after three years of intensive work malaria is no longer a problem in Sardinia. For the first time in history although the mosquito culprit still hides out in a few districts, not a single case of malaria was reported and a considerable reduction in relapses was apparent," says 1949 report.

The operation will cost about twelve million dollars to the end of 1950, the money being provided by UNRRA lire and dollar funds and more recently by the Economic Co-operation Administration. The Rockefeller Foundation besides furnishing technical direction to the project will have provided a dollar budget totalling $375,000 by the end of this year.

Many results are apparent, health level of the population has been significantly raised. Infant mortality has fallen. The program of drainage and clearing necessary for the island-wide landholding operations have made available a great many acres of land for human habitation and farming development.

"The impact of these innovations on the population has been dramatic. In time there will no doubt alter the balance of the whole island economy, for new possibilities in the development of Sardinia have been opened up and the island, formerly an economic liability, is emerging as Italy's new frontier."

Last evening on the high school grounds a baseball match was played between teams representing Forms IA and 1B. Both teams were shut out 6 to 0 in favor of Form 1A. The game was fast and Arthur Arnott twirled a good game for 1 B. Turner connected with a number of safe hits which came at exactly the right time. Boyle and Murray did the best work with the bat for 1A. The following composed the teams: Form 1A—Boyle, Beamish, Day, Hardwick, Blanchard, Curry, Hardy and McIntosh. Form 1B—Barlow, Turner, Bowyer, Facer, Marsh, Simmons, Arnott, Crozier and MacFarlane. The umpire was Leslie Adams and he gave good satisfaction.

Miss Annie Evelyn Dempsey of this city received the degree of B.A. at McMaster University, Toronto.

When the Duke and Duchess of York visited Belleville on Tuesday, May 24, 1901 there were given a royal welcome at the G.T.R. station. Now owning to the death of King Edward, the Duke and Duchess are King George and Queen Mary. The royal train and Governor General's train reached Belleville shortly before midnight and were placed on the Y. north of the station. A guard composed of the following local men remained on duty around the trains all night: J. Paterson, L. Soulie, J. Miller, Charles Gibson, H. Renfrew, W. Nelson, G. Spriggs, C. Boyle, Tom Hyland, H. Smith and F. Lyon. The first train to come into the station shortly after nine o'clock the following morning was that carrying the Governor General and party. The band played and the crowd cheered. His Excellency stood upon the platform of his car and the following were presented: Mayor R. J. Graham, Mr. W. B. Northrup, M.P., Mr. Robert Mathison of the D and B. Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Northrup and Mrs. Mathison. The train left after a stay of five minutes and then the Royal train came to a stop at the station. The welcome given the Duke and Duchess here exceeded inspiring. The bands played and Mr. William Johnston, chairman of the Reception Committee, called for cheers which were given with a will. The following were presented to the Duke and Duchess: Mayor R. J. Graham, Ald. Curtis Bogart, Ald. George Denmark, Ald. S. Harris, and Mrs. R. L. Sweet who presented to the Duccss a magnificent bouquet on behalf of the Daughters of the Empire. The 15th Regiment paraded about 100 men and the 6th Regiment had a good number on parade. Mr. R. PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

DELICATE LIKE A LADYFINGER

My Uncle Charlie is a man like this: Do him a favor and you've got me or my stock with—a friend for life.

For instance . . .

Forty years ago when Charlie married my Aunt Frieda and moved into a flat on Allen St., things were so tight that they seldom knew where their next boiled potato was coming from, and the couple would have gone hungry many a meal had it not been for a kindly baker on Delancey Street named Schultz who occasionally slipped them a bag of stale bread.

Later, when my uncle got a job and began bringing home a fairish buck, he kept up his friendship with Schultz, and on this day if my aunt so much as buys an onion roll from another baker he'll shout, "Ungratsk! You're nipping the hand that fed you feeding us!"

A couple of months ago, Charlie finally got around to squaring up his long-standing debt with a Viennese gentleman named Dunkelmeyer who operates a bake-shop a few doors away from Schultz's rundown establishment. It was quite a layout — newly-fixtured, complete with chromium counter and soda fountain, not enough, an hermetically-sealed display window outlined with neon tubing.

Shortly after he opened, the Viennese began to spread it around that his competitor used ammonia crystals in his cakes and raisins in his cupcakes sometimes turn out. This, of course, set a hitting below the breadbasket, but it brought results and, as of a few weeks ago, Schultz's shop was as deserted as a nightclub at noon.

"What you're needing to stop this Jakie-Come-Lately," my Uncle Charlie told me, "is a counter-irritant. Leave it to me."

"Won't do no good," said Schultz. "Even my private relations are buying from Dunkelmeyer."

"Then advertise," said Charlie. "I am recommending Bartlett's Bartstein, Bruzlein and — pardon the expression — Yutz."

"Four folks for one job?" said the old baker. "Who could afford it?"

"Besides, you should fix up your window. For instance, lay out the bagels like an American flag."

"Waste of time," said Schultz, "but I got another idea. This Dunkelmeyer is using machines to mix his dough and maybe your wife, Frieda, could talk it around that it's rolls he's sprinkling metal filings instead of poppy seeds."

"Too big a risk," said my uncle. "Dunkelmeyer could answer back that there is fingernails in your pumpernickel."

"So what?" said Schultz. "Better a fingernail than nuts and bolts."

The next evening as the old man was closing the store, Charlie asked to borrow his keys. "Maybe with the cellar key," he said, "I could get into Dunkelmeyer's basement."

"On this block," said Schultz, "the locks are mostly the same. But what business you got in his basement?"

He came to me a thought," said my uncle, 'but don't worry, I'll be delicate like a blind peeped in."

That night happened to be Saturday and Delancey Street — the Champs Elysees of the East Side — was a-hop with window-shopping and strolling. My uncle began to mob Dunkelmeyer's window. And small wonder — two dozen new ribbidies of the genre on top of a seven-layer wedding cake, a fish, a bird peeped in shy ecstacy from behind the bride's wedding dress.

When the goggiest were ten deep, Charlie elbowed his way to the counter, told the astounded Dunkelmeyer has his mixing machine in his cellar, and then led the crowd, "In them the mice are building nests."

The next day, and a few days later when my uncle breezed in for friendly chats, the Dutchman kissed him on both cheeks.

"Dunkelmeyer is kaput," he said. "It wasn't ethics, but it brought back the customers."

"Up-to-date public relations," said Charley modestly.

Now if you drilled a hole from the cellar up to Dunkelmeyer's counter, I don't understand," said Schultz, "but where did you get the mice in such a hurry?"

"Friends," said my uncle. "I set a cage-trap in your pantry next to the cheese strudel."

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

A juvenile court judge lately came up with the opinion that the trouble comes when we are all afraid of our children.

There is nothing new in that. Parents have always been afraid of their children. Adam and Eve were petrified at the sight of Cain and Abel: and rightly so, as it turned out. Oh, now and again some mum-and-dad, with a big beard to hide behind—would yell at his children, but it was usually a bluff as a fearless father. And he usually got into literature, like Mrs. Jarndyce's father. But all across the ages, parents have been intimidated by their children. So remarkable were the heros of parables, and fables. It has been ever-present, in the nursery rhymes or so, to make rules out of the exceptions.

We have more right to be afraid of our children than any former generation. Our social and economic reforms have liberated them from what little control we might have had over them in past ages. The law forces us to send them to school until they are fifteen. In the good old days, if we had any trouble with them, we could turn them out to work at the age of eleven or so. We could hire them out to work. There were no social agencies to interfere with us. They had no place to go but home. Whether it was the mill or the mine was done. Police, there was no police themselves, were all on our side; and there were no juvenile courts. There were no, or no prohibitive, movies, no radio, no funnies. There was nothing much to be a child for.

But now the world is a wonderful place for children. Have you child a black eye, and what happens? Some school teacher raises the roof with indignation, but the least little bit—and the whole thing is settled on you. Movies, radio, no help we are, people! No wonder we are afraid of them.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FROM THAT DAY FORTH

Some years ago an artist of fair ability was asked to produce a series of posters to be used in a nation-wide campaign. An idea to get the spirit of the movement his technique improved to an unbelievable degree, and best of all his whole outlook on life changed. He seemed particularly to have been influenced by a poster he made in which the figure of Jesus dominated the scene.

Speaking to a friend some time later, he said, "From the day I drew that picture of Jesus I have never done an unworthy piece of work. I do not mean that all my work has been at the same high level, but I do mean that from the day I created the figure of Christ, a strange new spirit has dominated my life and turned my motives and ideals upside down."

This sort of thing happens time and again, and to all sorts and kinds of people. They get a new vision of Christ, and after that two things happen. First, they improve their lives become dominated by the spirit of nobility and peace; and second, their efforts take on a new quality of creativeness. They begin to do their everyday work better. The tasks of the day become the means by which they do happy service to God.

And all because, like the artist, they have come under the spell whose gentleness still is every evil impulse of heart.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON BOOK SELECTING

Many people write to me, asking me to tell them the books they should read. That is a difficult assignment. Books I may love may not be the ones that another would wish. All reading tastes are different. Also many people who I have learned that other people do not like. Selecting good books is selecting friends.

Many of the books I have read and enjoyed so much have been those recommended by someone else, after a long search. The majority, however, have been those that I have selected from reading about them, or because of my taste for those in which I am most interested.

George B. McCutcheon was an author of many books, but he was also a great lover and collector of them. He once wrote a little book which he called "Books Once Were Men." A lover of books looks upon them as human, so that a great book becomes in fact a treasure, one's friend. So it is that books should be selected as we select our living friends.

One's taste for reading is one's guide in selecting books. If you like to meet people you go where they get together, and there choose about them. We select such ones as you wish for friends. It's the same with books. Go to a book shop where they have their books, and select according to your taste — for there are books there for every inclination. Books on travel, people, history, novels, books of poetry, and on almost every topic under the sun.

It is best to read a book that has stood the test of time—classics, they are called. This will make no mistake if you read one of these. The more any of us reads, the better we become as selectors of good books, for our standard of values increases. Many a good writer of today may be dead many years from now, joining the classics of the time.

A taste for the best books, however, should be one's aim, for one's love and after pleasure in them is lasting. Read them first! Read the best that you can entertain, instruct, and inspire you most. Keep your kind of books about you. They will comfort you as no individual can, at times.

Dean Escorted From Meeting By Police

Hamilton, May 12—(CP)—The "Red" Dean of Canterbury was escorted by police from a meeting Thursday night after being shouted down in the middle of a speech. Students in the audience sang "Take a Slow Boat to Russia" as the uproar became general.

He was escorted out.

The Dean, the Very Rev. Hewlett Johnson, was speaking at Delta Collegiate at a meeting sponsored by the Hamilton Peace Council. Shouts from students here were greeted by continual taps, coughing or some of the 1,500 in the hall.

Rev. E. J. Etherington, a retired Anglican clergyman, called a halt to the meeting because of "disorderly conduct" after the Dean got well into his speech. He appealed to police to halt the disturbance but ended the meeting adding the uproar became general.

COLD ALL THE TIME

Not just because there as has been wear to, and enlist wood fire, is iodine.

Here we go again. Remember, please, I am not suggesting that anybody take iodine or iodide in medicinal dose I refer only to the wee, wee bit of iodine or iodide which everybody, man woman or child, should get in his or her daily food but generally does not get, because soil, water and food in most parts of the country are deficient in iodine.

In order to be sure I recommend is only that quantity which one should get daily in drinking water and food. That's why I say it it does you no good it can do you no harm.

So I invite all the Coolbodys to send me a stamped self-addressed envelope and I will send them a pamphlet The Iodin Ration which will tell how to get it.

MacKenzie's Column: Russia Treats French Proposal As Hostile Move

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The French proposal for pooling western European heavy coal industries under a central authority—beginning with union of the great German and French works—grows in magnitude with analysis.

Thus far, too, it has grown in general approval among the western powers though Russia treats it as a further move to hostile acceptance of this part of Europe ruled by her old enemy has given the idea a cold reception, threatening as it does the hopes of a United States of Western Europe.

However, the economic considerations guarded because of sweeping implications of the plan also idea does involve the surrender of some degree of sovereignty.

The British people are deeply society because she feared that the French proposal to put the ruhr ceased her dubis somewhat, but she is now cautiously in approaising the proposal.

This is an important point, because British approval would be necessary before the project become effective.

The American position has been indicated by State Secretary Acheson, who is attending the Big Three Foreign Ministers conference in London. He has given his sympathy and approval to the "imaginative and far reaching intent" of the proposal, but has withheld judgment on the plan itself until details have been studied.

Acheson also made a highly important speech before the Pilgrims' Society, calling for a return to Germany to "the family of western civilization." He asserted the United States and western Europe must sacrifice some "purely national interests" to avoid another war. He further declared that "the Germans themselves must be prepared to accept their full measure of responsibilities and the full measure of what may appear to them as risks" for security of the western community.

That's laying it on the line pretty bluntly. It fits in with the Paris coal and steel proposal, which aims to create a prospect of peace. This has born attitude towards Germany. It is because heart-burnings in a good many quarters which refuse to forgive her for initiating two world wars.

Man Fined $100 On Charge Posing As Police Officer

Napanee, May 12 — Gordon C. Blair, 32, of Bossmore, who was convicted of impersonating a police officer, today was fined $100 and costs in court here. He was remanded a week on another charge of escaping lawful custody with bail at $1,000.

Witnesses said Blair stopped a truck driven by C. J. Kennedy, of Odessa, and told Kennedy he was being arrested for speeding. Kennedy asked for proof Blair was a policeman and the two went to the provincial police office here.

When Blair could show no credentials, he said he was a former member of the Vancouver police. Officers then charged him. He is a former RCAF flier, and holds the DFC. He did not take the stand in court.

The charge of escaping lawful custody was laid after Blair is said to have jumped his car and driven to Belleville, 25 miles away.

MARMORA

Workers Decide To Postpone Strike Indefinite Time

Marmora—At a meeting of the members of International Union, Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, Local 889, on Tuesday evening, it was voted to postpone indefinitely the strike at Deloro, which was scheduled for Wednesday morning. The change in the attitude of the employees was due to a meeting held on Tuesday afternoon when Mr. R. G. Walsh, general manager of Deloro Smelting and Refining Company addressed the men, explaining the company's attitude and refusing any increases at the present time as the company was operating at a loss.

He informed the employees that a strike would mean an indefinite closing down of the plant. A factor in the decision of the employees was the fact that many of them had lost confidence in the representative of the union which has no affiliation or recognition by any of the large labor organizations in Canada or the United States.

FLOOD LEVELS

(It was said there was a risk of a second, higher crest within a few days. The mass, though voluntary, evacuation of women and children would have to be continued.)

Maybe Higher Crest

There was a chance of a second higher crest might strike the cities within a few days. Record readings were reported from totally-flooded Emerson at the International border where the Red comes into Canada from North Dakota.

But there was a hope a 540-square-mile lake of flooded land in Southern Manitoba will be a "buffer", lessening the threat to Winnipeg, St. Boniface and their inundated suburbs.

But even with encouraging news about the river level, the risk of serious further damage to Greater Winnipeg remained.

Shaky, leaking dikes around several residential areas might give away at any time. And it will certainly be days before the Red, the Assiniboine and the Seine which meet here show any appreciable fall.

WEDDINGS

McINTOSH—COLEMAN

White stocks intermingled with pink and white carnations made a lovely background in Christ Church, Belleville, on Wednesday, May 10, at 3 p.m., for the marriage of Norma Jean Coleman, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Coleman, Belleville, to Herbert Murray McIntosh, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. McIntosh. The Rev. Canon J. Grant Sparling, of Christ Church, officiated.

Mr. Dana Cook, church organist, provided the wedding music, and the soloist, Miss Helen Cook, sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer", and during the signing of the register, "Through the Years".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white slipper satin with full length train, molded bodice featuring Peter Pan collar with net yoke, the bodice flaring into the full skirt. Her full length veil of beautifully embroidered silk French net fell from a bonnet of matching white satin. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

Miss Joyce Cherrington, of Hamilton, and sister of the bride, was matron of honor in a floor length gown of pale blue taffeta, matching halo hat and mitts. She carried a shower bouquet of Sweetheart roses.

Miss Isabelle Shortt, of Belleville, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of pale yellow taffeta with matching halo hat and mitts, and carrying a shower bouquet of sweetpeas.

Miss Jacquelyn Cherrington, of Hamilton, little niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a floor length frock of pale pink organdy over a deeper pink taffeta slip trimmed with white lace with blue velvet bows. Her headdress was a bonnet of pink organdy. She carried a nosegay of sweetpeas.

Mr. Myles Morton, of Belleville, was groomsman, and the ushers were, Mr. Douglas McIntosh, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Ralph Morton, both of Belleville.

At the reception which was held in the Shrine Club, where the many guests were received, the bride's mother, gowned in navy crepe with pink and navy accessories, and corsage of pink roses, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in blue crepe with brown accessories and corsage of sweetpeas.

For motoring to New York, the bride chose a dusty pink ensemble with navy accessories. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh will reside at 153 George Street, Belleville.

Club Activities

BRIDGE STREET Y.P.U.

A fellowship meeting of the Bridge Street United Church Young People's Union under the leadership of Miss Eunice Cooney was held in the church parlor, Monday evening. Miss Loretta MacDougall led the 24 members present in a spirited sing-song. A reminder was told to the group of next week's forthcoming "camp night", when the young people of Foxboro will be guests.

A film, "Seeds of Destiny", pictured the destruction that pervades many cities of war-torn Europe. Homeless and destitute children are numerous. Such organizations as U.N.R.R.A. strive to relieve conditions, and Miss MacDougall urged that the Y.P.U. be generous when an appeal for funds was made.

The hostesses for the evening, Misses Betty Mitchell, Helen Keller, and Marjorie Telford served a luncheon, with "Taps" closing the meeting.

Hydro Home Forum Gives Demonstration Food Preparation

Wednesday afternoon in the Collegiate auditorium, the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, presented their "Hydro Home Forum", under the auspices of Christ Church Parish Guild, to a group of home-conscious women. Miss Anne Allen, home economist, conducted the demonstration and preparation of food, taking the form of a broiled supper, complete through clover-se salad, Peter Cottontail cookies, to the daffodil dessert, minutely describing as she did so, each step of the way, and the regulation of the heat required for best results, the proper place in the oven, and the perfect limiting of time.

Labor-saving Hints

During the baking, Miss Allen discussed the placing of the various kitchen units in relation to their uses, and labor-saving. The broom cupboard should be placed near the rear door, as that is where it is needed more often. The ironing board is also placed here, being out of the way, and the electric iron in the little compartment above.

Speaking of the height of the cupboards, she pointed out that a tall person needed a higher working table, the right height being so arranged as to avoid stooping. The doors between the lower compartments, and those above should be ample to provide for the mixmaster, and other tall kitchen gadgets.

The electric range should be placed at the side of a window, not directly beneath it. This avoids cooling draught, and also the possible occurrence of fire from burning grease coming in contact with the curtains.

Prize Winners

Among those who received prizes were: Miss Elsie Walker, Corbyville, table lamp; Miss Lillie Warham, bath set; Mrs. Fred Noakes, 6 pound ham; Mrs. Markle, 3 pounds of butter; Mrs. Arthur Clare, case of peas; Mrs. Harry Thompson, case of soft drinks; Mrs. J. Grant Sparling, suit cleaned; Mrs. Lewis Watson, car washed; baskets of groceries were awarded to the following: Mrs. Dowsett, Mrs. Stan Joss, Mrs. Bert Reed, Mrs. O'Connor, Mrs. George Deline, Mrs. Vickers, Mrs. Clayton Burr, Mrs. Russell Woodley and many others.

Queen Victoria Home And School Assoc. Elects New Officers

The annual meeting of the Queen Victoria Home and School Association was held in the School auditorium on Monday evening.

Reports were read by the following retiring committee convenors: Mrs. F. Martin, social; Mrs. A. B. Hunt, finance; Mrs. E. D. Mott, membership; Mrs. G. A. Bradford, radio and Mrs. R. H. Tanner, publications. The treasurer's report was presented by Mr. W. Oliver and all reports reflected an active and successful year for the Association.

During the business session approval was given by the members to the purchase and presentation to the school of a tape recorder.

A very complete and interesting report on the annual federation convention held in Toronto during last week, as reported by Mrs. Hopkins, of Queen Mary School ,was read by Mrs. W. E. J. Fellowes.

The nominating committee then presented the following slate of officers who were unanimously elected to office for the coming year:

President, Mr. R. H. Tanner, vice presidents, Mr. P. Dewberry, Mrs. W. Judge, Mrs. R. H. Tanner; treasurer, Mr. K. Allwill; recording secretary, Mr. W. Baldwin, corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. A. Bowlegy, executive members, Mrs. F. Martin, Mrs. E. D. Mott, Mr. W. Gee, Mr. M. Mathews and Mrs. K. Hogg.

The installation ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Helen Agnew, a past president of the Association.

Miscellaneous Shower Honors Young Couple

Burr's—Mr. and Mrs. Jac Bruining, a recent bride and groom, were tendered a miscellaneous shower on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Burr, on whose farm the groom is employed.

The shower was preceded by a charivari which loudly announced the arrival of upwards of 70 well wishers of the newlyweds.

When all were invited in, a brief program of songs and readings by Mrs. Bill Dempsey, Mrs. W. Soble, Misses Donna Parks and Doris Clark, Mrs. D. Harris, Miss C. Talt, Mr. and Mrs. N. Postma and group singing was enjoyed.

Mrs. Floyd Huffman then read an appropriate address to Jac and Emma. Doris Clark and Donna Parks carried in a basket, heaped high with gifts, Mrs. Ron Burr, Mr. and Mrs. Jac and Mrs. R. Huffman assisted them in opening the many pretty and useful evidences of esteem. Jac and his bride thanked everyone for their generosity and invited all to visit them. Refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, cake and coffee were served.

ALBURY

Albury — Mrs. Hugh' Weese left on Wednesday to spend a few days in Guelph to attend the Institute convention.

Mrs. Charles Betteley has returned home from Belleville Hospital. All wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Bert Bonter returned to his home in Brockport, N. Y., on Saturday after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williamson.

Mrs. Ronald Williamson and young son, returned home on Friday from Belleville Hospital.

A number attended the Albury Ladies' Aid pot luck supper at Albury Church on Monday evening. Community singing was enjoyed. Proceeds $38.70.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

...ions for remembrance.
Mother's Day . . . May 14.

Mother's Day, May 14th . . . the ...ond day of all the days in ...e year," declared Sunday in ...day is, as the resolution for the ...lebration of Mother's Day reads, ...dicated to the memory of the ...est mother in the world, your ...mother." This resolution urges ...at "through some distinct act ...f kindness, visit, letter, gift, or ...ributs, all may show remem...rance of the mother to whom it ...s designed to perpetuate all ...amily ties."

"Remembrance" . . . the beau...fully inspirational word for the ...own of devotion and homage that ...olong to the observance of ...Mother's Day.

The second Sunday in May has ...ad a deep and personal signifi...ance since 1907, when a Phila...elphia girl, Miss Anna Jarvis, ...tarted the idea of Mother's Day. ...e she outlined her beautiful ideal ...nted plan for the observance of ...Mother's Day, Miss Jarvis made ...ree decisions. First she decided ...n the day . . . it should be a ...Sunday. Then she chose the sec...nd Sunday in May "for then the ...rass would be green and the ...lowers coming." And then she ...decided on the emblem for ...Mother's Day, the white carnation, ...hosen because in the front yard ...f the old home in West Virginia, ...er mother had grown a garden of ...white "pinks", her favorite flow...r. There was a practical reason, ...oo, for her choice of a white car...nation . . . it was a flower that ...men would be willing to wear, and ...would stay fresh for a long time ...in a buttonhole.

"I want to live. There is so ...much good work for me to do." ...In the good and brave words ...of Mrs. Jarvis was the seed of the ...inspiration that led to the found...ing of Mother's Day. These words, ...with their powerful faith in "good ...works" and in courage, remained ...always in the loving heart of her ...daughter, became a guiding star ...—the star that was to lead to the ...founding of a Day that was to be ...a memorial to a great mother, a ...day that was to be memorial to all ...mothers.

In the years after 1907, Miss ...Jarvis continued her spirited ...campaign for nation-wide observ...ance of Mother's Day, and in 1914 ...her efforts were crowned with ...success . . . when President Wilson ...signed a Congressional Resolution ...setting aside the second Sunday in ...May as Mother's Day and auth...orizing national display of the ...flag on that day. It was indeed a ...proud day for Miss Anna Jarvis ...when President Wilson presented ...to her the pen with which he had ...signed the resolution!

And ever since 1914 there has ...been the appealing custom of an...nually expressing love and re...membrance to Mother . . . with ...tenderly-worded letters and tele...grams and telephoning, with gifts ...of devotion and sentiment, with ...special Mother's Day greeting ...cards, with flowers.

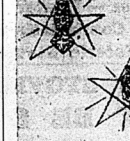
Carnations . . . the official

By PRUNELLA WOOD

WE LIKE the understatement of Robert Galer's huge and graceful brim, a magic lantern shade, you might say, to flatter not only one's face, but one's shoulders too, in this season of low cut daytime dresses.

Of course there is a crown as well as a brim, but it's the brim that does the trick . . . multiple sheer black brims of tulle, are here layered together over a wire foundation.

Mother's Day flower . . . are nat...ural gifts to Mother. Carnations too, are always featured in the designs for Mother's Day greeting cards.



Hint to "Her Children". There is no gift that touches a Moth...er's heart as much as a child's plan for her happiness, a child's handiwork. So if you daughters and sons are old enough to "take over" cooking the Sunday dinner on Mother's Day, plan a surprise menu . . . simple items, please, favorites of Mother and Dad. . . . do the marketing on Saturday (either from an allowance from the family-budget or, most hap...pily and generously, from com...bined contents of your piggy-banks) . . . prepare the meal as much as possible before church on Sunday . . . set the table prettily and effectively (centrepiece of Mother's favorite flowers, perhaps white carnations and with a white carnation at each plate). . . . cook the dinner . . . and plan every detail of the serving so that it is charmingly attended to by you. Here's an endearing gift of loving kindness to touch a mother's heart.

Best of all guides for your Moth...er's Day message . . . "Look into your heart and write." Best of all guides for your Mother's Day trib...ute. . . "Look into your heart and speak".

Mother's Day

In these glad days of greening earth and sunshine
Days when you felt the spirit of the spring—
When singing birds and May-time
blooming lilacs
Woke in your heart a happy
carolling.
When all the joy held in your heart's deep treasure
O'erflowed in love and laugh...ter from your eyes,
We set apart to thee a day most sacred
Who dwellest now beyond the azure skies.

A time most fitting to thy mem...ory, Mother,
When all the earth is throbbing
with new life,
Whose days were sweet, sublime,
in spite of struggle
When warring worlds were torn by strain and strife;
Deep in our hearts, thy memory
fresh and fragrant,
Gives us the courage in life's trials to sing,
Trusting and waiting till again we meet you
In Heavenly lands where al...ways it is spring.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The later years can be happy, too

Everywhere we hear more and more about problems of the middle-aged and elderly.

A constantly increasing amount of mail comes to my desk from both men and women who are feeling the disappointment and illusion and limitations of their years and don't know what to do about them. Some of them are single persons. Some are widowers and widowers. Others, who have been fortunate enough not to have lost either wife or husband, yet feel lonely and at loose ends because their children have married and left home and they feel they have nothing left to live for.

Most of these people make the mistake of feeling that someone should do something for them. What they fail to realize is that they must do something for themselves, eventually. It is a question of their interests and their ambitions, then line up the opportunities for friendships for activity and for service to others that will keep them feeling useful and happy.

Some of the most practical advice I have seen for helping older people to make these essential readjustments in life is contained in a chapter from a new book called "The Art of Real Happiness", by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale and Dr. Smiley Blanton. Dr. Peale is minister of the Marble Collegiate Church in New York. Dr. Blanton is a psychiatrist who works with Dr. Peale and a staff of other ministers and psychiatrists in a clinic at the church to which troubled people may go for help in solving their problems.

Out of the experience gained in talking with the hundreds of men and women who come to the clinic every year seeking peace of mind, heart and soul, Dr. Peale and Dr. Blanton have prepared this book: to explain how individuals can find their own answers to the problems that have made them confused and unhappy. The final chapter in the book is titled "How to Grow Older Happily".

The two experts in human relations believe that to insure happiness later in life one should prepare for it before these years are upon him. Fortunately, however, even when this necessity has not been realized early there is still plenty that can be done about it if those concerned are willing to take the trouble.

Among the practical suggestions offered in this program for growing older happily are: to have a physical checkup at regular intervals; to cultivate a hobby; to maintain as many social contacts as possible; to find someone you can do something for; and, whatever your religious beliefs may be, to make them an active part of your life.

For many older people, one of the hardest problems is this one of social contacts. In Dr. Peale's church in New York there are "40 Plus" and "50 Plus" clubs, through which men and women in these age groups find the companionship for lack of which so many are lonely and depressed.

Over and over again older people who wrote me tell me that in the towns in which they live no opportunities for recreation and companionship exist for them. Why is it not possible for such men and women to get 40 and 50 Plus clubs under way in their own communities? Surely, no matter how small the town, there must be a few older people with sufficient imagination and initiative to t[ake] and put through a pro[ject] of this kind.

Older people in this modern world do not need to feel lonely or find time dragging heavy on their hands. Any readers of this column who are in that state of mind might get hold of a copy of Dr. Peale's and Dr. Blanton's book and read it through, giving special attention to the chapter on growing older. It may easily be just what they need to get them started on a new life for themselves.

Women's Institute

PHILLIPSTON-ZION W.I.

The story of the year's work completed by the members of this Institute branch showed marked progress had been made in many activities. Much of the success was due to the untiring efforts of the president, Mrs. Simmons and to a most efficient secretary, Mrs. Percy Ray.

At a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Sine, the secretary reported that $471.15 was raised during the past year. Of this amount $143.88 was raised by the euchre club.

Miss Phyllis Beatty, Mrs. Floyd Ray and Mrs. Gordon Foster were appointed as a committee to purchase a piano for the community hall.

Mrs. Percy Ray reviewed the girls' work of which she and Mrs. Clifford Ray had charge. It was decided that a silver spoon be given to each girl when she had completed a project.

Mrs. Ralph Sills spoke briefly on the 40th "What We Sow We Reap".

Community Singing was really enjoyed with Mrs. Gordon Foster at the piano and Mrs. Floyd Ray as song leader.

A book review was given by Mrs. Harry Ketcheson, choosing as her subject "Cry, the Beloved Country", by Alan Paton.

"The Outlander", was another book recommended by Mrs. Ketcheson. A paper on "Canada's Natural Resources and Industries", prepared by Mrs. Elmer Tufts, was also read by Mrs. Harold Beatty.

The Roll Call for the day showed an attendance of 27 members.

Mrs. Sine was assisted by Mrs. Morden Brough, Mrs. Bills Ketcheson, Mrs. Clifford Ray and Mrs. Harry Ketcheson, in serving refreshments.

MADOC

'Training Pre-School Child' Interesting Talk at H.&S. Assoc.

Madoc.—The May meeting of the Madoc Public School Home and School Association was held in the Public School on Tuesday evening, with Miss L. Connor presiding, in the absence of the president.

Reports of committees were heard and these indicated that although the Association was organized only last Autumn much good work had been accomplished, particularly in bringing the Home and School into closer contact and understanding.

Mrs. Rupert, president, sent a message in which she thanked the committees and clubs with which she had worked, with particular thanks to the school board for their co-operation.

Miss Connor introduced the speaker of the evening, Miss M. Green, of Peterborough, vice-president of the Teachers' Federation and auxiliary teacher in the City of Peterborough, who goes into the homes to teach invalids, convalescents and who also works with the troublesome and subnormal pupils as part of her many duties. Miss Green is a native of Queensboro, Ont., and reviewed part of her early education in Madoc.

Mentality Differs

After speaking briefly on the work of the Home and School Clubs, the speaker took as her subject "Training of the Pre-School Child". It is the parent who builds the foundation in these early years and whether it is good or bad, on the parents alone rests the responsibility. Each child differs mentally, temperamentally and physically. Each child is born with a certain mental capacity and what he does with it depends on his training. His achievements should be judged on his abilities. Miss Green went on to speak on solitary play which develops self reliance and concentration, and social play which develops co-operation.

Childish quarrels are a necessary and natural development in the young child. Parents can educate a failure on the part of the parents to secure a method of discipline.

The address was interesting and helpful, particularly to parents of children who would be soon enrolling for school work for the first time.

Mrs. Sexsmith moved a vote of thanks to Miss Green. Miss Erma Burris played a piano solo which was well received and a social half hour brought the meeting to a close.

St. Mary Magdalene W.A. Holds Closing Meeting

Picton.—The Evening Branch of the W.A., of St. Mary Magdalene's Church held their closing meeting in the form of a dinner at the Parish House on Tuesday evening, May 9. About 40 were present and enjoyed the bountiful repast.

Mrs. Guy Welsh was general convener of the event, and with her committee, planned a most interesting evening.

The report of the Annual meeting of the W.A. in Kingston was prepared by Mrs. Gordon Walmsley and read by Mrs. Clarence Rutter. Member of the Girls' Branch were guests at the dinner and the five girls who won first place at the Girls' W.A. Annual at Portsmouth on April 29, sang "Sweet and Low", and an encore accompanied by Mrs. Howard Walmsley. These were Patricia Calnan, Kathleen Walmsley, Carol Welsh, Eleanor Storms, and Patsy Swayne.

Later in the evening Court Whist was played with the prizes for high scores going to Mrs. Thomas Lighthall, Mrs. C. Rutter, Mrs. John Maher and Mrs. Lowell Robinson. The birthday prize went to Mrs. C. Rutter and the lucky chair prize to Mrs. Fran Morton. It was announced that $104 was realized at the recent rummage sale.

Personals

Mr. Don Snelgrove, local agent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, has resigned and accepted a position as car salesman at Card's Garage, Napanee.

Firemen were called out Tuesday evening to answer a call to the home of Mrs. B. L. Morris, on Mary Street, where a barn on the property was almost totally burned.

Mrs. E. Morrow Gives Fine Talk At St. John's W.A.

Stirling.—The regular monthly meeting of St. John's W.A. was held in the Parish Hall. Miss Elsie Kerr read the scripture lesson and several new members responded to the roll call.

Mrs. Belshaw gave a splendid report of the Juniors' trip to Kingston and of their great interest there in the work. They made a donation to the kindergarten project and their leader was justly proud of them.

Mrs. C. Vance gave an interesting chapter on "Kindergarten Work in Japan". The children are taught music and some eventually become church organists.

Mrs. Edgar Morrow gave a very fine talk on two Canadian writers "Edna Jaques" and "Nellie McClung," describing the home of Nellie McClung in Victoria, B.C., called "Lantern Lane".

Mrs. Morrow read two of Edna Jaques poems, "Poem to God" and "Our Queen", and closed with the reading of Nellie McClung's entitled "Neighbors".

Mrs. Belshaw voiced appreciation to all responsible for the program and refreshments.

Mrs. Anderson closed the meeting and refreshments committee served tea.

MADOC

Miss Loreen Connor Tells of Trip Through Canada and U.S.

Madoc.—The Young Women's Club of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. George Hill. The meeting consisted of a devotional period in charge of Mrs. Heslip assisted by Mrs. Atkinson. Mrs. Alvey read a poem.

Miss Loreen Connor gave an interesting talk on her trip last summer when she visited most of the beautiful and wonderful spots of Canada and the United States.

A quartet consisting of Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Alvey, Mrs. Ken Nicol and Mrs. Grant Lewis sang two numbers.

Mrs. Audley Beach, who is leaving to make her home in Ottawa was presented with a gift from the club also one from the Sunday School. The meeting closed with refreshments served by Mrs. Hill assisted by Mrs. Gaebel and Mrs. Gordon McCoy.

Women's Activities

MELROSE W.M.S.

The Melrose W.M.S. held their May meeting at the home of Miss Mary McLaren on May 3, with an attendance of 19.

The president, Mrs. R. Macfarlane, presided with the opening service of worship celebrating the 25th anniversary of the W.M.S. of the United Church of Canada.

Mrs. Wm. Meachan read the Scripture lesson.

Miss Margaret Bailey, group leader took charge of Part II "Growing With the Years" in the Society. Miss Bailey as 1st member 1925-30, related what history making years these had been for the 200,000 women and children from the Atlantic to the Pacific, who made up the membership of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church. Mrs. E. Badgley as 2nd member 1930-1935; Mrs. J. Weese, 3rd member 1935-1940; Mrs. J. Millburn, 4th member, 1940-1945; Mrs. J. Mcfarlane, 5th member 1945-1950.

Miss Bailey lastly stressed the future with its unlimited opportunities for service to Christ and His Kingdom in home missions and overseas mission as a society to increasingly share in training Christian leaders as all fields are asking for more missionaries.

This calls for larger givings, more earnest prayer and more devoted study and service on the part of every member of the W.M.S.

Mrs. Charles Bates favored with a delightful piano solo "My Faith Looks up to Thee", with variations, which was much appreciated.

During the business period it was decided to hold a quilting at the home of Mrs. J. Blatherwick on June 17th.

Mrs. R. Macfarlane, Mrs. E. Badgley and Mrs. C. Bates were selected as the music committee for the special Sunday evening service on June 11th.

Accepts Invitation

The invitation from Mrs. W. J. Scott to Melrose W.M.S. to hold their next regular meeting, June 7, at the parsonage, Shannonville, was accepted with much appreciation.

The Temperance and Christian Stewardship secretary, Mrs. E. Pascoe, Sr., and Mrs. Clayton Osborne, presented a temperance dialogue.

The offering of $4.25 was received and also the card and flower fund. The president also with prayer.

The hostess served delicious candy and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

It is Amazing How God Loves Man

By ROY L. SMITH

Historians who are interested in hunting up the origins of various matters are invited to go back to the original sources and discover who it was that discovered the great characteristics of God.

Amos, the shepherd of Tekoa, was the first man in history to associate the idea of God with the ideal of justice. Hosea, the young aristocrat of Israel, was the first to preach the amazing doctrine that God loves His people for their own sake. And he learned this lesson as a result of a great personal tragedy.

The Lesson a Tragedy Taught

Sometime in his youth Hosea had married the daughter of one of the neighboring gentry. Some years afterward — following the birth of their third child—he discovered that she was untrue to him. As a matter of fact she deserted the family, and became a "holy woman" attached to one of the pagan shrines.

At first Hosea was consumed with anger, but as time went on he discovered that his love for his wife was not dead. With infinite sorrow in his heart he went on hoping. Then one day he found her in a slave pen, about to be sold, and he purchased her and took her to the wilderness where they could be alone and rebuild their lives. At the end of two years they returned, the home was restored, and the family reunited.

As a result of this personal tragedy the preaching of the young prophet underwent a radical transformation. "If love like mine can persist for a woman like Gomer," he seemed to say, "then surely the love of God for Israel can survive the nation's sinning."

The Gospel of Forgiving Love

The book of Hosea in the Old Testament is one of the most dramatic, as well as the most winsome, bits of writing that has come to us out of all the ancient world.

The Sunday School lesson for May 14: "Hosea Reveals God's Forgiving Love," Hosea (11:1-4, 8-11; 14:4-9).

Speaking in the role of God, as the Father of the nation, the prophet describes His solicitude for the people during the days of their infancy, and in the most endearing terms to be found anywhere in the Bible he declares the love of Jehovah for the prodigal state.

The contrast between the God of wrath portrayed so frequently in the Old Testament, and the God of Love which is portrayed in the writing of Hosea, was brought out with vivid and dramatic effectiveness in the popular play of a few years ago, entitled "Green Pastures." In the picturesque language and concept of the primitive but discerning Negro, God is represented as having seen the utter futility of fighting men, and the complete success of loving them. Hosea was, in the language of the playwright, the one who "converted" God to the new idea which was of course, an eccentric way of describing the loving heart of God.

Love Sometimes Must Be Stern

There is a very great difference, however, between a God who loves and One who is only indulgent. Hosea makes this fact perfectly plain. Even the love of God will not prevent Him from disciplining His children if only by that means He is able to assist them in achieving their best.

It very frequently happens that a wise mother, because of her love for her child, finds it necessary to resort to stern measures in order to save the best of tomorrow for the one she loves. The mother who is most fond of his brilliant pupil is most apt to exact from him his most strenuous efforts. The kindest love is sometimes the most compelling. God Can Hardly Be Happy

It is impossible for even the most devout or the most optimistic to say that God is happy over this world.

A sixteen year old girl approached a speaker one night at the close of the meeting he had addressed, and said, "I think God must have tried himself to sleep last night. I know I did, and I am sure He feels as badly about what is going on as I do."

Hosea and the sixteen-year-old were centuries apart in the matter of time, but they were akin in their spiritual understanding. Both had found their way through to an understanding of the true heart of a God who loves.

This is not a matter of breaking the law of God, but of breaking the heart of God. We do not offend God; we wound Him with our willfulness and our waywardness.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ford, Oak Street, have returned home after a pleasant motor trip to Mississippi where they visited their daughter and husband. They accompanied their son, Mr. Leonard Ford and Mrs. Ford of Attwood, Ont.

Mae

I found May in the wildwood
Ah! many years ago.
A bright green nymph elusive,
Her spirit walks as now.
Birds sang their songs to greet her,
Green leaves wove melodies,
And sunlight marked her pathway
Among the radiant trees.
I've sought her oh! so often
Since then some so long ago.
I've wandered through the green-wood
Where fragrant lilies blow:
But the elusive fairy
Has vanished with the years,
And but a passing spectre
I glimpse through misty tears.
—HELEN B. ANDERSON.

SCOHARIE

Scoharie — Mr. and Mrs. Burt Smith, Rear Road, were Sunday guests of the Misses Smith; Mr. and Mrs. William Merry, Picton, were guests Sunday afternoon at the same home.

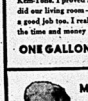
"It's the Paint for us" say the STEVENS

MRS. I. STEVENS, 11740 — 87th St., Edmonton, Alta.

"Visitors to our home one evening were amazed when we told them the walls of our living room had been painted that very day! The answer of course was that Kem-Tone did the job."

DRIES IN ONE HOUR



MRS. JOHN STEVENS, Apt. 7, 107 Preston St., Ottawa, Ont.

"It's true what they say about Kem-Tone. I proved it. One gallon did our living room — and did a good job too. I really appreciated the time and money it saved."

ONE GALLON DOES A LARGE ROOM

MR. KENNETH STEVENS, 29 Wickham Ave., Hamilton, Ont.

"Among its many advantages, one thing I especially liked about using Kem-Tone was that never at any time could we detect the slightest 'paintey' odour."

NO DISAGREEABLE PAINT ODOUR

Mrs. F. A. Stevens, 3809 — 1st St. N.W., Calgary, Alta. says

"Sounds so finger posh when on our lovely Kem-Tone walls we see no finger prints — because just a wipe and water cleans them in a jiffy."

Have YOU discovered this magic wall paint? . . . If you have discovered Kem-Tone . . . like the Stevens and millions of other users, you will know what a really different wall paint it is! You will know its durable, washable qualities . . . that one coat of Kem-Tone covers most surfaces without primer . . . that it dries in one hour . . . that every way you use it — the way one coat of Kem-Tone covers most surfaces without primer or undercoater . . . the smooth, easy way it flows from brush or Roller-Koater. Imagine a rain and oil paint that mixes with water, that has no paint odour — that you can apply, if you wish, with windows closed! No wonder the Stevens are delighted — there's never been a paint like Kem-Tone!

A real oil paint that you can wash again and again.

MR. J. L. STEVENS, 112 Dunbrook Drive, Toronto, Ont.

"You wouldn't know our old walls now — and what delighted me was the way only one coat of Kem-Tone was needed to make them bright and beautiful."

ONE COAT COVERS

MR. DEL STEVENS, 8080 D, Cornwall Apartments, Winnipeg, Man.

"It made me feel like a high-class painter — the way I rolled it on I could cover our walls with Kem-Tone so smoothly and easily and with perfect results."

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, MAY 12, 1950.

Deadlocked Firemen's Strike Causes Widespread Layoffs On 4 Roads, Idle Near 200,000

Chicago, May 12—(AP)—More thousands of railroad workers joined the ranks of the idle today—laid off by the deadlocked firemen's strike against four major United States carriers.

Workers in many other key industries also were getting layoff notices and others were threatened with forced idleness. The strike by 18,000 firemen, now in its third day, appeared to have made idle nearly 200,000 workers already, including some 150,000 rail employees.

There wasn't a sign of peace in the country's biggest rail strike since May, 1946.

There was, however, the first flare-up of violence on some of the strikebound lines.

Shortly after two freight trains were reported ambushed and fired upon near Knoxville, Tenn., the southern railway lines suspended all operations in the area. An striking fireman on one train was shot in the arm. Pickets outside the Knoxville switch yards denied they fired any shots, but said they were armed.

Minor Disturbances

There were other minor disturbances on the strikebound New York Central lines in two Indiana cities.

The Southern, the New York Central and the Santa Fe are operating only emergency skeleton service. The Pennsylvania, on which the switch yards of Harrisburg, Pa., is not operating in the strikebound area.

With operations drastically curtailed, the Pennsylvania issued layoff slips to 85,000 employees. The New York Central, which said 25,000 already are idle, planned to lay off another 25,000 during the weekend.

The railroads again refused to accept what the rail union described as a modified demand of its original proposal. The brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen struck to enforce its demand for a second fireman on multiple-unit diesel locomotives. The carriers rejected the demand, as did two presidential fact-finding boards.

The strike was hitting coal production in western Pennsylvania and Indiana. Other industries are expected to be hard hit. The rail tie-up also affected the produce and livestock markets.

In Buffalo, N.Y., the country's largest milling centre, one feed mill and one flour mill closed.

W. German Reds Expel No. 2 Leader As 'Enemy Agent'

Frankfurt, Germany, May 12—(AP) — West Germany's communist party disclosed today it had expelled its No. two leader, Kurt Mueller, as an "enemy agent" for a foreign power.

The foreign power was not identified, but party chairman Max Reimann bitterly assailed the United States at the special secret party meeting which quoted Mueller.

Mueller, a deputy in the West-German Parliament (Bundestag), resigned his parliamentary seat Thursday. His resignation letter said he was quitting for "personal reasons."

A communist party statement indicated that Mueller was suspected of "Titoism" — communism independent of Moscow — as well as collaboration with the west.

Mueller, now 47, was named chairman of the Communist Youth Movement in Germany in 1931. He was arrested by Gestapo agents in 1944 and spent 11 years in concentration camps. Since 1948, he has been a deputy to the West-German communist chief, Max Reimann.

82 Volunteers Stay Behind To Protect Area

Winnipeg, May 12 — (CP) — Eighty-two stalwart volunteers equipped with six wreck' rations will stay behind to protect the St. Boniface Sanatorium in the submerged suburb of St. Vital.

Flood control headquarters announced early today that the valiant band will face complete isolation. St. Vital, lying east of the Red River, is 20 feet inundated. The sanatorium's 200 -odd patients have been evacuated.

In the group are 13 nuns, 25 nurses' aids and maids, a doctor, 28 maintenance personnel and 7 civilian volunteers.

Brig. R. E. A. Morton, making the announcement, said hospital superintendent Rev. A. C. Sinclair and his staff elected to stay to "keep the hospital from undergoing too much damage."

If the volunteers remain with the sole thought that by so doing they will be able more quickly to prepare the hospital for the return of its patients when the danger is past," he said.

The building, in the centre of a vast lake, is ringed by dikes 15 to 20 feet high. Brig. Morton estimated they could withstand a further rise of 5½ feet.

The staff has three draglines and four bulldozers behind their protecting dikes, and enough drugs to protect their health.

"Fever in the dikes were to break," Brig. Morton said, "the sanatorium . . . would be in no danger other than that of basement flooding."

He said evacuation in the case of an emergency would not "present any real problem."

The sanatorium's patients, 75 of them stretcher cases have been evacuated to other institutions in Winnipeg.

MAKE FINAL EFFORT

Brantford, Ont., May 12 (CP) — A final effort to avert a strike of some 1,700 employees at the Cockshutt Plow Company plant is scheduled for nine a. m. today at another conference between management and officials of Local 458, United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.)

The strike has been called for two p. m. today in a dispute over a shorter working week, pensions and hospitalization.

Labor Minister Charles Daley Thursday invited both sides to meet him in Toronto on Monday, with the stipulation that today's strike deadline be cancelled.

SUSPEND LAUREN BACALL

Hollywood, May 12 — (AP)— Warner Brothers Studio announced the suspension Thursday of Lauren Bacall, saying she had refused the role opposite Errol Flynn in a picture titled, "Rocky Mountain." It was the sixth suspension for the wife of movie tough guy Humphrey Bogart.

3,300 Reserve Members of RCAF Summer Training

Ottawa May 12 (CP)—More than 3,300 reserve members of 2,300 reserve members of the RCAF are expected to take flying and ground training this summer, reporting to air force stations for periods rangings from two to 20 weeks.

Air Force headquarters announced today that approximately 1,500 officers and men from their RCAF(R) auxiliary squadrons, and almost 1,000 university undergraduates will be included.

The summer training program will also offer ground training to 700 high school youths with the auxiliary squadrons.

Officers and men of 420 squadron, London, and 424 squadron, Hamilton, will camp at Muskoka airport, Gravenhurst, between June 24 and July 22.

Body of Bothwell Needs Protection Against Mould

Copenhagen, May 12 (Reuters) — The Earl of Bothwell who abducted and married Mary Queen of Scots and abandoned her when insurgent nobles caught up with the royalpair, escaped to Denmark.

His body was discovered 100 years ago in Denmark, where he had been imprisoned during the last 19 years of his life. It was in an excellent state of preservation. Even the hair was in place.

Since then he has been a tourist attraction in a North Zealand church where he lies in an unprotected case.

But now three patches of mould have appeared on his body and a "save Bothwell" appeal is being launched.

The Earl, a great figure in 16th - Century Scotland, was widely held responsible for the murder of Mary's husband, Darnley, although acquitted in court.

He abducted the Queen after the killing and married her when his own divorce had been arranged When confronted with insurgent nobles, the Earl abandoned his wife and fled to Denmark.

Woman at 115 Recovers Sight Through Surgery

Washington, May 12 — (AP) — A new world has opened for Mary Brooks at the age of 115.

Blind for many years because of cataracts on both eyes, the aged Negro woman has had her sight restored through surgery at Georgetown Hospital.

Thursday she was given her first pair of glasses. To test her vision, a doctor held up a piece of fruit and asked her if she could identify it.

"Yes," she said. "It's my orange. Put it down."

Fairbanks, Morse Plans to Enter Diesel Field

Chicago, May 12 — (AP) — Fairbanks, Morse and Company announced Thursday that it plans to enter diesel locomotive production in Canada.

President Robert H. Morse, Jr. said the firm and its sister concern, Canadian Fairbanks-Morse Company, have sought a substantial stock interest in the Canadian Locomotive Company, Kingston, Ont.

The latter company has a capacity of 15 steam locomotives a month but produces no diesels, he added. The company started business 100 years ago.

Morse said directors of Canadian Locomotive have approved the stock purchase plan and will submit it to their stockholders at a special meeting June 5. The company will be operated as a separate concern and will retain its present name, he added.

"This marks another forward step in our program to obtain a still larger part of the diesel railroad locomotive business," Morse said. "Canadian Locomotive Company is known throughout the world and its name will enhance our position in the locomotive field."

Officials and engineers of Fairbanks, Morse will go to Canada immediately to start tooling up for the manufacture of all types of diesel locomotives. Deliveries are expected to start this year.

Says Wife Followed When Man and Dog Moved From Town

Kearny, N. J., May 12 (AP) — Roy M. Canfield, 43, told police Thursday that his wife fed a neighboring real estate man's dog for a couple of years, and then went along when the man and the dog moved out of town.

"My wife said she couldn't bear to be separated from the dog," he said, "so they went off — he, she, and the dog."

He charged his wife, Frances, 38, with deserting him and their five-year-old child.

Manitoba Business Men Uncertain Of Outlook

Winnipeg, May 12 — (CP) — Manitoba business men don't know where they stand. The devastating floods through the whole Red River Valley leave the business outlook a big question mark.

Some businesses will boom when the floods subside. Millions of dollars worth of damage must be repaired — much of it quickly to make homes livable and industrial and retail premises fit for operation.

Business connected even indirectly with agriculture is at a standstill in the flood zone. When it will get back to normal will depend to a large extent on how fast the federal and provincial governments start pouring relief and rehabilitation funds into farming districts.

Farmers Destitute

Red River Valley farmers are destitute. All but a handful have had to be evacuated. Much livestock has been slaughtered because feed ran out. Farm homes have been inundated to the feet of water. Farm implements are rusting.

No one knows the crop prospects of land in the valley. Most experts forecast it will be weeks before the Red is back within its banks. It will be much longer before the river-bordering towns can be repopulated; and it is those towns which supply the farm community. Transportation will be handicapped for months.

The floods in 1948 were followed by excellent crops in the valley. But they were much less widespread; and the clean - up job was relatively short.

Rare Crop Failures

There is some doubt whether many farmers can get in crops at all this season. It that is so, the provincial government's budget forecast of a boom business year for Manitoba may have to be revised.

The Red River county is among the province's most prosperous agricultural areas in normal years. Crop failures are unknown there. And Manitoba, despite rapid advances in her industrial production, is still basically an agricultural province.

Bad times in the Red River valley can only be reflected in reverses in business activity in Winnipeg and elsewhere.

281 New Homes For Trenton RCAF Station

Toronto, May 12 — (CP)—Details of a recently - announced $6,500,000 housing program for army and air force bases in Ontario were made public yesterday by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The project calls for 220 houses at Camp Borden, costing approximately $2,500,000 altogether. At a total cost of about $500,000, 44 houses will be erected at Petawawa.

Some 32,000,000 will be used to put up 200 dwellings at Rockcliffe, adjoining Ottawa.

Trenton camp will be enlarged by 281 homes, costing $1,500,000 in all. At Centralia, near London, 73 houses will cost $1,000,000.

32nd House Goes up in Smoke

Nelson, B. C., May 12 (CP)— The 32nd house to be burned since April 14 went up in smoke Thursday in Krestova, nearby "capital" of the Sons of Freedom in Doukhobors.

At the same time, Board of Trade here decided to ask Attorney-General Gordon Wismer to appoint a three-man committee on the British Columbia government's special committee into the Doukhobor problem.

The home of Anton Kolesnikoff, released on suspended sentence in February, was burned Thursday. There were no arrests.

Police halted a band of 15 teenagers who marched from Krestova to the highway bridges at Crescent Valley. Police have been guarding the bridge for weeks to bottle up the Sons in Krestova.

The boys were in the nude and a number of girls were partially stripped.

Streets of Rimouski, Que., are like highways through a desert now. The fire which raged for 30 hours and levelled the homes of 2,500 persons burned everything but the picket fences of the frame structures. Relief funds and food are pouring in from many parts of Canada.—Central Press Canadian.

Kingsridge

By Alice Ross Colver

"He errs so far chiefly in being himself," Elizabeth retorted sharply.

"Yes," Audrey put in. "You don't know what a man like that is going to do. How far he'll go. Give him an inch and he'll take an ell. I—honestly, father, do you think it's safe? Because of Susan, I mean."

"Regardless of Susan, I think it's imperative."

"It's as safe for Susan as letting her go back to that school."

Franks belligerent tone brought a hot flush to Audrey's cheeks. But she only said, "All right, Frank." And, turning her glance toward her parents she went on. "This is a little off the subject. But Frank feels that I ought not to let Susan go back to school next week. I don't agree with him at all. His point is that the school would only bolster up her defense and interest in Gerry. While I say there's more to be considered than that. Because it we don't let her finish there she hasn't a chance of getting into any college next fall. Not a chance."

"Are you asking our opinion?" Elizabeth inquired. "I am under the impression that you are doing us that honor."

"Oh mother, don't be that way! If you have anything to say, for heavens' sake say it."

Elizabeth's blue glance shone coldly on her daughter. "Astonishingly enough, Audrey, this time I agree with you. Why keep Susan home? If she's here, she'll see more of Gerry than ever."

"There are other schools, aren't there?" Frank asked.

"Of course there are other schools." Audrey wondered if Frank had any idea how hard she was trying to be calm and patient before his unreasoning stubbornness. "But what you don't realize is that you can't make a transfer in the middle of the year without having Susan sent back. She'd never be allowed to graduate in June from any other place. Never in the world. Her marks aren't good enough. She's just getting by now. Besides, as I've said before, I don't think the best way to handle her is by opposition."

Frank's hard brown eyes stormed against Audrey's. Nothing had been right between them since he came home. Nothing.

"That's what you've always thought," he said. "That's why we're in this jam now. Don't oppose. Let her find her own way, instead of. . . ."

Audrey's voice shook slightly as she interrupted him. "We can't keep going over and over that, Frank. It gets us nowhere."

Elizabeth said, with ill-concealed satisfaction, "But Frank is right. You're simply reaping what you've sowed."

Frank spoke again. He was leaning forward in his chair, his heavy face turning a slow brick-red. He was sick and tired of the whole stupid mess. "So," he said, "she is to go back there where she will receive support in her crazy ideas." He addressed Steven. "What's back of it all is that she believes every individual can be reconstructed."

Steven said slowly, "wait. Wait all of you. I think I see a way." He paused considering. "Yes," he said. "I believe it will solve everything. But first I must telephone." He turned toward his son-in-law to give a courteous if belated consideration to his words "Well," he said, "she may be right."

"Steven really!"

Frank looked from Elizabeth to his father-in-law. Apparently he stood by himself in this threshold. Only Elizabeth, and she couldn't be counted on. In the last instance she listened to the Judge. She was listening to him now as he came back to the subject of inviting Gerald to dinner.

"Very well, tonight," she was saying, in stiff disapproval. "I suppose we might as well get it over with."

As she rose to go to ish telephone, rank got to his feet, too, and walked in silence out of the room. A few minutes later he walked out of the house. He did not hear the Judge's concluding ruminative words.

"The point is, of course, that we don't want to be the ones to risk the reconstruction."

Gerry put down the receiver and went slowly back to his room He had commandeered a cushioned brown wicker chair from elsewhere in the Inn, adding it to his meagre furnishings and it was into this that he dropped to consider the latest invitation to come to him.

He had accepted of course, taking wry pleasure in the words he chose for his acceptance. Why, thank you very much, he had said lightly, mockingly. "Very much, indeed. Susan and I had planned to have dinner together tonight and then we are with Donald and Jane Baird to the movies. Susan arranged it all. But, speaking for her, I'm sure she'll be delighted at your change of mind. Or should I say heart? Perhaps not. I wouldn't want to rush you. Anyway I'll tell her when she stops by on her way to her dessert-bridge or whatever she calls it, She's on her way now I believe."

He had fairly heard the gnashing of Elizabeth King's teeth.

He almost laughed aloud himself now. It had been a good moment, he told himself. But his was a tempered triumph for he knew very well that it was the Brandts and the Ferguson who had forced this dinner invitation. Actually he was no more acceptable than he had been a week ago.

His face darkened and then grew still darker as another thought occurred to him. Was this in the nature of a challenge? A plan to show him up? To embarrass him before Susan with a complicated array of knives and forks and other of the finer amenities of life? He struck the arm of his chair with a closed fist. Well, they would be surprised. Susan wouldn't care anyway.

Susan. For a moment the pulsing confusion that she had brought to him last Sunday morning when they had breakfasted together filled him again. He had seen her only once since then. She and Donald had rushed in on Tuesday to urge him to go stag to the New Year's Assembly Dance. They would introduce him to everybody, they promised. It would be a grand way for him to get acquainted.

"I just thought of it!" Susan had said, looking as if candles had been lit inside her. But when he had told her of Alicia's invitation, she had turned thoughtful. "Maybe that's a better beginning for you," she had said.

She had gone on then to explore all the dates she had accepted prior to Gerry's appearance. Dates that she could neither include him in nor get out of herself. "Because they're dinner or bridge of theatre junkets," she had explained. "You know! Even numbers. Or tickets all bought. Things like that. I'm terribly sorry. It means Friday night is my first free night. What will you do all that time?"

"Oh, I'll be all right."

She had surveyed him anxiously. "Will you really? You won't get lonely or downhearted or anything?"

"Look, Susie, he's managed quite a number of years by himself." Donald had suggested something But she had turned on him.

"You don't understand. So keep still. Gerry, Friday night is ours. Definitely. We'll do something — you and Donald and Jane and I—Okay?"

So it had been settled. But he had been lonely. And the time had dragged. And he was glad that Friday had arrived. Any moment now she would be here. She had telephoned from Jane's saying they would both stop before their bridge party. Jane wanted to meet him. And Susan wanted to tell him that their plans had stretched for tonight. So would he watch for them and when she tooted—Don was letting her have his car again—would he come right down because they would have only a minute?

"I can hardly wait," she had finished. "I've got so much to tell you! And you must have oodles to tell me, too."

"Hardly oodles."

Identity of Key Figure in Suit Not Disclosed

Montreal, May 12 (CP)— Identity of "Y-3," key figure in the $118,000 damage suit against Premier Duplessis, received an official cloak of secrecy Thursday from Mr. Justice Gordon C. MacKinnon.

"Y-3" special agent for the Quebec Liquor Commission, was brought into the case by Judge Edouard Archambault, appearing as a witness.

Judge Archambault testified that the agent had investigated the status of Frank Roncarelli, former Montreal restaurant owner, before his liquor licence was cancelled in 1946 Roncarelli launched the action against the premier in 1947 because of the cancellation which, Roncarelli said, forced him to sell his restaurant with heavy financial loss.

Name of the mysterious Mr. Y-3 would remain a secret, Mr. Justice Mackinnon ruled, because of the nature of his report on Roncarelli.

Went Ball for Witnesses

Judge Archambault, manager of the Liquor Commission at the time Roncarelli's licence was cancelled, said he had been informed that Roncarelli's "went ball for hundreds of Jehovah Witnesses in cases before the recorder's court, thus crowding procedure there."

When he also learned that Roncarelli held a liquor licence, Judge Archambault informed the premier. Mr. Duplessis asked that a complete report be obtained and special agent "Y-3".

The agent's report showed, said the judge, that Roncarelli, the bondsman, was the same man who held a liquor licence.

"I decided that Roncarelli's licence was to be cancelled," he added. "I communicated my decision to the premier and received his approbation, consent, permission even an order to do so."

Roncarelli's counsel A. L. Stein, asked what qualifications "Y-3" had to make such a report.

Red Cross Takes Over in Cabano As Army Retires

Cabano, Que., May 12. (CP)— The army left this fire-stricken town today, turning over administration of food, shelter, clothing supplies and maintenance of order to district committees of the Red Cross.

A group of 12 soldiers remained to guard the gutted Caisse Populaire (People's Bank) but they are scheduled to leave later today.

Meanwhile, more clothing and food supplies poured in for the 1,500 persons left homeless by Tuesday's fire. They are living in friends' homes and temporary shelters in various town buildings.

Dr. Sarto Sirois, district health officer, told of the need for medical supplies. He said the most serious fire effects are a form of hysteria in a number of women, insomnia, and fatigue. Many persons also are being treated for burns and cuts.

Dr. Jean Marie Tremblay, who works under Dr. Sirois in this mill town of 3,200 inhabitants, said First Aid medical supplies were sufficient for the time being. He said the Red Cross had promised aid until Sunday.

Dr. Alme Fortin and Dr. Edmy Latulippe, the only doctors in the town, said tonics, sedatives, Vitamin B and penicillin are needed for the worst-hit population.

So far there was no sign of an outbreak of disease. There were three cases of influenza. Dr. Tremblay admitted hygienic conditions were not all that they should be. However, return of normal water facilities Thursday virtually eliminated any chance of an epidemic.

Mayor Emilien Morin, who lost his home in the blaze, today continued to plan reconstruction with Canon Philippe Cyr, parish priest, of the town.

Earl Baldwin Resigns Post Due to Health

London, May 11—(Reuters) — The colonial office announced today that Earl Baldwin of Bewdley, 51-year-old governor and commander in chief of the Leeward Islands has resigned the post for "health and personal reasons".

He will be succeeded by K. W. Blackburne, 43, director of information at the colonial office since 1947.

London observers recalled that the Socialist son of Britain's prewar Conservative prime minister, the late Earl Stanley Baldwin, had been reported since his appointment in February, 1948, to have differed from the government on policy regarding development of the West Indies colony.

Lord Baldwin was recalled in January last year for consultations with Arthur Creech Jones, then colonial secretary, concerning "a frank and open speech" he made in the Leeward Islands parliament allegedly criticising London's colonial administration.

Leeward Islanders said frankly that their governor was "called on the carpet" for his too favorable" attitude towards them.

After seeing Prime Minister Attlee in March, 1949, the governor resumed duty and received a big reception from the Islanders on his return.

IMPOSES SENTENCE

Uxbridge, Ont., May 12 — (CP) — Crown Attorney Alex Hall said in court Thursday that "it's a one-man revolution against Canada when a man attacks a police officer in the execution of his duties." Magistrate J. C. Ebbs agreed with him and imposed a two months sentence on Alan Stewart, who admitted assaulting Police Chief James Swinson.

Mother Delivers Baby Daughter Without Doctor

Port Arthur, May 12 (CP) Without a telephone in her home to call a doctor, Mrs. Tom Cheetham early Tuesday delivered her own five-pound daughter, it was learned Thursday.

"It was never so surprised in my life," Mrs. Cheetham said Thursday in an interview.

She told how she awoke with a sharp pain early Tuesday, She got out of bed, walked to the kitchen but before she could lie down on the couch there, the baby was born.

Reaching for scissors on a shelf above the couch, Mrs. Cheetham "just closed my eyes and cut the umbilical cord."

Then, after washing the baby—her second—and wrapping her in a blanket, she put the infant in bed beside her and both slept till about 6 a.m. The only other person in the house was her two-year-old son Tommy.

Mrs. Cheetham said she waited until about 10 a.m. before crossing the road to a store to telephone her doctor.

The baby had not been expected until the end of June. Both mother and daughter Thursday were reported fine.

Mr. Cheetham, working out of Geraldton, Ont., for the CNR Transport Company, was notified by telegram and arrived here Wednesday by train.

BRANTFORD TO VOTE

Brantford, May 12 — (CP) Council officials said they will meet today to arrange a vote for issuance of 20-year debentures if a proposed $650,000 semi-auditorium is built. Alderman Fred Wood said the arena will be a revenue-producing proposition.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

A HOT ROD!

"There is" quoth the buxom-pardon-retound Flight Sergeant Rod Perlton, "such a thing as giving a fellow his right name. Being a hard-working (Yuk, Yuk) member of the Royal Canadian Air Force and as such, a public servant, I hereby demand that in future you desist, when referring to me in your estimable column from calling me 'Whatis-name'."

We informed the honorable flight sarge that in one sense he was lucky to get off as easy as that. When we were a trio of dog-legs in His Majesty's Canadian Armed Services (Groundhog Department) we were greeted with various names at various times. At least the one which we flung at the unsuspecting Perlton was printable. The army never got into print from a name-slinging point of view, at least. And for a good reason.

Anyway, the sarge eased his 245 pounds, plus uniform, belt and wetlet into the nearest chair, and proceeded to demonstrate how he graduated with honors from the Harry Hinton - Leo Kelly School of Applied Boosting for Fight Cards. There is, it appears, to be placed before the public gaze on May 22, a palsey-walsey bantling fistiffair pitting representing the three armed services, with a couple of civvies tossed in for flavor, at the sports hangar of the Trenton Air Station. We learned this when the Perlton fillibuster started at 940 hours sharp.

* * *

At 1040 hours he was still in low gear. He had unbuttoned his tunic as far as the belt, loosened his wedgy on the exchange table, and had looked longingly at a row of empty coke bottles nearby. But he held forth with keen gusto on the forthcoming do of the well-known shot we were not in any position to take a blot. By this time we had learned that Renny Lacelle, a navy bloke from Ottawa, a "sensational, colossal, stupendous" puncher (There must be an ex-Kingston Whig-Standard press agent faculty of the Hinton - Kelly College) would battle with one Mac Plouffe (You pronounce that like you blow out a candle) in the main five-round bout. Plouffe we gathered, this was at 1100 hours, is a rib busting, jaw-crushing semi-literate son of the Interpool, who can lick his weight in wildcats with a couple of kicks, four elbowers, and two jet fighters chucked in for good measure.

* * *

The whistle tooted for the lunch-hour. The sarge drew his belt in a couple of notches, said he had had a late breakfast after a spot of tennis and a plunge with aldekick Kelly," and added he regarded food as something to appreciate when there was time to eat it. He threw himself into second gear and murmured something about Joey Peters, "a starry gem in the Diamond Set," who would offer his body as a target for the lethal mitts of one Bill Snowball, RCAF, in the semi-final. Snowball, he added paradoxically, was "hotter than a turned-down landlord on rent day, and wotta a scrap this will be."

* * *

At 1400 hours, Rollicking Rod eased himself into high gear. He threw off dark looks heaved his way since then from the city desk. He settled sweetly at the managing editor, removed his boots, and parked his feet on the desk. He looked out the window, noticed it was still daylight, pinched a cigarette, and asked "Now where was I?". We gave him the correct answer, politely refrained from informing him as to where he could go, and settled down for another verbal battering. We weren't disappointed.

* * *

At 1500 hours he had not dropped his landing gear. By this time we had learned that Glen Dafoe, the "Trenton Windmill" will return to the headshaking wars against Herby Kenslerside, "a dynamic, slashing Dempsey-type who feared neither man nor beast and disdained the use of liniment that is good for ditto. Hap Fraser, Trenton RCAF, will battle Sig. Ansan, Kingston and Ray Lacelle will take on Gunner Devine and AC2 McCombe will tangle with AC2 Kasurak of Rockcliffe.

* * *

It was now 1600 hours, and the sarge gave no sign of tossing in the verbal sponge. He told us of the color, the figurative pomp that is characteristic of Air Force boxing shows in such a forceful manner that we could almost hear the thud of leather on flesh, and rataplan of feet, the roar of the crowd and other features. And he wound up by telling us of the bout between Dougie Hinton, popular pinweight fighting son of the sports boss-man and Lorne McMillan another pint-size pugilist who will usher in the proceedings.

* * *

At 1700 hours all was quiet in the editorial sanctum. The sarge had departed for home and beauty, with a sense of a duty well-done and if Professors Kelly and Hinton do not give him the equivalent of an Air Force Cross for a topflight public relations job, then the least they can do is give him a bar to his diploma. Or a bar, period. As far as we are concerned, they can reimburse us for medical services necessary during a severe attack of "Perlontis."

READY TO GO

Two of the most dynamic heavyweight wrestlers in the professional ranks today, and two vastly different types of matmen, will be the main bout opponents at the Memorial Arena tonight. Rapid Ray Villmer, the hurtling Mercules from St. Louis, will meet Bob "Strangler" Wagner, the rip-roaring Portland Cement-Mixer. Villmer is a popular, clean, fast and scientific wrestler, while Wagner is one of the roughest, toughest mixers ever to gouge an opponent. When they come to grips, the only thing that's certain is that the action will be terrific. Earl McCready will take on Sky-Hi Lee in the semi-final and in the opener, Al 'Krusher' Korman will tangle with Ray McClarity.

GOOD SHOW

Speedy St. Louis had over 35 aspirants for positions for the Belleville baseball team on Wednesday night, and apparently is well-pleased with the situation as at present. A practice has been called for tonight starting at six o'clock at the Fair Grounds.

Detroit Flag Talk Enlivened After Tigers Prove They Can Beat Red Sox at Fenway Park

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Red Rolfe's Detroit's Tigers Thursday ripped the sheets off the Fenway Park 'bogie man' And they did it without Hal Newhouser.

All Detroit pennant talk has been tempered with the big question:Ø "Can they beat the Sox in Boston?" the answer obviously is "yes."

They did it Thursday— twice. In the first game by a rollicking 13-4 score and later a 5-3 squeaker with the help of damaging errors by Ted Williams and Walt Dropo.

Failure to beat Boston cost the Tigers a shot at the 1946 pennant. In fact, they have won only 14 of 44 games with the Red Sox and away in the last two seasons.

Fenway was the real jinx. In their home park, the Red Sox smothered the Tigers nine games out of 11 in both 1948 and 1949. Detroit already has won as many games in Boston as it did all last season.

Joe Dobson just didn't have it and Freddie Hutchinson did in the 13-4 first game. Hutchinson had a three-hit shutout until Ted Williams hit his 8th homer with the bases loaded in the eighth inning All of Ted's homers have been hit at Fenway.

Williams Made Error

Thanks to Clyde Vollmer's two-run homer, Ellis Kinder rode into the eighth inning of the second game with a fancy shutout. Then Williams let him down. With the bases full, Williams let Vic Wertz' single skid past him for an error and three runs scored. Dick Kryhoski's homer and an error by Walt Dropo provided Detroit runs in the ninth. Dropo's homer in the home half was just a futile gesture.

New York took advantage of a double shot at St. Louis Browns to win a pair 5-1, and 6-5. As a result Yanks now are second a half game behind Detroit, and the Brownies nurse a six-game losing streak.

Cliff Mapes lowered the boom on Al Widmar in the opener, hitting a homer with two on that broke a 1-1 tie.

Mapes Routes Starter

Mapes routed starter Dick Starr in the second game with a pair of triples. The Browns came back to tie on Ray Coleman's three-run homer but Tommy Henrich's pinch single won for the Yankees in the seventh.

Washington crowded within a game and a half of Detroit by whipping Chicago 8-5, their fifth straight victory.

Manager Lou Boudreau took shortstop Lou Boureau off the bench and it worked. Lou came across with four hits in Cleveland's 9-5 edge over Philadelphia in 10 innings.

Willie Jones helped the Phillies add another half game to their National League lead.

Dick Wakefield Stands Suspended By N.Y. Yankees

New York, May 12 — (AP) — Outfielder Dick Wakefield Thursday night was suspended indefinitely by the New York Yankees, shortly after he had been tossed back to the New York club by Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

The Commissioner voided the recent deal which sent Wakefield to Chicago White Sox for outfielder John Ostrowski.

The temperamental Wakefield refused to report to the White Sox unless he got a $5,000 salary boost, making his pay $22,500.

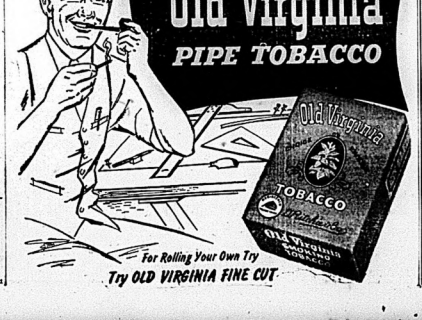
According to baseball law, an indefinite suspension may not exceed 30 days.

The outfielder now is at his home in Ann Arbor, Mich., where he said Thursday that he will "take a little more from George Weiss, general manager of the Yankees.

Weiss indicated his unwillingness to take back the one-time Detroit bonus player who was traded to the Yankees during the winter in a straight player deal that sent Hank Bauer and Dick Kryhoski to the Tigers.

Wakefield refused to report to Chicago, general manager Frank Lane of the White Sox said he was calling off the deal.

Weiss replied that the "deal was made in good faith" and he considered the outfielder the property of the White Sox.



The matter was tossed into the lap of Chandler, who said he had no choice but to "have the situation revert to the status that existed before the two clubs entered negotiations April 28.

Toronto Leafs Defeat Orioles By 7-6 Score

(By The Associated Press)

Ken Trinkle, 30-year-old relief pitcher of Toronto Maple Leafs, is making up for lost time.

Trinkle, obtained from the parent Philadelphia Phillies has appeared in each of the Leafs' last six International League games. The veteran righthander did not get into a single game with the Phils after appearing in 42 games in 1948.

Ken made his sixth straight relief appearance Thursday night and gained credit for the Leafs' 7-6 victory over Baltimore Orioles. It was his second consecutive victory.

Trinkle relieved Buzz Bowers in the eighth inning during a three-run rally that tied the score at 6-6.

The Leafs came right back to win in their half inning when Bobbergie tripled home pinch-runner Johnny Mayo. Bill Glynn clouted Baltimore starter Karl Drews for a three-run homer in the sixth.

Montreal's pace-setting Royals came from behind to defeat the Springfield Cubs, 9-5. The Royals overcame a 5-3 deficit with a six-run eighth-inning rally that Al Gionfriddo featured with a three-run four-master.

Rochester Red Wings turned back Syracuse Chiefs, 7-5. The Wings jumped on Dave Jolly for three runs in the first inning and never were headed. Don Richmond poked his fourth homer for the Wings to highlight the first-frame splurge.

Rookie Ken Wild started for Rochester and gained credit for his second victory without a loss, but required help from Dick Bokelman in the eighth.

Paddling Tandem Team of Canada Has Retired

(By The Canadian Press)

Doug Bennett and Harry Poulton one of Canada's outstanding paddling tandem teams, have retired.

The announcement was made Thursday at Montreal by Commodore Alex Albulet of the Excel Boating Club of Longueil for which the pair had paddled many seasons.

Pressure of business was the reason for retirement of both.

Both Bennett and Poulton were point winners for Canada at the 1948 Olympics although they had to paddle against European craft that had set rudders.

Bennett almost beat out the Czechoslovakian winner of the 10,000-metre singles classic .

Eddie Powers, who coached Hamilton Tigers to the Mann Cup two years ago and into the finals last fall likes the razzle-dazzle brand of lacrosse on the coast.

"It's a lot more entertaining game here (on the coast) than it is in the east," he said Thursday at Vancouver. "I'm not just being polite."

Powers went west several weeks ago to coach Kerrisdale-League which opened Monday

Frank Stranahan, under threat of a United States Golf Association ban, Thursday at New York apologized publicly to the Dallas Country Club for belittling remarks he made during the recent western amateur tournment, but insisted "it was all a mistake."

Stranahan, former Canadian amateur champion from Toledo, Ohio, was quoted as saying after his first round defeat that "anyone could beat me on this pitch-and-putt course."

He did not deny making the remark but said it was made to fellow players in the locker room and were accepted by them in the joking manner in which they were meant.

Sale of the Kansas City franchise of the United States Hockey League to the Pla-Mor Amusement Company was agreed upon Thursday at a meeting of representatives of Chicago Black Hawks and the Kansas City Company at Kansas City.

The sale by the Black Hawks was announced after a meeting of Bill Tobin, the Chicago National Hockey League club's president, and Maury Fogel of Pla-Mor. Tobin was forced to sell the franchise when he decided to take a United States League franchise in Milwaukee.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, May 12—(CP)—President was set in Toronto last week when the first Sunday organized ball game was staged, with the full blessing of Ontario and civic authorities, at the Maple Leaf Stadium.

Another "first" is scheduled this summer when twilight harness racing is scheduled for Thorncliffe Park July 3-18.

But these could be a start in fresh angles in sport, says Ted (Toronto Telegram) Reeve.

Reeve noted the twilight harness meet was "a new one on us" and predicted that "if it goes through and prospers, seems a certainty, we will eventually have night racing."

"That is certain, too, and if we watch traffic carefully and do not give out too often with our theme song, 'Circhoats Are Blocking in Bacardi,' we may live to see the day, or night, when the other bangtails are also running under the arc. It is coming in the States, and we are usually about one step behind, or only half a stride."

Ted goes a bit further and says that "another thing we will probably have hereabouts in the next five years is dog racing, legalized with mutuel machine betting."

"Don't leef, old chap, a year ago we didn't think we would have Sunday sport until Speedy Sixties but here it is established as solidly, . . . and it is the most natural dish in the world.'

Hot on Juniors

Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson, who watched Montreal Memorial Cup finals, figures the Canadiens whip Regina Pats in the Juniors passed "far more smoothly, and with better timing, than do the professional clubs."

Ferguson thought it may be that the defensive hockey of the kids is not so polished as that of the pro teams in the higher brackets "which would make their passing look better." But whatever the reason, "whether it's cohesion and fine timing, or just lack of defensive skill, it was really something to see."

He said this year's series was undoubtedly the most remarkable in one respect, in all the history of Memorial Junior hockey, from this standpoint: "both teams are sponsored by Canadiens of the National League, which has been among its future reinforcements an unbeatable array of midget and batam and juvenile winners all through Ontario and the west.

"We'd say that players like Morley MacNeil and Lorne Davis of Regina, Eddie Mooney, Emile Roche, Art Rose and Billy Goold of Canadiens, to name a few, will some time, either, and before very long, be wearing N.H.L. Canadiens jerseys."

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, May 12 — (AP) — Steve Owen, the football giants coach, hopes to use a two-team system instead of offensive and defence platoons next fall - - - "The platoons have worked out pretty well for me, but sometimes a player doesn't stay in there long enough to get mad," Steve explains - - - "When we had our long winning streak in the 1930s, I used one team in the first quarter and another in the second - - - We were playing the Bears and they had the ball on our one-yard line - - - The first team held them for two downs, then the quarter ended - - - I just asked the other boys, "Do you think you can hold 'em for two more? and sent them out - - - They took the ball on the one-yard line and that really was the making of that team."

One-Minute Sports Page

Birdie Tebbetts' improved batting average this season may be due to his golf swing, which he practiced for many hours - - - Eddie Blind, the hoss race starter, compares horses to children — "instinctive in their likes and dislikes and subject to all the notional vagaries of childhood." - - - They also have a childlike ignorance of the value of other people's money - - - Johnny Vergez, St. Mary's baseball coach who used to be a giant scout, proposes a four-point code for scouting - - - They might not have much trouble with the first three—consulting the coaches and academic authorities and refusing to offer "undercover lures," but No. 4 might be tough. It is better judgment will be used in appraising prospects." - - - Kansas City paper reports: "Stec Shra is an asset on the bench during a ball game." - - - Well, where else would you find him?

House Applauds Marlies in Taking The Allan Cup

Ottawa, May 12 — (CP) — Members of the Commons Thursday applauded Toronto Marlboros in winning the Allan Cup Wednesday night by defeating Calgary Stampeders in Edmonton.

David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) said he was sure the House would join with him in extending congratulations to the winners and the losers.

There were some good-natured boos when he said that the Allan Cup now will rest in Toronto "where all good things are found in abundance."

There was some laughter when Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary East) said he wanted to congratulate the Marlboros for winning the cup for the first time in 18 years. He praised the sportsmanship of the two teams.

Rev. Dan McIvor (L—Fort William) said in honor of winning the cup belonged to Fort William —the home town of Danny Lewicki, the Marlboro' star player.

Ladies' Section Of Golf Club Completes Plans

The ladies' section of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club held a meeting Thursday night with a good attendance and much enthusiasm. Mrs. Bulger, the president, was in the chair.

Many coming events were discussed, the highlight being the annual open "Field Day" on August 12. The various competitions among members will start Saturday June 3, teeing off time being 2 p. m.

It was also decided to have weekly games on Tuesdays starting at 10 a. m., playing 9 holes, having lunch and then playing the balance of the 18 holes.

The qualifying round for the Lanier Cup will be held Saturday July 8, and qualifying round for Club Championship on August 19.

The ladies are planning to entertain out of town teams from Kingston, Peterborough, Port Hope, Cobourg, Picton, Napanee and Trenton.

Canasta parties for alternate Saturday nights was also discussed.

A succesful year is anticipated.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Xibitzer

Bridge week requires a flock of auditors who shuffle a mass of seemingly meaningless figures. But it all comes out to an exact balance when the totals are checked and double checked.

As an example, take a duplicate match or 21 tables. Each north-south pair and each east-west pair takes as their number the numeral of the table at which they start; 21 pairs of each.

Deals move from table to table in one direction; players in the other. Thus each pair plays once with the opposite pair for one deal and no pair ever sees the same deal the second time.

The score sheet travels with the deal. At the end of the match each score sheet shows what each pair did with that deal. Scores of each pair are compared with each of the other pairs.

Each north-south pair gets one match point for each north-south pair with a lower score in this deal; a half a point for each tie. Each east-west pair gets the same comparison with each east-west pair.

Each deal is thus reduced to match points acquired by each pair. These match points are transferred to a master sheet. Auditors total the match points on the master sheet for each pair.

Take a deal like the one you see here:

NORTH
♥Q 5
♦A 8 6 4 3
♣K 7 4
♠Q 6 2

WEST
♠J 10 9
♥J 9 7
♦10 5
♣K J 8 7 5 4

EAST
♠A 7 6 3
♥8
♦Q 9 8 2
♣10 9 3

SOUTH
♠K 8 4 2
♥K Q J 10 2
♦A J 6 3
♣None

At table five the north-south pair bid and made six hearts. So did the north-south pair at table nine. Each got a score of 1430.

None of the other north-south pairs reached small slam. So, pairs nine and five got a half point for a tie and 19 points more, one for each of the other north-south pairs with a lower score.

Their east-west opponents thus got the lowest scores of any of the east-west pairs on this deal. So, each of these two east-wests got only a half a point each on this deal.

Some survive the rigors of getting lower figures.

AT THE CAPITOL — "Ringo" goes into action — Star William Elliott is embroiled in a rugged fist fight with badman Roy Barcroft in a scene from Republic's thrilling outdoor adventure, "The Savage Horde," which is at the Capitol Theatre today and Saturday. For added thrills, on the same program, "Post Office Investigator", starring Audrey Long and Warren Douglas. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00. Doors open at 12.30.

Farmer, Wife Found Dead In their Home

Sudbury, May 12—(CP)—Two persons, a chicken farmer and his wife, were found dead of gunshot wounds Thursday by provincial police who broke into a tiny frame house a mile or so east of here.

The couple was Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon B. Hughes. Police went to the place after a woman telephoned provincial police headquarters to report trouble at the farm.

When Cpl. R. H. Pepper of McKim township arrived he found the doors locked. He and other officers then broke in.

Police gave no further details. Mrs. Hughes had been in poor health for several years. Last year the couple were burned out and then built the house in which their bodies were found.

APPROVE NEW LAW

Rome, May 12 — (AP) — The Italian Senate Thursday approved a new national anti-divorce law intended to halt easy marriage annulments such as the one which left film director Roberto Rossellini free to wed actress Ingrid Bergman. The new act permits public prosecutors to appeal marriage annulment decrees—all the way to the supreme court.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, May 12 — (AP) — Does winning an Oscar help a star?

"Not much," answers two-time winner Fredric March, back in Hollywood after a two-year absence. He is here to act in a six-day role that another actor turned down.

Please shed no tears for Mr. March. He is still one of Hollywood's most sought and highly paid actors. He is here to act in one of the sequences in the all-star "It's a Big Country." The part was vacated by Edward G. Robinson, who reportedly didn't like his billing. (It will be alphabetical.)

Answering the question about the advantages of winning an Academy Award, March said: "The first one I got ('Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde' in 1932) didn't have much effect. That was when Oscar was young and the awards didn't get much publicity.

"The latest one (for 'Best Years of Our Lives' in 1946) did not make much difference, either. It might help someone who is new to pictures, but it would not bring any change to someone who has been in the business as long as I have."

Stage Career

The actor's stage career has not flourished of late. He recently closed on Broadway in "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep," which suffered a grave deficit. But his biggest laugh — he's in the happy position of being able to view such things humorously — was turning down "Death of a Salesman."

Director Elia Kazan and playwright Arthur Miller, who are March's friends and neighbors, wanted him to do it.

"They sent me the script . . . I was tired and I hardly had time to skim through two acts. The part looked awfully long and the whole thing seemed confused. So I sent the script back and said, 'No, thanks.'

"When I got back and read about the raves the play got in Philadelphia I began to wonder 'Good Lord, what have I done?' "

The play went on to win the Pulitzer, Critics Circle and four other prizes and March has been kicking himself ever since.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

Little Benny's Note Book

I w downtown with ma to nee at his office and eat out for a change, and the way we went in a Carry All drug store on account of ma wanting to save money on a lip stick, and on the way out again I said, G, ma, look, you can get warped for nuthing.

Meening a scale near the door with a sine on it saying, Your Weight Free, Compliments of the Carry All Drug Stores.

Well, what a nice thawt, I think that's very nice, ma said.

And she got on the scale and he hand went around without waiting for a cent, and ma said, That's rediculus, that's absurd, I way at least 2 pounds less than that, and I could go to court and prove it. It's outrageous to trap people into thinking they're overweight so they'll run back to the drug department in a panic and buy pills to cut their appetite. I declare I'd take this lip stick rite back and make them return my money if I knew any place where I could get it as cheap. Well, they dont need to think they've fooled me, that's one satisfaction, she said.

And we kept on going till we came to a pay scale in front of a stationary and cigar store, and ma got on it and put a cent in, saying, There, that bares me out, I was 3 whole pounds less than the Carry All people tried to you anything for nuthing, no matter what their sines say. You have got to pay for everything you get in this sad world, and I crooked scale, she said.

Then G, ma, why did you get on it? I said, and she said, Because of my blind and incurable faith in so-called human nature.

PICTON

24-Hour Service For Glenora Ferry After June 1st

Picton—June first will see the inauguration of 24-hour service at the Glenora-Adolphustown ferry crossing, it was announced at the meeting of Quinte's Isle (Prince Edward) Tourist Association, Wednesday night. The all-night service will continue through the summer months.

President Dr. J. Lawson Mackie of the Sand Banks stated that there appeared to be no room for pessimism in regard to the outlook for the tourist industry this year.

The Association favored the Chamber of Commerce suggestion of a ladies' night on June 8, with Hon. Louis P. Cecile, Minister of Travel, as guest speaker. Association members and also members of the C.C., its sponsor.

A membership of 50 was reported and fees will help finance a tourist information bureau.

Invites Officer

The medical officer of health is to be invited to the next meeting to give pointers on sanitation and other matters at resorts.

The increased hydro service charge on electric service to cottages imposes a hardship on those who provide tourist accommodation, stated Iva K. Emorey, Wauposs. It was felt an increased service charge is more directional than an increased rate for the actual electric consumption. The secretary was instructed to write the hydro chairman to ask for information concerning increased rates for cottage service charges.

HOPE TO DISCOVER CAUSE

Montreal, May 12 — (CP) — Hope for discovery of the cause and cure of multiple sclerosis—a disease that brings paralysis and sometimes death from causes at present unknown to medical science — was expressed here Thursday at opening of the Dr. Colin Russel Physiotherapy Centre for multiple sclerosis.

Dutch Princess Chosen to Lay Corner-Stone

London, May 13 — (CP) — A little Dutch princess who formed her first words in Canada is to lay a corner-stone in London in July.

Ten-year-old Princess Irene of The Netherlands, second in line to Holland's throne, will inaugurate the rebuilding of the Church of Austin Friars in the city of London, oldest Dutch church in the world outside The Netherlands.

Previously it had been announced that Queen Juliana would perform the ceremony but plans now are for her daughter to officiate, with the Queen probably accompanying her.

Princess Irene's name already is familiar to former Canadian soldiers. Canadian-trained Netherland troops, formed into the Princess Irene Brigade, fought during part of the Second World War as part of the first Canadian army.

The little girl was brought to England during the May, 1940, flight from Holland of The Netherlands Royal Family and government. Christened a month later in the private chapel at Buckingham Palace, she then, with others of the family, spent the remaining years of the war at Ottawa.

GOVT. GIVES BLESSING

Tokyo, May 12 — (AP) — The Japanese government today gave Princess Taka, second daughter of the Emperor, its blessing for her May 20 wedding to Toshimichi Takatsukasa, a commoner. The government formally appropriated 4,875,000 yen ($13,500) for the wedding.

ARMY GIVES UP FIGHT TO REOPEN BRIDGE

AFTER THE BREAK

These Leighton Ave., East Kildonan homes in Greater Winnipeg were on dry ground at 8 p.m. Wednesday. By 9.30 p.m. water from a breached dike, one-third of a mile east, had trickled up to the lawns. Early Thursday, the homes stood in three feet of water. Here R.C.M.P. constables prepare to move E. A. Wilson from his home where he had returned to salvage blankets and clothes.—(CP Photo.)

UNION OFFICIAL EXPECTS HEAVY STRIKE VOTE

Montreal, May 13. (CP)—A spokesman for 15 international brotherhoods said Friday night he expects "a heavy strike vote" from 8,000 Canadian Railway employees who rejected a wage-hours compromise with the companies.

Frank R. Hall, chairman of the Unions' Conference committee, said the strike vote will be taken "because all other means of settling the dispute have been exhausted."

The strike-vote decision was made after the unions informed the federal labor minister that a compromise proposal of a conciliation board was unacceptable. The unions are seeking a five-day, 40-hour wage increase.

Ballots will be sent out during the next week, Mr. Hall said, but he was not sure when the result will be known. Returns had to come in from all parts of the country, he said.

Another Pending

A strike vote is also pending among the 30,000 members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.C.L.) involved in a similar dispute with the railroads.

The brotherhoods and the C.B.R.E., which has demanded a shorter work week and a 44 cents-hourly increase among other things, are in the non-operating category of employees. They do not operate the trains but work in railway shops, offices, hotels and restaurants and on maintenance-of-way duties.

In a letter to the Labor Minister, the 15 brotherhoods said the Conciliation Board had ignored evidence submitted by the unions and had been intimidated by "the

WEATHER SYNOPSIS:

Toronto, May 13 — (CP) — Synopsis: Rain fell over Central Ontario during the night and this morning as a disturbance sped across the Georgian Bay and Haliburton regions. This disturbance gave rain over the Red River Valley 24 hours earlier.

Another disturbance over northern Manitoba this morning appears to be following the trail of its predecessor and will give some rain to Central Ontario Sunday.

Prague, May 13 — (Reuters)— The British Information Service and the British Council closed their offices in Prague at noon today in accordance with the demand of the Czechoslovak government on which Friday announced the Anglo-Czech cultural agreement.

The government had called for the closing of all British Information and British Council offices throughout the country by mid-day in a note accusing British of using them and the British Broadcasting Corporation for activities hostile to Czechoslovakia.

Hundreds Jam Offices

Hundreds of Czechoslovaks of all ages jammed the Information Service offices in one of Prague's main streets to get English reading matter before they closed.

Police controlled the crowd outside the building.

From the lively sidewalk small groups were let into the building where they loaded themselves with English books, periodicals, magazines and other reading matter which were freely distributed.

The British Council, also ordered to close by mid-day, was similarly engaged in distributing hundreds of old copies of English magazines and periodicals.

The Czechoslovak government in a note Friday denounced its 1947 cultural agreement with Britain.

The government accused British diplomats of conducting — through the BBC, the British Information Service and the British Council — activities hostile to the Czech republic and incompatible with the letter and spirit of the cultural agreement.

The note accused the British Information Service of employing persons carrying out subversive activities.

Last April the government took similar action against the United States, ordering the U. S. Information Services to close.

U.S. Air Force Officer Sucked From Plane 28,000 Feet in Air

Fort Worth, Tex., May 13 — (AP) — A United States Air Force lieutenant was sucked from a B-36 bomber 28,000 feet in the air — late Friday.

Maj. Edward Easley, plane commander, reported that no crew member saw a parachute open.

The accident apparently was caused by a failure of the pressure gauges in the giant bomber. The bombardier's window was ripped open over Salome, Ariz.

Name of the missing flier was withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

On March 10, 1947, a similar accident occurred when Navigator George B. Hart, 32, was sucked from a Trans-World Airlines Constellation airtodrome and plunged four miles into the Atlantic Ocean.

Flight Steward John Harris, 28, was killed Nov. 11, 1950, when the door of a Pan American Airways Goeing stratocruiser blew open and he was sucked from the craft while trying to repair the door.

WEST FARMERS HOLD THE FLOOR MOST OF DAY

Most of Them Critical Of Agriculture Minister

Ottawa, May 13 — (CP) — It was Farmers' Day in the Commons Friday — Western Farmers' Day.

Members from Canada's western agricultural areas held the floor most of the day. They had plenty to say, most of it critical, to Agriculture Minister Gardiner. The opportunity was afforded first when Mr. Gardiner introduced amendments to the Prairie Farm Assistance Act, under which western farmers suffering drought or other disasters get financial help. Another, even wider, opportunity came when Mr. Gardiner brought his departmental estimates in for consideration.

But there was so much talking that only item of the estimates totalling $57,000,000 — got through.

Everything from wheat to hogs and tree fruits came in for discussion. There was criticism of the proposed P.F.A.A. amendments and other facets of agricultural policy. There also were some suggestions and a few personal pats on the back for the minister.

Big Three Ministers End Parley Assured of Unified German Policy

London, May 13 — (AP) — The west's Big Three Foreign Ministers today gave urgent consideration to strengthening the Middle and Far East economically and militarily against Russian aggression.

In their final day of conferences before the meeting of Atlantic Pact Foreign Ministers, the diplomats — Ernest Bevin of Britain, Dean Acheson of the United States and Robert Schuman of France — dropped the problems of the Germans and Europe temporarily to take up eastern affairs.

Officials of the conference

Officials of the conference said the ministers felt "far east problems are urgent and definite decisions are needed and must be taken quickly."

It was expected that communiques to be issued later today would lay down general policies for future Big Three moves in Europe, but might be more precise and decisive on Far Eastern problems, particularly Indo-China.

It was unlikely anything would be done on the German question since Britain has recognized the sovereign regime and France and the United States has not.

Middle - East problems to be considered were mainly economic, rather than military. The United States was reported to feel considerable concern, for example, about strengthening the economic position of Iran's government.

Full Incorporation

Friday the Foreign Ministers made formal an agreement on full incorporation of West Germany into the Western European family.

It was likely that most decisions on Germany would not be made public, but would be left to the occupation powers' high commissioners to communicate to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government in Bonn, Germany.

Acheson made the German plan one of his top projects for the meeting which reviewed the progress of the anti - "communist world in economic, political and military spheres.

The French, who brought two dramatic surprise proposals to the conference, had one turned down and the intentions of the other approved.

It was learned that Schuman brought up Premier Georges Bidault's proposal for a "supreme Atlantic Council for peace."

Britain and the United States turned thumbs down on the plan because it would superimpose another organization on the many already linking the countries of Western Europe, an informed source said.

Wins Guarded Approval

The Schuman plan for pooling the coal and steel resources of France and Germany under international authority, which other countries would be invited to join, won guarded approval in principle, a Western spokesman said.

The spokesman said the ministers could not take any definite stand on the plan, however, until all the details were surveyed.

The Big Three Foreign Ministers issued a separate statements on Germany. One reaffirmed their intention to stay in Berlin and to seek free elections in the city so that it "may take its place in a free and united Germany."

The other accused Russia of "grave disregard for human rights," charging she had failed to return all Germans and Japanese taken prisoners of war by Soviet troops.

Says Egyptian Royalty May be Asked Leave US

Cairo, Egypt, May 13—(AP)—Cairo newspapers said today the United States government is expected to ask Egypt's Queen Mother Nazli, her daughter Princess Fathyia and the latter's commoner bridegroom Riad Ghali, to leave the United States "in the coming few days."

Dispatches from the Washington correspondents of Al Misri, Al Ahram and Akher Saa and from El Yom said the U.S. has refused to extend their residence visas.

The Queen Mother has consented to her 19-year-old daughter's marriage April 29 to Ghali, a physicico and has been trying to obtain visas ahead of the match from her son, King Farouk, who publicly disapproved of the wedding.

Queen Nazli and her daughter, Princesses Fakiah and Fathyia, have been in the United States since 1946. Riad Ghali, a Christian Coptic, is the Queen's political adviser. Previously he was a Moslem.

The Moslem religion forbids the marriage of Moslem women with non-Moslems.

It was reported that Egypt, in talks at government level with the United States, had asked that the Queen Mother and Princess Fathyia be ordered to leave the U.S.

8,000 EVACUATED FROM SUBWAY TRAINS

New York, May 13—A Manhattan-to-Queens trains broke down in the fast river tunnel of the Independent Subway System during the rush hour Friday night, causing 8,000 persons to be evacuated from underground trains and disrupting traffic over a wide area. POLICE TRAP TWO NOTORIOUS U.S. CONVICTS AT SOO

Escape From Prison After Staging Holdup

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., May 13 (CP) — Police said Friday night they have trapped two notorious United States convicts — brothers Lloyd and Paul Russell — in dense woodland near here.

The desperadoes, described by officers as vicious and ready to shoot to kill if cornered, escaped from a Toledo, O., prison May 8 and staged a $4,000 robbery.

Three aircraft, speedboats of the United States Coast Guard and more than 100 officers and armed civilians are hunting the pair. They are believed hiding between the St. Mary's River, Tolly Swamp and the Barbeau woodlands — about 20 miles from here.

Six shots were fired when the brothers were sighted Friday. All the shots missed and they fled into the bush.

The manhunt was touched off when Paul, 24, asked a hardware store dealer at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., if he could purchase a gun. Then he inquired, police said, how he could get into Canada without surrendering his automobile registration.

The merchant became suspicious, took down the automobile licence and called police.

Police said Paul and his 29-year-old brother abandoned the car when they closed in. Their getaway car was stolen from Toledo after the escape. Owner of the vehicle, Joseph Grubstein, 46, was found dead since May 8 and foul play is feared.

Sgt. J. L. Campbell of Michigan State Police said here Friday: "We got right in on them four times today, but they proved tricky and eluded us."

$10,000 Necklace

Barcelona, Spain, May 13 (AP) —The emerald necklace, valued $10,000 which Frankie Sinatra brought from New York Thursday was finally been delivered to its actress friend, Ava Gardner.

The Spanish customs, which had detained the necklace for a day and promised Ava she was free to take it, gave it to Spain without further red tape when she leaves.

Meanwhile, Frankie and Ava avoided reporters and photographers. They remained at the house the Hollywood actress rents in the tiny Catalan village of Tossa on the Mediterranean coast.

At Tossa, Ava is making a movie with British actor James Mason and a Spanish actress, Mario Cabre, said to be playing a leading role with Ava just now, both in the set of pictures and Frankie's arrival on the scene, before Ava made a polite exit. He is at nearby Gerona.

Radio Operator, Marooned for Nine Days in Station, Gives Flood Picture

(Written for the Canadian Press) by Bernard Brigden

Winnipeg, May 13 (CP) — I'm so tired I can hardly talk.

I just came in from radio station CKRC's transmitter.

My two assistants and I were marooned out there for nine days by the Red River flood. We have been trying to protect the transmitter and the building but the flood was too much for us.

It's in St. Vital, just east of the Red River. It's the only place around here with a water in a huge lake.

We started sandbagging our own place and trying to keep the station operating on a 24-hour basis. But before we finished we wore a clearing house for feeds, a supply centre and a dock for rescue boats.

The whole area is desolated. Most of the people are now in relative safety. Most of them were

Link Across River Between Winnipeg And St. Boniface

Red River Holds Steadily For Six Hours in Night

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Central Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, May 13 — (CP) — The army announced early today it is giving up its fights to reopen the Norwood bridge, vital link across the flooding Red River between Winnipeg and St. Boniface, Man.

Troops and diking equipment were to be withdrawn immediately, Brig. O. M. Kay announced at 6 a.m. CDT. Residents of a relatively-small area of Fort Rouge district, at the Winnipeg end of the span, would be evacuated within three days.

Sound trucks moved through the streets immediately to warn residents.

The announcement came as a surprise to the flood-besieged cities on either bank of the Red. Through the night the river held steady for six hours, then rose only one-half inch by dawn.

Norwood Bridge, until water got too high at the Winnipeg end, had been the main supply artery for the huge Norwood dike skirting part of St. Boniface. For several days, efforts to reopen it had been a big-priority project.

Brig. Kay, a deputy flood-control commander, said he stopped shipment of diking supplies to the bridge shortly after midnight.

"The reports of flood-control engineers have assured us that our efforts to repair the bridge on approach for traffic of all kinds was a losing battle," he said in a statement.

All Dikes Imperilled

"In addition, all the dikes in the area were being imperilled. Our operations were proving dangerous to the structure itself."

The area which will be flooded in Fort Rouge is bounded on the east by Main Street, on the west by Clarke, on the north by the Assiniboine River and on the south by the Red. This is equivalent to some 20 city blocks of residential and industrial property.

The land is across the Assiniboine River from the Canadian National Railways Station and Fort Garry Hotel.

Even before this new inundation, six square miles of the twin cities were under conquest.

From 8:00 p.m. C.D.T. until 2:30 the level of the Red and its two tributaries, the Assiniboine and Seine, stood pat at 30 feet exactly. Then, toward dawn, a half-inch rise took place.

Fifth as New Earth

It was a break for mud-splattered, sack-scratched dike workers. Through the night bulldozers, trucks and draglines piled new tons of earth and sand at danger spots—and there are many—along the leaking protective barriers.

They held their own and perhaps gained a little.

And the rivers 'rise was definitely slowed from the pace of earlier this week.

Last Tuesday, army engineers plotted rises averaging one-quarter inch an hour. Since 10 p.m. Thursday the increase has been just about one-fifth on the average.

But for the twin cities of Winnipeg and St. Boniface which, with their suburbs, make up the 75 square miles of greater Winnipeg, the danger was great.

60,000 People Moved

The greatest mass evacuation in Canadian history got under way as least 40,000 people out of the flood ravaged cities by early today. Many thousands more prepared to leave during the weekend. Army officials said the peak was at a premium.

Army flood-control authorities urged a "thinning out" of greater Winnipeg's 350,000 population grown even larger since floods by refugees from inundated Red River villages south to the international boundary.

"An estimated 65,000 persons have already left," they said.

"We are still in danger," said a top official of the city. E. A. Morton's flood-control headquarters in the Manitoba legislative building here also overflowing Assiniboine.

The trouble is far from over . . . The road is still uphill," said Premier Douglas L. Campbell in a radio broadcast recommending more evacuation.

Fifteen baskets of groceries were won at the afternoon session and 15 at the evening; as well as butter, eggs, cases of peas, honey, milk tickets, theatre tickets, chocolates, cases of soft drinks, suit-cleaning permits, car-wash, parking and nylon hose.

A pleasing feature of the evening's session was the entertaining number rendered by the Northern Electric quartette.

Splendid attendance was noted at both sessions.

Little Girl Rides Tricycle into Side Of Bread Wagon

Dragged several feet when a bread delivery wagon horse moved forward after she had ridden her tricycle into the side of the wagon, Angeline Hay, daughter of Mr. Donald Hay, 18 St. Charles Street, yesterday afternoon suffered bruises to both hips and below the eye.

The little girl was taken to hospital where examination later but no bones were reported broken. She was attended by Dr. F. R. Ross.

A Brown's delivery wagon had stopped outside the little girl's house and she had ridden her tricycle into the side of the standing wagon with result that the horse moved forward dragging the girl several feet on the roadway. Driver of the wagon, Jack Grille, had just stepped out the opposite side of the wagon when the accident occurred.

Shopping Surveyor Offers Suggestions to Merchants To Boost Sales Volume

Compared to retailers in the larger metropolitan areas, Belleville merchants have several advantages in their favor which are not being exploited fully at the present time, Mrs. Ombra Dill, a shopping surveyor who had been conducting a survey in Belleville stores during the past week told members of the Retail Merchants Association last evening at a meeting in the Y.M.C.A.

She cited eight advantages which local stores could utilize to their own advantages.

These were: (1) the desire of women purchasers to buy in smaller stores; (2) the specialized merchandising and personalized service that smaller stores can offer; (3) a small shopping area with shops within walking distance of each other; (4) a main street free of tramways; (5) customers can see displays on both sides of the street at the same time; (6) comfortable, uncrowded stores; (7) parking in the shopping area; (8) low rents and property prices compared with those in large centres.

Four Disadvantages

She also pointed out four disadvantages that confronted local retailers.

These were: (1) volume consumer purchasing in larger cities leading to lower costs for metropolitan retailers; (2) smaller buying public did not produce sufficient demand for a greater variety of goods; (3) larger stores can send their buyers to the U. S. and Europe; (4) large stores can spend more money on display advertising.

Mrs. Dill commenting the results of her survey Mrs. Dill explained the methods she used in gathering her information.

Visited 12 Stores

She covered 12 types of retail stores including stationery and books, women's shoes, jewelry, drug stores, men's wear, women's specialty shops, furniture, hardier, cotton and lingerie, furniture, millinery and bakery. In each case she assumed the role of an average woman shopper.

Mrs. Dill did merchandising and sales and promotion work for the Hudson Bay Company for five years. She was associated with the T. Eaton Company for some time before that, and was employed by the government to do publicity work for war bonds and victory loan drives during the war.

Constructive Criticism

The present advertising techniques of city merchants came in for considerable criticism from the surveyor.

She said the local residents generally and newcomers in particular, also offered a chance and variety of merchandise offered in the city. Too often consumers must adopt a word-of-mouth, hunt and find system to discover if the goods they wish to buy are sold locally, she declared. Frequently they go to Toronto simply because they know where to find something.

Window displays also could be improved, Mrs. Dill said, and indicated that small windows which predominate here are frequently an advantage. "With a small box window you can create a display that tells a story and introduces the element of action making the merchandise you wish to feature stand out. It does not require a $1000 to create an original window that appeals to the average woman shopper's imagination and her love of color and drama," she emphasized.

Some Poor Salesmanship

Turning to the actual salesmanship within the stores, she said that many were doing a good job, but that too many were not.

The speaker suggested the need for training sales personnel in salesmanship and indoctrinating them with a certain amount of knowledge both about the merchandise they were selling and the establishment in which they were working.

Too often she had to suggest the next sale to the clerk she declared. In only four of the 12 stores visited did she receive an invitation to return and seldom was she informed of future bargain days or sales that might have been of interest to the customer.

Lack of Interest Shown

The most common factor was a lack of interest, Mrs. Dill felt.

"A sales person must have imagination, have a genuine interest in people and enthusiasm for the line in which he works and for the merchandise he is selling," she said. "A manager's first job is to sell the staff up to the employee."

Employee training requires time and study on the part of management, the surveyor emphasized, but she realized that the small store has little time for staff training.

If possible, the store manager should use such outside sources as sales classes and style magazines to capture the interest of the sales staff. She suggested that it would be wise to set aside a definite period each day or day or week to give sales instruction. Whenever it is feasible, the store management should allow the sales personnel to go into the market themselves to let them see what goes on behind the scenes. Still another method is comparative shopping by the store staff to see how the competitor's goods clothe the price, and style from their own.

Offers Suggestions

Turning to the difficulty of assessing future trends and customer demand, Mrs. Dill said that the clerk should note any requests for items that could not be filled. Then a weekly survey of these requests should be made by the manager among his sales staff to ascertain if there is a growing demand for that particular type of merchandise.

As is done in the large department stores, the sales clerk should keep a customer's note book, to learn the identity of the person he is serving. This type of personalized service is considered to be of the utmost importance by the large retailers across the country, Mrs. Dill declared.

Referring to the approaching summer tourist season she described how clerks offered a chance to do some sales training in advance.

Should Offer Information

Local stores could have information concerning duties and regulations available for American summer visitors, and, if possible, should be able to tell them whether Canadian prices on certain lines of merchandise are higher or lower than prices for the same type of goods on sale in the United States.

"We do not realize how much ill feeling is engendered by leading tourists to believe that prices of certain articles are cheaper in Canada only to have them go home and find the identical merchandise on sale for the same if not a lower price," she said.

"A shopping trip in Belleville is definitely not an ordeal," Mrs. Dill concluded, "and it could be a pleasure."

Heavy Buying Of All Produce Seen in Market

9th Anti Tank Regt. to Hold Special Parade

An innovation in training will be introduced at the Bridge Street Armouries on Tuesday night next when the 9th Anti Tank Regiment (SP, ALL) will hold a semi-regimental get-together.

It will be first informal regimental assembly to be held and will bring together in various phases of training representatives of the 3rd, 32nd, 34th and 47th Batteries, units composing the regiment.

Batteries will hold individual parades, drill, etc., as well as training in mechanical transport, motorcycles, gun drill and other regimental forms of activity.

A feature of the parade will be the selection of the four best-dressed gunners present, one from each battery. The gunner selectees will be escorted to the various messes of the regiment by Lieut.-Col. D. M. McGregor, commanding officer, the battery commanders, adjutant and the regimental sergeant major.

Interest in the work of the 9th Anti Tank Regiment has increased during the past few months, it was stated. Strengths of the various batteries have been upped considerably by the acquisition of recruits, but all units have plenty of room for more.

Westerner Grateful To Metis

We arrived in Canada in the spring of 1903 and worked in Manitoba for the first year, Henry Caswell writes in The Regina Leader-Post.

We took up our homestead the same fall in the Pile Hills district which is about 27 miles north of Balcarres.

In the spring of 1904, we had to ship our car of settlers' supplies to Indian Head, as the railway was not finished to Balcarres at that time.

Log Construction

When we got up to our homesteads and pitched our tent, we had to begin to build our homes or shacks and stables. We did not know much about building with logs. There were quite a few Metis already in there. They came along and helped us to build and get settled before the winter set in. That is when we found out what good neighbors they were.

They were very honest and we never had to lock our doors. They might come along and take a little tea or flour, but would not touch anything else in the house, and then they could come along and tell us what they had taken and pay for it.

In the spring of 1905 there was a big prairie fire coming straight for our settlement. They all came, women as well, from five or six miles away to help us to get it under control. The only way we could stop it was by back firing as there was too much brush to use a plough. If they had not come to our help I feel sure we would have lost everything.

New Type of Blood Discovered

Although the earliest experiments in the transfusion of blood were made more than two centuries ago, it is only comparatively recently that it has become the established procedure in medicine, says a British release.

This was because the operation is one of considerable danger to the patient unless carried out according to strict criteria. Although the blood of all normal individuals is identical in most respects—for example, in its power of carrying oxygen around the body, certain incompatibilities exist. If two incompatible bloods are mixed, as may well happen if a transfusion is carried out haphazardly, a severe reaction may occur.

Prize For Discovery

The existence of blood groups was discovered in the first year of the present century by Landsteiner, who later received the Nobel Prize for this most valuable contribution to medicine.

The blood group to which an individual belongs is determined by heredity and remains unchanged throughout life. Blood is composed of a cell and a liquid fraction. The solid fraction consists mainly of red blood cells. The liquid is known as serum. Generally, each red cell in the blood carries a specific molecule known as an antigen. The serum contains specific substances known as antibodies. If the antigen of the red cells encounters an incompatible antibody, the cells clump together instead of leading their normal free existence.

Today, four main blood groups are recognized, known as A, B, AB and O. Group O is of particular interest because members of it are unique in having no antigen in their red cells; hence, the red blood transfusion purposes, they are universal donors. In addition to these four main groups, however, specialists have classified bloods according to more subtle differences in their mutual interaction and have indeed exhausted all the letters of the alphabet in labelling them.

Rapid growth in the knowledge of conditions essential for uncomplicated transfusion has taken almost all the risk out of the blood and established it firmly in medicine. In the two World Wars, especially the second, blood transfusion saved thousands of lives; in time of peace it has been a most valuable adjunct to surgery, in obstetrics, in treatment of anaemia and haemophilia and in other ways.

There is still much to be learned, however. As recently as 1940, an entirely new antigen, the so-called Rh factor, was found. This is present in the blood of 85 per cent of the white races. It had escaped detection for so long because the corresponding antibody comes into existence only so far as is known as a result of sensitization.

For the Rh negative person it can be lethal, for if he should at any time be transfused with Rh positive blood he may begin to develop the corresponding antibody which would result in clumping of the red cells and possible death. Similar dangers may occur in pregnancy. An Rh negative mother may have an Rh positive child, and before birth there may be calamitous results, due to the conflict between the blood systems of mother and child.

Blood Replaced

Modern methods of blood grouping make it possible to detect this risk in advance and to make preparation to treat the child as soon as it is born—sometimes by completely replacing its blood with that from the donor.

In recent years British research workers have discovered other important and unusual blood factors, the discovery was announced of the so-called Lutheran antigen present in about one person in twelve of the English population. In the following year, the Kell antigen was discovered. This, like the Rh antigen, can be a cause of serious blood disease in new-born children.

The Blood Transfusion Research Unit, sponsored by the British Medical Research Council, is responsible for the discovery of yet another new blood group. This had been called, after the patient in whom it was first detected, the Duffy group.

The discovery was made when the patient was admitted for blood transfusion for haemophilia, a disease in which the blood fails to clot normally. Blood of the appropriate group was chosen with the usual care but, in spite of this, the bleeding reacted unfavorably. Investigation proved that, within the limits of existing knowledge, no mistake had been made in selecting the blood for the transfusion.

Experiments showed conclusively that the cause of the trouble was an antibody—antibody reaction of a type never previously detected. The patient had most probably built up the antibody as a result of previous transfusions which had been used in the treatment of his disease.

Waxworks Retaining Its Appeal

We in London have just been commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of the death of Mme. Tussaud, mother of waxworks, a frail little lady who, after trouble with her passport, reached the hospitable shore from Paris in 1802 with the beginnings of a collection which can be called the oldest waxworks show in the world. That it still flourishes in London is a tribute to her acute perception, even then, that Britain is never tired of people and faces, Ernest Chisholm Thomson writes for United Kingdom Information Office.

And what people and what faces she brought with her in that strange caravan! Some of them are still to show today—Napoleon, Marat, Voltaire, Marie Antoinette—besides, a newer collection, modelled by her descendants, which includes celebrities and notorieties.

Set Up In 1834

After many adventures, including journeys all over the United Kingdom, a shipwreck in the Irish Sea and a narrow escape from fire, Mme. Tussaud's collection was eventually set up in 1834 in Baker street, London, famous as the home of that great fictional detective, Sherlock Holmes. After her death in 1850, it survived a move to the nearby Marylebone road until 1925, when a disastrous fire partially destroyed it. Some of the most valuable moulds and figures were saved, however, and since then the exhibition has been recreated with much of its old glamor.

Glamor! I am not sure that that is the right word. No one has ever decided quite what it was Mme. Tussaud's. It has its awe-inspiring corners such as the death chamber of Napoleon which, in 1845, the great Duke of Wellington was constrained to remove his hat before the waxen image and bow his head. Not far away, however, is the Sleeping Beauty assembled by Mme. Tussaud herself — with bones raised and lowered by concealed clockwork to convey the illusion that the model is actually breathing. And at the other end of the hall is the tableau of Mickey Mouse, Humpty Dumpty and Jack the Giant Killer.

Haunt Of Visitors

Everyone, soon or later, goes to Mme. Tussaud's and it is the special haunt of visitors to the metropolis from the outlying countryside, the provincial cities and towns and every corner of the Commonwealth.

As you climb the marble staircase to the Grand Hall, do not be deceived by the smartly dressed attendant on the first landing. Though he appears to be stepping forward to greet you, he is frozen as stiff as only a wax model can be. Yet others, though it abounds in such practical jokes, breathes a curious atmosphere of solemnity which has an amusing effect on the visitors. In fact, when I dropped in last week, the visitors seemed to me every bit as interesting as the exhibits.

To watch the faces of a Saturday afternoon crowd before the great conference table of world statesmen — among them Field Marshal Smuts, Mr. Mackenzie King, Pandit Nehru, Mr. Attlee and Mr. Churchill—was an object lesson on the numbing effects of a conference which apparently has no end. And it is indeed this sense of eternally suspended animation which grips the onlookers in a vice.

Queen Of Scots

At the execution of Mary Queen of Scots the axe never falls, although the nerveless fingers of King John never sign the Magna Carta, and, coming down to our own day, Sir Donald Bradman, for once, never scores a run. Even Barbara Ann Scott, graceful young skating queen from Ottawa, is as frozen as her native ice. Why grumble? Why, we cannot have Sir Don and Barbara Ann with us all the time, along with the captains and the kings, at lease Mme. Tussaud's has provided admirable substitutes. Having work to get on with, we cannot always foregather with the best people at the time that suits them best, but their effigies are there, in Marylebone road, waiting for us with a bland welcome that never tires.

SWIMMING POOL PROJECT

Citizens of Belleville are being approached at this time to give consideration to the appeal made by the Kinsmen Club in support of a project they have undertaken, to provide an up-to-date swimming pool for the public and especially for the children of the community who will benefit most from such a forward-looking undertaking in the interests of health and safety of all who will enjoy its facilities.

Though Belleville is located along one of the finest bodies of water in the Province, the Bay of Quinte, the natural facilities and conditions the bay offers for bathing are not deemed in the best interest from the standpoint of safety and health.

The Kinsmen project is a supervised swimming pool which will meet a real need of the community. It will place before the children the privilege and opportunity of receiving swimming instruction at the hands of trained personnel and will provide every one with the means of safety.

There have been other projects of a somewhat similar nature suggested or broached in the past here but they did not reach full fruition. The Kinsmen plan has gone thoroughly into this propect with the result that they are bringing their proposal to the public for support of a scheme that will guard health and insure safety under proper supervision. The club has studied the question and is satisfied that the provision of a modern swimming pool and the supervision associated with it are what this community needs. The plan calls for daily filtering of the water supplied to the pool, a provision which everyone can appreciate as of great importance.

One of the advantages which stands out is that children of modest means will be able to receive instruction in swimming under trained personnel.

The presence of the bathing pool and wading pool in the community under supervision insures safety in the wellknown fact that even in a community like Belleville, there are many persons who have never learned to swim. The pool will be an incentive to parents to see that their children have the advantage of learning to swim under instruction.

It is pointed out that the undertaking can be made self-supporting.

Security will appeal to parents who will be pleased to have their children take advantage of all the facilities offered.

It is hoped and felt that the Kinsmen will meet with a favorable response by the citizens as they begin their canvass on Monday in support of this undertaking, which they feel is one of the "musts" of a live community to satisfy the needs of its citizens.

MOTOR TRAFFIC AND CHILDREN

Children today have to face a dangerous amount of motor traffic at this time of year when the movement of cars is rising steadily as fine weather comes and the holiday season draws near.

It is a time for watchfulness on the part of motorists and of those who cross the roads. Motorists realize the need of extreme caution owing to the fact that as the season children are outdoors a large part of their time. It is a time for parents and teachers to impress upon the children to take every precaution on the streets and avoid any possibility of accident.

The time of year has come when children are out in the open and often are found at or near roadways where traffic moves. A heavy responsibility rests on the drivers on the roads and streets to use every precaution and to caution to advise their children of the danger of playing on roads or streets, of the care that they should take when they find it necessary to cross streets and roads on which traffic is moving a great part of the time.

SUMMER FURNITURE

Spring, even one of the kind we've been having, brings out a variety of tastes in men, to say nothing of women and children. Some like to pore over seed catalogues, others pass pleasant hours examining garden tools, or sporting equipment. But there's still another group that has perhaps the silliest hobby of all.

These are the ones who like to feast their eyes on summer furniture. Gaudy garden umbrellas casting spots of coolness on green and inviting gardens, folding sunoils in bright upholstery, gliders that can lull their occupants into a restful porch nap — these are some of the items that fascinate them.

Let the other fellow have his new lawn roller, or fishing rod, or hose reel. He'll settle for something soft and springy on which he can stretch his feet, and for a nearby table that will support tall, cool glasses.—Windsor Star.

Franklin left behind him more maxims than any of his countrymen and prudence is the pivot on which they turn. — A. H. Rhodes.

MEALTIME HAZARD

What does it matter the gown is of silk?
Into her lap goes a glassful of milk.
Into Dad's eyes flies a spoonful of broth;
Terry's at dinner, Quick! Run for a cloth.

Spinach is something to spatter about.
If you are near him you'd better watch out.
King of the Table! His sceptre a spoon.
Terry's at dinner! There's blood in the moon.

Jelly is pleasant through fingers to squeeze.
Nice things to scatter are carrots and peas.
Porridge is safest when left on the shelf.
Terry's at dinner! Look out for yourself.

Bang go his cup and his bowl on the floor!
Go for the mop. It is just by the door.
Daily the risk of disaster we run.
Terry's at dinner, but isn't it
fine?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SYMBOLS OF GREATNESS

The American artist, Robert Henri, was not only a great painter, he was a great thinker. He liked to roam and travel. Said he: "I am always for symbols of greatness. They may be found in the eyes of a child, in the movements of a gladiator, in the heart of a gypsy, in Ireland's twilight, in the mourning over a discovered."

In the humble mind of a peasant there may be found symbols of greatness, as pronounced as may be found in the greatest of this earth. Not all these symbols are ever discovered. Like the mirage, a "waste its sweetness on the desert air," many a symbol of greatness remains dormant in many a human being forever. But, perhaps not forever! Who is to know?

Many a symbol of greatness, however, has been discovered by a watchful eye, and brought to the light of the world. Lincoln finally discovered it in the silent, determined Gen. Grant, and so put his trust in him. He also often discovered it in many a writer who came to him with the tragic story of a boy soldier about to be shot. That soldier's story contained it all.

His mercenaries that revealed many a symbol of greatness were greatness of heroism and of sacrifice. History is full of such instances. So is the story of our every day life, as revealed in many a newspaper story. Only recently I read of a mother who hurled her child to safety, but lost her own life.

If you ever visit the campus of Yale University you will note there the statue of Nathan Hale, with those words of his, carved upon it: "I regret that I have but one life to lose for my country." It is tragic that these symbols of greatness sometimes need a man to discover so many such heroes who might never have been given lasting fame. In the walks of peace, however, these symbols of greatness may be daily discovered, for they are scattered everywhere!

Livery Stables Of The Past

(Windsor Star)

In Stratford four workers escaped serious injury when a 60-year-old building collapsed as they dismantled it. Originally it had been a livery stable.

Livery stables were as important in the horse-and-buggy days as garages are in this modern era. But they were different, and it is no aspersion on automobile engineers that livery stables were much more fascinating.

Except to those with the instincts of a mechanic, there isn't much romance in seeing a number of cars being housed or repaired. There is no enchantment in watching men with their feet stuck out from under automobiles, or other portions of their bodies in a position of prominence, as their heads are poked into car engines.

In a livery stable it wasn't like that. There was the pungent and pleasant odor usually associated with horse stables. There was the long row of horses, each in its own stall, fed and watered, or else looking innocently around at those who were grooming or watching them. There was the occasional whinny of a steed impatient for the exit to a blick of well-shod hoof on the floor.

On the one side of the stall behind would be the row of shiny harness, the brass buckles and ornaments of which usually associated with horse stables. An Open Letter To The Citizens of Our Community:

DEAR FELLOW CITIZEN:

Your local Kinsmen Club first fostered the idea of a Community Swimming Pool over three years ago and also contributed the first amount of money to the project.

At that time we felt that since it was a community project we would be wise to turn the project over to the Inter-Service Club Council, which is an organization made up of all the Service Clubs in Belleville. A committee was set up by the council, but it was soon evident that if the project was to go ahead it needed greater effort put into it.

Therefore, last June our club asked the Inter-Service Club Council to turn over the Community Swimming Pool Project to us.

The Trust Fund, a total of $1,900 was turned over in June, 1949.

From this time until May 1st., 1950, all efforts of our club have been put forward to obtain information about the kind of pool that is needed in Belleville, the estimated cost of such a pool and the ways and means of raising the necessary $50,000, which is a close estimate of the cost of the finished project, including site, pool, wading pool, bleachers, bath-house, fencing, playground and landscaping.

We also have found by thorough investigation that most pools in Canada once built are operated at no cost to the public and return enough profit to pay maintenance, upkeep, and also to provide free bathing for all our children every morning.

After determining the cost we investigated ways and means of raising the money. We found that by individual projects we would be a long time in raising the money. We then decided to make a direct appeal to the people of our community, because we felt that if smaller communities around us, such as Marmora, Brighton, Coleborne, et cetera, could raise upwards of $30,000 to build community arenas, surely the citizens of Belleville would donate $50,000 to build a Community Swimming Pool so that our children would have a supervised, clean and safe place in which to enjoy swimming.

We are, therefore, appealing to you as citizens to subscribe to our campaign being conducted in the month of May. We will be calling on as many of the people as we can find in a house to house canvass, but if you are not called upon, drop in at our headquarters at 30 Bridge St. East, when the person in charge will give you a receipt for all money donated which is allowable as a charitable donation for income tax purposes. All contributions will be acknowledged in The Ontario Intelligencer.

Thanking you for your generous donation in this worthy effort to building a better community.

E. COLEBOURNE, President,

Kinsmen's Club Incorporated.

WEDDINGS

SHEPPARD—SCOTT

A small, but pretty wedding was solemnized at Hay, Smith's parsonage, Campbellford, on Saturday, May 6, when Dorothy Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Scott, Campbellford, became the bride of Clifford James Sheppard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sheppard, of Codrington.

The bride looked charming in a light blue suit with white and navy blue accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Miss Phyllis Sanson, of Campbellford, was bridesmaid, wearing light grey suit with black accessories and corsage of red roses. Mr. Howard Sheppard was the groomsman.

The reception was held at the bride's home, which was tastefully decorated in pink and white. The bride's mother received wearing a black flowered dress with black accessories and wearing a corsage of red carnations. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a black flowered dress with black accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Telegrams from the groom's sister in Honolulu, also one from the groom's sister, Mrs. Brown and Mr. Brown in Port Arthur, were received.

The happy couple left for points west, Peterborough, Toronto, and Niagara Falls.

Out-of-town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sheppard, of Glen Miller; Mrs. J. Way, Miss Gladys Sheppard, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sheppard of Brighton.

GORDON—HOLGATE

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, May 6, at 2 p.m., at the home of the bride's parents, Cooper, Ont., when Hazel Doreen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Holgate became the bride of James William Gordon, of Queensboro, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon. The ceremony was performed under an evergreen arch trimmed with pink and white roses, and white wedding bells. The Rev. Gordon McKenzie officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely bridal gown of gold and silver embroidered white taffeta, full length veil of tulle illusion, with coronet headdress. She carried a shower bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Her only attendant was Miss Ruth Holgate, of Cooper, sister of the bride, who charmingly gowned in gold and silver embroidered blue taffeta, with matching picture dress. She carried a shower bouquet of pink carnations and Talisman roses.

Mr. Gerald Gordon, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman.

At the reception which was held at the home of the bride's parents, a buffet luncheon was served. The bride's mother, wearing a blue Bengaline crepe gown with corsage of pink roses, was assisted in receiving the guests by the mother of the bridegroom, who was gowned in black taffeta, and wearing a deep rose corsage of roses.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold bracelet and to the bridesmaid, a gold compact.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa and points east, the bride chose a navy blue tweed suit of gabardine with matching topcoat, and black accessories.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Belleville, Madoc and Trenton.

Upon their return the happy couple will reside in their new home in Queensboro, Ont.

STIRLING

Mother's Day Silver Jubilee to be Held By Marrieds Club

Stirling — The Marrieds' Club of St. Paul's will hold a special Mother's Day Silver Jubilee service on Sunday evening when five young mothers, will personify Thomas Edison's mother, Abraham Lincoln's mother, Florence Nightingale, Susannah Wesley and Queen Victoria.

Special music will be associated with each portrait including solos, and male quartet numbers. A public address system, kindly loaned by Maurice Bell, will carry the voice of the narrator, Wm. R. Wilkins.

At this great service more than 50 pew Bibles will be dedicated in loving memory of mothers who "rest from their labors", and in honor of those who are living.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

The May meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. was held in the Sundly School Hall.

Miss M. Mackintosh was in charge of the program. A chapter of the study book on Japan was given by Miss Mackintosh which was most interesting.

Miss A. Cameron gave the life story of Miss Caroline MacDonald, who was known as the "White Angel of Tokyo".

Miss MacDonald was born in Wingham, Ont., being educated in Ontario schools and colleges. Most of her life was spent as a missionary among the Japanese, her greatest work being done among the prisons, the result of which many became Christians.

Mrs. Mantle recalled the great work done by the late Dr. Luther Young, and made special mention of his family in prayer.

Mrs. Lavoie read 1 Corinthians, Chapter 13.

The president, Mrs. W. Mantle, presided over the business section of the meeting, calling on the secretary for the minutes and correspondence.

The treasurer's report was also received.

Mrs. Parsons read a letter from one of the missionaries in India, telling of the work there, and making special mention of an eight day evangelistic meeting which was open to everyone.

Glad Tidings secretary reminded members of the half-yearly subscriptions.

Mrs. D. G. Fleming spoke briefly on the recent Synodical meeting and expressed thanks to those who had worked towards its success. Special letters of appreciation were asked to be sent to the Guild and group leaders.

Matters pertaining to the Supply were discussed and it was decided to send money instead of clothing.

A social half hour closed the meeting.

AUSSIE DAIRY CATTLE

The number of dairy cattle in Australia on March, 1949, was 4,660,000, an increase of 114,000 during the year.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

The Duke of Windsor, Charles Lindbergh, King Leopold of Belgium — these were the three popular and promising young men of a couple of decades ago. It is interesting to follow the lives of these three contemporaries to see how they are turning out . . . Leopold is back in the news, seeking to regain his throne, now that 10 years of time may have smoothed over the old wounds.

A letter to an editor the other day recalls how Leopold abandoned Belgium and the Allies in World War II as announced by Mr. Churchill to the British House of Commons (Times report, June 5, 1940): "His personal act, he sent a plenipotentiary to the German command, surrendering his army, exposing our whole flank without the means of retreat. I do not feel that any reason now exists why we should not form our own opinion upon this pitiful episode."

Mr. Churchill then described the fate of 335,000 British, fighting a rearguard action 30 miles to the sea or being cut off. Thanks to the miracle of Dunkirk, they were saved from that fate.

Canadians may recall that when Her King Leopold takes over again or not, is the concern of the Belgians only. But this is not so. After all, there is now a United Nations organization to which Belgians belong to it. They have a say in world policies which are decided at U.N. Therefore, they concerns all nations what type of man heads any of the nations of the world.

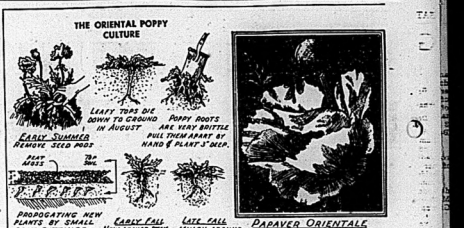
Of course we were in the line-up on the last day to get our motor licence. Like the rest of the gang shivering in the rag breeze, we didn't have the fee until that very morning. As annually, several drivers never give the blank spaces on their old licences a thought until they are smack in front of the issuer.



This makes for plenty of laughs in a deadline-up, pencillings too. One chap had his old permit handed back for correction. On the blank where it asks for the sex of the operator, he had hurriedly filled in "yes."

Poppies are the glamour flowers of the garden. The plant was first introduced from Persia and some are natives of the Alps and Arctic regions. There are now over 200 named varieties.

Poppy stems attain a height up to four feet. Colours range from white through shades of rose, pink, red and lavender. There is a wide variation in size and height. Oriental poppies thrive in any good garden soil but must have drainage. They do best in a sandy loam and require full exposure to the sun. Plants should have ample room for foot development.

Poppies should be set 24" apart. Transplanting is best done in August and September. While they can be raised from seed, root propagation is best. Root cuttings should come from well matured plants about 2 years old.

Root growth will start in about three weeks. Keep the pept moss moist and shaded after growth starts. Never set crowns more than 3" deep. Keep in one place as long as possible as poppies do not like transplanting. If planted in Spring secure potted plants from a nursery.

1st Canadian Keyette Club Formed In Belleville

On Wednesday, the B. C. I. and V. S. Keyette Club, a new school - community club, held its first regular luncheon at the Collegiate. This club is the first and only Keyette Club in Canada.

President Jean Doig was in the chair and the speaker was G. E. Currie, principal of the Belleville Collegiate.

Mr. Currie spoke about the objectives of the Key clubs and Kiwanis Clubs, stating that these organizations were going much to promote the idea of having international citizens. He also outlined the ceremonies and the objects of Kiwanis for 1950.

The Keyette Club is a part of a great school-community", said Mr. Currie, "and in living up to its motto of service, it must help to build up a better and even greater school-community.

He said that the Keyette Club could, as one of its projects of service, make students entering school for their first time, feel that they were an important and integral part of the school.

Mr. Currie cautioned the girls against becoming a power group in the school, and then finished his speech with the reading of two poems which were appropriate for the occasion.

Mr. Currie had been introduced by June Graham and was thanked by Beth Wilbur.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

That's gold in them thar waters.

The recent discovery of pink shrimps off the Florida Coast, 60 miles west of President Truman's vacation spot, is turning out to be an undersea treasure for the Florida shrimping fleet.

While most shrimps are pearly gray when raw, and turn pink when cooked, the new Florida variety are pink when hauled in from the sea. The strange color biologists believe, is due to the coral sands in which these shrimps live and conceal themselves.

Gray is a better camouflage than pink. But no color has any effect on the new ultrasonic depth recorders which finds "clouds" of shrimps day or night.

When frying shrimps, avoid any heavy batter that becomes dry after cooking. Fried shrimps should be served hot from the frying kettle or they will soon become soggy and flavorless.

Russian dressing or tartar sauce served with shrimps is on the other hand, should be ice cold and tangy.

The following recipe calls for raw shrimps. If they are unobtainable in your neighborhood, use canned or quick frozen shrimps, canned or quick frozen shrimps, however, do not require the preliminary boiling indicated in the recipe given today.

Fried Shrimps, Russian Dressing. Serves 4-5.

Wash 1 1-2 pounds of fresh shrimps. Drop into boiling water to which 1 teaspoon salt and the juice of a quarter lemon have been added. Boil 5 minutes.

Drain. Remove shells. Remove black vein running through back. Dry shrimps on a clean cloth towel.

Prepare the following batter: Sift together 1 1-2 cups flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder and 1-2 teaspoon salt. Combine 1 egg yolk and 2-3 cup milk. Add milk mixture to dry ingredients. Beat until smooth. Beat 1 egg white until stiff. Fold into batter.

Cut shrimps in half without separating at narrow end. Dip shrimps into batter.

Fry shrimps in a kettle of deep fat heated to 360 degrees, Turn shrimps once during frying. Drain on absorbent paper.

To make Russian dressing combine 1 cup mayonnaise with 1-4 cup chili sauce, 1-2 teaspoon vinegar and 1-4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beekman

What to with bridal bouquet

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

At the formal church wedding I am to have only a maid of honor —no bridesmaids. I know it is traditional for the bride to throw her bouquet to her attendants, bridesmaids as well as honor attendant. Would it be incorrect if, under my circumstances, I don't throw my bouquet? And if I don't, what do I do with it?

Reader

You need not throw your bouquet if you don't with to. Or you may do what many brides do under similar circumstances—invite a group of your unmarried girl friends to stand with your maid of honor, and then throw your bouquet to this group. Or you might like to give your bouquet to your mother—she would cherish this thought and memory.

The problem of the wedding invitation

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

1. We have received a written invitation to a wedding and to the reception following the ceremony. The invitation was addressed just to my husband. Does that include the rest of the family? The bride's mother says it does.

2. How should I reply to this invitation?

3. Would it be correct for me, as a guest, to wear a suit to the wedding, and would this be all right for the reception then?

L. L.

1. Since the bride's mother, who is the hostess of the wedding, has told you that the invitation was intended to include the rest of the family, this is all the assurance you need.

2. To this note of invitation you write a note to reply. Perhaps somewhat like this:

Dear Mrs. Davis:

You were very kind to invite us to your daughter's (or to Mary's) wedding, and we are delighted to accept. We will be at Grace Church on Saturday, May 20th., at four o'clock for the ceremony, and some afterward to the reception at your house. We are all anticipating being present at this happy occasion, and thank you for asking us.

Sincerely,

Irene Lawrence

3. Yes, a suit is correct, particularly a so-called "dressmaker suit," or a dress and coat. Wear a small, pretty hat to harmonize with the suit, and choose your other accessories carefully. (The ensemble you wear to the ceremony is right for the reception, because a good dresser unconsciously for the hour of the ceremony and the reception.)

Need not invite bosses to reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've been working in a small office (four men and another girl) for over a year and a half. I am to be married in June; a fairly large church wedding and reception. Would it be necessary for me to ask my bosses to the reception, or is an invitation to the wedding sufficient? What is the proper procedure for this situation?

A.M.

Your preference determines the proper procedure. If you wish to invite your bosses to the ceremony and not to the reception, this is entirely proper. And I imagine that, since you have not been employed in the office very long, they would not at all expect to be invited to your wedding reception.

To invite to her engagement tea

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would appreciate your suggestion as to whom to invite to my engagement cocktail-tea. I am not certain if it would be correct to invite my old school chums, both male and female. I want, however, to limit my list to twenty guests.

M. G.

Your "school days" friends, both girls and men, would, I am sure, be delighted and honored to be invited to this important occasion in your life—and it would be proper and thoughtful and hospitable for you to invite them. First make out your list for the number of other close friends you particularly want to invite—then you can fill out the number with your school friends.

Bride and groom consult together about wedding date

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

At the time of our engagement, my fiance and I did not set the date of our wedding. We are now making plans for our wedding. Who picks the wedding date?

L. H.

Naturally the prospective bride and groom must consult together as to the date that will be most convenient for both. Of course it is said that it is the bride-elect's prerogative to "name the date", but as a matter of fact, bridegroom-elect has plans to make, business or professional or whatever, that necessarily must be taken into consideration as to the dates he can be away for the wedding trip.

Coca-Cola AT YOUR PARTY

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Keep an eye on your waistline

There's no sense in a woman losing the fine lines of her figure.

When resurrecting the frocks you wore last summer, hoping there might still be some wear in them, you may have had a little surprise. There was difficulty in zipping them. Is it possible they have shrunken at the mid-section? No. You have taken on a half inch or so in the locality of your equator, and let that be a warning to you. Consult the bathroom scales. The report may not be alarming. Just five little pounds, maybe ten. Sneaked up on you, didn't they? You're in for a little figure remodelling, and the sooner you knuckle down to it, the better.

Watching the tape measure for waist reports will be a part-time occupation from now on. There's no sense in a woman losing the fine lines of her figure at any age under 100. It is shameful to accept adipose tissue as an affliction that cannot be overcome. A beautiful shape is as great an asset as a lovely face. Yet, while faces get home-and-expert attention, feminine bodies are often allowed to go to seed—hips spreading, thighs enlarging, calves bulging, waistline disappearing.

Symmetry tables have not been charted as often as weight tables, but here are the guesses of experts who deflate these fat clients and build up the skinnies:

The waist of a woman five feet tall should not exceed 25 inches if she is to appear slender as the lily. The five feet one girl can qualify with 26 inches, while the girl of five feet two looks all right with a 26.6. If you are five feet five, the measurement should not exceed 28 inches. The tallie of five feet seven can have an expansion of 29 inches, but should not exceed that. These measurements are for women with large bones; those with a small, neat, delicate framework should have even smaller waists.

While it sometimes happens that adipose tissue will settle on the shoulders, bust and upper arms, it more commonly takes up residance on the mid-section, which gets little exercise in the ordinary day's activities.

Strenuous dieting is not necessary when an endeavor is made to reatore youthful outlines. Moderate diet, yes. A cutting down on fats, sweets and starches. One can have all one wants of lean meats, poultry, fish, eggs, vegetables that grow above ground, green salads, buttermilk, cottage cheese. Tea and coffee should be taken clear, and fruit juices, twice a day, should be given to torso-twisting exercises. Hold the hands, palms downward straight in front of you. Swing them—still on the level—as far back as you can, keeping the legs rigid, pivoting at the waistline.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Married eleven years—can't endure it any longer

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been married eleven years, and feel that I can't endure life any longer as I have been living it.

My husband blames me for everything. He spends a lot of time in saloons, coming home whenever he likes and often drunk. He keeps fighting about how much money I spend, even though I never spend anything unnecessarily.

I do all my own work, even painting inside and outside the house, because my husband never helps me in any way. I don't expect any help from him but would be happy if he would just give me a few kind words now and then.

I have two daughters and never go anywhere without them. My husband very seldom goes out. I can never talk to him about anything as it always leads to some kind of a fight and I don't like to upset the children.

So far I have kept my troubles to myself but I don't feel I can go on this way any longer. I have high blood pressure and my nerves are in a terrible shape. I hope you or someone can give me some advice.

V. U.

Dear V. U.:

When the root of a difficult family situation lies in the fact that either the wife or the husband is bad-tempered and also irresponsible, it is a very difficult situation indeed to cure. For the only solution lies in the person at fault changing his ways, and it is pretty hard to persuade someone else to do such a thing.

You don't say how old your daughters are, but if they are old enough so that you can leave them during the day, and they would do some of the housework in your absence, I would think it is a very good thing if you could find some work outside your home and earn a little money of your own. If you were able to feel a little independent it would, I am sure, do wonders for you.

You might find it helpful to go and talk with someone experienced in dealing with tangled family problems who could perhaps help you work out some way of earning money. Call a social welfare organization in your city where I am sure you could find this kind of help. If you care to send me a stamped addressed envelope I will be glad to give you the name and address.

Afraid her girl friend will be Jealous

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Recently a very nice fellow asked me for a date. It so happens that my girl friend has had her eye on this fellow for quite a while. He only says hello to her but she hopes that some day he will ask her out.

She doesn't know that he has asked me out and I certainly wouldn't go out with him without telling her, because I would not feel right. On the other hand, though, knowing that she likes him so much, I would hate to tell her.

I don't want to lose my girl friend but I do want to go out with him. Would you please help me?

Carrie

Dear Carrie:

If your girl friends is the kind of person she should be, you shouldn't lose her friendship just because a certain boy asks you for a date and doesn't ask her.

It would be only natural, of course, for her to feel disappointed not to be the one chosen. But things like that are going to happen to her all through life, particularly before she meets her one and only and gets married, so she might just as well get used to it now. I certainly think it would be extremely foolish for you to refuse a date just because you think it is going to upset someone else.

SALEM

Salem — Mrs. Jack Sherman, and Gene spent the dinner hour on Friday with Mrs. Clarence Hagerman.

A large number from this community attended the music festival held in Shannonville Monday night. Much credit is due the music teacher, Mrs. A. Reilly and pupils of the participating schools for the fine program presented.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stratton, and Lynn, Shannonville, also Mrs. Clarence Hagerman, Carl and Bruce called on Mr. and Mrs. Russell Reid of Roslin on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Haight, Joan and Leslie were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Pascoe, at Moscow.

Mrs. Jack Sherman and boys, also Mrs. S. Sherman, called on Mrs. W. Bonisteel, on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Thomas Leslie is a patient in-Belleville General Hospital.

Club Activities

FOXBORO W.M.S.

Foxboro.—The regular monthly meeting of the Presbyterian W.M.S. was held in the Sunday School room on May 10th.

The meeting opened with hymn 245. Skinner at the piano playing quiet music. Mrs. Bailey, the president opened the worship period.

Mrs. Roy Bartlett gave the devotional period on "Fishers of Men". A lovely solo "'Tis so Sweet to Trust in Jesus", was rendered by Mrs. Wallace Simmons. A reading by Mrs. Earl Ketcheson.

The president, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Craig, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, who gave a fine address on missionary work and the advance for Christ, stressing the great need for more prayer time, more giving of time and talents for the great missionary work.

Mrs. Gilbert Sills extended appreciation and Mrs. Bailey thanked those for taking part. Members of Foxboro United Church Missionary Society were present as guests. After the meeting closed refreshments were served and a social half hour was spent.

Mrs. Simmons moved a vote of thanks to the Presbyterian ladies for their hospitality.

Next Sunday morning Rev. W. Galloway will be in the pulpit and friends who knew him when he was ordained and called to the Foxboro charge 41 years ago. All former members and friends are welcome.

Y.O.U. BEULAH UNITED CHURCH

Ivanhoe.—On Monday evening, the regular meeting of the Y.O.U. was held in Beulah Uniter Church. The theme was "The Depth of Love".

The meeting opened with quiet music and the president conducted the worship service which consisted of a call to worship.

Scripture lesson, Matthew 20: 20-28 was read by Annie Crookes. A meditation on the scripture was given by the president, who gave several examples for the basis of Christian love.

During the business period, it was decided to hold only one more meeting before the closing meeting which will take place in the form of a weiner roast early in the month of June. It is hoped that a speaker may be had for this meeting.

The program was conducted by Eleanor Reid. A reading "No more Strangers" was given by Ross Twiddy, Barbara Benson, and Joyce Reid favored with a duet accompanied by Mrs. George Wood at the piano.

Joyce Reid gave a reading entitled "What Is Good?".

The topic based on "Love" was given by Mrs. Earl McMaster.

KINGSTON RD. W.A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Kingston Road W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. C. Mahaffy, aid with Mrs. H. Walkom presiding.

Letters of thanks were read expressing thanks for flowers and cards which had been received by Mrs. F. Conboy and Mrs. M. LaRue. It was decided to hold a pie social later this month. A delegate will be chosen to represent the W.A. at the convention in Stirling on May 25th.

Mrs. J. Gerbutt took charge of the following program, readings by Miss Helen Sulman, "The Country Post Office", "The Quiet Corner", by Mrs. Garbutt; a vocal solo by Mrs. Reid, "Take the Name of Jesus With You". Mrs. Fred Parrott gave an interesting talk about her recent motor trip to Florida, which was followed by a reading "Quilt", conducted by Mrs. Garbutt, and which was won by Miss Sulman.

Miss Sulman again favored with a reading entitled "It Takes a Heap of Living in a House to Make it a Home".

Delicious refreshments by Mrs. MacDonald assisted by Mrs. M. LaRue and Mrs. J. Haig.

wloed out.

Their barns and houses were up to the eaves. They lived in lofts, trying to keep their animals. Most of them ending by shooting them. When they ran out of ammunition they strangled the animals with handling hooks.

We saw all kinds of things that were tragic, but some were almost funny.

Yesterday, just before we left on the nine-mile boat trip to Winnipeg, we saw a whole string of boats coming down St. Mary's Avenue. It looked like a canoe race. There were women, children, dogs, and chickens in the boats.

Behind was an old fellow in a horse trough—yes, a horse trough. He was paddling it with a shovel. I laughed like it was a big joke, but I guess it wasn't funny to him.

Our own place is a mess. We built a dike around it and the transmitter, but there's water behind it now. We pulled all the switches, then let the water into the basement and ran like hell.

The nine-foot basement filled in a couple of minutes.

My crew of 19 sandbaggers got out early. Two assistant engineers and I stayed on. We had lots of food—it's still stacked away above the equipment. We brought some back for the Red Cross.

The Navy brought people in to us in their dinghies. We fed them and they moved on. I must have made a hundred gallons of coffee.

We loaded about 3,000 pounds of radio equipment and ourselves into a boat with an outboard and started for town.

Outhouses, parts of bridges, dead mink and dead mice floated all around us.

We saw cows and horses in barns with just their heads above water. Dogs on dry places were howling their heads off.

That's the awful noise to listen to for eight nights.

I never saw such desolation.

We passed some lovely big houses. Through the big front-room windows could see the living-room furniture—good stuff—floating around.

We finally got up to bedroom windows, on the top floors, and knew we'd made up, but like everyone was still home. There wasn't a soul for miles.

Some house were right off their foundations, toppled over.

I thinking worst thing, though, was an old man near the station. He was living in his loft—no stock, no nothing. But he wasn't leaving.

He said "This is all I've got." I guess he's too old to start over.

Civic Welcome For Marlboros Will be Missing

Toronto, May 13 — (CP) — There will be no civic welcome for Toronto Marlboros today when the senior hockey team returns from Edmonton as the first Toronto club in 18 years to win the Allan Cup.

City Clerk George Weale said Friday that Mayor Hiram McCallum is attending a mayors' convention in New York and there has not been enough time to prepare a suitable ceremony.

Marlboros won the final game of their series with Calgary Stampeders Wednesday night.

Farold Ballard, Marlboros' manager, said he would stage a parade for the senior champs anyway.

Trygve Lie Hard at Work In Moscow

Moscow, May 13 — (AP) — United Nations secretary-general Trygve Lie worked far into the night after a 30-minute talk Friday with Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishisky of Russia.

Here to confer with Russian officials in an effort to ease tension between the east and west, the U.N. official may visit Moscow for a brief period today, it had originally planned, a reliable source reported.

When he arrived Thursday, Lie indicated he would be in the Russian capital only two or three days.

Disaster Gifts Allowed Deduction

Vast Reclamation Projects Needed To Make Israel Productive Land Says Major Samuel on Visit Here

To accommodate the ever increasing population of Israel on the approximately 8,000 square miles of territory that constitutes the total area of the new state the Israeli people must exploit every inch of land and every ounce of water available, Major Jochanon Samuel of the Israeli Army declared today in an interview in the Queen's Hotel.

The citizens of the new country are undertaking vast reclamation projects to make the land in Palestain berren for thousands of years, productive, and irrigation works are being constructed to carry water to arid areas and dams are being built to better back the water that falls during the rainy season.

Escaped to Palestine

Major Samuel, who is travelling through Canada on a lecture tour to raise funds for Jewish rehabilitation in Israel is not a Palestinian by birth. He escaped to Palestine in 1938 from Berlin Germany where he had been born and raised.

Joining the Jewish defence force, Haganah, he served with distinction during the war when it became affiliated with the British Army. He remained with Haganah when it went underground upon the conclusion of the war to carry on the struggle for a Jewish state. When the new state was established in 1948, Haganah became part of the Israeli army, and Major Samuel was placed in charge of the newly-founded "youth battalions."

Arabs Better Off

When questioned about the current relations between Arabs and Jews in the new state, the Major declared that the Jewish people of Israel enjoyed a higher standard of living than they ever enjoyed before. "They share in our state health programs, given equal rights in the field of education, and are active in our trade unions," he added.

Referring to political and civil rights he maintained that full equality existed between the two groups. He said that Arab women now have the franchise for the first time. Members of Arab and Jewish communities sit in the country's legislative bodies and enjoy the use of their own language when making political speeches, some of which are broadcast. Of the present administration he pointed out.

Still Apprehensive

Major Samuel was still apprehensive about the overall relationships between the Jews and Arabs in the general near East area. He was non-committal about the recent incorporation of Jordan Palestine into the territory of Trans-Jordan saying he would let any statements about this new development come from his government.

He seemed to think that at least part of the answer to Israel's problem lay in the constant dissent between the various Arabic states. Rivalry of Trans Jordan and Farouk of Egypt are both struggling for the leadership of the world, he said, and implied that, at the present time, this distract from the common cause. "Eventually", he said, "we hope that some Arab leader will arise upon the conclusion of the present hostile and amicable relations."

Major Samuel said that the new land, Major Samuel said that the people hope to see another million or more Jews emigrate there in addition to the present population of 1,000,000.

Arabs From Europe

These new citizens, most of whom will come from Europe will be established on the land now being reclaimed with modern agricultural machinery. Others will work in the new industrial plants now being constructed.

"But the cost of transportation and rehabilitation is tremendous," Major Samuel declared, "and we are appealing to world Jewry everywhere to help us as our people get into their new country.

Streatham Team Wins British Hockey Title

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press, Staff Writer)

London, May 13 — (CP) — R. H. (Red) Stapleford's Streatham Speeckers captured this year's British National Ice Hockey League title, dethroning Harringay Racers with a stretch drive that left the other six teams of the circuit dizzy.

Sparked by Captain Bob (Doc) Brodrick of Montreal on defence, and with Terry Kendall of Elmira, Ont., playing an inspired game in goal, the Watford, Ont., redheaded squad couldn't seem to do a thing wrong for the last three weeks of the schedule.

The final standing:

	W.	L.	T.	P.
Streatham	14	8	2	30
Wembley Monarchs	12	8	4	28
Harringay Racers	12	9	3	27
Wembley Lions	12	12	0	24
Brighton Tigers	11	11	4	22
Nottingham Panthers	9	14	1	19
Earls Court Rangers	7	13	4	18
Paisley Mohawks	1	16	3	5

It was Streatham's first title since 1935.

Individual scoring honors went to Winnipegger Chick Zamick of Panthers with 42 goals and 28 assists.

George Beach of Regina was named most valuable player in the league by a panel of players, coaches, referees and reporters appointed by the weekly Ice Hockey World. John Dargavel, Fort Lauderdale of Embrun, Ont., and Monarchs the most popular.

The "keepers" selected this all-star team:

"A" — Dargavel, Fort William, Ont., and Rangers; defence, Brodrick, Pat Coburn, Ottawa and Racers; centre, Gordon Richard, Bill Glennie, Portage La Prairie, Man., and Racers; Paul Lafortune of Embrun, Ont., and Monarchs the most popular.

The "keepers" selected this all-star team:

"A" — Goal, Stubby Maron Regina and Monarchs; defence, Coburn, Beach, Bert Bewlings, Ricard, Lafortune.

MARMORA

MARMORA W. I.

Marmora — Marmora Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Eugene Brush with 40 members evening for their regular monthly meeting.

The new president, Mrs. P. Gray, occupied the chair and there was a good attendance of members. The meeting opened in the usual manner. The roll call was "First Aid" suggestions (by Grandmother), and was well responded to. The motto was — "Compare Sowing Seeds of Kindness with Reaping Seeds of Strife."

The installation of officers was carried out by past president, Mrs. E. C. Prentice with the new installation ceremonies used for the first time.

Following this the members was drawn to the agenda of the 42nd annual district meeting of North Hastings Women's Institutes to be held at Springbrook on June 2nd.

Delegates appointed to attend this were Mesdames E. C. Prentice, H. P. Bateman, P. Gray and E. Brady. Mrs. L. R. Rundle was appointed to take charge of community singing at this same meeting.

Agricultural Grant Made

The usual grant was made to Marmora Agricultural Society. The Life Membership certificate and pin was then presented to Mrs. Annie Grant, who was absent on vacation at the April meeting.

Mrs. L. R. Green gave a reading entitled "Mother Brush" and Miss Ardith Brady played a piano solo. Both were encored and followed with an interesting and informative talk on "Home Economics and Their Value to Our Finer Foods", as her topic.

The meeting was rendered by Mrs. L. R. Rundle, followed by a few games of bingo. Refreshments were then served by Mesdames Gray, Brush and Brady.

Personals

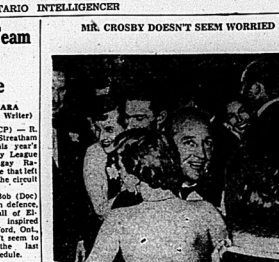
Mrs. W. H. Lott and daughter, Mrs. Rennie attended the funeral of the former's brother, W. J. James in Toronto, last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Penner, of Toronto, spent a few days last week in the village and at Crow Lake.

Miss Patricia Lynch, student nurse at Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, spent the weekend at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Mierault, (nee Pearl Burns) and sons Alexander, and Leon, of Montreal, are visiting relatives and friends in this district.

The Dark Town Minstrel Troupe presented their program in the auditorium of Madoc High School on Tuesday evening, under auspices of St. John's W. A. The program was well received by an audience of approximately 200. The cart will travel to Brancroft next Tuesday to stage their show for St. John's Parish Hall.



In addition to Mrs. L. R. Green, Mrs. Rundle, Mesdames C. Connor, R. E. Neal, E. C. Prentice, and H. P. Nayler attended the W. M. A. C. C. Spring Thankoffering afternoon to enjoy addresses delivered by Mrs. R. Sayers, International President of the Associated Women of the World, and Lady Cynthia Mosley, President of Northern Ireland Women's Institutes.

BRIG. LANGHORNE DIES

London, May 13 — (AP) — Brig. James Archibald Dunboyne Langhorne, 71, inspector-general of West Indian local forces from 1932-36, died here Thursday, it was learned today.

Langhorne served on the inter-Allied Control Commission for Germany from 1920-26.

MR. CROSBY DOESN'T SEEM WORRIED

Scoffing at rumors that his long years of bliss with the former Dixie Lee are at an end, Bing Crosby cuts a rug at a Paris restaurant with the Princess Ghislaine de Polignac. Reports from Hollywood persist that Dixie and Bing will divorce when the latter returns from his "bachelor jaunt" to Europe next month. Mrs. Crosby says that "if Bing says everything is OK, then it must be." — Central Press Canadian.

Incident on New York Stage Shows Jean Arthur's Shyness is No Myth

New York, May 13. (CP)—A modest actress sounds like a contradiction in terms but Jean Arthur, currently enchanting New York stage-goers in "Peter Pan" seems bent on proving it isn't.

Stories about her shyness and aversion to publicity have been current for years. In 1942 she was dubbed by the Women's Press Club in Hollywood one of the least co-operative actresses.

Now she's showing New Yorkers that her attitude isn't a myth or a reverse-twist publicity stunt.

At the opening-night curtain of the revival of the Barrie play, the enthusiastic audience called for a speech from Miss Arthur, who plays the title role of the playish boy Peter. She stood with the rest of the cast, embarrassed and silent.

Finally, Boris Karloff, who plays the dual roles of Captain Hook and Mr. Darling, stepped forward with the star actress and said:

"I think I can say that Miss Arthur wishes to thank you."

Canadian Quartet

"The Four Lads", a young Canadian singing quartet, currently are to be heard nightly at Le Rubaiyat, a midtown night spot.

Making their night club debut a week ago, the four, all from Toronto, are Cornie Codarini, 20; Frank Busseri, 18; Bernt Toorish, 18, and Jimmy Arnold, 18. "The youths, who were trained at a cathedral choir school in Toronto, entertain the patrons with a medley program that includes French-Canadian folk songs, spirituals and jazz numbers. Their engagement runs another six weeks.

Highland Fling

"Brigadoon", the popular musical about the Highlands of Scotland, is back in town for a three-week engagement, bringing joy to lovers of tartans and bagpipes. The production had 581 performances on Broadway in 1947 and 1948 before going on tour, is still colorful and entertaining.

Coming Events

Hollywood actress Paulette Goddard is to make her first North American stage appearance in a play with Noel Coward's "Caesar and Cleopatra", at the Olney Theatre, Olney, Md., June 16, the play's producers announce.

The local premiere of "The Liar", a musical of which actor Alfred Drake is one of the co-authors, opens at Broadway one week, to May 18. Its present run in Philadelphia will be extended a week.

Bowling Club Meets to Plan Season's Work

Anticipating one of the best years in the history of the Bowling Club, the spring meeting prior to the opening of the season was held at the clubhouse on Friday evening with Ab Wonnacott, president in the chair. The work of the executive committee was reviewed and the members and plans laid for the opening, which is expected to be about May 22nd.

Fred Harper, chairman of the greens committee, told the meeting that the greens had come through the winter in fine shape but after taking levels it was found there were a number of low spots, but these will be rectified during the summer and the greens should be in excellent shape for the Corbin Gold Cup competition on Civic Holiday. The ditch needs have all been renewed, where broken, the painting of the fences and other equipment is nearly completed.

The membership have volunteered to paint the clubhouse, the first work to be done on Wednesday and the ladies section of the club have donated the paint for this operation. The women's section intend to the funds to build a cement walk from the gate to the end of the clubhouse and a letter will be sent to that organization thanking them for their interest taken and the splendid help that has been given.

Reports Received

The report of the treasurer was received and showed a healthy balance on hand. Doug Rowe, reporting for the membership committee, stated there were approximately 37 prospective new members in the club and that the Tietze newcomers will be given special instruction before the official opening so they can take their place in the club immediately.

Cliff Argue, reporting for the Corbin Gold Cup committee, stated there was more interest than ever in the annual event and applications have been received to assist in the collection for the various districts. Those assisted. This is one of the biggest sporting event, held in Eastern Ontario and it is expected a full list of entries will be on hand again this year. The list of the ladies' and gentlemen bowlers and Cliff Argue was nominated to look into this phase of the work. A. W. Wonnacott, Gordon Edwards, L. E. McLean, Gus Gerry, Bert Bay, Harry Grant, Fred Harper, Austin Watrin and Howard Hanton were presented with district badges.

Deal Goes Through, Russians Had Sterilized Sables

New York, May 13 — (AP) — Here's a new fur that's cold war.

The Associated Fur Manufacturers of New York disclosed today it made a deal with Soviet Russia for the purchase of 12 live United States mink for the breeding purposes. The animals were to be used for breeding purposes.

But the New York furriers said they now have discovered the Russian animals were sterilized before shipment.

Albert College Women's Guild Holds Afternoon Tea, Sale At Home of Mrs. S. Hibbard

Azure skies and plenteous sunshine were harbingers of success for the dainty afternoon tea and sale of home cooking held on Friday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Hibbard, 99 Ealt Bridge Street, under the auspices of Albert College Women's Guild. The many guests were welcomed at the door by the Guild President, Mrs. Northcott; Mrs. S. Hibbard, the hostess, and Mrs. Bert Howard.

After being smilingly separated from their admission fees by the treasurer, Mrs. A. E. Fisher, who was seated just inside the entrance hall, the guests were again graciously welcomed into the spaciously-charming and softly - lighted tea rooms, whose exquisite atmosphere so vividly reflected the artistic temperament of the hostess by the receptionists, Mrs. C. Morgan, Mrs. H.W. Ackerman, Miss I. Dickens, Miss Jessie Thain and Mrs. W. J. Morrison.

Here, mid lovely antique furnishings, was the long tea table, beautifully appointed with white hand-drawn, lace-edged cloth of English linen, centred with a matchless bouquet of white gypsophelia and exquitely shaded pink sweet peas, whose hues were repeated in the rose-point antique bowl that contained them. The either side the same delicate pink hue was borne out by the tall pink candles in silver holders.

Those Assisting

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. A. B. Bailey; Mrs. G. Bonisteel, Mrs. F. Deacon, Sr., and Mrs. R. Starkey. Others who included: Mrs. T. K. Franklin, Mrs. Clinton McDonald Mrs. T. Mc-Mullen, Miss Norma Clarke, Miss J. Panter, Mrs. E. Denyes, Miss H. Gillis, Mrs. Ross Wright, Mrs. H. H. Francis, Mrs. R. Lashbrook, Mrs. W. Finkle and Mrs. A. May.

Along the hall, past rooms with gleaming parquet floors and love ly draperies, was the home cooking emporium with its clematis-flowered walls, and glistening, prismatic chandelier whose soft glow fell upon the golden daffodils which filled the mantel. Here with many delightful and aromatic products of the kitchen: Swedish tart rings, tomato soup cake, orange loaf cake, white cakes buried under generous coconut toppings, plain cakes with chocolate fillings, lemon pies, heaped high with golden-touched meringues, sugar coated rice crispies, jellies in jars, for which there were pots and tiny cockles that melt in the mouth. Convening about the attractive spot were Mrs. R. F. Munro, Mrs. F. B. Fetterley, Mrs. F. Foley, Mrs. Gordon Bonisteel and Mrs. F. Countryman.

The lovely tea, pleasingly convened and a credit to all those who unstintingly gave of the time to make it such a glowing success.

Italian Steamer Seized, Crew Held In Yugoslav Zone

Trieste, May 13 — (AP)— The Yugoslav-controlled radio at Capodistria confirmed today that the Italian steamship, the Vettor Pisani, had been seized and the ship's captain and nine crew members arrested.

The ship was seized in Capodistria harbor in the Yugoslav occupation zone of Trieste Free Territory, because two Yugoslav militiamen had discovered two British-made machine guns, 12 Italian-made hand-grenades and a quantity of propaganda material aboard, the radio said.

The radio report gave the first official news of the Yugoslav action which coincided with a renewal of restrictions on traffic between Yugoslav-occupied territory of Trieste and the British-American zone.

Few Visitors Attend Hospital 'Open House'

Despite the reported frequency of criticism regarding the operation and conditions at the Belleville General Hospital, it appears that residents of the city and district are just not interested in learning at first hand what goes on behind the institution.

At least that is the impression gained by members of the hospital officials and staff as result of the rather disappointing turnout at the hospital "open house" held Friday in commemoration of Florence Nightingale.

Members of the hospital nursing staff were on hand throughout the day to take parties of visitors through the hospital and explain the various departments in the institution and pointing out details of the operation in the various departments.

It was learned today that little more than a dozen visitors, but persons affording themselves of the opportunity of visiting the hospital during the day.

"We were really disappointed and interested one hospital authority today. "Considering the criticism of the hospital it was thought there would be a large crowd visiting the hospital but only a handful were present, entirely interested to visit the institution on "open day".

Tennis Talk

A Weekly Peek At The Soccer Picture

BY ELDEE

District tennis is getting off to a good start this year and most local clubs have reported that they are once again in action. But Anne with their cement courts were probably the first to begin playing tennis. They have been going for about three weeks now and as Thorold Norwood tells us it would have been just a matter of sweeping off the courts and they could have easily have been playing sooner than that. Point Anne were the winners of the Bay of Quinte Tennis League competition last year, and as in previous years, arrangements are under way for the local champions to play off against the champions of the Kawartha League in the Peterborough district. Colbourg apparently took the honors in the latter loop and it is just a matter of settling dates now and this series will be played. We hope to have something for you on this subject soon.

Whilst on the subject of exhibition tennis two other teams in the Peterborough loop have indicated that they might be interested in fighting it out with teams from the local organization. These are the Quaker and Kawartha clubs. The Bay of Quinte tennis executive are looking into the possibility of fitting these dates into the schedule.

After a bit of work on the part of the club executive the Quinte Tennis Club at Belleville entry in the local loop, have opened their courts for the 1950 season. They have clay courts and it takes a little while for them to dry out after the winter skating activities. However, May 20th is by far the earliest that these courts have been open any year since the club was formed. The Quinte club report that they intend to run an opening of the season tournament on May 20th and are hoping for a good turn out from local tennis enthusiasts. Bruce McGregor has been given the job of arranging this competition. The club are planning to put on a weekly social evening in the clubrooms throughout the season, and tennis instruction for beginners will be started towards the end of the month. Tom Cowley will soon be able to make an announcement of a big annual draw. Membership chairman Jean Green reports that membership tickets can be obtained from any member of the executive.

Jerry Ireland, president, and Fred Bayliss, secretary-treasurer, of the Trenton Tennis Club said that their courts have been open for a few days. They are, of course, in the tennis league again this year. Fred Bayliss is looking after membership and were doing a land office business among some of last years members this weekend. Trenton are particularly interested in building up their ladies membership this year, with an eye on that League championship.

The Bay of Quinte Tennis League schedule was held over until this weekend as it was rumored that a R.D. and Batawa might be able to form up teams this year and making it a six team loop. S/Ldr. Tache of 6 R.D. says it is just a question of being able to round up enough ladies before they can enter. Surely among the wives and sweethearts of the Depot boys there must be four racquet wielders. The first scheduled game in the League will take place weather permitting, on May 28th and Kelly Monteith, the League secretary will have the schedule available during the coming week.

Kelkiongas Wins Non-Professional Baseball Title

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 13 (AP) —The Fort Wayne Kekiongas won the North American non-professional baseball championship Friday night by defeating Rideau-chem, Ont., Legionaires 11-5.

The triumph was Fort Wayne's fourth against two losses in a best-of-seven series. Fort Wayne won the series last year.

A seven-run eighth inning, sparked by two doubles by left fielder Stan Sharger as the team batted around, won for the Kekiongas. Gabby Horman homered for Fort Wayne in the fifth with one on.

Secret Sessions Of Olympic Com. Now Being Held

(By The Canadian Press)

The executive council of the International Olympic Committee opened secret sessions Friday at Copenhagen, Denmark, with representatives of 19 Olympic sports. They discussed the programs of the 1952 winter and summer Olympic games. The winter Olympics will be held at Oslo and the summer games at Helsinki. They were faced with the task of condensing the summer program and pacifying one of the major groups concerned with the winter games —the International Ski Federation.

A spokesman for the council said they would not discuss their sessions publicly until they end tonight.

Any decision reached by the executive council must be acted upon by the full International Olympic Committee which will begin its meeting here Monday.

The I.O.C. and the ski group are at odds over the Olympic interpretation of amateurs. The Ski Federation permits ski instructors to take part in amateur competition.

A Japanese official said that Japan has high hopes of competing in the 1952 Olympic games.

Avery Brundage, who is the International Ice Hockey Federation, proposed Friday all sports governing bodies set up a new international organization free from control by the International Olympic Committee. In a letter to the newspaper sport, Dr. Kraatz said the International Olympic Committee exercised dictorial control over the various sports federations.

John J. McHale Jr., of London, Ont., posted a 92 to capture the doubles crown Friday in the United States Amateur Trapshoot Championships at Pelham Manor, N.Y. It was the first time in history that a representative of the Dominion has won the tandem event. Shooting in steady fashion despite an unpredictable outwest wind that made the targets do weird things, McHale had a 19 on his first trip to the traps and followed with 17-18-19-18.

Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, said Friday night at New York that he is negotiating for a June 14 title match between middleweight champion Jake Lamotta and Rocky Graziano, former title holder, but has not closed the match. Lamotta agreed several months ago to defend his crown for the I. B. C., and only last week the boxing club said the Bronx bull's opponent definitely would be named by May 15.

Stewards of The Jockey Club controlling body of horse racing in the United States, said Friday the registration of 17 colts had been suspended and that future applications made by William Stremmel, owner of the Glen Cove Stud Farm at Vallejo, Calif., would be denied. The stewards refused to amplify their statement except to say that their action was taken to guard and protect the American stud book.

Memberships in the American Bowling Congress, limited to white males for the last 34 years, were thrown wide open Friday Convention delegates, following recommendations of the A.B.C. "brass" and harassed by court decisions and other pressure, needed only 27 minutes at Columbus, O., to erase the controversial restriction from the books.

Boston Red Sox today turned over Frank Quinn, $40,000 bonus right-hand pitcher, to Washington Senators for the $10,000 waiver price.

Gossip From The Courts of The District

BY "DIG"

District soccer has been in full swing now since the end of April, and the enthusiasm shown bodes well for a successful season. All local squads have seen action since the season began. Last Saturday saw the opening of the Eastern Ontario Football League schedule with six of the seven teams being in operation. The two local entries fought it out at the Fairgrounds and the Navy just managed to edge the Belleville boys by two goals to one. This match was played in a very strong wind which rather handicapped the players and spoilt the game from a spectators point of view. Mayor Jack Allin kicked off after being introduced to the players of both teams. Jack, who says he has not played soccer since he was a youngster, insisted that he kick down wind and almost scored a goal. The Navy were ably supported by their mascot, a goat.

Trenton-Flyers are at present leading the field in the Bay of Quinte loop, followed closely by Belleville United, 6 R.D., and the Navy. The season is young yet and it is too early to make predictions as to actual league winners at this stage of the game.

The Flyers journey to Stratford this weekend to tackle the local Legion squad. It is rumoured that the Stratford boys have a very strong team and will give the airmen a good run for their money. Next weekend sees two local entries in the Eastern Ontario League are in action. Belleville United journey overnight U.E.W. at the Fairgrounds on Saturday afternoon, whilst the Navy travel to Kingston to do battle with the Kingston United squad. In the other E.O.L. game scheduled Ottawa Combined Services visit Brockville in Ottawa. Next weekend Ottawa will be the visitors to the city when they will try to skin the Navy.

Next Wednesday evening two picked teams from amongst the local clubs will play in a trial game in order to give the selectors a chance to pick an All Star team to take on the Toronto Senior League All Stars at Dale Memorial Park in Trenton on Saturday, 27th May. Alex MacGregor, the secretary of the Ontario Football Association says he intends to bring as strong a team as possible down from Toronto to try and avenge the defeat of the Toronto Irish Club by the local boys last year. This should be a match that will be well worth seeing. Tickets for this match are now on sale from all local clubs priced at 50 cents each, children under 14 can see the match for 10 cents cash at the gate. This game is being put on in Trenton as part of the program for the Trenton Recreation Week.

On May 24th most of the local soccer fraternity will be heading Torontowards as that is the day when the English International Touring team play the Ontario All Stars. Tickets for this match which will be played at the C.N. E. grounds have been obtained by the Bay of Quinte F.A. and it is hoped to run a bus to Toronto and make it a day's outing. To learn on good authority that the one and only Stan Matthews of the Wizard of Dribble' will be giving his exhibition of the soccer art on the England right wing.

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toonto, May 13 — (CP) — Manger Frank Boucher of New York Rangers wants it known there is no rift between himself and Lynn Patrick, recently-ostracized coach of New York Rangers in the National Hockey League. It's a matter of fact, Boucher says,Lynn has been his friend for a long time "and I'll keep my book."

Boucher gave his version of the freshman coach's resignation to Jill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick after being told that Milt (Tonnio Star) Dunnell wrote thathis departure was somewhat less pleasant than meets the eye Thiswas carried by the Canadian Press.

"There is only one reason why Lynn left the Rangers," Boucher told Westwick, "and that is the reason he gave when he announced his retirement. (Lynn said he quit to coach Victoria Cougars of the Pacific Coast League and he also preferred to bring up his family in a smaller city than New York.)

"I had no fight with Lynn. He was a friend of mine and I thought a lot of him and still do. I think he will say that now, too."

Dunnell wrote that Patrick took over the coaching job despite warning from his father Lester, that he'd never be happy under Boucher and that if Rangers did well under a new coach, Boucher would get the credit—if not, Lynn was the goat.

"At the start," Dunnell wrote, "he and Boucher were buddies but before the season was far spent, Lynn had decided Lester was right."

Boucher says he knows that the older Patrick didn't want Lynn to take the job "because Lester and I were not on friendly terms

"But Lynn and I were good friends and I think it proves something that Lynn took the job against his father's advice and knowing the background. Since then there has been nothing so far as I am concerned, to change my friendship with Lynn."

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, May 13 — (AP) — Who says an "independent minor league club" can't be operated profitably these days? How about the Brownt . . . That "minor" is kidding, of course but its kidding on the square since for the last few years the Browns have been a "farm" for most of the other American League clubs . . . And with more than $1,000,000 in the till from player sales, they can afford to be independent as all getout . . . and there'll be more. The Browns recently indicated their willingness to do business with the Yankees (though emphatically not for Dick Wakefield) and in spite of their low position in the standing, they always have something to sell . . . Over in the other league the operation like theirs is that a rookie or a major - league castoff has a chance to become a star quickly. There aren't any established, high-salaried stars to displace.

Cash on the Line

Taking the semi-official figures, here's how to acquire $1,000,000 merely by repeating firmly "a hunnert grand" every time a club owner comes around . . . the Browns collected $475,000 of Tom Yawkey's money, plus 10 players, in three deals with the Red Sox. Vern Stephens and Jack Jensen brought $310,000; Al Zarilla $100,000 and Ellis Kinder and Bill Hitchcock $65,000 . . . Four other $100,000 deals were Sam Zoldak to Cleveland, Gerry Priddy to Detroit, Fred Sanford and Roy Partee to New York and Bob Dillinger and Paul Lehner to Philadelphia . . . The Indians gave up another $100,000 in three deals to get Johnny Berardino, Bob Muncrief and Red Embree.

Hopes of Early Settlement Of Crippling Railroad Strike Appearing to Grow Dimmer

Chicago, May 13 — (AP) — Hopes of an early settlement of the crippling railroad strike appeared dimmer today as the four-day walkout by locomotive firemen cut deeper into the economy of the United States.

There had been earlier reports that the rail union had offered new proposals designed to bring peace with the four affected carriers.

But Chairman Francis O'Neill, of the National (railway) Mediation Board apparently squelched the report. After a meeting Friday night with representatives of the four big railroads involved in the strike, he said:

"They're just as deadlocked now as they were at the start of the strike Wednesday morning."

Meanwhile, the number of jobless mounted to nearly 350,000 and threatened to go higher. A railroad spokesman in Los Angeles said that firemen set to strike against a fifth railroad — the Union Pacific's Los Angeles-to-Salt Lake City run.

W. T. Price, Union Pacific traffic manager in Los Angeles, said the union will pull its firemen off trains operating on the Los Angeles-to-Salt Lake City run at 6 p.m. PDT (9 p.m. EDT) today.

The chief issue is the union's demand for a second fireman on multiple-unit diesel locomotives.

The walkout involved 18,000 firemen on parts of the New York Central, the Pennsylvania, and all of the Santa Fe, and the Southern Railway.

Meanwhile, there were new reports of minor violence on the strikebound New York Central lines at Elkhart, Ind., and Cleveland.

In Knoxville, Tenn., three men — two of them employees of the strike-bound Southern Railroad — were arrested Friday night after rifles and ammunition were found in a car occupied by the Southern employees.

An outbreak of violence took place on the railroad's property Thursday. Two employees were struck but were not injured by bullets fired into freight locomotive cabs.

$500,000 Fire Loss in Plant At Owen Sound

Owen Sound, May 13 (CP) — A shift in the wind helped fire fighters to bring under control a fire which started in the William Kennedy and Sons Machinery plant here Friday night. The blaze, causing damage of more than $500,000, for a time had threatened several other structures.

Destroyed were the companies machine shops, built in 1940, with their contents, and two company-owned houses. The machine shops contained machinery valued at close to $500,000.

Employees and volunteers aided in the successful battle to save adjoining buildings, including the Canadian National Railways station and an ice company plant, with a row of seven houses. The roofs of these buildings were doused with water at the height of the fire to prevent danger from flying sparks and timbers.

Man of Shocks

The alarm was given at 6 p.m. when the machine company night watchman, Tom Dearden, found the machine shop was a mass of smoke and flames. The fire was under control by 8 p.m.

The cause of the fire was not officially ascertained, but was believed to have been either a blaze in the roof or a short-circuit in one of three cranes in the machine shop.

The plant's office building was saved and office records and equipment, carried out when the fire was spreading, were later returned.

The blaze spread swiftly. Victor Eden, one of the last employees to leave the plant, said there was no sign of fire at 5:35 p.m. Dense smoke hampered firefighters and a major conflagration threatened until the wind shifted to the north and firemen were able to gain control.

SAYS ANNOUNCEMENT PREMATURE

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 13— (CP)— Charles Daley, chairman of the Niagara Parks Commission, Friday night described as premature an announcement that the commission will take over Oak Hall from the federal government.

Mr. Daley said he had discussed the matter with Prime Minister St. Laurent and further discussions will be held before any decision is reached.

Oak Hall, a mansion built by the late Sir Harry Oakes is slated to be developed as a cultural centre.

Filibuster Rolls On in House Over Pipelines

Ottawa, May 13—(CP)—The pipelines filibuster rolled on in the Commons Friday night, amid much newspaper reading, laughter and snickering from some Liberal benches.

J. E. Harris (PC—Toronto Danforth) highlighted the one-hour show about certain views held by the government on barter trade, the need for conserving our developments for the future, future generations and the great attraction Alberta's gas fields are holding for overseas industries seeking fuel bases in Canada.

Throughout Mr. Harris' speech James Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, shouted "hear, hear," and "don't forget British Columbia." M. Sinclair has indicated his opposition to the pipelines legislation.

Mr. Harris, combining his speaking efforts with Angus MacInnis (CCF—Vancouver East), managed to "talk out" the private members bill which seeks to get Commons approval to the incorporation of Prairie Transmission Lines Limited.

Opposition members opposed the bill on the grounds that the company would ship gas to the United States instead of moving it to the Pacific coast first on an all-Canadian route.

Thirteen Forest Fires Reported By Department

Thirteen forest fires were reported by the Department of Lands and Forests Tweed branch over the week ending May 6th. Six took place in the Bancroft division with the remainder in the Deer division.

All but two were placed under control by rangers with small areas burned over. These two, however, caused considerable damage, one burning over a 2,600 acre area in Brougham Township and the other in Darling township, which spread over an area of 125 acres.

The Brougham township fire, it is reported, caused considerable property damage and a complete investigation to determine responsibility is under way by department officials and provincial police.

The other fire was caused by careless campers.

Protection officials again remind anyone travelling in the woods to take every precaution with fire—thoroughly extinguish all burning material and camp fires and don't leave the place until satisfied no possible danger exists.

MAKES APOLOGY

Boston, May 13 — (AP)—Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox' slugging left-fielder, publicly apologized Friday for certain gestures he directed toward booing fans Thursday after two errors in the doubleheader which the Sox dropped to Detroit.

His errors were followed by cat calls which in turn brought a two-handed gesture from Williams which some of the fans construed as insulting.

First Defence Witness Heard In Damage Suit

Montreal, May 13—(CP)—Judge Oscar Gagnon testified Friday he had "strong circumstantial evidence" that Frank Roncarelli, former Montreal restaurant owner, had distributed literature of the Witnesses of Jehovah in 1946 prior to cancellation of his liquor licence.

He was the first defence witness in Roncarelli's $118,000 damage suit against Premier Maurice Duplessis. The suit was launched by Roncarelli because, he claimed, cancellation of his licence resulted in heavy financial loss when he sold his cafe.

Roncarelli also charged that his permit was revoked because he acted as a bondsman for the religious sect arrested for distributing allegedly subversive literature.

Defence lawyers Emery Beaulieu and Edouard Asselin opened their defence of the premier today by producing a copy of a pamphlet published by the Witnesses. The pamphlet entitled "Quebec's burning hatred" was admitted as evidence.

Judge Gagnon then told the court his attention was drawn to the Witnesses pamphlet by what was chief crown prosecutor prior to his appointment to the bench.

He said he informed Chief Judge Edouard Archambault, then head of the Provincial Commission bondsman for the Witnesses while holding a liquor permit. He said he had no positive proof that Roncarelli distributed the literature but had "strong circumstantial evidence."

'Worthless' Stove Contains $3,062

De Smet, S.D., May 13 — (AP) — An old stove with $3,062 in it carried the luck of the Irish today.

The stove belonged to an elderly bachelor, Pat Lavelle, when he died a year ago. In the property that could be found was auctioned — about $12,000 worth. But Pat's stove wasn't counted worth anything. As a stove, it wasn't much.

Somebody tossed it in an old shed. It was still there when a neighbor, Peter Palmlund, bought Lavelle's place. Palmlund came upon a plush-covered box containing the $3,062 in bills and coin.

The Irish angle? Heirs to Lavelle's estate live 19 miles, most of them living in Ireland.

Groucho Marx Does Not Like Housework

Los Angeles, May 13 — (AP)— Groucho Marx doesn't like housework and his young wife, Kay, didn't like his friend, the comedian testified Friday in obtaining a divorce on grounds of mental cruelty. The 59-year-old radio and movie wisecracker testified he had to manage the household, keep the servants in line, order the meals and perform other duties, after a hard day on the radio.

Rimouski is Well on Way To Recovery but Cabano Faces Many Dificulties

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Rimouski, Que., May 13—(CP)—This fire-stricken lower St. Lawrence River city is well on the way to recovery Saxy, but in the little mill town of Cabano, lost 60 miles west of here, reconstruction and re-organization is a slow-paced struggle.

A reconstruction and rehabilitation committee formed on business and civic leaders in Rimouski has done all the spade work for rebuilding a better and more beautiful city from the blackened remains of a $20,000,000 weekend fire.

Tuesday, the committee will present Premier Duplessis with a broad outline of its plans.

Meanwhile Leo McLaren, a Red Cross representative, said there were ample supplies of all needs in Rimouski. But supplies of baby foods were getting short in Cabano as 1,500 children among the 2,500 homeless under Red Cross care, George Malenev, another Red Cross official said he got in touch with Dr. Edmz Latulippe, Red Cross representative in Cabano, and informed him that additional medical supplies would be sent immediate needs of Cabano would be sent by the Rimouski Red Cross organization.

Shovels at Work

Rimouski is bustling with reconstruction activity. Mechanical shovels are at work and Quebec province department bulldozers are cleaning up the mass of ruins in the western section of the city.

At Cabano, things are going more slowly, as the Temiscouata county mill town is still struggling to its feet.

Food services for the 1,500 homeless in Cabano are well organized. Dr. Jean Marie Tremblay said they were prepared by expert bush cooks loaned by the Fraser Company, the only large lumber industry that survived the blaze.

The medical supply situation, entirely different from that in Rimouski where four drug stores survived the fire, is poor.

In Rimouski, the homeless were a treat to the movies.

Won't Disturb Wren, Buys Another Truck Until Brood Raised

Wise, Va., May 13—(AP)—Lee F. Craiger is fond of birds.

A month ago Craiger went out to his heavy truck one morning to find that a wren had built her ent in the tool compartment and was sitting snugly on a nest of eggs.

Craiger hated to disturb that bird.

So he bought another truck to use while the mama wren hatched her young.

Now he's receiving congratulations. The nest is full of baby birds but Craiger still won't budge the truck until they've feathered and flown away.

ACQUITTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

Regina, May 13 — (CP) — James Deckert, 35, Friday was acquitted of manslaughter in the death of 54-year-old John William Vollick, found dead in the Salvation Army hostel bed following a dormitory fight March 26. The verdict climaxed a two-day trial that saw boarders of the hostel called to give evidence about a midnight fracas involving Deckert and Vollick.

NO ELABORATION

Amsterdam, May 13 — (AP)— The Flint Sea Lord of the Admiralty said Friday Britain has an atom-powered submarine in the experimental stage. Admiral Lord Fraser of North Cape did not elaborate on his statement, made at a press conference during an official visit to The Netherlands.

NAVY RECAPTURES SHIP SEIZED BY NATIONALISTS

Hong Kong May 13—(CP)—The Royal Navy Thursday recaptured the British steamer Ethel Moller, seized by Chinese Nationalists three months ago for running the blockade.

Sweeping up to the merchant ship, the destroyer Cossack whipped in a boarding party which disarmed the 150 Chinese Nationalist soldiers aboard. Some of the Chinese were wounded.

Triumphantly the Cossack's crew hoisted the Red ensign to the masthead. The Cossack then escorted the steamer toward Hong Kong, where it is due about noon tomorrow.

(In London, an Admiralty spokesman said the original crew was put back in charge of the vessel)

The boarding party hoisted the merchant navy flag to indicate the Ethel Moller was a merchant vessel and not a naval prize.

The speed with which th Cossack made the capture recalls the war-time exploit of her famous namesake when she entered a Norwegian fjord to release captives from the German prison ship Altmark.

The Cossack first sighted the Ethel Moller off Chapel Island near Amoy, opposite Chiang Kai-Shek's island stronghold of Formosa according to a statement issued here today.

Statement Issued

A statement issued by naval headquarters here said:

"While out on patrol yesterday morning the Cossack sighted a merchant vessel on the high seas in the vicinity of Chapel Island near Amoy.

"Cossack closed to identify and confirmed that the vessel was the Ethel Moller.

"Cossack assumed control of the situation.

"The Ethel Moller is being escorted to Hong Kong."

Chinese Nationalists seized the Ethel Moller in February as she was outward bound from Hong Kong to north China ports.

Britain protested about her detention and that of other British ships which Nationalist warships had intercepted in their attempt to blockade the communist-held mainland.

In March it was reported that Chinese Nationalists were using the Ethel Moller as a troop carrier for raids on the Chinese mainland.

The Cossack, completed in 1945, is the successor to the famous destroyer which trapped the Altmark and rescued 300 British seamen off Norway in 1940. The former Cossack was lost in 1941 after she had shadowed and torpedoed the German Battleship Bismark.

Bachelor Peer Disappears in Sea

Plymouth, England, May 13—(AP) — Lord Mildmay of Fleet, gentleman jockey and friend of the Royal Family, went swimming in the sea near here Friday and disappeared. Naval craft and planes set out to look for him.

The 41-year-old bachelor peer was reported missing after going to the rear of a moving dip.

Lord Mildmay, one of the best known amateur steeplechase riders, inherited £180,000 and estates in Devon and Kent when his father, the First Baron Mildmay of Flete, died in 1947.

CONDEMNS MASONS

The tiny town of Fisherville, Ont., is in the throes of religious controversy centring around Rev. W. Bauer, above, Lutheran Church minister. Mr. Bauer holds that the Masonic society, is anti-Christian, and has condemned the Masonic Order from the pulpit. Led by three Masons, a popular movement has arisen in the Haldimand county town, to remove Mr. Bauer. A vote of the church council will be taken May 18 to decide whether to call for a vote of the congregation on the expulsion of the three Masons. Meanwhile, Mr. Bauer refuses to let the Masons take communion.—Central Press Canadian.

Churchill Party Scores Gains in Urban Elections

London, May 13—(AP)—Winston Churchill's Conservative's scored new gains in Britain's town and city council elevations as urban dwellers continued their drift away from the ruling Labor party.

The Conservative swing in the municipal elections Thursday was too slight, however, to give a clear-cut sign for the possible outcome of the general elections expected this fall.

Voters in 378 municipalities went to the polls Thursday to choose a third of their councils.

Latest returns from 373 boroughs gave the Conservatives party a net gain of 213 seats, among the 3,217 seats being contested. Most of them were won from the Labor party and independent candidates.

These returns showed that Labor had suffered a net loss of 129 seats, the Independents a net loss of 112 and the Liberals a net loss of 22.

There was no such dramatic swing as occurred in the municipal elections last year when the Conservatives made a smashing comeback with city voters to seize control of many councils which had been in Labor hands since 1945.

Although the voting was only for local offices many of the candidates had introduced national issues in their campaigns.

London — (CP) — Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard says editorially today that the results of Britain's borough elections can bring no real cheer to any party.

The newspaper, generally unfavorable to the Labor government, says Thursday's voting confirmed that there is no way out of the present political stalemate nationally unless the Conservatives can win support of 2,000,000 voters who plumped for the Liberals in last February's general election.

Most British newspapers agree that the municipal elections showed a slight trend to the right, but discounted the trend as a pointer to a general election which is expected this fall.

BURR'S

Coon Makes Home In Basement Under the Church

Burrs—Sunday School attendants were somewhat dismayed on entering church on a recent Sunday morning to see a fairly large hole excavated through the platform. Tracks down the aisle, over the seats and stove and up the gallery stairs could be seen. No further sign of the predator made its appearance throughout the service. A layman volunteered to sit it out during the afternoon Late afternoon arrived and yet no sign of life so the weary waiter decided to go home. Going out the porch he cast an eye in a card board packing box and to his surprise or relief (for it was believed a skunk was the culprit) he saw a coon curled up seeming asleep. He opened the outside door and it scurried out. It had evidently hibernated under the church for winter quarters and when the men pointed up the foundation it became aware of its captivity and in desperation had gnawed its way out. Would that this tale ended here, but no, it has a sad sequel. A few days later three ladies in the church looking for a box to pack some dishes in found the corpses of five raccoons under some finely shredded paper in the box where the mother had been.

MAYOR CLOCKS SPEEDING CAR AND TESTIFIES

Oakville, Ont., May 12—(CP)—Mayor James R. Black takes his job seriously. Police Probing Man's Story He Was Kidnapped

North Bay, May 12 — (CP) — mild-mannered Fred Anscomb returned to his home at Shelburne, Ont., today as Ontario provincial police investigated his story that he was kidnapped by two strangers and held captive near here for 8 days.

The 32-year-old farmer was released Thursday and shortly after reunited with his wife.

Cpl. Everett Hicks of the Orangeville provincial police detachment was reported conducting an investigation. He could not be the Callander - North Bay area today.

In Toronto, Police Commissioner William Stranger said he had received no report from Cpl. Hicks. He said "a thorough investigation of the report was under way.

Anscomb said he was abducted by two men whose automobile he entered in Shelburne April 25 to discuss a possible deal for a tractor. One of the men, he said, tossed a blanket over his head and chloroformed him. He awoke in a cottage where he was kept until Thursday. The men had taken $225 from him.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A GLITTERING ARRAY

Pudgy, or is he, Turk Broda, well-known Toronto Maple Leaf's Hockey Club goalkeeper will make a personal appearance in Belleville on Wednesday, June 14 with a scintillating galaxy of National Hockey League stars. Turk is master-minding a softball squad composed of NHL players and they will be here with their rotund maestro to pit their diamond ability against an all-star aggregation from Belleville.

* * *

With the Turk will be, so the committee in charge has been advised such National League iceland luminaries as Gus Mortson, Eddie Harrison, Fleming Mackell, Ray Timgren, Chuck Webster (New York Rangers), Sid. Smith, Cal. Gardner, Bill Quackenbush, Harry Watson, Bud Polle, Jim Thompson, Al Dueshberry and Red Kelly. Charlie Justice, famous Negro sound star who twirled the Toronto Tip Tops to the 1949 world's softball championship will be here if the date does not conflict with his team's schedule.

* * *

Now we ask you, kiddies, isn't that a dainty softball dish to set before King Public. The game, as far as present plans go, will be played under the floodlights starting at 8:30 and it is quite likely the National League stars will arrive early in the day. If this is the case, arrangements will be made for them to visit points of interest of local note at a general gathering the youngsters of the city. Also efforts will be made to have them do the Trenton Air Station for a tour of inspection. How about it, Kelly?

* * *

The game is under the sponsorship of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville and the entire proceeds above bare expenses will be devoted to the Community Swimming Pool Fund. Tickets will be on sale within a few days and the cost of admission will be fifty cents for adults and half that amount for kids. There will be a meet-the-team session at the Fair Grounds and it is hoped one of the largest crowds in the history of the city will pack the park that night. Not only will they see famous internationally - known hockey stars in softball action but their purchase of a ticket will be aiding in a worthy community enterprise. So mark Wednesday, June 14 on your calendar and make it a date to "Meet the Turk".

* * *

It is destined to be one of the biggest sports events in Belleville in years and it should attract fans and others from all parts of the district. And if you cannot attend the softball game and have the interest and health of your kiddies and others at heart, remember the Community Swimming Pool Fund. The pool is an urgent necessity in Belleville. There is no point in reminding you that there is not a fit place for kiddies or anybody to swim in local waters. Those fortunate enough to possess automobiles or have friends which do, can travel to inland lakes, or the shores of Lake Ontario for their swimming. But unfortunately there are many people here who do not own a car. In any event, the pool is urgently needed, but it cannot be made a reality unless you and I and a lot of other folks get behind the scheme and push it through to a financial success. Send in your spare dollars now.

Herewith is the special bulletin of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association with regard to the new hospital tax. It speaks for itself and it applies to other phases of sport as well.

HOSPITALS TAX ACT — 1948

An amendment to this act requires the collection of 15 per cent of the admission price from spectators at all non-amateur sporting events, where the admission fee is 15c or over.

As all Softball teams are Amateur, this tax will not affect your teams if the operator of the games (whether team, league, association or parks' committee) secures an exemption from the tax.

Such exemption requires the filling (before any games are played) of an affidavit to the following effect—

(a) No player engaged in the game has at any time received money or consideration for services as an athletic except reasonable travelling expenses actually incurred because of an athletic competition.

(b) No player engaged in the game has taught, pursued or assisted in the pursuit of any athletics as a means of livelihood.

(c) No player engaged in the game has sold or pledged his prizes.

(d) No player engaged in the game has promoted or managed an athletic contest or exhibition for personal gain.

This affidavit accompanied by a financial statement of the teams finances must be submitted to Mr. J. J. O'Neill, Assistant Director, Hospitals Tax Branch, Treasury Department, Parliament Buildings, Toronto 2, Ontario, with the application for an exemption certificate.

Please forward this information to all your teams immediately.

THIS IS IMPORTANT.

If the team does not secure an exemption certificate, the park operator must collect 15 per cent of the admission price from the spectators as an extra admission fee.

'There Just Ain't No Justice' Moans Ray Villmer as Crafty Strangler Snatches Victory

By GEORGE H. CARVER (Sports Editor)

Ray Villmer, dynamic pocket Hercules of the realm of rassledom arrived at the conclusion last night that "that there ain't no justice" in the sport insofar as crafty Strangler Bob Wagner and he are concerned.

Victim, he claimed of a "dirty" trick last Friday when the Strangler standing at ringside tripped him while chasing Wild William Longson in a game of tag outside the ropes, Villmer decided to avenge the insult last night.

And he nearly did that. He had victory in his grasp after splitting the first two falls with the scowling Robert, but it eluded him in a split second and turned to defeat while a nearly stunned 1150 of the faithful looked on aghast.

Savage Attack

Villmer launched a savage attack at Wagner when the pair came to grips in the third fall. He elbowed smashed the cunning Sherman into submission and then lifted him high for the airplane spin and the crowd sensed sudden Villmer victory.

But crafty Wagner had other ideas. He dodged the "third count" after being smashed to the canvas, and walked into a second spin. Whirling in the air he caught the ropes with a foot and plunged himself and Villmer to the mat. Turning suddenly he smashed "illegal" blows to the Villmer abdomen and pinned him for the fall.

The crowd howled "murder, robber" and other imprecations at referee Sam Goddar, middleweight wrestling champion who made his official debut here. Goddar, it seemed needed as many eyes as an octopus does tentacles and the wily Wagner took every advantage of his opportunities when out of line of the official eye.

Warner Takes Second

Wagner won the second fall after subjecting Villmer to heavy stomach smashes, and the crowd did not like that decision either. Earlier in the fall, Villmer tacked on a punishing armlock that had the Wagnerian right flipper resembling a cross between a pretzel, a coil of wire and a juiced-up blacksnake.

Midway through the eight-minute fall, Villmer tied up Wagner in the ropes in a drop-one purl one stitch. Hopelessly enmeshed in the cords, Wagner sliced by referee Goddar, struggled to get free while Villmer used first one leg as a lever and had himself a lot of fun before Wagner got a divorce from the ropes.

In the first fall Villmer had it almost his own way. He smashed the Strangler all over the ring and at one time the Portland cement mixer hurled himself through the ropes to escape the Villmerian wrath. It ended when he was hoisted high, spun like a top and smashed to the canvas like a ton of bricks with the exultant Villmer spread across his torso like a fried egg on a saucer.

"Moose" Tames Lee

Earl "Moose" McCready proved that the old gent with the whiskers and whiskers is not catching up with him too rapidly when he took referee Fox's decision from Lee Lee Lee after the pair wrestled the time limit of 60 minutes. McCready stung by the unorthodox methods of the towering Ozarkian net tactic for tactic and had a clear edge throughout the fall.

Al Korman's rough and ready style, one not too popular with the crowd, scored and thumped his way through to victory over Irish Tom Collins after 25 minutes of giggling in the preliminary.

The bouts next week start at nine o'clock instead of 8:45 it was announced during the card.

LaMotta to Defend Crown Against Rocky Graziano

New York, May 13—(AP)—If the International Boxing Club, Madison Square Gardens and the New York Boxing Managers Guild can get together on a television money settlement, count on middleweight champion Jake LaMotta to defend his crown against Rocky Graziano June 14.

The TV beg is the only thing holding up an official announcement of a LaMotta-Graziano clash in Yankee Stadium it was learned today.

Most of the details came to light Friday night in Madison Square Garden as Paddy Young a game, 31-year-old New Yorker, spurted in the last round to win a split 10-round decision over Charlie Fusari of Irvington, N.J., in an action-packed fray.

The winner of this bout was supposed to figure in the selection of an opponent for LaMotta. But even before Paddy and Charlie climbed into the ring, the championship deal was all but sealed as far as the main principals were concerned.

Television is the chief stumbling block.

The managers' TV and radio contract with the I.B.C. and the garden expires May 31. Under this pact, main event boxers for garden shows get $1,000 each for air rights. For the new contract the managers want the fighters to share 50 per cent of what the promoters will get. Right now it comes to about $18,500 a show.

The managers have agreed not to sign for any fights after May 31 unless a TV contract is signed, ed. And it's understood that Cohen, a staunch guildsman, will stick with his colleagues.

Czechoslovakian Figure Skater Now Professional

Montreal, May 13—(CP)—Aja Vrzanova, 18-year-old Czechoslovakian world champion figure skater, had turned professional and will join an ice show for the 1951 season, it was announced Friday.

Miss Vrzanova, who took over the world title when Ottawa's Barbara Ann Scott turned pro last year, will star in the 1951 Ice Follies.

The announcement was made at press conference by Roy Shipstad, the company's general manager.

The tall, striking brunette came here from England a few days ago to visit friends and said she had no intention of giving up her amateur status until representatives of several ice show companies made offers.

She now plans to reside permanently in Montreal and intends to become a Canadian citizen.

Miss Vrzanova will leave tomorrow for a brief visit to New York. Later, she will start rigid practice sessions at Schumacher, Ont., with her trainer, Han Gerschweiler.

Dropo is Off to Good Start In Attempt to Make Boston Fans Forget Foxx and York

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Walt Dropo is off to a good start in his attempt to make Boston Red Sox fans forget Jimmy Foxx and Rudy York.

Not since the days of "double x" and big Rudy have the Red Sox presented such a robust hitting first baseman as Dropo.

Grimly determined to make the grade after fluffing his first chance last spring, Dropo is whacking American League pitching at a terrific .436 gait, tops in his league.

The former University of Connecticut football, basketball and baseball star received his second opportunity early this month when Billy Goodman, Boston's regular first sacker chipped a bone in his ankle.

Friday the 225-pound six-footer five husky drove out three singles to lead his mates to a 3-1 triumph over their old tormentor, Ray Scarborough, and the surprising Washington Senators.

The victory moved the Red Sox, along with New York Yankees, who slaughtered Detroit Tigers, 14-3, into a tie for first place. The Yankees edged Philadelphia Athletics 3-2 in a night game at Yankee Stadium. The Tigers and St. Louis Browns were idle.

Three-run Homer

Jerry Coleman accounted for all of the Yankee runs with a three-run homer in the fifth inning off Lou Brissie, who went down to his fifth defeat. Tommy Byrne surrendered eight hits, including a two-run homer by Sam Chapman in posting his second conquest.

Rookie Al Rosen belted a three-run first inning homer to lead Cleveland Indians to a 5-1 victory over Chicago White Sox. The blow was Rosen's seventh of the season.

Ewell Blackwell turned in his finest performance of his comeback bid as he pitched the last-place Cincinnati Reds to a five-hit 3-1 victory over the Cardinals in a night game at St. Louis.

Home runs by Dee Fondy and Andy Pafko plus effective pitching by Bob Rush enabled Chicago Cubs to down Pittsburg Pirates, 6-3, in the National's only day game.

Boston Braves, Brooklyn Dodgers, New York Giants and Philadelphia Phillies were idle.

World's Record - - Almost

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted sportsman, author and creator of Solunar Tables)

For reasons best known to fishermen, a great deal of importance is attached to the landing of record fish. To a non-fisherman, I suppose, one fish is much like another, but to an angler a record fish is more to be prized than pearls of fine gold.

Of course, fly-rod classifications are not presently recognized by the International Game Fish Association. But they are recognized by the boards of the various Florida tournaments and have been for the past three years or better.

Since the fly-rod is a comparatively new tool for use in salt water, never does a year pass that new records are not hung up by fortunate anglers. At present the tarpon record is something less than fifty pounds, so my son, Dick, and I decided to see what we could do about it.

Tries For Tarpon

Last March we heard that the big tarpon were "in" among the Ten Thousand Islands, so we journeyed to Marco, Florida. There we were fortunate in securing Mack Williams to guide us in his comfortable cruiser Miss Agnes.

Mack took us to a cove at the entrance of Bear Point Creek about eight miles from Marco. The day was calm and windless, one of the three quiet days which we enjoyed in more than three weeks of fishing. We dropped anchor just at the beginning of a rising tide (10).

Big tarpon were rolling here and there about the bay and there was much activity among the birds. We began to catch fish immediately, sea trout, redfish, snook, and crevalle.

Some eastern landing men apart allowed a big crevalle to take my fly from me and I had just finished putting on a fresh one when my son exclaimed, "Dad, quick—behind you!"

Hurriedly stripping line from the reel, I made a short cast directly behind the boat. To my surprise, a large tarpon rolled up and took the fly into camp.

Tarpon, as you probably know, have hard mouths and they are difficult to hook. The one vulnerable spot is the tough membrane at each corner of the mouth. Accordingly, I waited until the big fish turned and was headed away from me. Then I struck hard.

Fish Unconcerned

At first nothing much happened. The big fellow realized, of course, that something was wrong with the pretty trinket he had just taken but he wasn't particularly concerned. He simply swam over toward the channel, taking his time.

It was then that somebody remembered that the big gaff had been left aboard the cruiser. Fortunately we were not far from the larger boat, so Mack rowed across the cove and Mrs. Knight who was on board the cruiser, handed the gaff down to us.

While this was going on the tarpon decided to swim down the channel between the cruiser and the shore. Fearing that the line might foul on the propeller, I applied all the pressure I dared in the effort to turn him.

Turn him I did, and it was then that he seemed to realize that he was hooked and not free to move as he chose. So he decided to jump.

I was glad he jumped where he did. Mrs. Knight had heard of tarpon jumping and had seen pictures but never had she seen the real thing. This one made the first leap for freedom about forty feet from the cruiser and, believe me, she got an eyeful.

When I booked the fish, I knew that he was a big one but I had no inkling as to his real magnitude until he jumped. Up he came more than six feet of him. He carried clear of the water and we had a good look at him—a strong, well-conditioned fish, quite deep and husky for his length.

12-Pound Test

Tournament regulations for the fly-rod require that leader strength be not more than fifteen pounds. With the fly rod, wire leaders are barred. Rather than risk disbarment of a good fish because a "fifteen-pound" leader point actually tests slightly more that that figure, I was using a twelve-pound nylon leader material.

The mouth and scales of a tarpon are hard an dthe edges are sharp and the nylon leader will chafe through in time. I knew that my only hope of landing that fish was to make him jump as often as I could and thus wear him out quickly.

For almost an hour we fought it out in the open water. By applying sudden pressures, as much as I dared with fly-rod tackle, I made him jump until he could get only his big head above water.

He was whipped down to the point of near-exhaustion, but he would still settle down a twelve-pound pull simply wasn't enough to turn his approximate 140 pounds at will.

Two hours and thirty-two minutes later by my stop watch the fish was cruising down the deep channel directly across from the town of Marco. Twice I had him on his side, once within fifteen feet of the boat but just out of reach of the gaff.

Line Fouls

As he moved along slowly near the shore the line fouled under a branch of a dead mangrove tree that lay in the water. The frayed leader, weakened by constant chafing across the back of the big fish, parted company about eighteen inches above the fly. And that was that.

Two hours and thirty-two minutes, seven and three-fifths seconds, and we had followed him over eight miles of water! Sadly we rowed back to the cruiser.

When we returned to the cruiser, the Solunar Period was over and all was quiet. No ripples were in the air and the mirror surface of the cove was unbroken by the splash of feeding fish.

I don't know as I want to involve myself again in a fish of that size on tournament fly-rod tackle. The odds against landing him are at least a thousand to one and fighting him for over two hours is a tremendous piece of work.

But this I do know. If ever again I decide to hook a big tarpon on a fly—a task which, of itself, takes quite a bit of doing—the time to do so is during a major Solunar Period. That is the time when the big boys are on the feed and receptive to your offerings.

Springfield Cubs Slowly Making Headway in Loop

(By The Associated Press)

Springfield Cubs, thanks to a steady flow of players from the parent Chicago Cubs, are slowly making headway in the International League race.

One of the best to arrive from Chicago is Warren Hacker, a 25-year-old righthander.

Hacker, who won five and lost eight at Chicago last year, turned his second triumph for Springfield Friday night in as many attempts.

The promising major leaguer pitched the Cubs to a 7-3 triumph over Toronto Maple Leafs. He allowed eight hits but didn't have clear sailing until the eighth, when the Cubs scored four times to clinch the game. A pair of home runs by Ed Ehlers and one by Jack Wallaces featured the Cubs' 10-hit attack.

Meanwhile, the league-leading Montreal Royals continued to roll as Jim McGlothlin pitched the Royals 'to an 8-3 victory over Baltimore Orioles. McGlothlin yielded seven hits and breezed home as the Royals wrapped up the game with six runs in the third inning.

The second-place Jersey City Giants also came up with a six-run inning as Don Richmond led Red Wings, 10-5. The Giants tallied their half-dozen in the sixth, overcoming a 4-0 deficit.

Monte Irvin of the Giants socked his 10th homer of the season in the fifth but left after hitting a two-run single in the sixth because of a charley horse. Neal Wallington also homered for the Giants and Don Richmond for the Red Wings.

The last-place Buffalo Bisons edged Syracuse Chiefs, 2-1, in 11 innings.

Withers Mile Just Rerun of Kentucky Derby

New York, May 13 (AP)—The Withers Mile at Belmont Park today shaped up as a miniature rerun of the Kentucky Derby and a partial preview of the Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

This 71h, or diamond anniversary running of the $25,000 added fixture will include 10 three-year-olds, including Robert J. KeKlberg's derby winner, Middleground; C. T. Chenery's Hill Prince, second in the derby and William Goetz' California Clipper. Your Host, first for a mile before fading to ninth in the Roses Run.

The Preakness is at Pimlico a week hence, and the Belmont Stakes, third of the triple crown classics, is scheduled for June 10.

With 10 starters, the Withers would gross $35,000 and the winner would earn $21,450.

USE THE COMPLETE C-I-L SPRAY PROGRAMME

FERMATE for Apple Scab.
The only available fungicide which is compatible with lead arsenate and oil-acetone. Does not normally cause russetting, and usually improves size, colour and finish of the fruit. Excellent for the "cluster-bud" spray. FERMATE is recommended in Government spray programmes.

C-I-L Wettable Sulphur
This is a jet-pulverized sulphur of micro-fine particle size, which penetrates the fuzz on leaves and very small apples and gives more thorough coverage of actual surfaces where scab protection is most needed. Compatible with most standard insecticides, including DDT. C-I-L Wettable Sulphur is completely wettable, stays in suspension, does not clog nozzles.

C-I-L PARATHION.
A 15% wettable powder which has given exceptional results in controlling European red mite, aphids, red-banded leaf roller and many other hard-to-kill insects.

C-I-L 50% Wettable DDT.
The most widely used DDT orchard insecticide. Combined with C-I-L Perathion, it gives excellent control of BOTH codling moth and European red mite. Jet pulverized particles assure superior suspension and adhesion.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
Bridge Columnist

Brilliant defenders seem born with clever card instinct, taking instinct alone, however, their success is spotty. To pay off in the long run such players must also know good rules.

Such players are masterful with a partner who knows good rules. The rule partner acts as a perfect foil for clever operators. The combination of this kind is almost unbeatable.

In the recent northwest team of four championship came this deal:

NORTH
♠Q J 10 5 3
♥7 4
♦V A Q 6
♣7 5 2

WEST
♠A 9
♥Q J 8 3
♦J 9 5 3
♣A Q 10

EAST
♠K 4 3
♥K 10 9 6 2
♦K 8 7 4
♣9 6 4

SOUTH
♠8 7 6
♥A K
♦10 2
♣K J 8 3

At several tables the south player became declarer at a contract of three no-trump. It should not have been there.

However, three no-trump was made by south, in four or two tries. Only because the defenders played loosely, or foolishly, or without co-operation. Such a contract is easy to defeat.

Our co-partners in this match made the best score. In west and east. They bid only to three no-trump by four tricks. It was done with good timing and careful study of the situation.

West led a small diamond that dummy checked. East won with the king and returned a club. West won and returned the nine of diamonds that lost to dummy's queen. A small heart was led from dummy.

When south finessed the ten, west took it with the queen. The diamond jack came back from west and was taken in dummy with the ace. The spade queen was then led from dummy and won to the west ace.

West led his fourth (small) diamond that east overtook with the eight-spot. Another club return from east gave west two more clubs. East had got spade king and declarer went down four.

Declarer might have saved one by different play. And foresight by defenders may not have been important. But notice the foresight of west in unblocking his diamonds, in case.

Instinct is fed by looking ahead.

CAR FINISHES TEST

Toronto, May 12 — (CP)—The New York City - Toronto "economy run" of the four-cylinder stock British Austin sedan arrived here Thursday afternoon, completing the 514.1-mile journey without mishap. Driver Alan Hess, public relations representative of Austin, said gasoline consumption was "approximately" 45 miles to the gallon.

HOOKED A BEAUTY

St. Thomas, May 13 — (CP) — Claude Dunn doesn't believe in expensive fishing tackle. The locomotive engineer cast an old line — attached to an ancient rod — and got what is believed to be the biggest brown trout ever caught in this district. The fish weighed four pounds, six ounces and was 22½ inches long.

500 JOIN NATIONALISTS

Hong Kong, May 13 — (AP) — A Chinese dispatch reported today more than 500 Chinese communist troops had gone over to the Nationalists at Sungmen, on the east China coast 200 miles south of Shanghai. The dispatch said red political workers assigned to Sungmen were killed before the garrison defected. The Nationalists staged a commando raid on Sungmen earlier this year.

DIPLOMATS BREAK WITH GOVERNMENT

Helsinki, May 13 —(AP)—Two more Polish diplomats in Finland have broken with their communist-dominated government and are planning to go to Argentina, a diplomatic source said Friday. The informant said that Dr. J. Zetrecki, cultural attache at the Polish legation, and Vice-Consul F. Miszkowski had gone to Sweden after political controversies with their superiors.

Hollywood, May 13 — (AP) — No false eyelashes or slinky slit-to-the-knee gowns for Teresa Wright. She strides like a glamorous and glad of it.

"I'm just not the glamor type," said the forthright actress. "Glamor girls are born, not made. And the real ones can be glamorous even if they don't wear magnificent clothes. I'll bet Lana Turner would look glamorous in anything.

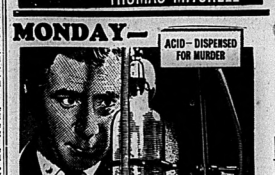
"There's a certain quality about glamor girls. Ava Gardner and Marlene Dietrich are good examples. Perhaps it is a sexy quality. Whatever it is, they demand attention wherever they go." Unfortunate lucky.

Teresa admitted she once made a stab at being glamorous. "I bought a false hairpiece," she recalled. "But the darned thing kept falling on my shoulder.

"I belong to that unfortunate group of people who seem to fall apart. I can dress very carefully, but by the time the evening is over, my hair looks scrambled, my lipstick is gone and my fingernails are chewed.

The proposal to pose for some cheesecake pictures once came to Teresa. She put an end to the suggestion right away.

"My goodness, if the public should get one look at me in a bathing suit, they would shudder!"



Her attributes as an actress have been good enough to win her an Academy Award (for support in "Mrs. Miniver," 1942). She generally plays as an average girl, as she does in the forthcoming "The Men."

Little Benny's Note Book

I was taking a Saturday walk with pop, and Admiral Tricker was out with Boswell and we did not see him till it was too late to duck around a corner or something, and I said, Gosh, pop, he'll make you wait till he tells you all the parts Boswell has been saying lately.

He went tell me all of them, unless I've forgotten the art of self defence, pop said.

Which just then Admiral Tricker stopped him, saying, I've got news for you, Potts. My little grandson knows your drums. Tell the gentlemen his name, Boswell, Mr. Popps.

How's that for a 3 year old? Admiral Tricker said, and pop said. Not bad. It reminds me of Benny here when he was first learning to talk. He wasn't quite a year old and he only knew 3 words, dog, cat, and lion. So you can imagine our serprise when he pointed to a man on the street with an unusually long thin neck, and said, "Giraffe."

This Boswell boy is a real card, the way he gets things off. Admiral Tricker said, Yesterday he was putting away his noodle soup for lunch, and he said, "Little yellow fishies swim with Bossies." Of course he meant the noodles, Admiral Tricker said, and pop said. That makes me think of Benny's first visit to the zoo. He was 2 years old then, and I knew he had quite an extensive vocabulary, but you could of knocked me over with a peacock feather when he stopped at the monkey cage and remarked, empty handed,

"Pardon me if I seem to be hinting, Daddy, but my simian ancestors are regaling themselves to their hearts content while I, so called homo sapiens, stand

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

WEST FARMERS

In a general statement, Mr. Gardiner said Canada's butter stocks, totalling 17,000,000 pounds was not a surplus. And the government's floor price helped the consumer as well as the producer. He called on western farmers to produce more beef and not worry about "getting back to hogs" immediately. There was money to be made in beef. As for wheat, he never had advocated cutting wheat acreage and believed that by rotating crops and using about 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 acres a year for wheat, Canada would produce more than under any other system.

Wants Barter Deals

O. L. Jones (CCF-Yale) urged that floods and the Bilmoonal and Cabano, Que., fires, would be allowed as income tax deductions.

First reading was given another budget measure, that giving effect to customs and tariff reductions as forecast in the budget March 28. It will implement tariff concessions made at the Annecy, France, trade conference last summer.

Flare-up Witnessed

The P.F.A.A. debate was highlighted by a flare-up between Mr. Gardiner and R. R. Knight (CCF-Saskatoon). Mr. Knight pressed for an answer to his question whether P.F.A.A. would be extended and whether it would be given to co-operative farmers leasing land from the Saskatchewan provincial government if they were hit by drought.

Mr. Gardiner charged Mr. Knight only wanted to be able to "go to those people and [illegible] said you never will get Prairie farm assistance," added heatedly that he was "not going to answer the question."

Mr. Knight said Mr. Gardiner was being unfair. He could ask any question he wished to ask.

"Yes," replied the agricultural minister, "but I don't have to answer."

Victor Quelch (SC-Acadia), Robert Fair (SC-Battle River) and Percy Wright (CCF-Melfort) and Doubles Karnes (PC-Calgary East) were among others who got into the heated debate.

Main charge of opposition members was that the agricultural minister was attempting to "dictate provincial land policy" by an amendment that would halt P.F.A.A. payments on land leased to farmers by any government, municipal, provincial or federal. This, they said, would force farmers to buy land to qualify.

Another feature of the bill which brought criticism provided that land located in drought areas, but not itself hit by drought, would not receive the federal aid. Another amendment would discourage farmers from settling on sub-marginal land, most of which was leased from provincial governments.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

WINIFRED E. WILSON

THE FLIES BEGIN

How we dislike fly season, and avoid the woods from now until at least the end of June! Yet flies mean an influx of certain birds which, though belonging to quite different species, have some characteristics in common. The majority wear whiskers to entangle the prey, their bills are flat, and their mouths deep and wide to enable them to scoop up their prey while on the wing through the air.

Migrating, is comparatively easy for these flycatching birds because they are able to feed as they advance towards their breeding grounds. Some of them migrate by day, and have a night hours for rest. Ere now the different kinds of swallows will have arrived—in fact the purple martin and the tree swallow may have been here since about the latter mid-April, even though they must have flown miles out over their way as they zig-zagged northward, chasing flies. Chimney swifts follow in May. Except when "at home" in a chimney, they live on the air continually, not even perching on wires as do swallows. Nighthawks and whip-poor-wills are particularly well equipped to trap high-flying night insects. They come about May 24.

Several species, grouped under the heading "Flycatchers" are mostly greenish grey and noted for their upright perching posture. A broad, flat bill tapers to a point; little round nostrils near the base are partly covered by bristly feathers; the big gape has bristles at its corners. The largest of these is the kingbird; the largest is the crested flycatcher, notorious for hoeing a snake nest in its nest; the phoebe is often the first to get here, the wood, all the rest of their kind are right travellers.

Also journeying by night are four flycatching warblers known to breed in Canada east of the Rockies. They are rather lightly built, with bills differing from that of other warblers, being flattened and whiskered. The hooded, though rare, is sometimes found in southern Ontario; the Canada, that little fellow whose yellow eye-ring gives the illusion of gold spectacles, both catches flies on the wing and glleans among the leaves. The black-capped, with butterfly-like motion, waits until near the last of May to arrive. Conspicuous in black and fawns, the redstart is one of the sweetest warblers. Constantly spreading its fine tail, it flutters about and darts rapidly after flying insects.

If we really wish to see all these birds, we must endure the flies.

GORE

Gore — There was a splendid attendance at the W. M. S. meeting at the home of Mrs. Melvin Pulver, on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Townsend conducted the worship service, and business, with Group 3 taking charge of the program for the afternoon, and the serving of refreshments. The June meeting is invited to Mrs. Roy Giles'.

Mrs. Henderson entertained Victoria W. A. at the parsonage on Wednesday evening. Twenty members and friends were present and enjoyed a fine program with Mrs. Maudslye, vice-pres. in charge, and Mrs. Faulkner at the piano. Mrs. Lott invited the June meeting to her home.

Friends were sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Cyrus Giles, Centre, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fox, and Mr. and Mrs. Murray Green, attended the funeral of an aunt, Mrs. Pearsall in Toronto, on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Fox motored on to Collingwood and Meaford to visit friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bryant, Wellington, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Brickman.

Mrs. L. L. Price, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Price and family of Selby, spent Sunday with their daughter and sister, Mrs. Melvin Pulver and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Anderson, Belleville, were Sunday tea hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Fox and Mrs. D. B. Fox.

Miss Barbara Redner entertained the executive of the H. and A. Junior Farmers at her home on Wednesday evening. Plans were made for several meetings.

Miss Joan Redner is convalescing at her home following an appendectomy at the Belleville hospital.

Mrs. Hubbs is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Wragg, at Cainsville.

Claim Increase Justified

They described the board's approach in the shorter work week as "archaic and reactionary."

The report said increases were justified, the Unions' letter continued, "by continued increases in living costs."

Majority reports by two conciliation Boards which investigated the dispute between the companies and the union groups recommended a formula that would give about 124,000 employees a shorter work week, higher hourly wages and, generally, lies in actual take-home pay.

The boards rejected union demands for outright pay increases and suggested instead that would give an average 6.8-cent increase in their general hourly rate of $1.03.

By Alice Ross Colver

"Are you laughing at me? At least, about your dinner at the Brandts."

He got up now and went to look out of the window for them. What, he wondered, was he going to tell her about that dinner? Not all of it, of course. Not too little, either. The whole affair had haunted him persistently. It had put him on exceedingly boggy ground. One slip and he'd be in mire to his neck. Something he did not relish. Yet the danger of the situation, or perhaps it was some magnetic quality in Alicia, held an attractive excitement for him.

Peering down into the driveway, he saw no car, so he went back to his chair and his thoughts. Alicia and Susan. Two women. Both different. Both wanting to help him. Both stirring him to tangled emotions and contradictory desires that he must get straightened out.

From Susan and Alicia his mind moved to the Fergusons and their surprising offer to him this morning He had been alone down in the bleak foyer looking over the Help Wanted column in a New York paper when they came in and introduced themselves. The statement he had thought with distaste that this was a duty call, but at once they had explained the reason for their visit.

They did not wish to be officious they said. They hoped Mr. Barton would not consider it odd, but inasmuch as—lowering their voices carefully—the town had no more suitable place than this to offer a stranger, in fact, since he wasn't actually a stranger at all, they had wondered if he wouldn't care to move into the Manse and occupy their spare guest room? At least until he had an opportunity to make better arrangements.

What the hell? Gerry had thought. Were they just curious about him? Did they want to spy on his activities? Or did the Reverend recognize in him an unplumbed source of sermons? Or, and this was his conclusion, did they merely hope to reform him and bring him into the fold?

So thinking he had refused the offer promptly with brisk thanks. He could not dream of imposing on anyone to such an extent. He was really comfortable here. The charge was not exorbitant. The food was fair enough. And it was so convenient to both bus and train which he would soon be using daily.

"Are you sure?" Ella, overwhelmed by the drab interior which she had never seen before had lost her earlier qualms and was now anxiously and earnestly concerned. This poor young man—this nice young man who had never known a decent home life—"we could easily manage, you know. About the meals, I mean."

Something in her face or her words or her tone made Gerry realize suddenly that none of the reasons he had guessed was the right one. Simply these were good people practicing the Christianity they professed. His second refusal had held the warmth of an embarrassed but sincere appreciation.

"Well, if you ever change your mind . . ." Ella had said regretfully.

He wouldn't be told himself now. Life had long taught him that only with independence could one move unhampered. In his vagabond days he had always travelled alone and he would continue to do so. He would stay here. It was much the best since he did not know what might lie ahead in connection with Susan or Alicia—or, indeed both.

His thoughts fell away and he got up and moved to the window again. There, this time was a car rolling in with two girls in it. He went down quickly and stood bare-headed in the snow to talk to them. It seemed to his quick perceptive eye that Jane was a trifle scared as Susan introduced her.

"Gerry, this is Jane. Jane Baird." And Jane put out her small hand.

He felt in spite of her nervousness her curious interest her tentative friendliness because Donald and Susan were friendly, and attacked with his usual boldness.

"Yes, I'm Gerry. The big bad wolf." He gave her his warm brilliant smile. "And now that you've met me, are you going to be nice to me?"

"But of course," In a little breathless embarrassment.

"Thanks. Don't forget." He turned toward Susan. "About dinner. . ."

But she broke in. "We thought I mean, that we'd like to try that new Swedish place we've heard so much about. It's not. . ."

He interrupted. "I've had to make other plans, Susan."

"What do you mean?"

"You remember invited me to Kings Bridge?"

Susan's dark-fringed eyes flew wide open. Then she impulsively threw one arm around his neck and gave him a quick squeeze.

"Oh! Oh, how super! How simply—"

"Is it?"

She took her arm away and looked at him. "You're a suspicious soul. Really, you are! Don't you think she, they, might honestly be trying to be nice?"

"I'm not at all sure."

Susan tossed out her hands in a helpless gesture. "Well, anyway," she said, "You've been invited. And you're going. Lookit! I'll come down for you in Don's car. Okay?"

Susan turned to Jane. "This sort of spoils things, doesn't it? Because I suppose Don will have to be there, too? He'll have to —and he'll want to. But at least we can all go in the morning."

Jane nodded. This whole affair, spiced with defiance and daring and romance, thrilled her. There had never been anyone like Gerry in their crowd before. She said "that's all right. I understand."

Susan put up a hand in farewell. "See you later, then, Gerry."

As they sped off Gerry recognized Frank Park's big figure just crossing the tracks. He was walking with an absorbed air, his head down, his eyes down. Had he noticed the two girls talking with him here? Gerry asked himself, and decided not.

Nevertheless he stood waiting a moment to discover if, by any chance or for any reason, Susan's father might be coming here to see him.

But he plodded right by the inn, never lifting his head, never looking up, lost in his own thoughts.

Frank walked unseeingly over the snow going in no known direction. He had on his army officer's coat, his visored cap, his high boots. In this village he had responded mechanically to the greetings called out to him but he had stopped to talk to no one. Dissatisfaction and disappointment drove him on—where he did not notice nor care.

This that was troubling him was, he supposed, his inability to adjust to civilian life. He had heard about it and now he was experiencing it. Well, it was the devil. Nothing precisely wrong and at the same time everything was. He kicked at a clod of snow and beat forward a little to climb the hill on which he found himself. Where was he? Oh, yes, the Country Club Road.

His thoughts went on.

He had been away too long. Or he had had too much authority, and now, divested of it, he was lost. But how had he managed before? He didn't remember that he had been overruled! Or that there had been all this friction. He remembered peace and happiness. What he had believed he was coming home to.

He kicked the clod again, his confusion like a swarm of buzzing bees within him. Susan. A mere child putting her whole family on its ear. It shouldn't be allowed. And she the only one calmabout it, too! Donald, siding with her, getting obstreperous, rudely telling off his elders. He needed to have his backside strapped. And Audrey, his wife, paying him no heed at all. Wishing privately he would let her alone. Asking him if there was another woman and telling him she would be reasonable about it. Reasonable! Good God!"

"What's eating you Frank!"

He looked up. He was at the Brandt's driveway and there, sitting in her parked car at the entrance turn, was Alicia Brandt. She had probably been watching him all the way up the hill, he thought.

"Nothing. What's the matter with you?"

"I've got a flat," she said. "I was hoping somebody would come."

He walked around and saw the rear wheel sunk on its rim.

"What do you want me to do? Change it for you?"

2 Hydro Workmen Lose Lives As Boat Explodes, 11 Rescued

Mossy Harbor, May 15—(CP)—A launch explosion caused the death and two by-workmen today and plunged 11 other men into the icy water of Georgian Bay.

Drowned after the launch caught fire and blew up half a mile from shore were Girard Vasseur, 31, and Anthony Moreau, 24, both of Honey Harbor. Moreau was married and had two children. Vasseur was single.

The survivors were picked up in a large open cruiser operated by Nelson Plitz of Penetanguishene.

The blast occurred near Tomahawk Point, six miles northwest of here and about 14 miles north of Midland.

The occupants of the launch were members of a crew that set out from here to work on the extension of a hydro line from the mainland to Cognashene Island, about 17 miles north of Midland.

Ontario provincial police and hydro employees started to drag the channel for the bodies.

The cause of the explosion was not immediately determined. However, it was believed here that the gasoline tank of the launch might have broken, causing the engine to catch fire.

YOUTH'S LEG BROKEN

Sarnia, May 15 — (CP) — Raymond Young, 19 was admitted to hospital Sunday night suffering a fractured leg after a tractor he was operating overturned in a ditch on his father's farm about half a mile east of the city. Young had the machine almost from a dealer's on a test run.

VOTERS WILL GO TO POLLS IN TWO BY-ELECTIONS

Toronto, May 15 (CP)— Voters will go to the polls in two Ontario ridings today to choose representatives in the House of Commons.

The electors of Toronto Broadview and Hamilton West will have 10 hours in which to cast their ballots for seven candidates in the run open at 9 a.m. and closing at 7 p.m.

The by-elections to fill two of the five vacant seats in the Commons produced some the quietest election campaigning in recent years with candidates left to fight their own battles without the aid of top party leaders.

The House standings before today's elections:

Liberals 186; Progressive Conservatives 40; CCF 13; Social Credit 10; Independent 5; Independent Liberal 3; Vacant, 5. Total 262.

The three other vacancies — Montreal Cartier, Halifax and Annapolis-Kings — will be filled in by-elections June 19.

The two seats being decided today formerly were held by a Liberal and a Progressive Conservative.

Four candidates are seeking the Toronto Broadview seat that became vacant through the death of T.L. Church, veteran Progressive Conservative member, shortly before the Parliament opened in February.

A Close Second

George Hess is the Progressive Conservative standard - bearer. Miss Ruth Radford, pretty, youthful executive who ran a close second in the general election last June 27, is the Liberal candidate. She got 9,316 votes to 10,507 for Mr. Church.

George Grube, who ran third last June with 7,616 votes, again is representing the CCF. The fourth candidates is Charles Weir, Labor-Progressive candidate

Three candidates are in the running for the Hamilton seat held by Hon. Colin Gibson, former Resources Minister, until his elevation to the Ontario Supreme Court bench a few months ago.

Harold Lazier is the Liberal candidate. Mrs. Elen Fairclough, wife of Hon. Gibson in the general election, again is contesting the seat for the Progressive Conservatives and the CCF candidate is A. H. Collingdon.

In the general election Mr. Gibson polled 13,324 votes; Mrs. Fairclough, 9,252; and J. S. Allen, CCF, 6,748.

GIVEN TWO YEARS

Quesnel, B.C., May 15 (CP) — Bert Eggace, 19, convicted of abduction after he and his 15-year-old girl friend withstood a 12-hour siege in a mountain cabin last month, was sentenced Saturday to two years in penitentiary.

DOUBLE MURDER AND SUICIDE IN MANITOBA

Husband Kills Wife, Her Sister, Himself

Ste. Rose Du Lac, Man., May 15 (CP) — Three persons — a man, his wife and a young sister-in-law — were shot to death Sunday night in what police called a double murder and suicide.

An R. C. M. P. constable from Dauphin said that "on the face of the 50-year-old Leonard Spence killed his wife, her sister and then shot and killed himself. He also fired shots which seriously wounded his mother-in-law and father-in-law.

Besides Spence the slain were his wife Olive and her sister, Irene Ducharme. In serious condition in hospital here, 135 miles northwest of Winnipeg, are Mr. and Mrs. Pete Ducharme.

The R. C. M. P. said the Spences lived in a tent near the Ducharme farmhouse about 20 miles from here. He said the elderly couple ran to investigate shots, and were met by a fusillade.

Copious Drinks of Salty Water Found Life Saver for Burns, Wounds

New York, May 15 — (AP) — Drinks of salty water, seven to 12 quarts a day, are proposed as an effective new life saver in operations and for use in emergencies.

Large amounts of it apparently can overcome shock as does blood or plasma, it is found in laboratories by Dr. Charles L. Fox Jr., physician and assistant professor of bacteriology at the College of Physicians and surgeons, Columbia University.

The salty drinks would fight shock, an often fatal collapse following burns and wounds, or hemorrhages.

In a dispatch such as the Texas City explosion, the salt drinks could substitute if blood and plasma weren't available, he said. Or, if there weren't enough doctors and technicians to give blood or plasma quickly to all the victims in emergencies.

Easy to Prepare

The salt drink is cheap, and easy to prepare, by adding two teaspoonsful of table salt or other sodium salt to a quart of water. This is about the normal salt-ness of human plasma.

This isotonic salt solution is not new. It is used now as one aid in overcoming shock but the new experiments suggest that larger amounts of it are needed. The key is lots of salt and water, quickly.

Shock often follows loss of blood or tissue fluids from burns or other injuries. The heart has less blood to pump. Blood pressure falls and less oxygen is delivered to the brain and other organs. The patient feels weak and clammy and may become unconscious.

Whole blood, plasma (the fluid part of the blood) and albumin (a protein in blood) are used to fight shock and restore blood volume. The salty water, by injection or mouth, also is used, but doctors rarely give more than two quarts intravenously.

Drinking seven to 12 quarts a day is a different thing. Dr. Fox explains in reports to medical journals and to the American Federation for Clinical Research physiologists.

In shock, experiments show, sodium is lost from the blood and from the fine tissues around body tissues where most of it is stored. It collects in the injured tissues. Potassium is released from injured tissue cells. The potassium acts like a poison, slowing down the heart and affecting other organs. Water also is lost from the blood, and flood into the infected areas.

Two Men and Woman Rescued From Niagara R. After Men Are Pitched in From Helicopter

Niagara Falls N.Y., May 15 — (AP)— Two men in a helicopter escaped death today, while rescuing a woman clinging to a rock above the Horse-Shoe Falls of the Niagara River.

A second helicopter effected a dramatic rescue after the first had pitched its two occupants into the swift current. Both craft were pontoon-equipped.

The first craft was starting to haul the woman into the air by means of a rope when a wave struck a pontoon and caused the tail rotor to smash on a rock. The ship nosed over.

A burst of steam from the engine as it submerged at first caused bystanders to believe it had exploded.

Woman Suffering From Shock

The woman, Mrs. Jeannette Bugay, 35, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., suffered from shock and exposure and was taken to hospital.

Her husband Sigmund, a taxicab driver, said she sad suffered a nervous breakdown and had been ill for some time.

The two men in the helicopter were Owen G. Nicholas 28, Grand Island, and Joseph A. Cannon, 30, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

The woman was clinging to the rock about 75 feet from one of the Three Sister Islands about 200 feet above the Horseshoe, or Canadian Falls. Two park employees heard her screaming.

They were Herbert Sedita and John Pyrenes.

Sedita fastened a rope about his waist and waded into the 15-mile-an-hour current in a rescue attempt, but was swept off his feet and his companion pulled him back to shore.

Firemen made an unsuccessful attempt to get a rowboat to her, then summoned the helicopter.

The helicopter arrived from the nearby Bell Aircraft corporation about half an hour later.

The pontoon-equipped craft landed on the water near the woman. Cannon climbed out on a pontoon and put a rope around her.

Helicopter Noses Over

As he started to pull the woman toward him, the helicopter nosed over. A puff of steam from the engine led watchers to believe at first it had exploded as it submerged. Both Cannon and Nelhaus were tossed into the swift running Niagara current but managed to climb back aboard.

The helicopter started drifting toward the cataract but caught on a rock before it had gone far.

Shore rescuers tried unsuccessfully to get a towboat to Nelhaus and Cannon. Then a second helicopter was summoned.

The second helicopter hovered low enough to drop one end of a rope ashore, then dropped the other to the stranded pilots.

The rope then was used to pull the two men to safety in the copter. First ashore were Bugay and Niehaus. Cannon made it in the next trip.

Mrs. Bugay's husband, reached at home, exclaimed:

"Oh, my God, was she the woman on the rocks?"

He said he had just heard a radio report of the incident.

How Mrs. Bugay got on the rock was not determined. The cliff side approach from goat island is a sheer drop. The island has been barricaded to the public.

Rednersville Home Destroyed By Fire Sat.

Believed to have started as result of defective electric wiring Saturday evening completely destroyed the one and a frame stucco-covered farm house owned by Mrs. Ben Rednersville, two and five miles west of Rednersville.

Most of the furniture in the downstairs rooms was saved but that in the bedrooms on the second floor was lost.

The fire was first noticed shortly before six o'clock, when smoke was seen filtering into the rooms, the blaze apparently being in the attic of the building.

There was difficulty in determining where the flames were located and by the time firemen got to the building, a section of the scene the blaze was beyond control.

Neighbors answered the alarm and assisted in carrying furniture from the burning house. Then two orchardists brought power sprayers and were instrumentals in helping to check the spread of the flames. A second pumper was brought from the city at a late o'clock and firemen stayed on the scene until nearly midnight in order to make extinguish the embers. Firemen were able to save the barn which stood some distance away from the house.

ROLLER RUNS OVER BOY

Kitchener, May 15 — (CP) — Twelve-year-old Orvie Shantz was thrown from a farm roller Saturday and suffered a fractured pelvis and severe lacerations of the leg as the heavy roller passed over the lower part of his body.

The accident happened on the farm of his father, Levi Shantz, Lexington.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS:

Toronto, May 15 — (CP) — Official forecasts issued by the Dominion Public Weather Office in Toronto at 8.30 a. m. EST. Synopsis: An icy blast of polar air from Hudson Bay has swept southward and is now over the Georgian Bay region this morning. This cold air will cover the entire province this evening. Frost is likely in all sections tonight.

Widely scattered showers are expected in southern districts and southern regions in advance of the cold air.

Tuesday will be sunny but unseasonably cool in all regions.

Electric Shop And Radio Store Gutted by Fire

Tweed, Ont.—(Special) — A dawn alarm turned in by workers ers probably averted a serious general fire early today.

Laborers en route to Kingston noticed flame and smoke pouring out of the Tweed Radio and Electric Shop operated by Curtis Cassidy directly after five o'clock.

The building was almost completely gutted and the stock and equipment damage incurred by the concern. Cassidy was employed by fire were radios, washing machines, refrigerators and other electrical appliances.

Cassidy was the lessee of licenses to the Motor Vehicle Department, and most of the records were saved from the flames.

The Tweed Volunteer local fire department raced to the scene when alarms rang, but were necessary before the blaze was finally brought under control.

Barber Shop Damaged

The barber shop, adjacent to the burning building and owned by Ernest Bateman, was damaged by smoke and water. The Courneyea Hardware, the apothecary store also suffered slight damage.

The building housing the Tweed Radio and Electric Store was owned by the Tweed Post Office and was the property of the Federal Government. Origin of the fire is not known, but it is said to have started in the rear part of the building.

One hundred and fifty gallons of fuel oil in the building were not damaged.

The fire is said to be the second to have occured on the site within the last four years.

The loss is said to have been partially covered by insurance. Estimate was not immediately available.

BURGLAR KILLED

Detroit, May 15. (CP)—An unidentified burglar was shot and killed early today by a young police officer in a struggle for the policeman's revolver. Patrolman James Speight, 24, surprised the man ransacking a garage here. In the struggle for the revolver Speight said the man reached for his coat. Speight opened fire and hit the man with four bullets.

SIAMESE TWINS FAIL TO SURVIVE AN OPERATION

Babies Were Joined Together Face to Face

Edmonton, Alta., May 15. (CP) —Medical science's latest attempt to give normal life to Siamese twins ended in failure here Sunday with the death of the six-months-old Townsend twins, Brenda and Beverley.

The little girls, who spent all but a few minutes of their lives joined face to face, will be buried together in one specially-made casket Tuesday.

A team of 12 medical specialists waged a long three-hour battle to save the twins in an operation to separate them at the Royal Alexandra Hospital.

Dr. William Freebury, who delivered the twins last Nov. 17 in the small municipal hospital at Tofield, Alta., told the mother, 20-year-old Mrs. E. A. (Bud) Townsend, Dr. Freebury was one of about 20 doctors and nurses who were in the operating room.

During the operation Mrs. Townsend waited in a nearby emergency ward, ready to give skin in the event it was close to the opening in one of the children became necessary.

After the operation Mr. Townsend thanked the many people throughout the Dominion who had "offered us their comfort and blessing during our time of need."

He said members of the medical profession "did everything that was humanly possible under the circumstances and to them go our sincere thanks."

"Failure would have been inevitable if the operation had been attempted in a smaller centre," said Dr. Early S. Allin, head of the surgical team.

One Operation Completed

Preliminaries—blood transfusions and general anaesthetics—began at 7 a.m. The actual operation started at 9 a.m. Dr. Beverley's heart stopped beating at 10:25 a.m., and resuscitation of the twins had been accomplished. Brenda died at noon. Only her twin survived.

The babies were joined at the abdomen in front, from the navel ribs to a common navel. The join was three inches long and seven inches long. Preliminary examination over many weeks showed the twins were joined but that all other organs were separate.

When the anaesthetic injections were opened doctors found the livers were fused at the area of greatest abdominal connection. It had been hoped the join would be an hour-glass construction nature.

Couldn't Close Wall

The hearts, beating independently, were found to be enclosed in the same membrane and that each of the twins' hearts was fused to the heart and lung cavity of the other. The hearts protruded about 2 1-2 inches, making it impossible to close the chest wall.

5,000 Manitobans Flee From Homes In St. Boniface

Business Centre Threatened If Water Rises Much More

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, May 15 — (CP) — The treacherous Red River, its expected flood crest a day hence, levelled off at Winnipeg today. But just across the river, in St. Boniface, it forced 5,000 Manitobans from their homes.

Greater Winnipeg's new victims of the muddy torrent, which has covered more than 540 square miles of Southern Manitoba, were mostly parcel - carrying women and children, bundled from their homes on two hours' notice.

By special train and private cars they travelled in stunned silence except for wailing babies — to points as far away as Saskatoon and Portage La Prairie, Man.

And the remaining 15,000 - odd residents of St. Boniface and its Norwood residential suburb faced probable eviction as soon as transportation is available.

Third in Three Days

The exodus, third in three days from places in the metropolitan area, was the latest chapter in a tragic migration—the most extensive in Canadian history.

Before the Red drops 12 feet or more to get back within its banks, it will have inundated or isolated so far — 10,000 in one hospital alone last week.

For the second Sunday, the Winnipeg Free Press and Tribune published four-page flood extras for distribution free to all subscribers.

Last week the headlines told of towering crises: "Unprecedented flood relief" Tribune and "8,500 home in St. Boniface" (Free Press).

This week the headlines told good news: "Red River rise still on" and "Red 'levelling off'" respectively.

Rev. Lawrence Wilmot of Saint Mary Magdalene Anglican Church in St. Vital, travelled by navy launch Sunday to hold a service in the flooded community.

Mr. Wilmot is not a newcomer to emergency travel. He won the Military Cross for his exploits extricating casualties under fire.

Almost 500 hospital patients and inmates of old folks homes many of them stretcher cases were evacuated from Winnipeg Friday and Saturday, most were to hospitals in Saskatchewan and special railway cars and planes.

FURGE BEGUN

Warsaw, Poland, May 15 (AP) — A widespread purge of prominent members of the Polish communist party has been made, democratic informants said Sunday.

Flood Sidelights

Winnipeg, May 15 — (CP) — An amphibious jeep isn't always amphibious, five soldiers on Red River flood duty discovered Saturday.

Their jeep sprang a leak and sank at Morley Avenue and Fisher St. Two soldiers climbed a telephone pole. Two went up a tree. One swam to a house, smashed a window, and climbed in to safety.

All were back on duty in short order.

It may be weeks before residents of deeply - flooded Winnipeg suburbs get back in their homes.

Not only will the Red drop very slowly, but the city flood control committee has decided not to permit return of evacuees until their homes are given a clean bill of health. This is to avoid risk of contamination left by stagnant flood water.

Winnipeggers are taking no chances with typhoid fever.

Dr. Mc. S. Laycock, city health officer, said 70,000 of the 350,000 normal population has been inoculated so far — 10,000 in one hospital alone last week.

Red Dean Slips Out Back Door, Dr. Endicott Heckled

London, Ont., May 15 — (CP) — Rev. Dr. Hewlett Johnson, Anglican Dean of Canterbury, Sunday night addressed a rally of the Canada - China Friendship Ass'n. Real technical school and later skipped out the back door to avoid demonstrators.

A crowd of 600 waited outside the front door, some of them chanting "We want the red dean. We want the red dean." During the demonstration a stone shattered one of the school's front windows.

The audience at the rally remained quiet while the dean spoke. He was confidently backed Rev. Dr. J. G. Endicott, chairman of the Canadian Peace Congress and Arthur Mould, chairman of the London Peace Council, who spoke later.

Substance From Microbe Found in Hay Kills Flu 'A' and Fowl Disease in Tests

Baltimore, May 15—(AP)—A Possible lead towards a drug treatment for the most prevalent types of human influenza and a costly disease of chickens was described today to the Society of American Bacteriologists.

A California scientist reported that a substance produced by a microbe found in hay proved capable—in laboratory experiments not destroying viruses of human influenza "A" and of Newcastle disease, a serious malady of chickens.

Influenza "A" is the commonest of all flus. Dr. Jay V. Pierce, the scientist, there is no specific drug treatment for it or for any other type of 'flu'. Neither is there a drug weapon against Newcastle disease once it develops.

Dr. A. J. Salle of the University of California at Berkeley, Calif., announced that his experiments have been limited to trials on viruses of both diseases purposely made to grow in hatching hen's eggs.

There have been no experiments so far on virus-infected animals—a necessary preliminary to any kind of human application in the case of influenza.

Dr. Salle said the work constituted a forward step in that it marked the first time that any substance has been found to destroy viruses of these types in a developing chick embryo without killing the embryo itself.

Up to now, germs of the "flu" class have been virtually invulnerable to all drugs—even the wonder drugs such as penicillin.

The substance used in the tests is called "subtilin". It is an extract of a particular strain of "bacillus subtilis" — a microbe that is found in hay.

Subtilin is classed medically as an "antibiotic", which is a substance produced by a living organism and then used to combat other living organisms.

TAKES FAMILY CAR WITHOUT CONSENT

There is one young man in the Canniffon area who over the weekend got himself in certain distavor as far as his father was concerned.

Saturday night the father had driven to the city and parked his car on a local parking lot. Later he came to get his car and found it missing. Police were notified and a search instituted but without avail. Later the father called and reported he had located the car. His son had taken the car from the parking lot without notifying his father.

JUST A DRIVER ENTERING PLANT

The scene: A local soft drink bottling plant.

The action: A man climbing onto the roof and disappearing into the plant through a second-storey window.

Eye witnesses notified one of the Belleville police and police were notified the cruiser made a quick trip to the scene and the intruder was quickly spotted.

Who was he? Merely one of the drivers who had left his car at home and wanted to get into the plant.

76 Million Eggs Of Pickerel Taken In Quinte Area

Toronto, May 15 — (CP)— What may be a new record in production of young fish for pickerel in the Bay of Quinte area is being studied by officials of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests. Within five days 76,000,000 eggs have been taken from female fish in that area and removed to the fish hatchery.

Spawning is in full swing in the Kingsville district of Lake Erie, and already 80,000,000 eggs have been placed for hatching in the hatchery there.

Alert Constable Assists in Arrest Of Youthful Pair

Observation on the part of an off-duty police sergeant and prompt action on the part of officers in the police cruiser resulted in two youths, one a juvenile, being apprehended yesterday for an alleged attempted theft of an auto.

Sgt. Clarence Arnott was out for a Sunday walk when he observed two youths attempting to start a car on a service station lot at the corner of Dundas and Charles Streets. The boys had the motor running but when they saw the officer they ran down the street. The sergeant called the police station and assisted after the boys were picked up by the cruiser.

Today at the police station it was stated that the older youth, Jack Denny, R.R. 1, Trenton, would face a charge of attempted auto theft.

Mr. Spooner was organist and choir master at St. Thomas' Church, Belleville, for a number of years.

Police Active In Returning Lost Children

If the present epidemic of lost children continues local police might be well advised to start a lost persons bureau.

Hardly a day goes by but some mother does not frantically call the police and complaining that her child or children have disappeared from where they were playing near the home. And in 75 per cent of the cases, police already have picked up the wandering children and are waiting for the lady to establish identity.

But not always is this the case. One day last week two small kiddies were picked up north of the river and for over an hour at the police station they answered their silence. Finally the mother called and the children were taken home.

Again over the weekend an East Hill mother reported her child was missing. Police picked the child up and took it home.

Also two Belleville girls, 10 and 13 years old, were reported missing. They had visited Belleville Saturday night and had not returned home and would police please check at 4 St. Paul Street address.

The suggested address was check without result but the two girls were later found in the Hillcrest area by provincial police and taken home.

New Kiwanis Head

DON H. MURDOCH

Delegates attending the 35th annual convention of Kiwanis International at Miami elected a prominent Canadian business leader to head the organization in the year ahead.

Officers of the Kiwanis Club of Belleville were informed today that Don H. Murdoch, president of the Peerless Laundry, Ltd., at Winnipeg, Manitoba, would succeed J. Hugh Jackson, Palo Alto, Calif., as president of Kiwanis International, which now embraces more than 3,000 clubs throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii and the Yukon Territory.

Athletic Field Area Granted BCI Students by Parks Board

The City Parks Board will make available to the Students' Council of the Belleville Collegiate Institute a suitable area on the Exhibition Park grounds for student sports activities, Parks Board Commissioner Jack Devine announced to the Board of Education monthly management committee on Friday night.

Mr. Devine and Leo Marcus, representing the Students' Council appeared before the board members a request for permission to secondary school students to raise money, to develop the portion allotted as a playing field.

The area allotted is that part of the grounds, west of the baseball diamond to the track fence.

Devine briefly outlined the Parks Board proposal to make the ground available and requested the permission of the board to collect, by the hands of students, tickets for a band concert and fireworks display, the proceeds of which will be divided equally between development of the sports area and the city recreation committee. The Parks Board will cooperate by the students in the development of the area, he said.

Marcus, speaking to the request, said the Students' Council had considered the matter carefully, but were concerned over the legal aspects and responsibilities that might arise.

Could be Met

Board member Frank G. Cushing said he hesitated, on such notice, to express opinion, but he could see no possibility of difficulties. He suggested that the Students' Council was not competent to make any commitment that could lead to trouble, but would merely be lending their efforts to a project of the Parks Board. If complications arose, he added, they could be met as required.

Board chairman Enos David spoke strongly in favor, not only of the spirit of co-operation shown by the Parks Board, but of the immediate project.

Board member Harold Seldon concurred saying he could see no reason why the students in the secondary school should not have the board's blessing.

The board assured Devine and Marcus that they could anticipate its approval, best wishes and consent to engage in the sale of tickets for the concert and fireworks display.

Prisoner Escapes Custody Near City, is Still at Large

En route from Toronto to Kingston penitentiary to where he had been sentenced on a narcotics charge, Gerald Belland, 31, Saturday afternoon escaped custody from his guard on a Canadian National Railways train and disappeared in the vicinity of the coal chutes east of the city.

Provincial police from Belleville headquarters surrounded the area and searched through swamps and fields but up until noon today had not been successful in locating the escaped man. "It is believed that despite high-way patrols being established, the man may have been able to make his way back to Toronto.

It was stated that Belland had made his escape from the train while it was stopped at the coal chutes to take on water. The man is believed to have severed the chain of a leg iron which in some manner he had managed to obtain.

Details of the man's escape from the train were not available, but he was reported to have been seen crossing a nearby field. He was last seen by Deputy Sheriff Clarke of Toronto.

Considered Good Lead

After searching through fields and swamps east of the city all Saturday afternoon, provincial police considered they had a good lead late Saturday night when a Thurlow township farmer reported he had seen a man answering Belland's description entering his barnyard. When the man had seen faces at the farmhouse window he had disappeared over the C. P. R. tracks.

Within minutes police converged on the area in which the man was reported seen but as darkness had already closed in their efforts were without success.

Police searched that part of the escaped man was still wearing the chain from the leg iron he had escaped with, but in concealing it in his trouser leg. Belland had previously served time at Kingston penitentiary, being released from there in 1948.

Centres in Toronto

Search for George Belland, 28-year-old ex-convict, on a bond drug addict who leaped from a moving train near Belleville Saturday, shifted to Toronto today.

A man answering Belland's description was seen walking on the tracks at Don Valley Sunday night. Police centred their search in mid-town Toronto but found no trace of the man who escaped while en route to Kingston penitentiary.

Police said they believe Belland is hiding in Toronto and will try to reach other drug traffic operators.

Belland was sentenced to three years for illegal possession of drugs and was being taken to jail with three other prisoners when he broke away.

The three others apparently helped Belland although they did not get away themselves. Police are attempting to determine how Belland was able to pry open a welded ring from his leg shackles.

Belland dashed for the smoker door of the train and was followed by three other prisoners who blocked the door and kept the guard back until Belland had a good start. He rushed across a field after jumping down the moving train and eluded a dragnet of the Belleville area.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto May 15 (CP) —Prices settled into a narrow range as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Some signs of easiness were evident in market leaders. Activity slowed considerably from last week's heavy-trading markets, volume for the first three hours was 1,554,000 shares.

In industrials Dominion Steel and Coal B was sharply down but most changes were held to small amounts. Steels, foods, textiles and a few utilities weakened. Constructions, refining oils and liquors brightened.

Junior gold producers sagged on declines ranging up to five cents. Low-priced prospects continued brisk traders for some good gains and seniors were quiet. Lake Wasa, Dulama, Donalda, Eldey and Newlund were features among the secondary issues.

Base metals brightened in dull dealings. Market leaders gained fractions. Quebec Labrador featured in activity, trading heavily for ra good gain following news of financing plans.

Western oils bounced up from opening easiness.

First Sod Turned for Swimming Pool

First sod in the construction of the proposed community swimming pool was turned Saturday afternoon by Mayor H. J. Allin at a sod-turning ceremony. Shown above is Mayor Allin turning the first sod with Kinsmen Club President Ernie Colebourne (left), Frank S. Follwell, M.P. for Hastings South, and Murray Davis, Kinsmen Club president-elect, looking on. The swimming pool is to be built on the site formerly occupied by the city tourist park.

Turn First Sod on Actual Building of Swimming Pool Located at Tourist Camp

Proof that the plans of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville to construct a community swimming pool have progressed far beyond the talk stage, the first sod in the actual building of the pool was turned Saturday afternoon by Mayor H. J. Allin at a colorful sod-turning ceremony.

True, threatening skies possibly kept away many residents who otherwise may have attended the function, but residents on hand were keen in their interest and anxious to get on with the actual construction of the pool.

"As a former Kinsmen I am proud of this day," stated Mayor Allin in addressing the assembly just prior to turning the first sod. "A swimming pool is long overdue in this city and I am glad that the Kinsmen club are spearheading the drive in the construction of the pool."

Then, with the other speakers, members of the Kinsmen club and residents looking on, the Mayor drove the shovel deep into the lush earth of the former city tourist camp and declared the first sod of the swimming pool officially turned.

Kinsmen Boys' Band On Hand

Members of the Kinsmen Boys' Band with their leader Alf. Cooper, were on hand to liven the afternoon's program. Under the direction of Mr. Cooper the boys played "O Canada" and at the conclusion of the sod turning played the National Anthem. President-elect of the club and chairman of the club swimming pool fund, Mr. Murray Davis, presided at the opening of the program.

Kinsmen Club president Ernie Colebourne declared that it was a momentous occasion and assured his listeners that the community swimming pool would be a splendid asset to the community.

Will Be Peoples' Pool

"Although members of the Kinsmen Club have spearheaded the effort, when the pool is completed it will be your pool", the club president pointed out. "Your support so far has been gratifying and we Kinsmen are confident that the forthcoming general canvass will see near our objective reached."

Mr. Colebourne noted that the objective of the club was $50,000 and already more than $12,000 of this amount has been raised. He said each contribution would raise the figure on the thermometer indicator on the Armouries lawn still closer to the objective.

Frank Follwell, M.P., for Hastings South, paid tribute to members of the Kinsmen Club for their decision to build the pool.

"The club members have worked hard to assure boys and girls in the city would be provided with a swimming pool. It is a challenge to the residents of the city to see that the project is completed this year.

Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P. for Hastings West, also paid tribute to club members, and to members of other organizations in the city who have made it their aim to do social and welfare work.

"I congratulate the Kinsmen Club," he said. "Residents of Belleville will be grateful to the club for providing the swimming pool."

Urged Full Support

As superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, Mr. William Lockyer said that he was more than casually interested in anything that would work for the betterment of conditions for boys and girls. He urged full support for the project in order that if properly operated the pool would fill a great need in the city.

T. K. Franklin, as president of the Kiwanis Club noted that "to build" was the motto of his club. "However, Kinsmen had stolen a leaf from their book and proved themselves to be good Kiwanians," he said. He extended his congratulation, assuring that the sod turning was an occasion long looked forward to. He offered best wishes for success from his own club and also on behalf of other service club organizations in the city.

Prayers Offered

Rev. C. A. Perkins, Holloway Street United Church minister offered prayers for the success of the project and pronounced benediction.

The proposed community swimming pool will be constructed near the south end of the former city tourist park, the length of the pool to run east and west. Plans also call for the construction of a bathhouse 60 by 30 feet and a wading pool for the small kiddies to measure 50 by 20 feet.

Triple Number Traffic Police

Toronto, May 15—(CP)—The number of motorcycle policemen on Ontario highways will be tripled this year.

Provincial police announced today the motorcycle force will be increased from 12 to 32. The additional officers will be distributed throughout an area bounded by Windsor, Cornwall and North Bay.

LICENCE SUSPENDED

Toronto, May 15 — (CP) — Licence of the Glengarry Hotel, Glengarry county, has been suspended by the Ontario Liquor Board from May 12 until May 22.

The suspension followed investigation which indicated that the hotel had sold beer on Good Friday, one of the days on which sale is prohibited in the province. The Board announced that the licence would be reinstated May 22.

Grand Union Hotel, New Liskeard, has been granted an additional public house licence as has the Arlington Motel in Smiths Falls.

White Queen Of Bamangwatos Bears Daughter

Johannesburg, South Khama, May 15 — (AP) — Ruth Khama, white queen of the Bamangwato tribe, gave birth to a daughter today at Serowe, Bechuanaland Hospital, a spokesman for the British High Commissioner announced.

Hoe Negro husband, exiled chief Seretse Khama, has been given permission to leave for the protectorate at once, British authorities said.

The white queen, former London stenographer Ruth Williams, entered the Serowe hospital early in the day. The baby was delivered by a Negro physician, Dr. Molokanga, and is the first 4 month premature, the authorities said.

A British spokesman said both mother and child are "doing fine." Seretse has been in Lobatsi, South Africa, but British authorities had promised to allow him to return during Ruth's confinement. The heir to the tribunal throne married the London typist in October, 1948.

The mother previously had rejected British offers to supply medical attention.

Their marriage stirred up a tempest in Bechuanaland and in London. The British government finally ordered Seretse exiled from his tribal homeland for five years because of the fuss. He was permitted to return a month ago to see his wife and clear up personal affairs but was permitted to stay in Serowe, the tribal capital, only five days.

For Flood Victims
Red Cross Makes Urgent Appeal for Vital Supplies

Flood-stricken Winnipeg, bat- to residents of the city and tling for its very existence against the ravaging waters of the Red River is in urgent need of vital supplies.

"Battle" equipment is vitally necessary in the fight being waged by weary flood-fighters, in their efforts to save what is left of the Manitoba capital from the raging stream that is now at flood peak.

The Belleville branch of the Red Cross has received an appeal from its Toronto headquarters, asking for aid from residents of this city and district for the battling Winnipeggers.

The appeal states that flash-lights complete with batteries and bulbs; new heavy work socks; new heavy work gloves; new rubberized or plasticized gloves and new or used hip-length waders are urgently needed.

Potential donors are requested to package their contributions and rush them to District Flood headquarters at Riggs Motors, Pinnacle Street. Contents should be marked on packages

Mr. Morley Dafoe, president of the local branch of the Red Cross today issued a personal appeal trict for aid for the flo worst-stricken area.

"They are doing a gallant w in battling the waters of the Red River, in an effort to save w is left of their homes. The le we in the more fortunately lo ed parts of Canada can do, is stretch a helping hand to fellow Canadians in their hour need. Any one having the req ed articles is asked to don them immediately. Winni needs our help, and I am s Belleville will not let it down this crucial stage."

Donations from this city will rushed to Malton airport, flown immediately to Winnipe

EDUCATION AND GEOGRAPHY

Survey recently conducted revealed that Ontario pupils often know less about their own province and city than they do about far-off lands. That is a situation that should be corrected and Education Minister Dunlop is to be commended for initiating action to that end. The educational system in this province is among the best in the world. But that is not to say that it has not its flaws and defects. And the survey in question would seem to indicate one of them.

Geography is a fascinating study to the youthful mind. Its particular fascination lies in learning of the curious topography and other features of far-off lands which, because of their very remoteness, have an air of mystery and romance to them.

It is well that young people should be taught all that is possible about their own geographically and historically. But things must come first.

The pupils are ostensibly being trained as Canadian citizens of the future. Therefore it is of primary importance that they should learn first of all to think about their own country and the province in which they reside in relation to the other provinces of the Dominion.

Mr. Porter's dictum is that this aspect is to be stressed to a greater extent in the future. With it, no thinking person can disagree.

For in time these young pupils will grow up. Many of them will travel and reside in other countries. There they will find many misconceptions about this country. To the extent that they are well and accurately informed they will be able to correct such erroneous opinions and thus advance the interests of the nation of their birth.

For many years there has been an exchange arrangement whereby teachers from one part of the Commonwealth spend a teaching term in another part, thereby living at first hand among the people and particularities of the member nation they are visiting — and of people. They also form personal associations which are immense value.

The suggestion has been advanced from time to time there should be a similar exchange of pupils. Obviously, such a program would require a great deal of thought. There would be many details to be worked out and problems to be resolved.

But as a first move in that direction it might be possible to arrange for an exchange, for a few months each at least, of pupils in the schools of the various cities.

In that way the young people of today would have the opportunity to develop a broader and more informed Canadianism than did their parents.

In any event Mr. Porter is to be commended for attacking the problem in a constructive manner. There is no reason why as a result of this and earlier surveys something should not be worked out, the effect of which would be to set on the whole basis of our present educational system.

REST AS AN INVESTMENT

Nothing could be farther from the truth than to say sleep is a loss of time. It is a most important factor in daily lives, the National Health Association states. During sleep the body recuperates from the day's hardships, nervous tension disappears, thereby inducing complete relaxation. Sleep gives the heart a chance to rest a minimum of eight hours.

Such complete rest increases resistance to fatigue and disease and enables a better use of all faculties."

Some people have died relatively young who would have enjoyed a much longer life span had they given more attention to the importance of rest. Others may have failed in business or home duties because of a bad cold or because they were nervous since they were pointed out that lower resistance due to overwork and lack of sufficient sleep very often predisposes to colds. Many troubles could well be avoided by taking more rest.

The average adult requires a minimum of eight hours sleep every night. For young children an average of 14 hours is suggested, for adolescents it should be at least nine or ten, if at all possible.

As to the causes of inability to secure sufficient sleep the association points out that some persons find they do not sleep the required number of hours because of sleeping habits. Others because of the principle cause of their anxiety and "often it is simply a matter of fear of not being able to sleep." The warning is given against becoming a habitual user of sleeping pills for it will take a bit of power of the will to control and to learn to relax without such aids. But confidence in being able to sleep will return and it will become a matter of auto-suggestion.

Sleep is a normal process of life and is essential to a healthy active life.

PILL TAKERS

I've twenty will tell you that
Every ache and pain,
Forties, the coats of the Sixties will hold.
Say that a man is as young
As he feels,
If he has pills he must take
After meals.

He shouldn't be reckoned by Counting the years
When all is known are the
Silver appears,
But what's getting on when
His pocket reveals
Pills and pills, he must
Take after meals.

One look round the table; the Women and men
Are as young as they feel. I repeat it again.
But don't draw attention to who conceals
The pill that she carries to take after meals.

Just mind your own pills and you youngsters so gay.
If you live, Time will take your digestion away.
And whenever you see that asset the old fellow steals
You, too, will be taking a pill
after meals.

ON LIVING ONE'S OWN LIFE

Many a person is vehement in his assertion that he intends to live his own life. By this he generally means that he will have great regard for anything that crosses his purposes and will keep a sharp lookout that he considers particularly beneficial to No. 1.

The trouble with this attitude toward life is that it fails to provide any ground for fellowship with others, that until you begin to subject yourself to unselfish discipline in behalf of others, you have no real life to live. An undisciplined life is a public nuisance and a curse to the person who possesses it.

Consideration for others, not only unpopular but in addition we shall find that in a most terrifying fashion our personalities are somehow falling to pieces. Only those lives where we give them, We attain our full stature as individuals when we behave as decent, honest, honorable, generous fashion with everybody we meet.

You're going to live your own life, eh? Well, remember this, that until you begin to subject yourself to unselfish discipline in behalf of others, you have no real life to live. An undisciplined life is a public nuisance and a curse to the person who possesses it.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

There has been for many years a prominent merchantile family in Canada by the name of Mitchie. And everybody pronounces it Mickey.

In North Africa, I met a gentleman of the Fifty-first Highland Division who informed me his name was Mee-hee. On my enquiring how he spelled it, he said Mitchie.

"That's Mickey," I enlightened him.

"Mee-hee he asserted, with that curious assurance of the Scot.

"Man," I protested, with all the dignity of an Ontarian, "everybody knows, it's Mickey."

But we got on very well despite the man's ignorance. Not one month later, in Italy, I encountered another Scot, and when I asked him his name, he said it Mitchie.

"How do you spell it?" I enquired suspiciously.

"Mitchie," said he.

"That's not Mitchie," I snorted. "It Mickey."

"In the part I come from," said the Scot, quite belligerently, "it is pronounced Mitchie."

And since he was obviously determined to have it his own way, I let him go on in his error.

It is a very complex world we live in. Each of us is sure of his own ground. Just how we happen to be born with a name, we assume we know how to pronounce it. Just because we happen to have a certain capacity for knowledge, or opportunity to acquire it, we assume we have all knowledge. Then, of course, there are the characters among us who like to tell other people how to pronounce their own names.

These last are a great help in the world. And the world is full of them.

THE MELODY LINGERS ON

The day before Oscar Hammerstein II left for London to welcome the production of "Oklahoma!" at the Drury Lane Theatre, we took a stroll in Central Park, and when we stopped to watch a couple of little girls who were skipping rope and chanting the old nursery rhyme about

"Lucy Locket lost her pocket
Kitty Fisher found it. . ."

"If that jingle were called 'Bibbidy Boo' I said in my best professional manner it would probably make the hit parade."

"As a matter of fact," said America's most successful lyricist, "it once did. Almost two hundred years ago, under the name of 'Kitty Fisher's Jig' it was the most popular song in London. But I'll bet the mothers of those kids knew the facts about Miss Fisher, they'd wash their mouths out with soap. . ."

According to Oscar, back in 1761 a pretty hunk of gal by the name of Kitty Fisher hit London like the King's Guard. Before the year was out her list of boy friends included Admiral Keppel, Britain's military sailor, and General Ligonier, the King's top soldier. A little of this went to her head, as

News of Trenton

Recreation Week Program Will Feature Many Fine Attractions

Trenton (Special) — Plans for Trenton's "Recreation Week," which commences next Monday, are now virtually complete. Final arrangements for the event, expected to be the greatest of its kind ever staged here, were made at a meeting of the Recreation Commission held Friday night.

Chairman of the committee in charge of the program is Jack Goldberg. Other members are commission chairman Vic Auger, Roly Whitley, Howard Langdon, M. Bingeman, Rex Davies, Howard Aziz, Charles Ettere, Pte. Lt. Harry Hinton, Pte. Lt. Roy Wilson and Irving McGaughey.

The week's program gets officially under way next Monday afternoon at 4.30. It will commence with a solemn service of dedication at Bayshore Park. In attendance will be Mayor Ken Couch, members of council, clergymen representing all denominations and air force officials.

Boxing Tournament

That evening there will be a boxing tournament at RCAF South Station. A large card of well-known pugilists has been arranged for what is expected to be one of the most outstanding exhibitions of fisticuffs ever staged locally.

Two events are scheduled for Tuesday evening. One, to be held in the South Station drill hall, will be a concert by the RCAF Command Band and a program of singing by glee clubs and choruses. At the same time the Trenton Lions Club will give a repeat performance of their "Tons of Fun" at Canterbury Hall.

Wednesday will start off on a distinctly air force note. At 10.30 a.m. there will be a parade of RCAF vehicles over a mile long. Every type of mechanical conveyance used by the force will be used in this display of mechanized equipment. In the afternoon free ice cream cones and candies will be distributed to the children at Governor Simcoe Park. There will also be free rides around the bay in an RCAF crash boat.

Two Ball Games

At three o'clock in the afternoon there will be a softball game between a picked Trenton all-star aggregation and the world champion Tip Tops from Toronto. At 8 p.m. there will be another game that is bound to engender some husky rooting. Participants will be representatives of the police and the fire departments.

A street dance will commence at 9 p.m. on Albert Street near the police office. The area set aside for dancing will be roped off while traffic detailed has been decided. It is understood that consideration is being given to the setting up of a first aid station with basins of warm salt water for the benefit of those whose "tootles" can't stand the strain.

The evening will be topped off by a spectacular fireworks display at Bayshore Park. This has been arranged by the Air Force and those in charge state it will be one of the most outstanding exhibitions of its kind ever staged locally.

On Thursday the John Labatt safety truck will be on display to the public from 2.30 p.m. on. This display, provided by Labatt's as a public service has attracted widespread interest wherever it has been shown.

Jive Dancing

At 8 p.m. a tug-of-war is scheduled between residents of east and west Trenton. All under eight and over eighty are excluded from this event. At 9 p.m. the youthful "jive hounds" and "rug cutters" have their inning at the Queensway Hotel. A teen-age dance, to be held there, is expected to be one of the most popular events of the week.

At 9.30 p.m. a "Mardi Gras" a la New Orleans is to be held in downtown Trenton with all participants in costume. There are a number of prizes for this event. Rumors that Lady Godiva is to participate have not been confirmed.

Sole attraction so far listed for Friday is a chicken smoker to be held at the Canadian Legion hall. This event is being arranged and staged by the legion as its contribution to the success of the week. A special attraction is being planned in connection with this event but Legion officials are not yet in a position to make any announcement concerning it.

First event scheduled for Saturday is a delayed parachute jump in Trenton bay. This is being staged by the R.C.A.F. and commences at 2 p.m.

Bingo Featured

At the same time there is to be a soccer game at Bain Park between Trenton All Stars and the Bay of Quinte All Stars. In the evening, commencing at eight o'clock there is to be huge bingo at Bayshore Park softball diamond, with cash prizes. At the same time the draw will be made for the boat and motor which have been offered as a prize.

The week comes to an end on Sunday evening at eight o'clock with a local talent show to be held in the Trent theatre. Throughout the entire week wandering minstrels will be strolling and dancing through the town, playing instruments and singing in an endeavor to create and maintain a real carnival atmosphere.

Gloats Over Uncle Boy, 12, Catches 11-Pound Pike, First Time He Ever Went Fishing

Trenton—(Special) — The first taken out of Weller's Bay, near here, this season, were caught over the weekend by Peter Stefanyk and his 12-year-old nephew, Andrew Babey. They were filling approximately seven miles from town with Len Phillips of Consecon as their guide.

Mr. Stefanyk and Andrew's father, Michael Babey, are proprietors of the Quinte Hotel here.

"Uncle Peter" was a "piker" compared to nephew Andrew in this case. His catch weighed a mere five and one-half pounds. That may seem a fair sized fish by ordinary standards.

But to nephew Andrew it is a mere minnow. His prize fish tipped the scales at 11 and one-half pounds but measured some 36 inches in length. "That's what I call a fish", he exclaimed as he proudly displayed it to residents of the hotel.

However, Andrew is generous about the whole affair and is quite prepared to give Uncle Peter an assist in the catch. The fish put up a real fight before finally being taken and he generously admits that his uncle helped in landing it. "But I caught it," he emphasizes.

There is good reason for Andrew's enthusiasm. It was the first time he had ever gone fishing and the first fish he had ever caught. "I can see how I'll be spending all my Sunday afternoons from now on," Uncle Peter commented ruefully.

now red-faced reporter. There was only one possible answer. After having served in Trenton any other posting will seem like retirement anyway!

12 BILLION DOLLARS GAMBLED IN U. S.

New York, May 15 — (AP) — Americans gamble away an estimated $12,000,000,000 a year through bookmakers, slot machines and the numbers or policy racket, a group of experts said today. The figures were compiled by editors of the annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, a private organization.

TRENTON NOTES

Trenton over the weekend outdid the record of even Toronto for good. The police blotter was absolutely empty with no arrests recorded.

"Mother's Day" was fittingly observed here yesterday. Special services were the order of the day in all churches in the city with sermons suitable to the occasion.

Local merchants reported a good sale of candies, flowers, hats and other articles suitable as gifts to "mother".

New Polish Purge Highlights Drive Of Red Leaders

London, May 15 — (AP) — A reported purge of Polish communist party leaders is the latest development in a campaign in all the Russian satellite countries to tighten communist control and shut out western influence.

Diplomatic sources in Warsaw said Sunday government ministers were bitterly criticized at last week's meeting of the Polish communist party central committee. Complaints ranged from mismanagement of public affairs to failure to obey party directives.

Soviet influence in Poland was believed strengthened by the appointment of the party's ruling Politburo of Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, a former Russian army officer who now bosses Poland's army. Another Politburo appointee was Zenon Nowak, a veteran communist believed to be heading the drive to rid the party of Polish communists who dislike dictation from Moscow.

Political observers here believe the Polish shake-up is following the pattern established in such other satellite states as Czechoslovakia, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria.

Western Diplomats sum up the developments in Eastern Europe as follows:

Seal Off Countries

The aim of the communist leaders in general is to blind their people to the west and direct them into the communist trail blazed by Moscow. At the same time they are sealing off their countries from inquisitive western eyes.

The method is simple.

Measures are enforced to choke off all independent, incoming information, especially from the official western information services. The result is a carefully-crippled communist version of the world for home consumption.

The other side of the pattern brings expulsion or barring of western correspondents until the point is reached where virtually the only news to the world at large comes through carefully-screened official handouts and broadcasts studded with propaganda.

Western Diplomatic staffs in the satellite countries are being whittled down. This further reduces the chances of the west in studying and interpreting prosecrly economic ,political and military developments.

What was once a normal diplomatic news gathering function—to report current opinion, economic or political events, has come to be regarded in eastern Europe as a form of spying.

LATVIAN GIRL 15th 800th DP TO ENTER U. S.

New York, May 15 — (AP) — A blonde, 18-year-old Latvian girl received an exciting welcome Sunday when she arrived aboard the General Ballou. She was the 150,000th displaced person to come to the United States. The girl, Dace Epermanis, spent five years in displaced persons camps.

Popular C.O. Will Not Retire As Reported

Trenton —(Special) — Group Captain Stan Greene, popular commanding officer or No. 6 Repair Depot here and the late novelist Mark Twain have more than one thing in common. Both are interesting and entertaining after dinner speakers—that is the Group Captain is and the novelist was.

On one occasion Mark Twain's death was widely reported. He subsequently turned up a public gathering very much alive. The report, he suggested, was "somewhat exaggerated."

Last week Group Captain Greene spoke at a bowling banquet. The report of his address carried by this newspaper left the impression that he had indicated that he was soon to retire from active air force service.

Like the report of Mark Twain's death it was "somewhat exaggerated." What Group Captain Greene did indicate was that his term of service here would be up in about two years and that he would in due course be posted elsewhere. He said that he would never his connection with the area here and with his present command with very real regret, and that wherever he might go he would retain fond recollections of the community and its citizens.

The error was, in due course, brought to the attention of this
